B. F. STRAUSS A BIGAMIST?

Real Wife in This City Makes Shocking Discovery of Infidelity.

HE IS NOT TO BE FOUND

Much Married Man the Father of Two Esteemed Children Living Here—What Baldwin F. Strauss, Jr., Has to Say.

According to the New York World, three wives and thirteen children are accredited to Baldwin F. Strauss, a well-known lawyer and politician in the Borough of Brooklyn, and an erstwhile resident of this city, who disappeared several months ago after complaints had been made against him by several of his clients, according to legal documents that have just been filed in the Supreme Court of Kings County by Mrs. Marguerite M. Strauss, who claims the distinction of being No. 3 on the list of wives. She seeks a decree of absolute divorce on the ground of her husband's relations with Ida M. Perkins who claims to be Mrs. Strauss No. 1 by virtue of a marriage entered into in the latter seventies or early eighties.

The World says:

"Baldwin F. Strauss was for many years one of the best-known members of the bar in the old city of Brooklyn, counsel for its Health Department, and at one time an active candidate for a nomination as Justice of the Supreme Court.

"Since Mr. Strauss's disappearance from home on April 26 last his wife has been unable to learn anything of his whereabouts, and, as a final resort, placed her case in the hands of Lawyer Francis William Russell, of 63 Park row, who will apply to Justice D. Cady Herrick on Monday morning in the supreme Court of Brooklyn for an order for the service by publication on Mr. Strauss of the summons in his wife's action for an absolute divorce. Mr. Russell will also ask for an order directing Mr. Strauss to pay his wife $100 a week almony pending the trial of her action and a counsel of $1,000.

"Mrs. Marguerite M. Strauss, the plaintiff, is a member of an old and wealthy Brooklyn family and is independently rich. She had known Mr. Strauss since she was a child, for he is twenty-two years her senior, and had been the attorney both for her grandfather and her father.

"Summarized, the situation is this: In 1880 Mr. Strauss met Ida M. Perkins, wife No. 1. Four children were born to them, of whom Baldwin F. Strauss, Jr., of Plainfield, is the eldest and is now married. A year or so later Mr. Strauss met and wooed Estelle L. Ainsworth and married her. Three children were born to them—all boys, and Mr. Strauss, who at that time maintained a handsome establishment in London as well as in Brooklyn, had them educated there."

"On April 26," says Mrs. Srtrauss No. 3, "my husband informed me that he had trouble with a lady client over money matters and was going to his mother's house. I have never seen him since. He left all his papers in my custody and gave me blank substitutions and other papers. Upon going through his papers I found photographs of Ida M. Perkins and letters and papers disclosing the double life he had been leading."

"Baldwin F. Strauss, his wife, Ida M. Perkins Strauss, and his two surviving children of that marriage—Baldwin F. Strauss, Jr., and Florence Strauss—have resided in Plainfield, N. J., since September, 1900. On April 26 of this year Baldwin F. Strauss left Plainfield after telling his wife and family that he was in trouble over a former client, and has not been seen since.

"Strauss first appeared in Plainfield in September, 1900, when he leased from L. E. Barkalew, of No. 58 Lincoln place, the handsome house and grounds at the corner of Lincoln place and Grove street. He moved in with his wife and family.

"We never had any suspicion that Mr. Strauss's matrimonial relations were other than absolutely correct," said Mr. Barkalew yesterday, "until along in 1901, when he was arrested and placed in Raymond Street Jail for failing to pay the requisite alimony to Stella Ainsworth-Strauss. This created some talk, but Mr. Strauss explained it as a technicality

SON OF WEALTHY MAN PASSES BAD CHECK

Albert C. Walk, of Pennsylvania, Tried to Bunco the First National.

BANK OFFICER WARY

HALED TO COURT WHERE HIS FATHER MAKES GOOD.

B. C. Guerin, of Orange, Withdraws Complaint — Defendant Boarded at Truell Court —The Story.

Albert C. Walk, of Hazelton, Pa., was haled before the local tribunal this morning on a State warrant for passing off bad checks drawn on the City National Bank. The arrest was made by Patrolman McCarthy on East Fourth street, yesterday afternoon. B. C. Guerin, of Orange, made the complaint and appeared against the prisoner. It was the old story of presenting a bogus check in payment of a debt.

Walk has been in this city for several weeks and has been staying at Truell Court. He is a young man of about twenty-four years of age and his father is a well to do property owner in Hazelton. Some weeks ago Walk tried to open an account in the City National Bank with a good sized check on a Hazelton bank. The bank authorities were suspicious, especially as Walk was anxious to draw on the strength of the Hazelton check. The matter was looked up by the bank authorities and the police has at last cornered the swindler.

Walk has also been trying to operate in New York City and has been circulating several checks ranging from sixty to seventy dollars around in payment of debts. At the city court this morning Walk's father appeared, having come to this city from his home in Hazelton. He brought considerable money with him and is seeking to pay up the bad debts of his son. Guerin was satisfied at the court this morning by the payment of his bill in good money and withdrew his complaint.

D. C. Ivins & Co., End Negotiations and Will Continue Business.

Plainfield, N. J., July 27th, 1903.

Editor, The Daily Press:

There seems to be a report around town that we have sold our lumber and masons' material business to J. D. Loizeaux & Co. While we had some negotiations looking to that end, the deal was not consumated, and we are now in the lumber business on a more extensive scale than ever.

We have made a general reduction in prices on lumber of all kinds, cement, lime, and wall plaster cement. We take this opportunity to state also that we are well supplied with hickory wood, Lehigh and Cannel coals, and we are in a position to supply the public with the best of goods at the lowest prices. SWACKHAMER TO RUN, IF FRIENDS INSIST

North Plainfielder Not Adverse to Becoming a Gubernatorial Candidate.

AN ORATOR IN DEMAND

GAINING IN POPULAR FAVOR THROUGH SPEECHES TO FARMERS.

Democratic Leaders Have Their Eyes on the Assemblyman, Who Will Run, If His Friends Want Him.

Wiseacreas among politicans say that Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer is gaining in popular favor every day as a possible gubernatorial candidate. His friends are working hard to place him in line for the candidacy and it is believed that he would not be adverse to running. When asked about it he smiles and says in a modest way, "Well, if my friends insist I might decide to run."

At Trenton he made a hit as a speaker and already his fame has spread throughout this section of the State. He is in demand as an orator and the farmers have asked him to address them on several occasions.

The "Tall Sycamore from Somerset" will be the chief attraction at the farmers' picnic and annual outing at Flemington on August 19. He will tell the agriculturists who wield a large influence with the up State vote something about the "Democratic Needs of New Jersey."

On that day he will have in his audience some who do not know the "man with a hoe," but who are equally at home with the political rake in this section of the State. Some of the Democratic State and local leaders will be in that farmer audience and it will be their business to note the qualifications of the Bill Nye of Somerset as a possible candidate for the office of the chief executive of the State. His itinerary will be watched and his utterances noted.

PASSING OF LANDMARK.

Old Structure Being Demolished to Make Room for Modern Building.

Another old landmark in this city, a relic of the days when this city was in reality a "plain field," is passing. Workmen yesterday began to tear down the old structure at the corner of Clinton avenue and West Front street to make room for a hotel which is to be erected by John Goff.

The structure, and the property on which it stands, was owned by Nicholas Mundy, whose parents purchased the place in 1871, the price of the ground being $100 an acre. The property recently sold for $2,000.

Renovating Mt. Olive.

The repairing work commenced Monday on the interior of the Mount Olive Baptist Church on Liberty street, is now well underway. The old chimney has been painted and the construction of the new chimney is now well started. The church will be entirely redecorated and after tomorrow the main hall will be closed for repairing and services will be held in the small hall down stairs until the first of September when the church will again be in condition for the worshippers.

Miss Dunham Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Grace Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garret T. Dunham, of West Front street, and William Holmes, of East Front street. Mr. Holmes is bass soloist at the First Baptist Church.

RIVAL SPRINKLERS NOW COME TO BLOWS

Trolley Water Car Crashes With Municipal Cart, Blocking West Fourth Street.

HURT TROLLEY SERVICE

TRAFFIC ON WEST FOURTH STREET DELAYED BY THE ACCIDENT.

One Horse Injured—Difficulty in Getting Trolley Sprinkler on the Rails Again—Cause of the Collision.

The "A 1" trolley sprinkler tried to put one of John Keeley's horse sprinklers out of business in a fit of jealousy this morning at West Fourth street and Park avenue. The sprinkler was running east on Fourth street on its way to the station and just as it was crossing Park avenue the muddy rails caused the forward trucks to loose the track and the big sprinkler crashed off toward the sidewalk.

The municipal sprinkler had just finished filling up at the hydrant and the fender of the trolley knocked one of the horses resting against the curb at the side entrance to Miller's pharmacy and the horses of the watering wagon only escaped serious injury by shying up almost on the sidewalk. Fortunately slight harm was done to the horse struck, it being cut about the legs by the fender.

As both trucks of the big car were derailed there was considerable trouble experienced in again getting the car back to the rails. A gang of men was at work for about an hour and a half gettting the car back and the passengers on the Fourth and Arlington lines were forced to change cars at the scene of the accident.

The trolley street sprinkler got in trouble for the second time at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street about half an hour after it had been put back on the rails after running into the water cart. A loosened bolt caused considerable trouble by throwing the rear axle out of business for about twenty minutes right in the middle of Park avenue.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS.

Another Installment Soon Due in Romance of Two Young People.

Further developments are expected when Mrs. George Marsh returns from her trip to Saratoga, where she ascertained that her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Schorb, had rejoined her husband.

Mrs. Marsh was not at her home in Scotch Plains, last evening, when a reporter called. Neighbors declared that she left yesterday afternoon early for Saratoga, expecting to find her daughter. The village is agog with gossip regarding the recapture of the young bride.

Poisoner Stil at Work.

A valuable dog belonging to Michael Weber, of East Third street, was poisoned this morning. The animal followed its master to his store and was at that time in the best of health apparently. When it arrived home it was in great pain and died shortly afterward. Arsenic caused its death.

Fishermen These.

James Day, Charles Keller, William Mills, Fred Bimble, William Gaud, left today for South Amboy where they will spend several days fishing in Staten Island Sound.

Swackhamer Once More.

Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, of the borough, will make address at a farmers' picnic to be held along South river, near Neshanic Station, August 6.

PLAINFIELD'S MODEL POLICE DEPARTMENT

Up-To-Date Methods and Equipment Introduced Under Present Regime.

TERRITORY IS COVERED

THIS CITY THE FIRST TO INTRODUCE BICYCLE POLICEMEN.

Chief Kiely Has Force of Twenty Men — Some Improvements Recently Introduced Into the Service.

Plainfield has a model police force. That fact is evidenced by the comparative freedom it enjoys from crime, as shown in the statistics for the past six months recently given in The Daily Press. Serious offenses have been few and the offenders have been promptly dealt with. The streets are refreshingly free from the "professional masher." Tramps trouble householders very little, and the few that do appear are promptly run out of town. The patrolmen are sober and vigilant.

Country police methods have changed to city methods within the past five years under the able regime of Chief Patrick Kiely. The force has been re-organized. The methods of registering criminals are more modern; the rogue's gallery and up-to-date system of measurements are additions of two years ago.

The liquor traffic is controlled better than in any other city in the State. The saloons are prompt in regard to the hours of closing and opening. They are run by responsible men, and in fact licenses are granted to no others.

During the past few months, the improvements in the equipment of the department have been especially marked. Headquarters have been remodelled, and officers have been assigned to duty there day and night. Sleeping quarters for the men have been added, and the Chief's office up stairs and the recreation room are innovations. The Gamewell system, which is now in perfect working order, and which has been described in detail in The Press, is probably the most valuable improvement.

It is expected that the new steel cells will be in place within a month, and also that the patrol wagon, and the stable to house it in in the rear of headquarters, will be ready for service at the same time. The horse for the patrol wagon has already been trained. The force consists of a chief, sergeant, two roundsmen and seventeen patrolmen, one of whom is a "plain-clothes man". Thirteen patrolmen are on duty at night.

A little known fact is that Plainfield police were the first in the country to use the bicycle as a means of quick transportation for its men. The bicycle has been in service for nine years in the force, and it is a necessity today for patrolling the East and West Ends. Seventeen miles of streets in Plainfield are constantly patrolled by nineteen blue-coats. And the efficient way in which they do it earns them truly the title of "the finest."

Carpenters' Outing.

The local carpenters are planning to hold a picnic in Union Grove, Labor Day. In the morning a concert will be given in the grove by Charles Suhr's orchestra. Dancing will be a feature of the evening.

Engagement Is Announced.

The engagement of Miss Bertha Dilley, of Somerville, and William E. Carlson, of this city, is announced. The wedding date has not been set.

BANKER'S DAUGHTER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Miss Mabel Hooley, of Washington Park, Under Trolley Car Wheels.

THROWN FROM VEHICLE

MOTERMAN'S PRESENCE OF MIND SAVES HER FROM DEATH.

Young Woman Escapes Injury—Mother Shocked — Rescued From Perilous Position by John Goodwin.

Miss Mabel Hooley, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Edward S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, had a narrow escape from serious if not fatal injury, today forenoon, while waiting in her carriage at L. W. Randolph's drug store for her mother, who was making purchases inside. The horse she was driving was a spirited one, and suddenly the animal made an attempt to run away. Miss Hooley did her best to control the horse, but when the light one-seat runabout struck a wagon belonging to Thomas H. Taylor, of North Plainfield Township, and upset it, she was unable to hold fast to the reins.

Miss Hooley was thrown out of her carriage directly in the path of a rapidly-moving westbound trolley car. Eye-witnesses fully expected to see the young woman killed, but exceptional presence of mind on the part of the motorman of the car, John D. Lant, of Prescott place, not only prevented this, but also saved Miss Hooley from any serious injury. He instantly applied the brakes and at the same time dropped the fender, not quick enough, however, to prevent Miss Hooley from going beneath this guard. The carriage cushion was thrown under the car and the young woman was trying to get hold of it, when John Goodwin, of Manning avenue, assisted her out of her perilous position.

Mrs. Hooley's attention was attracted to the accident by this time and she suffered a severe nervous shock, believing at the time that her daughter was killed. Miss Hooley was assisted into Randolph's drug store, where she and her mother received proper treatment for the nervous shock sustained.

In the meantime, Miss Hooley's horse broke away from the carriage and was caught after a lively run through West Front street. The runabout was damaged more or less. The wheels were badly twisted out of shape, some spokes were broken and one end of the seat was wrecked. The harness was also broken.

A telephone message to the Hooley residence brought the coachman with another rig and Mrs. Hooley and her daughter returned within a half hour after the accident.

OLD MASON IN PARADE.

Jacob J. VanDoren a Notable Figure in Court House Cornerstone Laying.

A remarkable figure in the Masonic parade at Elizabeth, in connection with the cornerstone laying for the new court house, was Jacob J. VanDoren, the oldest Free Mason in Union County, and a member of the order since 1850. He will be eighty-four years old next November, but marched with more agility than many men of sixty. Mr. VanDoren in 1844 visited England and had an audience with the late Queen Victoria. He saw King Edward VII., when the latter was only four years old. Mr. VanDoren has never crossed the Atlantic since.

HOLDS BRIDGE TOGETHER.

E. R. Ackerman's Co. Supplies Material for New Brunswick Bridge.

The Lawrence Cement Company, of which Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, is the president, furnished the entire supply of cement for the construction of the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge over the Raritan river at New Brunswick. This is the second largest stone arched bridge in the world and is considered by experts to be the finest in point of construction. A handsome picture of the bridge taken from the Engineering News, adorns a blotter which has recently been sent out by the cement company.

Violated Ordinance.

Thirteen-year-old Edward Strenzenberg, of Manson place, was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with riding his bicycle on the sidewalk. He was dismissed this morning after a lecture from the judge.

DANIEL J. STILLWELL SUDDENLY EXPIRES

Drops Dead While at Work, Though Apparently in Good Health.

ONCE A WEALTHY MAN.

EMPLOYED AT PLAINFIELD PRODUCE CO.'S HOUSE ON NORTH AVENUE.

Wife Shocked on Hearing Sad News — The Dead Man Lived on East Second Street

While at work this morning unloading watermelons at the Plainfield Produce depot on North avenue, D. D. Stillwell, of East Second street, dropped dead. He was about sixty years of age and is survived by a wife and two children, Steven Stillwell, and Miss Jennie Stillwell.

The man had been employed by I. E. Giles, one of the managers of the company for three years and was known as a hard worker. Half an hour before his death he was apparently in as good health as he ever was. He was offered a piece of watermelon but declined it, saying it did not agree with him. He turned to pass out of the store when he fell headlong to the floor dead. Mr. Giles rushed to the man's assistance but he was beyond all aid.

The dead man was at one time wealthy. He came to this State from Long Island and purchased a farm at Bound Brook for $30,000. The depreciation in the valuation of property led to his losing his fortune and he was obliged to work. His wife, who is feeble, is in a serious condition on account of the shock.

RETURNED AFTER FIVE YEARS.

The Letter That Was Longed For Never Came.

After five years' stay at the Dead Letter office at Washington a letter written in 1898 by Miss Mamie Donohue, of West Fourth street, to her brother in New York, was returned unopened Thursday. Miss Donohue wrote on the back of the envelope "In five days return to Miss Mamie Donohue, East Front street, Plainfield, N. J." Instead of it being returned in five days it was just five years since the letter was sent. The envelope was marked with many different stamps. The address on the envelope proved to be wrong.

Studying Mining.

William Tracy, of West Eighth street, has returned from a business trip in the West, where he visited several important mines. Mr. Tracy is a graduate of Leal's School and is now finishing a course of study in the School of Mines at Columbia University. Later he expects to take up a special line of work in the West.

Trolley Transfers.

Owing to the inability of the Public Service Corporation to secure new transfer tickets, the advertised change in the method of issuing transfers will not go into effect for a few days. The present method of giving them out at the station on Watchung avenue will continue until the new tickets arrive the first of the week.

Scolded Wife Beater.

Orin P. Baker, of Plainfield avenue, was arrested last evening at the complaint of his wife, who charged with abusing her while he was in a drunken condition. The Judge was thoroughly disgusted with the brutality of the man and after a stern lecture he sentenced him to forty days in the county jail.

Stole Bicycle.

Sometime Thursday afternoon, between 1 o'clock and the time of the heavy shower, some person stole Lawyer Charles L. Moffett's new Crawford bicycle from the doorway leading to his office in North avenue. Unfortunately, Mr. Moffett does not know the number on the wheel and he is unable to get it.

Transfer of Property.

Oscar F. Pearson, of East Front street, has purchased the house at 68 Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, from Bolton Hall. Mr. Pearson intends putting the building in first-class shape for occupancy at an early date. William Jeffery, the Park avenue real estate broker, made the deal.

Councilman's Outing.

J. P. Northrop and family, of Central avenue, have gone to Jamestown, R. I., where they will stop at the Hotel Thorndyke.

STATE'S NEW TAX LAWS SHOW SLIGHT CHANGES

Hereafter Tangible Personal Property is to be Taxed According to Value.

FEATURES OF THE LAW

PROPERTY IS TO BE ASSESSED AT ITS REAL VALUE IN THE FUTURE.

Revised Act As Prepared by Commission Appointed for the Purpose—The Bank Stock Assessments.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Aug. 1—One of the most important measures passed by the Legislature last winter, and one about which little has been said publicly, is the revised tax act. It was prepared by a commission appointed for the purpose, composed of Supreme Court Justices Dixon, Fort and Attorney Charles L. Corbin. It is the only revision of the tax laws that has been made since 1846.

The commission found itself with a mass of matter on its hands when it began the work of revision. The acts relating to taxation were a vast wilderness of rules, exceptions, directions, proceedings, repealers and requirements that nobody pretended to or could understand.

When the commission had completed its work it had reduced over 600 sections to 36, contained in chapter 208 of the laws of 1903, which will take effect December 20 next. It opens with a provision for the poll tax, the taxing of property at true value, the defining of the term "taxing district" to conform to the terms used in the railroad tax law; enumerates the exemptions from taxation. One-tenth of all the property in the State is now exempt from taxation.

The article relating to the assessment of real property establishes the uniform rule that it shall be valued before the third Monday of August, and empowers the State Board of Taxation to prescribe a rule that the land shall be assessed separately from the buildings, and they may require a separate entry of arable lands, etc.; the assessors must also list cemeteries, church property, public buildings and other exempt property.

No mortgage on real property is to be listed for taxation, and no deduction from the assessed value of the land is to be made on account of any mortgagee, but the owner of the property who pays the tax on the land is entitled to credit upon the interest for so much of the tax as is equal to the tax rate applied to the amount due on the mortgage, except where the parties have otherwise agreed. Tangible personal property is to be assessed where found, and other personal property in the district where the taxable inhabitant resides. Taxable personal property of non-residents is to be assessed where found.

Corporations are to be regarded as residents and inhabitants of the taxing district where their chief office is located, and their personal property is to be taxed as that of an individual, except that foreign corporations doing business here are to be taxed with respect to the amount of business done here.

National bank stock is to be assessed against the stockholders in the taxing district where they reside, and if they reside out of the State then in the taxing district where the bank is located.

The tax duplicate must be made out on or before the second Tuesday in August. The county boards of assessors are required to meet at the county court house on the second Tuesday of September. The commissioners of appeal are to meet on the fourth Tuesday of October. In cities a different time may be fixed. They must hear every taxpayer who feels aggrieved and applies in time.

The thirty-eighth section provides that no assessment shall hereafter be set aside upon any certiorari because the State, county or local taxes are blended together, nor because the aggregate amount levied is greater than called for by law, nor because the assessment is made at a higher rate than authorized by law, or because of lack of form, but the court shall correct these errors.

Taxes are payable on December 20, and all who do not pay on or before that day are delinquents and the taxes thereafter bear interest at from 7 to 12 per cent. All the taxes may be collected by sale of chattels of the delinquent or by taking his body.

All unpaid taxes on real estate are made a first lien on the land on and after December 20, which lien is paramount to all prior and subsequent alienations and descents and liens, except subsequent taxes. If the taxes remain unpaid until the following first day of September, the land, or a necessary portion thereof, may be sold for the shortest term for which any person will take the same and pay the tax and interest or it may be sold in fee where no one will bid for a shorter term. A certificate of sales issued to the purchaser, who may, at his option, record it in the office of the county clerk, and he shall be entitled to immediate possession of the lands sold and the rents thereof for the term of the sale or until redemption. The owner, mortgagee or other person having interest in the land, may redeem the same at any time within two years from date of sale or at any time thereafter until the right of redemtpion has been cut off. The person redeeming must pay interest at 12 per cent. The purchaser may at any time within 20 years from the date of sale give notice to all persons interested to redeem the land. If the land is not redeemed within 60 days after notice the right of redemption is gone. Tax certificates are void after 20 years from their date, unless the purchaser enters into actual possession or forecloses his right to redeem by notice or by proceedings in equity.

Every assessor is to deliver his books and papers to his successor in office. Compensation of assessors, collectors and members of the board of assessors is to be fixed by the taxing districts, except where fees are allowed.

The act is arranged in an orderly way, is compact, simple and plain.

DISASTER AT SEA.

Italian Bark Capsized—Crew Suffered Three Days of Exposure.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—After clinging to their capsized vessel for three days in midocean the crew of the Italian bark Vermont, bound from Genoa for St. John's, N. F., in ballast, was rescued by the Franch tank steamer Le Lion, from Seville via Gibraltar for Marcus Hook, Pa., and brought here. The shipwrecked crew consisted of Captain Marina and twelve men, one of them a negro. The sailors were in an exhausted condition from exposure when picked up.

The Vermont encountered heavy weather after leaving Genoa, but all went well until Thursday of last week, when she ran into a heavy gale. The bark was weathering the storm well when her ballast shifted and the vessel rolled over on her side. The crew had just time enough to secure a bag of biscuits and some water before she careened on her beam ends.

The men were about to abandon the vessel when it was decided to stick to her. Then for three days the little band clung to the capsized vessel, hoping to be taken off and thus avoid the risk of living in a rowboat on the rough sea. On Sunday night the bark turned completely over, and the crew took to a small boat. Rockets had been sent up, but not one was seen until early on Monday morning, when the Frenchman hove in sight.

Captain Ertand saw the distress signal, and in response to his call for volunteers the entire crew responded to go to the rescue. Captain Ertand selected the chief mate, second mate and two seamen to undertake the difficult and dangerous task, as the sea was still very rough. The volunteer crew reached the shipwrecked men after a struggle and finally got them all on board the steamer. They were well taken care of and slowly recovered from their exposure and terrible experience. The men are being looked after by the local Italian consul and will be sent to Italy.

MURPHY SENTENCED.

Ex-Treasurer Gets Five and a Half Years In Prison.

NEW YORK, Aug 1. — Lawrence Murphy, former treasurer of the Journeymen Stonecutters' union, who was convicted a few days ago of the larceny of $12,000 of the money of the union, has been sentenced to serve five years and six months in Sing Sing by Justice Newburger.

The sentence followed an appeal for Murphy on the part of John F. McIntyre, his counsel.

Judge Newburger in very temperate manner pointed out that Murphy had been guilty of more serious offenses than had appeared during the trial. While Judge Newburger was addressing Murphy the latter broke out hysterically and cried, "It's a put up job."

This outbreak followed the statement by Judge Newburger that he had received a letter from John Mitchell, head of the miners' union, in which Mitchell stated that $1,000 voted for the relief of the miners of Pennsylvania by the Stonecutters' union had never been forwarded by Murphy.

The judge said further that Murphy was guilty of stealing $27,000 in all, which had been squandered in riotous living.

Witness told of other "fines" and "assessments" that had been levied on employers in Brooklyn and New York, which in the aggregate amounted to many thousands of dollars. This money was turned over to Murphy, and the officers of the union said he kept $12,000 of it, which resulted in the charge of larceny against him.

Members of the union called as witnesses admitted that the money received from "assessments" and "fines" was divided between them.

Mr. McIntyre set up the defense that the money had been extorted from the bosses, that the complainants had no legal title to it and therefore Murphy could not be prosecuted.

Judge Newburger took an opposite view and so instructed the jury, which rendered a verdict of guilty.

Alabama Negroes Condemn Riot.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Aug. 1.—A resolution was adopted here by the Alabama state colored Baptist convention in session in this city severely condemning the attack made on Principal Booker T. Washington of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute during his address at Boston. The resolution, which was adopted unanimously by the 300 delegates of the convention, upholds Principal Washington and pledges confidence and indorsement of him as a "conservative, worthy and safe leader, deserving of the respect and confidence of all men."

Quarry Men Win Strike.

STONY CREEK, Conn., Aug. 1. — The quarry men, about fifty in number, who went on strike at the Norcross Bros.' quarry several days ago, have returned to work. The terms of the men have been acceded to by their employers, and beginning Oct. 1 they will receive nine hours' pay for eight hours' work. The union has also been recognized.

Say Comet Has Four Tails.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—The astronomers at the Yale observatory have just made photographs of Borelli's comet which show that the comet has three tails instead of the two shown by previous observations. There are faint indications also of the presence of a fourth tail, but this has not yet been definitely determined.

Russia Will Augment Navy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—The Russian admiralty's new programme includes the building of six battle ships of 16,000 tons each and of three armored cruisers. Their construction is to begin forthwith, and they are to be completed in 1906.

SEVEN INDICTMENTS

Federal Grand Jury Finds Seven True Bills.

WARRANTS FOR ARREST ISSUED.

Five Persons Are Charged With Conspiracy and Bribery in Connection With Postal Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The post office investigation developed another sensation when the federal grand jury returned seven indictments, involving nine people, for alleged conspiracy and bribery in connection with postal affairs.

August W. Machen, for many years the head of the free delivery service, was named jointly with others in four of the indictments.

The other parties were William Gordon Crawford, who was deputy auditor for the post office department from June 12, 1893, to Sept. 15, 1898, and is a member of one of the exclusive clubs of this city; Leopold J. Stern of 5 North Gay street, Baltimore; George E. Lorenz of Toledo, formerly a prominent government official, and Martha J. Lorenz, his wife; John T. Cupper, mayor of Lock Haven, Pa.; William C. Long, an Ohio man who has spent much time in this city in recent years and an intimate friend of Machen; Maurice Runkel of New York city and Thomas W. McGregor, a protege of Machen, who was a messenger at the beginning of Machen's administration of the free delivery service and in recent years has been in charge of the supplies for the rural free delivery service.

Crawford voluntarily appeared in court soon after the indictments were returned and furnished $10,000 bail, and McGregor likewise gave $5,000 bail. Long was arrested at his home, where Deputy Marshal Springman found him in bed. He was released on $10,000 bond. His was the only case in which a bench warrant was issued owing to the voluntary action of the others indicted.

Machen was not rearrested under the new indictment as he gave bonds in $20,000 under his indictment several weeks ago, and the authorities felt this was sufficient to secure his appearances. Warrants have been issued for the out of town parties indicted, and their arrest is expected within the next twenty-four hours. The grand jury has not completed the work laid before it by the postal investigators, and other indictments may be expected later on, possibly within a week or two. It is understood that two additional cases against one of the parties indicted, a former prominent bureau official, are being inquired into by the grand jury and that the acts of another former high official of the post office department already under indictment by the Brooklyn grand jury are being investigated.

Postmaster General Payne has returned to the city over the Pennsylvania railroad from his trip of about a fortnight on the revenue cutter Onondaga, which was making its cruise along the Atlantic coast.

Fish Drowned Him.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 1.—A special to the Dispatch from Lacrosse, Wis., says that William Renz went fishing in the Mississippi and hooked a large catfish. The fish gave him a battle, and Renz, unwilling to let go, was drawn into the river and drowned. Patrick Dugan, aged twelve, tried to rescue him, but failed.

CARDINALS IN CELLS

The Largest Conclave Rome Ever Knew.

PRISONERS WITHIN THE VATICAN.

No Matter How Long May Be Required Absolute Seclusion Must Be Maintained From the World Until a Pope Is Elected.

ROME, Aug. 1.—The largest conclave in the history of the Catholic church is now assembled in the Sistine chapel for the purpose of electing a successor to Leo XIII. Sixty-two cardinals, with over 200 clerical and lay attendants, are, to all intents and purposes, prisoners within the Vatican. One of them, Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa, archbishop of Valencia, was prostrated immediately after entering the conclave and lies ill in his cell.

The cardinals have now entered upon the solemn duty of choosing the new pope by ballot. The general impression exists that within two or three days, possibly, though not probably, in one day a new pope will be chosen. But no matter how long a time may be required the absolute seclusion of the princes of the church from the outer world must, according to the church law, continue until a choice is made.

Prognostications as to who will wear the tiara as Leo's successor have little value, as even the cardinals as they entered their cells seemed to be without definite ideas as to the issue. Cardinals Rampolla, Serafino Vannutelli, Di Pietro, Gotti and Oreglia continue to be most frequently mentioned as the likeliest candidates, but the moment the name of one of these is mentioned a hundred reasons are supplied to show that he could not possibly be elected. So seldom have the majority of the cardinals now here met each other and so widely do they differ in nationality and personality that no organized movement in support of any one cardinal has thus far been practicable nor, in fact, seriously attempted.

This does not apply to the Italian cardinals, who naturally are well acquainted with each other. With their numerical strength the Italians could, if united, practically insure the election of a pontiff of their own choosing. It is the disunion and rivalry among the Italian cardinals which in fact makes the question of Leo's successor so uncertain as to make one guess almost as good as another.

The rival claims of the leading Italian cardinals, so freely ventilated in the local press, are matters which are all important in connection with the decision of the conclave, because it is assumed as a foregone conclusion that the next occupant of the holy see will be an Italian. The foreign cardinals have shown no indication of opposition to this assumption, but however willing they may be to honor an Italian it is believed that the serious differences among the Italians themselves on matters of political and religious opinions must be reconciled before one of them suitable to all sections can be elected. The apparent difficulty of accomplishing this has rendered interest in the conclave doubly acute and is largely responsible for the frequently expressed opinion that some cardinal little talked of may emerge from the conclave as the next pope. More interesting perhaps in a certain way is the impression which prevails in certain sections that no matter what the verdict of the conclave may be great changes are impending in the policy of the Vatican and that within a year or two the new pope will no longer consider himself a "prisoner of the Vatican" but will, unlike Leo, leave its precincts whenever necessary.

The ceremony of the entrance of the cardinals in conclave, which is always given as solemn a character as possible, was inaugurated with the celebration of the mass of the Holy Ghost in the Pauline chapel of the Vatican. Before 1870 this mass was celebrated in the chapel of the choir at St. Peter's.

Just before going into his cell a prominent cardinal threw an interesting side light upon the chances of Rampolla. Leo's secretary of state has been persistently abused recently by the government papers for his temporal power policy.

"I am not so sure," said the cardinal, "that the public attacks upon Cardinal Rampolla by the government are not inspired with a view of working up among Catholics and cardinals a spirit of enthusiasm for him which might greatly increase his chances of election. Indeed, I am pretty certain that the Italian government would not be at all sorry to see Cardinal Rampolla wear the tiara, as at heart I do not believe the government has any serious disposition to alter the existing relations between the Vatican and the Quirinal."

Before entering the conclave Cardinal Gibbons denied that any statements on the situation had been made by him while in Rome and also all published accounts of conversations he is alleged to have had with private individuals referring especially to the statements of the Italia to the effect that he had criticised the policy of Rampolla.

Until the conclave is ended 700 Italian troops will remain in the piazza of St. Peter's. Mounted carabineers and policemen will patrol the walls of the Vatican.

The streets adjacent to the Vatican will be watched day and night by four detachments of guards, while an extra force of police will do duty in the streets of the Borgo district.

New Field Guns For Militia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Secretary Root has decided to approve an allotment of $350,000 to be expended under direction of General [illegible] chief of ordnance, in equipping the militia with the new field guns and material for their service.

SEAWANHAKA CUP.

Canadian Defender Thorella Outsails the American Boat.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1. — In a good, strong breeze the Thorella, the defender in the Seawanhaka races, ran away from the Kolutoo, the American challenger. The Thorella had shot up into the wind with the race won before the Yankee boat had rounded the leeward buoy on the last turn. The Kolutoo came down the last free leg alone, crossing the line 19 minutes and 36 seconds after the Thorella.

The race was over a course to windward and return, the marks two miles apart. The course was sailed over three times, giving a total of twelve miles. The wind blew from the southwest about twenty miles an hour. It was a good test of weather qualities. Both boats were under close reefs. The Thorella was stiff and strong and made great gains in the windward work. The Kolutoo could not stand up, and the puffs would put her on her beam ends. In beating and running the Canadian boat was immeasurably the superior craft.

Lou Dillon Broke Her Record.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 1.—In spite of a heavy breeze that blew down the home stretch, Lou Dillon, owned by C. K. G. Billings of Chicago and driven by Millard Saunders, succeeded in breaking her record at the Glenville track. That she did not break the world's record for trotters, 2:02¼, held by Cresceus for two years, was due entirely to the wind, as she went to the three-quarters pole in 1:31¾. But for the wind she would have made the last quarter in thirty seconds. As it was it took her one second longer, the time for her mile being 2:02¾, beating her own previous time by three-quarters of a second and beating The Abbot's time half a second. Dan Patch, the pacing champion, also negotiated a fast mile. He was driven by Myron McHenry in 2:02½, pacing the last half in 1:00½. The 2:07 pace, the fastest regular event of the day, went to Winfield Stratton, Captain Sphinx being second.

Lord Advocate Got Richmond Stakes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The feature of the racing at Jamaica was the brilliant riding of the colored jockey Hicks. Out of five mounts he piloted three winners and was unplaced on the other two. His ride on Sir Reche in the fifth race was superb. Getting off in a good position, he lay second to Albany Girl to the stretch, where he was carried to the outside, but he soon straightened out his mount and won. Lord Advocate, at odds of 15 to 1, won the Richmond stakes by a head from Sambo, who closed very strong in the stretch. The favorite, Setauket, was badly handled and finished back in the ruck.

Free Silver's Record 2:16 1-4.

SAUGUS, Mass., Aug. 1.—The two weeks' race meeting at Old Saugus track has closed. In the fourth heat of the 2:18 pace Fred Clark, driver of Don Carr, who had won the first and second heats, was taken down for dropping the third heat. John Payne was substituted and won the fourth heat and race. Driver Clark and the horse were then suspended for one year, this being one of the severest penalties ever imposed upon a driver on a New England track. Free Silver, winner of the 2:21 trot, lowered his record from 2:18 to 2:16¼.

Brulare Won, Driving.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Brulare, at 10 to 1, won the mile and a sixteenth handicap at Hawthorne by half a length, driving. Back of the three-year-old mare, heads apart, were Bondage, The Giver, Aladdin and Bessie McCarthy, so closely bunched a blanket would have covered them all. Long shots swept the board in the first race, which was made up of thirteen maidens. Nestoria, at 20 to 1, came from nowhere in the final sixteenth and beat Fullback, at 15 to 1, a head, while Alum Water, at 15 to 1, was third.

Lake Queen Took Three Straight.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 1.—The race meeting of the new half mile circuit here ended with three good races on the card. Favorites won in each case, Lake Queen, however, losing the first two heats of her race, after which she took three straight. Jim F., with a mark of 2:23¼, valued at $2,000, owned by Charles Draper of North Attleboro, dropped dead in the second heat of the 2:22 pace of heart failure.

Highland Baron Made It In 2:22.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Three good races were pulled off at Island park before a large crowd. An incident of the day was Highland Baron's going to beat 2:30. He made it in 2:22¼. All the races produced good sport, none being decided in less than four heats.

Mrs. Frank Foster Won.

BUFFALO, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Frank Foster, at 10 to 1, won the owners' handicap at one mile, the feature event at Fort Erie. Albula, the 3 to 5 favorite, was badly ridden by M. Johnson and finished a length away.

Five Arrested For Postal Robbery.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Aug. 1.—The authorities have arrested five men charged with the post office robbery at Van Dyne, Fond du Lac county. Stolen property consisting of postage stamps, jewelry and paper valued at upward of $4,000 was recovered. The men were arrested in a house at Oshkosh, and the stolen property was found buried a mile from Van Dyne.

New York Savings Banks.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The condition of the 127 savings banks of the state on July 1, according to figures just made public by the state bank department, shows an increase over last year of over $32,000,000 in total resources, this year's total being $1,221,425,001.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Say Business Is Undisturbed by Speculation Collapse.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Further evidence of the solid basis upon which legitimate trade is established has been furnished by the equanimity with which commercial and financial institutions regard the recent speculative collapse. There is no indication that the brokerage failures or the severe decline in prices of securities were extensively felt outside of Wall street. Much more harm has been done to the country's manufactures and trade by the inflated prices of cotton than by the depression in stocks.

Reports are almost unanimous as to the heavy distribution of merchandise, and this is shown statistically by the increase in railway earnings thus far reported for July, 12.5 per cent over last year's and 23.1 per cent above 1901. As the farm products begin to move there are signs of pressure on transporting lines, although no serious reports of delay emanate from any section except the southwest, where facilities were damaged by floods.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for July amount to $8,750,986, of which $5,167,255 were in manufacturing, $2,786,990 in trading and $796,741 in other commercial lines. Failures this week were 190 in the United States against 193 last year and nineteen in Canada compared with eighteen a year ago.

THE LOWELL EXPLOSION.

Goodwin May Prove an Important Witness at Inquiry.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 1.—The finding of a can of dynamite in the ruins of the magazine destroyed by explosion has caused the militia to redouble their vigilance in keeping watch over the ruined district to prevent further possible loss of life, as the find has caused a fear that there may be still other explosives undischarged in the vicinity.

Judge Hadley, justice of the local police court, announced that he would order a deposition taken from Clarendon Goodwin, now in the hospital, as soon as the patient is considered able to talk. Goodwin is the man who is reported, though he denies the story, to have poured something from a jug on the smoking substance in the first magazine. Goodwin is regarded as the most important witness in the investigation into the cause of the disaster.

Several of the militia have been taken ill, and it was found that they had been drinking water taken from the Concord river, which flows a few feet away. They were treated by physicians, and orders were given that no more water be taken from the river.

Mrs. Emery Drank Carbolic Acid.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Mrs. Bert Emery, a widow, aged about twenty-two years, residing at Morrisville, near here, committed suicide at the home of her father, Harvey Davis, by drinking carbolic acid. Mrs. Emery had been despondent since the death of her husband about a year ago.

BRIDGE COLLAPSED.

Crowd Thrown Into Willamette River at Portland.

OLD WOODEN STRUCTURE GIVES WAY

While Thousands Watched an Armless Man Attempt to Swim the Stream a Portion of the Bridge Sank.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 1.—Over 100 people were precipitated into the Willamette river here. Thousands of people had congregated on the Morrison street bridge to watch Clarence Lutz, an armless man, swim the Willamette river, which is about three-eighths of a mile wide. The people crowded against the railing of the passenger track of the bridge, which is an old structure.

Three people are known to have been drowned and twenty-five were injured by falling timbers or by falling on the boathouse below the bridge.

Just after Lutz reached shore a portion of the bridge collapsed and precipitated a mass of people on to a boathouse moored under the bridge. Many people slid off the boathouse into the river, but it is thought that almost all were picked up by the dozens of small boats in the vicinity.

The bridge was crowded to the rails. One span 150 feet long gave way, carrying all those who were within its limits to the water, about thirty-five feet below. The banks of the river for a block on either side were crowded with spectators watching the swimming exhibition when the bridge gave way, and inside of two minutes dozens of skiffs were on the scene picking up people struggling in the water.

LUIS VELEZ RESIGNS.

Owing to a Difference With Authorities at Bogota.

COLON, Colombia, Aug. 1.—As a result of differences with the authorities at Bogota General Luis Velez, governor of the department of Bolivar, has resigned. It appears that last May Dr. Amado, comptroller of customs at Barranquilla, positively refused to advance a large sum of money to pay government troops stationed at Cartagena and Barranquilla on the ground that his instructions from Bogota did not warrant advances for such purposes. He took this position notwithstanding the fact that Governor Velez urged that the troops were tortured with hunger and on the point of disbanding. When Dr. Amado announced his decision Velez appointed another comptroller, who advanced the required money. For his action in this matter Velez received much commendation.

Information now at hand from Bogota is to the effect that the government supported Amado's position and instructed Velez to reinstate him and pay his salary during the interim. This decision Velez declined to obey and tendered his resignation as governor. He insists that Amado shall not be reinstated until a new governor arrives. Velez has gone to Barranquilla to carry out his threat.

Cab Filled With Steam.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 1.—Charles Butterfield, a Michigan Central fireman living at Jackson, and Engineer J. L. Kroll, also of Jackson, were in charge of a freight engine between here and Augusta when the flue split. Fire and steam enveloped Butterfield, who, frantic with pain, jumped. Engineer Kroll crawled through the cab window and clung to the outside of the engine until he could stop the train, which was going twenty-five miles an hour. With the cab full of steam the strain on the clinging engineer was terrible. The fireman was picked up and brought to Battle Creek and is now at Nichols hospital in a critical condition. The engineer is apparently unhurt.

Saw Fairs Die.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Mme. Tremblay, who alleges that she witnessed the automobile accident by which Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair lost their lives at Pacy-sur-Eure last August, has been examined. She positively declared that Mrs. Fair was killed on the spot and that her husband's legs continued to twitch for some seconds. Mme. Tremblay further asserted that she saw two cyclists in the vicinity, but she was unable to identify the photographs of Masse and Mauranne and asked to be confronted with them.

Threatened Lockout Averted.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—There are reasons for believing that the threatened lockout by the Builders' league will be averted and that the 10,000 men who have been thrown out of work will not lose any time. Committees from the Building Trades Council and the Builders' league have been appointed to meet, and it is believed that matters can be arranged so that there will be no lockout.

Costly Fire In Jersey City.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Four engines played on the ruins of the Jarvis & Co. tobacco sheds and Carey asbestus plant fire, Jersey City, until 9 o'clock. The loss is now estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000. Captains Newly and Costigan and the five other firemen overcome by the heat from the blaze appear to be all right. The cause of the fire has not been learned.

Killed Strodo to Save His Mother.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1.—Defending himself and his mother from death at the hands of an infuriated boarder, Charles Henry Baker shot and killed Calvin Strodo at Manche, La. Strodo attempted to fire, but his rifle became entangled in a cast net, and Baker fired before Strodo could release his weapon.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 1, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

There isn't even a boomlet in the local political field. Doesn't anyone want to be a city father?

The borough would have the laugh on the city if it successfully carries out its scheme for free band concerts.

It is too hot to attempt to solve the Papal succession problem. This applies to both the weather and the race.

The headline "weddings" in an exchange is surrounded by a heavy black border. Does this signify that the subjects of the announcements are in the land of bliss?

The latest accusation against Newport is that the society girls there are breaking down under a too strenuous frivolity.—New Brunswick Times.

Now, don't let us accuse them of being brain-fagged.

In a four column article the Newark Evening News, New Jersey's leading paper, exposes the rottenness of Middlesex County. This condition explains the source of some of those odors wafted here from the south.

Assemblyman Swackhamer says he will make a try for the gubernatorial nomination if his friends insist. The tall man of North Plainfield would be taller than ever wearing the proverbial headgear of a Governor.

Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York, has a live press agent, judging from the space given him as a candidate for a presidential nomination. Will the old adage about the early bird prove true in this case?

No less than 5,000 pennies were found in the collection taken at a recent service in the tabernacle at Ocean Grove. This is unfortunate. Any one so poor as to be compelled to offer a cent would do better by retaining the coin for the necessities of life.

Who said that North Carolina is slow? Her State Legislature is passing laws, authorizing the citizens of certain sections to levy taxes to advertise the attractions they have to offer as resorts. Other States should "fall into line."—Mahin's Magazine.

WOODHULL & MARTIN.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

Red ribbon coffee, Pullman butter and Early Rose potatoes are the three specials which will be sold at Fred B. Firstbrook's grocery on Liberty street, this week. Contentment comes from dealing at Firstbrook's.

By trading with S. Scheuer & Company, of West Front street, you will be able to save considerable money. All goods in groceries and meats, are sold at rock bottom prices, which means a great deal to the average householder.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, is showing some very pretty designs in silverware and all kinds of goods found in a first-class jewelry store. His goods are of the best quality and the prices are just as low as in New York.

Fish make brains and brains make people go to Jerry Foss' market for fish. He has 'em there; all kinds—weak, blue, halibut and the other seasonable members of the finny tribe. Lobsters and hard shell crabs, too, in good assortment of sizes with prices to suit everyone.

"The butcher with the enterprising way" is Mefford R. Giles, of Park avenue, corner of Second street. He makes a specialty of catering to the wants and wishes of his customers in the way of tender meats. All his stock is selected with care and none but the best is sold.

Fred Endress' West Front street meat market is one of the few places in town where you can get a really nice, juicy piece of meat at any time. Endress' store is the headquarters for the meat business in this city. He sells high grade, first class meat, all kinds and choicest cuts.

It is unwise to send delicate fabrics and fine laces to irresponsible colored washerwomen. Mrs. G. Meissner, at 432 Watchung avenue, makes a specialty of doing that kind of work. She guarantees that light, delicate and expensive laces will be carefully done and sent home without tears or damage. One trial will be her best testimonial.

The increased patronage accorded Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, speaks well for the high quality of goods handled and the service given. Mr. Miller maintains one of the best prescriptions departments in the State and he guarantees accuracy and promptness in service. As for soda water, you will find the best at this store, also a complete line of pure confectionery.

The sensible woman these hot days wears as cool foot wear as she can. The most sensible woman wears "Dorothy Dodd" oxfords these days and feels that she is wearing as cool foot wear as she can. VanArsdale has a big shipment of those famous shoes and is pleasing woman kind every day. He can fix up the men and boys, too.

J. W. VanSickle's North avenue meat market is the place where the most particular housewife can find the best of meats these days. Van has the stuff right slap on the ice these warm days and some people think that because it isn't hanging out in front of the store to be advertised by being looked at—and covered with dust and germs—he has only a poor variety.

Next time you want a really good glass of ice cream soda drop in and sit down at the fountain at Hodge's East Front street pharmacy. Good cream smooth, well flavored coolness, floating in a goodly supply of equally cool and equally well flavored fruit syrup—mmm!—that's Hodge's. If you're not hot but just looking for "something good" try a box of "Belle Mead Sweets."

DUNELLEN.

At a meeting held in the Town Hall Thursday evening the local fire department decided to purchase a new fire bell. PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rather a mean joke was perpetrated upon Robert Murphry some time during the past week. Mr. Murphry owns a piece of property near Washington Valley from which he harvests a nice crop of hay each season. On Wednesday Frederick Clark was hired to harvest the usual summer crop. He and his men journeyed out to the place early on Thursday morning to do the work but some one had been there before them, cut the hay and had nearly all of it carted away. Mr. Murphry is still gunning for the thieves.

DETECTED BY THE PARROT.

Little Girl's Tendency to Pilfer Sweets Checked by an Observant Bird.

There is a parrot living on Tompkins avenue in the vicinity of Gates which should have a place on the detective force, says the Brooklyn Eagle. There is a little girl living on Gates avenue, near Tompkins, who has been taught by the said parrot that old-time saying, "Honesty is the best policy." It happened in this wise: The parrot on these spring days takes an airing on the fire-escape at the back of his home. There is a fire-escape at the back of the little girl's home also, and while the two are quite a distance apart, it is not far enough to hinder the parrot from seeing what goes on or to drown the sound of his voice when he shrieks at its very top, as he sometimes does. A few days ago this little girl's mother stewed some apricots. When they were done she sat them on the fire-escape to get cool. The little girl came along while they were cooling. Her mother was nowhere around, and the fruit looked so tempting that she thought she would take "just one." Like Little Jack Horner, she stuck in her thumb and a finger as well, but before she had time to pull out the plum a shrill voice sounded in her ear. "Thief! thief! thief!" was what it said. The child's fondness for apricots disappeared suddenly and the parrot had the satisfaction of knowing that he had interfered just in time.

WATER ON RAILWAY TRAINS.

Source of Frequent Infection Which Has Escaped the Notice of Sanitarians.

The drinking water furnished by the railways—who knows anything about it? What are the regulations of the different companies as to its purity, and the cleansing of the tanks and coolers in railway waiting rooms, cars, steamboats, etc.? In the presence of the great fatality of typhoid fever and the recent increase of the disease all over the country the foregoing question seems very apropos. Certainly the transportation companies do not generally furnish their patrons with boiled, filtered or spring water, and just as certainly the water furnished by most of our cities, especially Chicago and Philadelphia, is contaminated and dangerous. One constantly notices the engineer or fireman drinking from the tank of the tender, and the men who handle the freight trains, the station agents all along the road—is there any attempt, is there any company that makes any serious and thoroughgoing effort to supply these employes with pure water? asks American Medicine. Whose business is it to see that the railways do their duty in this respect? Can any of our readers tell us what laws have been passed or what regulations of city and state governments, and of boards of health, exist concerning this important subject? Have we not here a source of frequent infection which has too much escaped the attention of sanitarians?

SAULT STE. MARIE TROUT.

There Are Some Giants That May Be Caught Only in the Early Spring.

In the early spring suckers in immense schools run up from St. Mary's river, between Lakes Superior and Huron, into the small streams that come in on both sides of the river, and there deposit their spawn. They are followed by brook trout in droves, and among them are specimens larger than can be found anywhere else in the northwest, says the New York Sun.

These trout are after the sucker spawn, and leave the upper waters of the streams when the spawning of these fish is over. While following the suckers they furnish rare sport to the angler, and catches with five and six-pounders among them have been made.

By the end of May the trout have returned to the deep pools and to the St. Mary's river, and the large ones will not rise to the fly again during the season. Now and then a big one will be tempted by an attractive minnow on the hook, and a small white troll, without feathers on it, often proves a good killer to them. The smaller trout, however, continue to give excellent sport to the angler all through the season.

Men the More Emotional.

Miss Helen Bradford Thompson, director of the psychological laboratory at Mount Holoyke College for Women, in a work entitled "Mental Traits of Sex," argues that men are more emotional than women, as well as being superior in physical strength and inventiveness. Miss Thompson's experiments were made at the University of Chicago during two years, and the subjects were 25 young men and 25 young women students.

Cable to Russia.

Wireless telegraphy will have to compete with ocean cables for some time to come. A company has recently been organized to lay a cable from Seattle to Valdez, Alaska, and thence to Vladivostok. The cable will bring Asiatic Russia and the gold fields of Alaska into close communication with the markets of the United States, and expand the interest of Americans in the orient.

Trees in the City.

As the earth was packed round the roots of a tree planted in front of a school on Arbor day last month a little girl exclaimed: "My! New York'll soon be a woods if we childrens keep on!" The interest of the children of the crowded city districts in green and growing things is pathetic, and Arbor day has done as much for them as for the rural districts.

EXCITING DOG FIGHT.

Both the Canines Were Held in Their Owners' Arms While Scrap Was Going On.

A thousand or more women shoppers witnessed a dog fight between a brindle bull and a stylish but saucy fox terrier in the afternoon on West Twenty-third street, just off Fifth avenue, New York.

Mrs. Eleanor Sedley, of 127 East Thirty-first street, the owner of the bull, tried to separate the combatants and the terrier resented the interference by burying his teeth in her thumb.

Mrs. Sedley had completed her shopping and was passing out to her carriage with her pet brindle under her arm. A tall brunette with a little terrier coddled to her bosom had just alighted from a hansom. As the women passed each other the dogs gave a simultaneous growl and snapped. The bulldog caught the terrier by an ear, but the little fellow's aim was more accurate. He plunged his teeth into the other's throat and held on.

"Let go! Let go!" cried the owners of the dogs, each slapping the other's pet with her gloved hand. The gloves, of course, burst. The slaps egged on the dogs. They squirmed until they had freed themselves, and once on the sidewalk attacked each other with increased energy. The shouts and screams of the women attracted Policemen Cronin and Sullivan.

"Lave me at thim," said Sullivan, as he stepped forward and tried to pry the dogs apart with his night stick. He poked the club down the brindle's throat.

"Oh, don't hurt Fido," cried Mrs. Sedley. It was the opinion of the crowd, too, that Fido was getting the worst of the encounter.

The terrier's owner could not see it in that light. "Beat the ugly thing on the head," she said to the officer.

The women glared savagely at each other, and then reached down and gave another tug at the dogs. The terrier loosened his hold on his adversary only to transfer his hold to Mrs. Sedley's thumb. She shrieked.

The bulldog, having enough, released his hold also, and Mrs. Sedley picked him up, got into her carriage and drove off to the hospital.

OLD MAN'S LAST MASH.

After This Experience the Governor Gave Up Feasting His Eyes on Fair Young Things.

A handsome gentleman of 60, who looks much younger and still retains an eye for the beautifuul in the fair sex and a tender fluttering of the heart when the ladies glance his way, got into a street car in company with his son, a grown young man. A striking feature of the elderly gallant is an extremely long and full goatee and big, flowing mustaches.

"SEE TOOK YOU FOR A GOAT."

The gentleman found a seat directly opposite two unusually attractive young ladies, immediately beside whom the son found his seat.

In a few moments, says the New York Times, the girls were glancing often at the old gentleman and chattering together in great glee. The gentleman hugged himself mentally, but restrained his emotions in presence of his son. On leaving the car the son said:

"Say, governor, I've got a good one on you."

"Well, what is it, my son?"

"Why, one of those girls next to me said: 'What a funny looking thing that old man is over there.' To which the other one replied: 'Yes, isn't he? He looks like a goat!'"

That was the old man's last "mash."

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

BREEDING SELFISHNESS.

How Parental Unselfishness Spoils a Host of Children.

"What a selfish little beast that boy is!"

Every one agreed.

Even his mother shook her head sadly and remarked: "It is the one fault Charley has. He never will stop to think of other people."

But what amused me and made me perhaps a trifle indignant was that every one seemed to think it was the child's fault—that it was a part of him quite as much as his stammer and the way that he walked.

What nonsense!

Don't we receive the little mind fresh and fair as an unwritten page, and, if we do not actually write upon it, don't we guide or push the baby fingers which hold the recording pen? Stop and think, fond mother, and you will see how every baby fault had its start under your unwatchful eye, and in nine cases out of ten it was owing to some unwise action of yours, not the child's.

Now, take the little boy under discussion. I have seen him run into the room and take the best chair. That was only natural. But, when poor grandmamma came in, did he get up and give the old lady the comfortable seat? Not a bit of it. Now, there was her chance—there was the mother's chance. Either of them might have taught him in a nice way the doctrine of courtesy and unselfishness. Instead of that, here is what happened: Grandmamma mildly sat down in a straight cane chair quite as if it were the proper order of things.

Now, can you blame the boy? He didn't even realize he was doing anything out of the way. Why should he? Every one seemed to take it as a matter of course. It was the same way when mother deprived herself in order that he might have her dessert plus his own, when the whole feminine portion of the household gave in to his wants and inconvenienced itself for his pleasure.

There you have your selfish boy!

Blame him? Blame the parents! The most generous man living, the greatest philanthropist, would be a mere selfish brute if he had been brought up in that way. HELEN CLIFTON.

WHAT WOMEN EAT.

They Are Very Fond of Sweets and Fresh Fruit.

Dietary experts who have been inquiring into the food eaten by the average woman have found that she eats four-fifths as much food as the average man, besides having an overpowering taste for sweet things and for butter.

Women eat less meat than men do, but are more fond of salads and soups.

It has been observed also that if a woman can obtain plenty of fresh fruit she will keep her craving for sweets within reasonable limits.

The use and discovery of health foods have done much more for women than for men, as they take more kindly to this nourishment, and it usurps the place of meat, which many women do not care for.

Nothing is better than fresh fruit both for the nerves and the complexion, and the wise woman will breakfast mainly on this.

Eggs are very bad for women who are troubled with delicate skins, and milk should never be an article of diet with the bilious woman.

Clear soups, rare meats, salads, fruits and cereals make the best complexions as well as figures, for it was discovered some time ago that the question of plumpness or thinness is not so much a matter of quantity as of quality. The wise woman is she who observes herself and gives her system the food it craves. J. N. W.

The Girl Who Is Loved.

Her features may or may not be good, her complexion perhaps leaves something to be desired, but her sweet, true eyes and her kindly heart make her friends forget any physical shortcomings that she may have, and wherever she goes she is as welcome as the sunshine.

Her charm is in her freshness and her naturalness. She is sweet and wholesome herself, and, being that, she is on the lookout for the good that is in the world. Somehow she always finds it. People seem to be at their best in her presence, and, though she knows that the world has its ugly, seamy side, she escapes personal contact with it.

She is simple and honest, and people who are tired of the shams and hollowness of society delight in her.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

Within doors she found the doctor ministering to a stout female who seemed to have gone off in an improvised swoon—Mrs. Blake's imported cook. Up the stairs to her own room again, Mrs. Blake was being led by Marion Ray's encircling arm. Three women were speedily closeted there, for Mrs. Dade was like an elder sister to these two sworn friends, and, not until Mrs. Dade and they were ready, did the lady descend the stairs and communicate the facts to the excited gathering in the parlor, and they in turn to those on the porch in front. By this time Flint himself, with the post quartermaster, was on hand, and all Fort Frayne seemed to rouse, and Mrs. Gregg had come with Mrs. Wilkins, and those two had relieved the doctor of the care of the cook, now talking volubly; and, partly through her revelations, but mainly through the more coherent statements of Mrs. Dade, were the facts made public. Margaret, the cook, had a room to herself on the ground floor adjoining her kitchen. Belle, the maid, had been given the second floor back in order to be near to her young mistress. Blitzer, the Blakes' man-of-all-work—like McGann, a discharged soldier—slept in the basement at the back of the house, and there was he found, blinking, bewildered and only with difficulty aroused from stupor by a wrathful sergeant. The cook's story, in brief, was that she was awakened by Mrs. Blake's voice at her door, and, thinking Belle was sick, she jumped up and found Mrs. Blake in her wrapper, asking was she, Margaret, up stairs a moment before. Then Mrs. Blake, with her candle, went into the dining-room, and out jumped a man in his stocking feet from the captain's den across the hall, and knocked over Mrs. Blake and the light, and made for her, the cook; whereat she screamed and slammed her door in his face, and that was really all she knew about it.

But Mrs. Blake knew more. Awakened by some strange consciousness of stealthy movement about the house, she called Belle by name, thinking possibly the girl might be ill and seeking medicine. There was sound of more movement, but no reply. Mrs. Blake's girlhood had been spent on the frontier. She was a stranger to fear. She arose; struck a light, and, seeing no one in her room or the guest chamber and hallway, hastened to the third room, and was surprised to find Belle apparently quietly sleeping. Then she decided to look about the house and, first, went down and roused the cook. As she was coming out of the dining-room, a man leaped past her in the hall, hurling her to one side and dashing out into night. Her back was toward him, for he came from Gerald's own premises known as the den. In that den, directly opposite, was one of her revolvers, loaded. She found it, even in the darkness, and, hurrying forth again, intending to chase the intruder and alarm the sentry at the rear, encountered either the same or a second man close to the back door, a man who sprang past her like a panther and darted down the steps at the back of the house, followed by two shots from her Smith & Wesson. One of these men wore a soldier's overcoat, for the cape, ripped from the collar seam, was left in her hands. Another soldier's overcoat was later found at the rear fence, but no boots, shoes or tracks thereof, yet both of these men, judging from the sound, had been in stocking feet, or possibly rubbers, or perhaps—but that last suspicion she kept to herself, for Mrs. Hay, too, was now among the arrivals in the house—full of sympathy and genuine distress. The alarm, then, had gone beyond the guard house, and the creators thereof beyond the ken of the guard, for not a sentry had seen or heard anything suspicious until after the shots, then

"A MAN SPRANG PAST HER LIKE A PANTHER, DARTED DOWN THE STEPS, FOLLOWED BY TWO SHOTS FROM HER SMITH & WESSON."

Number 8, Flint's latest addition, declared that from his post at Hay's corral he had distinctly heard the swift hoofbeats of a brace of ponies darting up the level bench to the westward. Number 5 had turned up safely, and declared that at the moment the scream was heard he was round by the flagstaff, listening to the night chorus of a pack of yelping coyotes, afar out to the northwest, and then he thought he heard scrambling and running down at the foot of the bluff just as the shots were fired. Investigation on his part was what took him out of sight for the moment, and later investigation showed that one marauder, at least, had gone that way, for a capeless greatcoat was found close down by the shore, where some fugitive had tossed it in his flight. This overcoat bore, half-erased from the soiled lining, the name of Culligan, troop "K;" but Culligan had served out his time and taken the discharge a year before. The other overcoat was even older, an infantry coat, with shorter cape, bearing a company number "47," but no name. Both garments savored strongly of the stable.

Then, before quiet was restored, certain search was made about the quarters. It was found the intruders had obtained admission through the basement door at the back.

But what had they taken? The silver was upstairs, intact, under Mrs. Blake's bed; so was the little safe in which was kept her jewelry and their valuable papers. Books, bric-a-brac—everything downstairs seemed unmolested. No item was missing from its accustomed place. Mrs. Blake thought perhaps the intruders had not entered her room at all. In Gerald's den were "stacks," as he said, of relics, souvenirs, trophies of chase and war, but no one thing of the intrinsic value of $50. What could have been the object of their midnight search? was the question all Fort Frayne was asking as people dispersed and went home—the doctor intimating it was high time that Mrs. Blake was permitted to seek repose. Not until he had practically cleared the house of all but her most intimate friends, Mrs. Dade and Mrs. Ray, would Waller permit himself to ask a question that had been uppermost in his mind ever since he heard her story.

"Mrs. Blake, someone has been ransacking Mr. Field's quarters for letters or papers. Now—was there anything of that kind left by the captain that—someone may have needed?"

Nannie Blake's head was uplifted instantly from Marion's shoulder. She had been beginning to feel the reaction. For one moment the three women looked intently into each other's faces. Then up they started and trooped away into Gerald's den. The doctor followed. The upper drawer of the big, flat-topped desk stood wide open, and pretty Mrs. Blake opened her eyes and mouth in emulation as she briefly exclaimed:

"It's gone!"

Then Waller went forthwith to the quarters of the commander and caught him still in conference with his quartermaster and the guard, four or five of the latter being grouped without. The major retired to his front room, where, with Wilkins, he received the doctor.

"Maj. Flint," said Waller, "those overcoats belong to Mr. Hay's stablemen, Pete and Crapaud. Will you order their immediate arrest?"

"I would, doctor," was the answer, "but they are not at the corral. We know how to account for the hoofbeats in the valley. Those scoundrels have got nearly an hour's start, and we've nobody to send in chase."

Then it presently appeared that the post commander desired to continue conference with his staff officer, for he failed to invite the surgeon to be seated. Indeed, he looked up into the doctor's kindling eyes with odd mixture of impatience and embarrassment in his own, and the veteran practitioner felt the slight; flushed instantly, and, with much hauteur of manner, took prompt but ceremonious leave.

And when morning came and Fort Frayne awoke to another busy day, as if the excitements of the night gone by had not been enough for it, a new story went buzzing, with the first call for guard mount, about the garrison; and, bigger even than yesterday, the two details, in soldier silence, began to gather in front of the infantry quarters. Maj. Flint had ordered sentries posted at the trader's home, with directions that Mrs. Hay was not to be allowed outside of her gate, and no one, man or woman, permitted to approach her from without, except by express permission of the post commander. "Gen. Harney" and "Dan," the two best horses of the trader's stable, despite the presence of the sentry at the front, had been abstracted some time during the earlier hours of the night, and later traced to the ford at Stabber's old camp, and with Pete and Crapaud, doubtless, were gone.

THE CORPSE SAT UP.

Frowsy Andy Smith, a Gentleman of Chicago, Objected to Being Taken to the Morgue.

"Say, there, you fellers, where in thunder are you taking me?" exclaimed an excited individual who was sitting up in a patrol wagon Sunday afternoon near the county morgue, of Chicago.

"Sit down. We are going to put you on ice, you chump," said the only policeman who had not been stricken dumb with surprise. "You are dead."

"Nixie. I am no more dead than you are, and no morgue for 'Frowsy Andy.'"

"Lie down there, as a corpse should," commanded Policeman Fahny.

"Shall I hit him with me club for being disorderly?" asked Officer

WHEN ANDY WOKE UP.

Grady, whose hair had begun to resume its normal attitude.

But Andrew Smith, instead of having a hard bed at the morgue, was taken to the Maxwell street police station and given a harder one. Then he went to sleep, and when he awoke he screamed with terror. He remembered the morgue experience, and thought he had been put in it and carried to a cemetery vault.

"The worst scare of my life," said Smith to Justice Dooley. "Thought the cell bars were part of the vault. Guess I did look dead, but I was only sick. If you let me go, your honor, I will be careful not to get sick again."

"We will fine you just $10," replied the magistrate. "That is better for you even than having had a realistic session at the morgue."

Smith was found apparently lifeless at Canal and West Polk streets. He lives at the Volunteer lodging house, Halsted and West Madison streets.

BIG SNAPPING TURTLE.

It Towed Two Plucky Boys Out on a Voyage on a Jersey Canal, But Was Captured.

A 20-pound snapping turtle was captured in the Morris canal near Detwiler's fireworks factory, in Jersey City, N. J., by Frank and Christian Goetz, two Greenville boys. The brothers found the turtle asleep on the towpath, and attempted to turn it over on its back with a big stick. The snapper suddenly ran out its head, made a vicious snap at the stick and started for the water.

As the turtle was going into the water Frank Goetz grabbed it by the tail and yelled to Christian to lend a hand. Frank slipped on the towpath and tumbled into the canal. When he reappeared above the surface he still had a firm hold on the turtle's tail.

He knew that he was perfectly safe from the snapper's jaws as long as he didn't lose his grip.

WITH THE BOY IN TOW.

The turtle started up the canal with the boy in tow. Then Christian swam to his brother's assistance. Christian steered clear of the turtle's head, approached it from the rear and grabbed it by the left hind leg.

The turtle and boys floundered around in the water until the brothers managed to reach bottom. Then they found it comparatively easy to drag the reptile out on the bank and turn it over on its back.

When they recovered their breath they carried the turtle home by the tail, and sold it to a saloon keeper.

Unique Card of Thanks.

Many different kinds of cards of thanks have appeared in newspapers, but Oswego, Kan., claims the prize with one from five prisoners in the Labette county jail, who "beg to thank the county for the good meals, kind treatment and compulsory baths."

NO JUSTICE FOR HIM.

Not Even When He Carried a Slug of Nitroglycerin Into the Judge's Office.

"I am often required to deal with queer individuals in the carrying out of my official duties," explained a local prosecuting officer to a Washington Star reporter. "The latest incident of the sort occurred a day or two ago.

A well-dressed man, carrying a large satchel, was admitted to my private office. He complained that a conspiracy to defraud him out of valuable lands in Louisiana existed, and his desire was that I should prosecute the conspirators. I suggested that he file his complaint at the department of justice, explaining that I had no authority outside of the District of Columbia. But my visitor could not see it that way.

"WHAT DO YOU THINK THEY DID?"

promptly informed me that he had first called at the department of justice, and that the officials there had referred him to me. He added that he did not propose to be humbuggled any further.

"My visitor went on to say that he had entered his complaint before one of the leading judges in Baltimore, but his honor had him ejected from the court room. I was further told by my caller that he proceeded to the sidewalk outside the court house, and assembling a crowd of citizens about him, notified them of what had occurred within and threatened that if they did not assist him in securing his rights from the judge he would drop his satchel, which, he declared, contained a large amount of nitroglycerin, in the midst of the crowd.

"'Now, what do you think they did?" my caller inquired of me.

"I told him that I could not guess.

"'Not a blessed thing,' he said.

"During the entire recital the man held his satchel very carefully and kept glancing at it in a nervous way. I did not relish the situation, so I pushed an electric button and summoned my messenger. A moment later my vistor and his satchel had been unceremoniously ushered out. I could hear him as he stood in the corridor delivering a harangue on the subject of the impossibility of securing justice in this land of the free."

BAD DAY FOR SNAKES.

Farmer Miller Interrupts Convention of 200 Rattlers and Bags 32 of the Ugly Reptiles.

The man who is not afraid to tackle a bunch of 200 rattlesnakes is H. L. Miller, of Stroudsburg, Pa., according to his own story of an encounter recently, in which he came out victor with the scalps—or rattles, rather—of 32 of the enemy.

Good rattlesnake skins are worth one dollar a copy in the open market, and the snake oil is valued at $16 a pound, as a remedy for a long list of ills which man has inherited from ancestors who had perhaps very little else to leave as a remembrance. Miller discovered these quotations somewhere in the market reports, and at once adopted snake hunting as a profession. He is now looked upon by his neighbors as a man who sees more snakes—real live ones—than any individual in that section of the state.

INTERRUPTING THE CONVENTION.

In speaking of his latest adventure Miller says:

"I had my gun with me when I came across a convention of rattlers with about 200 in close session. I let go with both barrels, and just blew the heads off of 32 of them. One of them had 22 rattles."

The story was backed up by a view of a large bunch of rattles.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Charles Dilts, of this city, has taken a position at the Potter Press Company's plant.

Thomas M. Muir returned to work today, after spending ten days in the wheat fields at Woodstock, Canada.

The Ball & Wood Company's machine shop, in Elizabeth, is in need of machinists and machinists' helpers.

Seaman Williams is making repairs on the Perrin Freres glove factory, the damage being caused by a recent thunderstorm.

William Carlson, of the Potter Press Company's plant, is spending his vacation at Sea Girt, with Company M, of Somerville.

The strike of the Pittsburg iron moulders, which has been on since May 1, was settled yesterday, the strikers accepting the manufacturers' compromise offer.

John Doward, of the Potter Press Company's plant, left today for a trip up the Hudson. Mr. Doward will spend the coming week visiting relatives in New York State.

Donald McInnes, of West Third street, has resigned his position at the Pond Machine Tool Company's works. Mr. McInnes has been with the firm for the past fourteen years, coming here from Worcester, Mass., with David W. Pond.

Electrical contractors of Trenton and striking employes have compromised their differences and work will be resumed at once on the Senate chamber, the court house and other buildings which have been delayed by the controversy.

Three hundred and fifty employes of the Brown Cotton Gin and Babcock Printing Press Companies received notice the other day that the works would be closed indefinitely and all would be paid in full at the office of both establishments. An official of the Brown company says that the closing of the plant was due to the high price of material, and the recent advance in wages demanded by organized labor.

Several girls started to work in the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company's plant, of Orange, yesterday, for the purpose of learning the electrical business. The men employes fear this action will have a tendency to decrease their wages if not putting them out of business entirely. The men are getting thirty cents an hour, and the girls who were engaged were told that they would receive $8 per week after they learned the trades. Some of the men refused to instruct the girls anything about the work.

The smallest working locomotive in the world is owned by W A. Smith, a jeweler of Meridian, N. Y. He made it, working at odd times for three years, and has it in a glass case. The locomotive is of heavily plated gold and the bell, whistle and driving wheels are solid gold. The trimmings are of silver. The locomotive is six and one-half inches long and the tender is three inches long. The boiler is three-fourths of an inch in diameter, the smokestack is about two and one-sixteenth inches high, and the other parts are in proportion. Kerosene is used for fuel, and every part of the locomotive works perfectly.

and his neighbors let it go at that. Finally I had some trouble regarding he rent, and insisted that, inasmuch as Mr. Strauss kept a coachman, horses and carriages, he should pay me, and finally I had to request him to vacate, he still owing me $100 or more for rent.

"We never heard of a Marguerite M. Strauss claiming to be his wife, although it was known that he was frequently away from home for long periods of time, but it was supposed to be due to his political and professional relations in Brooklyn.

"Investigation disclosed that Mr. Strauss after leaving the Grove street mansion moved several times, finally locating at No. 212 East Fifth street, near Watchung avenue. Here Mrs. Ida M. Perkins-Strauss, her married son, Baldwin F. Strauss, Jr., and her daughter, Florence, are now residing.

Mrs. Perkins-Strauss was away from home last night when a World representative, called, but Baldwin F. Strauss, Jr., the missing man's son, said:

"'It is all too true. We have had detectives searching for my father ever since his disappearance, but have been unable to find him. We are aware that Marguerite Strauss claims to be the lawful wife of my father, but my mother has a prior claim. She was duly married to him by a priest in a Roman Catholic Church in 1880. We never heard of the existence of Stella Ainsworth-Strauss until my father was arrested for non-payment of alimony.

"'My mother, my sister and I have learned that it was no unusual thing for my father to have all three of his wives in his office at one and the same time, and they absolutely in ignorance of the fact of the relation each held to him. I remember one occasion in particular, when I was present, in which my mother was in his inner private office, Stella Strauss was in the adjoining private office, and Marguerite Strauss was in the anteroom, and he coolly drew checks to the order of each, gave two of them to his clerk, handed one to my mother, and told him for heaven's sake to get rid of the two women outside.'"

ALIS TEAM SHUT OUT BY WESTFIELD NINE

Big Crowd Watches Battle Resulting in a Score of Four to Nothing.

HOPE BOYS VANQUISHED

ST. MARY'S WINS IN AN UPHILL GAME BY SCORE OF 10 TO 6.

Umpire Chillum Pleases Rooters at Recreation Park—Brit Martin's Costly Error at St. Mary's Diamond—Detailed Scores.

ALIS SHUT OUT.

Fortune smiled on Manager Denman's "colts" Saturday afternoon, when the Alis team crossed bats with them at Recreation Park, Westfield, and the aggregation from the Queen City went down by a final score of 4 to 0. It was the first shut-out this season for the Plainfield boys and their friends and supporters returned home somewhat sad in heart. There is little satisfaction, however, in the fact that Westfield did not earn a single run. In the entire game Westfield secured seven single hits off "Warry" MacLaughlin.

Alis made eight hits off "Red" Waller, every man getting a hit but Henriques, while Gormley and Page each got two. It was impossible for the Alis boys to bunch hits and this helped considerably to defeat them. Westfield scored a run in the first inning, another in the third and two in the eighth. They took advantage of every point, also of the weak playing of Alis in the first and latter part of the game. Too much praise cannot be given the work of Umpire Chillum in Saturday's game. He was extremely fair.

ST. MARY'S CRUSHES HOPE.

Nearly two thousand ardent fans saw St. Mary's defeat Hopes in an uphill game on St. Mary's field Saturday afternoon. The Hope boys had everything their own way up to the third inning scoring six tallies in the three innings, St. Mary's woke up with a vengeance in their half of the third and hit Montross heavily in that and the next inning, scoring seven runs and passing their opponents. The closeness of the score put fresh interest in the game for the spectators and during the two quiet innings which followed, the excitement was intense.

In the seventh, with a St. Mary's man on first and second, and easy ball was hit to Brit Martin who, seeing the man skip past him for third, snapped the ball to that bag for the put out but threw over Shortman's head allowing the three runs to be tallied. This careless pitch lost the game for Hope as the two teams were so evenly matched that the lead could not be overcome.

ENDED IN A ROW.

The Scotch Plains-Aeolian game at the 'Plains on Saturday afternoon, was marred in the last half of the ninth inning by Capt. Poole, of the visiting team ordering his men off the field, after Umpire Hand had refused to change a decision at home plate. Up to this the game had been one of the fastest and cleanest games ever played on the diamond, not a kick had been made, on a base decision or on balls and strikes. The visitors, up to this time had practically the game won, the score being 2 to 1. Hegeman had been pitching great ball, the

SCOTCH PLAINS GIRL BRIDE OF NEW YORKER

Miss Helen Whitenack Wedded to John Kandelky in Scotch Plains Edifice.

A RECEPTION AT HOME

COUPLE'S HONEYMOOD BEING SPENT AT ASBURY PARK.

Bride a Member of Scotch Plains M. E. Church—Groom a Civil Engineer—To Reside in Plainfield.

Miss Helen Whitenack, of Forest avenue, and John Kandelky, of New York, were married in the Scotch Plains Methodist Episcopal Church, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Whitenack. The bride was attended by Miss Kizzie Nagle, as bridesmaid. At the altar the party was met by the bridegroom and his brother, Frederick Kandelky, of New York, who acted as best man. Rev. George Shaw, the pastor of the church, officiated. The Episcopal service was used.

The ushers at the church were Charles F. Nagle, of Plainfield and Harry Goodman, of the 'Plains, both cousions of the bride. At the home of the bride a reception was held from 4:30 until 8. The home was prettily trimmed with flowers and greens, amid which the bride and groom received the congratulations and best wishes of all in their journey through life together.

At 6 o'clock the couple left amid a shower of old shoes, rice and other good luck omens, to catch the 6:22 train for New York. From here they will go to Asbury Park for a week. While the bridal coach was standing waiting for the happy couple to take leave of family and friends, their friends trimmed it tastefully with tin cans, ribbons and appropriate mottos for the enlightment of those who did not know that two hearts had just been made to beat as one.

The bride's wedding dress was a handsome creation of white silk mulle, while the bridal veil was prettily caught up with orange blossoms. The bride carried a handsome bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid's dress was a pretty dotted Swiss over cream silk. She carried chrysanthemums.

The bride has been a prominent and popular worker in the several organizations of the Methodist Church and is held in high esteem by all, while the groom is a well-known civil engineer of New York, being employed on the tunnel work under the North river. The popularity of both was evinced by the handsome collection of presents received, consisting of silverware, cut glass, bric-a-brac, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Kandelky, upon their return, will reside on East Second street, Plainfield.

AGED STAGE DRIVER VICTIM OF GANGRENE

Samuel D. Hedden Expires at His Home on Duer Street, North Plainfield.

A LIFELONG RESIDENT

DRIVER FOR LAING'S HOTEL HERE MANY YEARS AGO.

Brother of Albert Hedden—Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes to Officiate at Funeral—Interment in the M. E. Cemetery.

Samuel D. Hedden, the first stage driver in this city and one of the early settlers in this locality, died at 11 o'clock Saturday night at his home at No. 5 Duer street. Death was due to gangrene, the result of his foot being frozen last winter.

The dead man was seventy years of age and had lived here all his life. His birthplace was near the old Coonrod Neal property on West Front street, which was recently dismantled. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Ann Stewart, of Washingtonville. She was the daughter of the Somerset county judge, William B. Stewart, who was at one time a member of the Legislature. The story of his early life is interesting.

When John Laing kept the hotel at the present site of the Babcock building Sam Hedden was the stage driver for him. At that time there was only one track on the railroad and a stage line connected with Somerville, Bound Brook, New Brunswick and Elizabethport.

When on his way from Morristown and other places he would be intrusted with large sums of money by the farmers to be deposited in this city. He carried in a secret place in his back on many occasions as much as several thousand dollars. He was never molested and the money was always safely carried to its destination. He was well-known by traveling men all through this section of the State.

The house in which he lived was one of the first erected in Duer street. At one time he and seven brothers lived here. Two of these, Amos and Jacob Hedden, are now dead. The others are Albert Hedden, liveryman; Joel D. Hedden, painter; Ephraim B. Hedden, tinsmith and William Hedden, painter.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. It is probably that Rev. Dr. Yerkes will be the officiating minister. The interment will be in the M. E. Cemetery. The services will be held from his late residence at 5 Duer street.

LOAN CONCERN TO PAY.

Local Stockholders in the Colonial Homestead Building and Loan Association to Receive Cash.

The Plainfield stockholders in the Colonial Homestead Building and Loan Association, of Trenton, who have had fears about losing their money, through the closing out of the company, have received assurances that they will receive checks for the amounts due about January 1, 1904. An investigation of the association's affairs brought forth a statement from President George M. MacDonald to the effect that the members will receive their money with the possible exception of membership fee. He declares that the new law makes it impossible for State associations to exist and that some locals will have to go under also.

Engagements Announced.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen A. Arthur, daugther of Mr. and Mrs. David Arthur, of Grandview avenue, to William E. G. Pearson, of West Third street. Announcement is also made of the engagement of Miss Erma M. Greene, of this city, to David C. Wikoff, of Philadelphia, Pa.

SCOTCH PLAINS MAN SAID TO BE INSANE

Adolph Fleischer, a Barber, Removed to Elizabeth to be Examined.

SOME OF HIS QUEER ACTS

AMUSES HIMSELF THROWING STONES AT MRS. JOHN R. MARSH'S HOME.

Complaint Made Before Justice Clark and Man Taken in Custody by Constable Walpole—Said to Be Harmless.

Adolph Fleischer, until, recently, the only barber in Scotch Plains, was committed to the county jail at Elizabeth on Saturday, where he is to be examined as to his sanity. For some time past the barber has been acting queerly and his patrons were afraid to allow him to shave them or cut their hair He would frequently lather a man's face for a shave and then walk around the block, returning later to finish his task. This lost him his customer and he then imagined that everyone was his enemy, especially so when another barber was imported to the place.

On Saturday he threw stones at Mrs. John R. Marsh's house and Henry Schenck, an employe of Mrs. Marsh, made a complaint before Justice Clark for the arrest of the barber. He was taken in custody by Constable Walpole and sent to Elizabeth.

There Are Sixteen in All, Handsomely Framed—A Complete List.

S. A. Krom has loaned to the Public Library a series of photographs which he has himself taken, of the places of historic interest in this locality. There are sixteen photographs in all. They are framed and will hang temporarily in the reading room.

The pictures are these: Jonah Vail house on the Quaker road; Ephraim Vail homestead on Quaker road; church at Springfield, N. J., revolutionary times; Plainfield meeting house; Frazee Lee house near Westfield, plundered by Cornwallis's troops; headquarters at Morristown; revoluionary homestead at Randolphsville; old Piscataway homestead; the Quaker road, used by Washington; Washington camp near Middlebrook; old graveyard of original settlers in Plainfield in 1684, on Holly farm; camp ground of Anthony Wayne at Finderne; Green brook where Washington crossed to reach Quaker road.

The framing of the larger one, holding 10 photographs, is unique, being made of the clapboards of a Revolutionary house, and the soft silver gray of the wood, on which a little moss still clings, makes a most artistic and appropriate frame.

A VICTIM OF TYPHOID

MEMBER OF MANY FRATERNAL ORGANIZATIONS HERE.

Wife and Children Survive Him—Son-in-Law of Jacob Voehl—Odd Fellows to Conduct Service at His Grave.

John H. Carney, one of the best known residents of the borough, is dead. The end came early this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Voehl in Somerset street, following a two weeks' illness with typhoid fever.

Up to 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Carney was improving and his condition was not alarming. At that hour, however, there was a sudden turn for the worse and the severe hemorrhages which followed weakened his system to such an extent that he was unable to rally from them. He grew steadily worse until he passed away at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

There was probably no person in the borough or city better known or more generally popular than "Jack" Carney, as he was familiarly known by young and old. Generous to a fault and always ready and willing to do anyone a favor, he was liked by all. Especially with children was he a favorite and he was very fond of them. It was through his appearance at various entertainments that he made a host of friends. As an impersonator of the German dialect he probably had no equal in this vicinity and he was always in demand for entertainments.

Mr. Carney was born in North Plainfield forty-six years ago and he always lived in the borough. In his boyhood days he attended the public school there with Miss Eliza J. Voehl, a daughter of Former Freeholder and Mrs. Jacob Voehl, and twenty-two years ago he married her. By that union two children were born to them, John Jacob Carney and Miss Adelaide Carney. When a young man Mr. Carney learned the plumbing and tinning trade and he ever afterward followed it. For years he was in partnership with his brother, Andrew L. Carney.

In politics Mr. Carney was a staunch Democrat and honest worker and for years was a member of the registry board in the borough. He was a clever politician and was one of many to make a determined fight against annexation of the city and borough. In lodge circles he was also well-known. He was a charter member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, a past officer of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, Independent Order Odd Fellows, and a member of the initiatory team, of the latter lodge, under the leadership of District Deputy John H. Becker. He was also a charter member of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, No. 193, Improved Order Red Men, afterward consolidated with Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118. In the early days he was a zealous firemen, being a prominent member of Warren Engine No. 3, of the borough. Afterward he was an exempt firemen.

Mr. Carney leaves an aged mother, Mrs. Ellen Carney, of Lincoln place; a wife, a son and daughter; also two brothers, David J. and Andrew L. Carney. His son, who has been at Monticello, N. Y., is now convalescing from an attack of typhoid fever. He will reach home today.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Voehl on Somerset street, at 3 o'clock and Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., will be in charge. The interment will be in the Methodist Cemetery in Plainfield avenue.

SCIENTIST'S STUDY OF JERSEY MOSQUITO

Dr. Stiles to Visit State at Request of Entomologist Smith.

A MOSQUITO DESTOYER

EXPERIMENTS WITH THE AGAMOMERMIS CULICIS.

Discovery of Destroyer—To Study Parasite—Hopeful of Good Results—The Several Experiments.

Dr. Charles Wardell Stiles, Chief Zoologist of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service of the United States Government, will come to this State in a few days to take up seriously and systematically the work of studying the "mosquito destroyer," which he discovered and which he has given the scientific name "Agamomermis culicis." Dr. Stiles will undertake this work at the request of Prof. Smith, State Entomologist.

The Washington scientist is quite hopeful of attaining such results from his investigation in New Jersey as will justify a recommendation to the Government for the propagation of the mosquito destroyer in such numbers as will ultimately lead to the extinction of mosquitoes in those localities where they are now the greatest pests.

Dr. Stiles's attention was first called to the parasite while he was a student at Leipsic, Germany, nearly fifteen years ago. He noticed then that the mosquitoes which on miscroscopic examination were shown to harbor the Agamomermis culicis were harmless many days before death.

Dr. Stiles is of the opinion that it is necessary to gather as many specimens of the Agamomermis culicis as possible while he is studying the character and habits of the parasite on its native heath in New Jersey, bringing these specimens to Washington and then learning how to propagate them in the greatest number.

When this point is settled it is thought that a regular propagating station of the mosquito destroyer will be established here, and from this beginning the parasites can be scattered all over the country under Government supervision, with instructions how to apply them. It is not doubted that an apparatus can be devised for spraying the parasites or eggs by the millions in swamps and other breeding places of mosquitoes, so that the insect will be attacked by its devouring enemy before it gets big and hardy enough to seek human prey.

Mr. Tulp is stationed at Marconnier Chapel, Oak Tree, and gives evidence of a bright future.

Pope Leo and the Bible.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

Some people are born ignorant and others have ignorance thrust upon them. Although so many kind words are said by Protestants of the late Pope, it is surprising that there are those who judge him on the standard of Leo X. Is it ignorance or thoughtlessness that prompts the remark that "he was strenuously opposed to seeing the Scriptures in the hands of his people?" Leo X., but not Leo XIII! Leo XIII had many significant events in his pontificate, and one of these was the organization of the Society of St. Jerome, under the patronage of the Vatican for the translation and circulation of the New Testament in Italian. This society is at that work with great order, and in the preface of the recently-issued "Gospels and Acts" are these words, described, if I mistake not, as the "Imprimatur of the Holy Father:"

"May this book be found in the hands of many, and bring forth in each those fruits which it is adopted to produce, to the moral, religious, and social regeneration of Italy."

It seems to me that the gentle Old Man had courage worthy of his name independent of that shown in facing the King of Terrors. If that is "bigotry," burn your dictionary.

IN A DORY AT SEA.

Mrs. Carter Drifted Helpless For Forty-eight Hours.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 3.—The terrible experience of Mrs. John Carter of Owl's Head, who drifted in an open boat for forty-eight hours, ill and helpless, is without a parallel on the Maine coast. Mrs. Carter was formerly Clara Pease. Born of a sturdy family, possessed of an iron constitution and splendid courage, she survived the ordeal and will undoubtedly recover her health. Hardships such as she endured would have proved fatal to the ordinary woman, and she owes her life to her naturally strong physique.

The Gloucester fishing schooner Hazel Oneita, Captain William Malanson, was coming east from the Group banks with a cargo of fish, bound for Gloucester, and was about thirty miles east of Mount Desert rock when a dory was seen adrift and picked up. A woman was lying on the bottom of the little boat. At first she was supposed to be dead, but after administering stimulants and chafing her hands and feet she revived sufficiently to say that her name was Mrs. Carter; that she had started from Monroe's island, had broken an oar and after suffering intensely from cold, hunger and thirst had lapsed into unconsciousness.

She said she was Mrs. Carter, whose husband, John Carter, lives on Monroe's island, opposite Owl's Head. She recalled starting to row from Monroe's island some time last Sunday night to the mainland. One oar broke, and she had drifted in the darkness to the open sea, but whether through the easterly or westerly channel of the mussel ridges she could not determine.

The wind blew a gale, and she became terribly frightened. She waved an oar and shouted at what she supposed were boats passing, but they did not see her dory or heed her cries of distress.

JETT-WHITE TRIAL.

Kentucky Feud Case Continued, With No End In Sight.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Aug. 3.—The second trial of Curtis Jett and Thomas White for the murder of J. B. Marcum has been continued one week, and the prosecution is still calling witnesses. Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd has surprised all in securing the batch of persons from Breathitt county who, it was thought, never would testify against either of the defendants. Among the witnesses who fled to the mountains during the trial at Jackson was Henry Freeman, and he was held in confinement here several days until he agreed to testify. He was on the stand again for the third time and told how Jett and White came to his saloon for whisky on the night after Marcum was shot and talked freely about "the dog that had been killed." Freeman testified that while they were drinking White said, "I had to get ahead of him some way, and I did it the best way I could."

Mrs. Combs corroborated Mrs. Johnston in saying that Jett had told her that Mrs. Johnston asked him who killed her brother, and his reply was, "Yes, I killed your brother." There is no prediction as to when the trial will end, as the defense is now hunting up witnesses everywhere in Breathitt county.

Goodloe Combs, one of the witnesses for the prosecution in the case, has died here of appendicitis. He was one of the most expert rifle and pistol shots in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. He was sentenced for life for killing Mr. Rose at Clay City, but was pardoned after serving some years.

FUGITIVE CONVICTS.

Two Guardsmen Shot Dead at the Grand Victory Mine.

PLACERVILLE, Cal., Aug. 3.—The sheriff's posse, assisted by a force of the Placerville militia, came upon the fugitive convicts from Folsom prison near the Grand Victory mine, three miles from here, about dusk, and shots were at once exchanged. Two soldiers, Festus Rutherford and W. C. Jones, were shot dead by the desperadoes. Their bodies have been recovered where they fell. Jones had served in the Philippines as a member of the First Tennessee and the Thirty-seventh United States volunteer infantry. Gill, a third national guardsman, shot through one lung, is not expected to recover.

Another victim of the convict chase was Philip Spinger, a resident of this district. He is deaf and, failing to respond to an order to halt, was fatally shot by a picket.

A report received states that four convicts not believed to be the same who ambushed the officers were discovered near Lotus, in the Webber creek district, by a posse. A number of shots were exchanged, but so far as known without result.

The convicts made a successful retreat and are now believed to have taken refuge in the Grand Victory mine, and there is talk of setting fire to it and driving out the criminals. Additional forces are being hurried to the mine.

Canadian Troops at Plattsburg.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The governor general's foot guards, the Second Ottawa field battery and the Ottawa company of Canadian engineers, the three crack military organizations of the Canadian capital, under command of Lieutenant Colonel A. L. Jarvis, about 500 strong, are in camp here on a three days' visit. The city is decorated with both English and American flags, and a cordial welcome has been given to the Canadian soldiers.

Gambling Apparatus Captured.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Police detectives raided the saloon of Jeremiah M. Minehan, a member of the board of village trustees. They captured some gambling apparatus and placed Minehan under arrest.

NO POPE YET NAMED

Thousands at St. Peter's Wait For the Decision.

TREMENDOUS INTEREST IS EVINCED

Princes, Princesses and Archbishops, In Short, All Rome Talks of Nothing but La Sfumata, the Smoke of the Burning Ballots.

ROME, Aug. 3.—No successor to Leo XIII. has yet been chosen. From the smoke which issued from the little chimney on the Sistine chapel a vast multitude gathered around St. Peter's learned that the second day of the conclave had been fruitless. The conclusion is drawn that the strength of the leading candidate remains unbroken and that no compromise candidate has yet appeared. And there is no indication of how long this condition of affairs will continue. The prolongation of the contest has aroused tremendous public interest, if indeed it cannot be called excitement.

Every trace of that apathy which followed the death of the late pope has vanished, and instead there now exists a burning interest in everything pertaining to the election of his successor. This has culminated in the appearance of a great crowd which packed the great square of St. Peter's and presented a spectacle seldom seen even at the site of so many historic ceremonies. The impenetrable seclusion which shrouds those engaged in determining who shall be at the head of the Catholic church heightens the feverish curiosity of those who await their decision. Princes, princesses, archbishops, bishops, monsignors, priests, well to do business people—in short, people from every walk in life from that of nobleman to street beggar—talk of nothing but la sfumata (the smoke from the burning ballots). This is the loadstone which is drawing tens of thousands to the square of St. Peter's. There for hours, with strained eyes and craned necks, they wait in the hope of seeing a tiny little stream of smoke so insignificant that it is almost impossible to realize that a great issue is involved in its fleeting appearance.

The scene at St. Peter's is by far the most impressive that has occurred in Rome since the late pope became ill.

All roads, therefore, lead to the Vatican. Carriages and vehicles of every description rattle into the piazza of St. Peter's. The streets converging into St. Peter's became black with the thousands who entered the square with the ceaseless regularity of an incoming tide. From the barracks came large reenforcements of troops, who marched across the piazza and lined up at the foot of the steps of the basilica, leaving only small spaces between the companies in order to prevent a sudden rush to get inside St. Peter's to witness the new pope give his blessing to the Catholic world.

A strong force of cavalry was picketed near by in case of riot, and over 2,000 soldiers were posted in the square. But the troops make only an insignificant, thin, blue line compared with the vast multitude around them. It is estimated that 50,000 people occupy the vast amphitheater. From the steps of the basilica, which are black with those standing or sitting, across to the opposite side of the square there stretched far as the eye could see an undulating sea of humanity, with every face riveted on the Sistine chapel, waiting for the smoke of the ballots. Almost encircling this great audience rose the stately pillars of the colonnade, beneath which many rested and waited.

As the hand of the clock on St. Peter's approached the half hour a rumor that a selection had been made developed in the minds of many into a certainty, and each one momentarily expected some favored cardinal to be announced as the new pontiff. The crowd might almost have been one in some American city awaiting the result of a presidential election, but with this striking difference—no solitary sign had come as to how the vote had been going at the polls. Another quarter of an hour passed, and the anxiety grew more intense. Not a breath of air relieved the sultry heat of the evening, and scarcely a sound came from the vast multitude. Hundreds gathered below the window from which the new pontiff is to bestow his first blessing. Suddenly a sharp cry arose. "Ecco! Ecco!" Instantly the cry was taken up by 50,000 throats and grew and grew until the immense piazza fairly roared with "Ecco! Ecco! La sfumata!" Then silence fell like a spell, while the thousands watched from the tin smokestack of the Sistine chapel a tiny stream of light gray smoke curl lazily upward.

A great mass of provisions was introduced into the conclave through the wicket gate. Three hundred chickens went in, together with 500 freshly laid eggs, a quantity of ice, many liters of milk, which is assumed to mean ice cream; baskets, salads, crates of fruit, etc. All this enormous quantity of provisions was thoroughly examined before being allowed to pass through the wicket.

To a member of the noble guard who wished him success Cardinal Gotti merely replied, "Thank you, but I shall not be made pope."

Several attempts to establish communication with the conclave have been discovered in time, and there have been some suspicious lights waving in the cells of several of the cardinals which were interpreted as signals. These were immediately reported to the camerlingo by the marshal, and extra precautions were provided to prevent a repetition of the occurrence. Conventional signs for communication, codes, etc., have all failed up to the present time.

ADIEU TO IRELAND.

King Edward Issues Address to Irish People.

BRIGHTER DAY TO DAWN ON IRELAND

The Tokens of Loyalty and Affection Tendered Have Made an Enduring Impression Upon the Heart of the English Ruler.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 3.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert has reached here with King Edward and Queen Alexandra. The king immediately issued the following address:

"I desire on leaving Ireland to express to my Irish people how deeply I have been touched by the kindness and good will they have shown to the queen and myself. Our experience on previous visits had indeed prepared us for a traditional welcome of a warm hearted race, but our expectations have been exceeded. Wherever we have gone, in town or country, tokens of loyalty and affection proffered by every section of the community have made an enduring impression upon our hearts. For a country so attractive and a people so gifted we cherish the warmest regard, and it is therefore with supreme satisfaction that I have so often during our stay heard the hope expressed that a brighter day is dawning upon Ireland. I shall eagerly await the fulfillment of this hope. Its realization will, under divine Providence, depend largely upon the steady development of self reliance and co-operation, upon better and more practical education, upon the growth of industrial and commercial enterprise and upon that increase of mutual toleration and respect which the responsibility my Irish people now enjoy in the public administration of their local affairs is well fitted to teach. It is my earnest prayer that these and other means of national well being may multiply from year to year in Ireland and that the blessings of peace, contentment and prosperity may be abundantly vouchsafed to her."

Copies of the address will be posted today throughout Ireland.

In replying to an address presented to their majesties at Queenstown the king said that the queen and himself "looked forward to renewing in future years the happy experience of the present visit." This promise of another visit to Ireland has given the greatest satisfaction throughout the country, and the morning papers all pay tribute to the inestimable service which the king has rendered the realm by his tactful conduct.

The visit is commented on as a great success which will open up a new era of prosperity for Ireland, and the address issued by the king at Cowes is welcomed as a felicitous ending of a memorable journey. Even the Irish papers are enthusiastic, declaring if only the king will pay a yearly visit or send the Prince of Wales if he cannot come himself that Ireland's troubles will soon begin to disappear.

Before leaving Queenstown the king summoned Horace Plunkett, vice president of the department of agriculture and technical instruction for Ireland, aboard the royal yacht and complimented him on his work in Ireland's behalf and conferred the honor of knighthood and presented him with a knight commandership of the Victorian order, saying:

"I wish you to take it as a personal gift from myself."

The king further commanded the lord lieutenant of Ireland to announce that [illegible] had received from Lord [illegible] and Cecil Guinness $250, to be devoted to the Dublin hospitals as well as Protestant, in honor of the king's visit.

The majesties received a great reception on their arrival here. They remained aboard the royal yacht, where they were visited by the Prince of Wales.

Cowes is already very gay with people who have come for the week of yachting. Among those here are many prominent Americans. The American yachts include Mrs. Goelet's Nahma and the Margarita, under charter of Mr. James Henry Smith. King Edward's Britannia and Emperor William's Meteor, which are to race during the regatta, are both here.

The king will have a busy week. Entertainments, either aboard the royal yacht or ashore, have been planned for each day.

Death of "Calamity Jane."

DEADWOOD, S. D., Aug. 3. The noted female character, "Calamity Jane," who has been known on the western frontier since 1870, has died at Terry, eight miles from Deadwood. She requested that she be buried at Deadwood beside "Wild Bill" Hickok, who was murdered here in 1876. "Calamity Jane's" real name was Mrs. Jane Burke, and her last husband, much younger than she, is said to be in Denver. A married daughter is in North Dakota, but the woman refused to give her address and referred to an estrangement.

Seventh Drowning at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 3.—Gustav Dudley of Philadelphia, a cigar maker, was drowned while bathing in the surf here. He, with two companions, arrived in the morning, and they immediately went to the beach and donned bathing suits. All three were good swimmers. Dudley dared his companions to follow him out. They refused, and he had not gone far before he gave a cry and sank from view. The body washed ashore later. Death was due to a weak heart, a physician said. This is the seventh death in the water this season.

Samples and Discontinued Styles of Furniture.

Close upon the heels of our great July Furniture Sale comes another occasion of the biggest value giving in our history. This is an unlooked-for event made possible by certain trade conditions pertaining to the periodical Furniture Exposition of the West.

Exhibitors at the close of the Exposition prefer to sell their samples at a loss rather than ship them back to the factory—and our buyer (who has just returned), ever alive to your interests and ours, has secured at radical concessions the entire sample lines of several leading manufacturers.

THE SAMPLES are advance patterns of the newest styles for the coming season's selling.

THE DISCONTINUED STYLES are most desirable and portray patterns that have been carried in regular stock, the manufacture of which has been discontinued.

The grandest aggregation of fine Furniture ever seen anywhere, at prices beyond competition

WITH PALMA TROPHY

American Rifle Team Returns From Bisley Victorious.

DID NOT MISS THE TARGETS ONCE

Competing With Sharpshooters of Other Nations They Come Out on Top—Lord Roberts Sends Congratulations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. Bearing with them the Palma trophy which they had won at Bisley, the American rifle team returned to port as passengers by the Cunarder Lucania. Much elated they were, these men of straight shooting renown, and good reason they had for buoyancy, for it was in contest with the picked sharpshooters of other nations that they had triumphed.

At the head of the khaki clad riflemen was Colonel Leslie C. Bruce, who told with pride how the American team had scored 1,570 points out of a possible 1,800, the British team being second.

"Except for the wind, which was gusty and variable, the conditions were good," the colonel explained. "Just to illustrate how rifle team work has progressed in recent years I may say that the French team made a score that would have won the trophy fifteen years ago. It was the first match in which the English and American teams did not miss the targets once. Every one was in good physical condition, and I attribute the fine condition of our men to the fact that we took all our drinking water with us.

"After the teams had finished firing at the 800 yard target the British team was three points ahead. We were the first to fire at the 900 yard range, and the wind had become very tricky. I therefore held my men for six minutes while we studied conditions, for I was determined to take no chances. Sergeant Keough of the Sixth Massachusetts regiment, national guard, was the first to fire, and a cheer went up when it was seen he scored a bullseye. Five more bullseyes followed, and from that time on we forged ahead of every one.

"I understand a wealthy Englishman has offered the Norwegian team $7,500, the English team $1,500 and the colonial team $500 each to compete for the trophy at Sea Girt, N. J., next year. We used the Krag Jorgensen rifle, and the British used their regular service rifle. Each team used the representative rifle of its army."

Colonel Bruce showed two telegrams which had been sent prior to sailing from Liverpool. The first read:

"Colonel Bruce, United States Rifle Team:

"Have sent you wire from Lord Roberts. All wish you prosperous voyage.

"CHEYLESMORE."

"To Colonel Bruce, United States Rifle Team:

"I am very sorry I have come too late to see you and congratulate your team on their splendid success at Bisley.

"ROBERTS."

KING VISITS COTTON.

Tour of Cruiser Brooklyn Made by King Charles.

LISBON, Aug. 3. King Charles, in the uniform of an admiral; the Prince Royal Luiz Philippe, the young Prince Don Manuel and Premier Ribeiro have paid a visit to the American squadron. They were accompanied by the dignitaries of the royal palace and the officials of the ministry of marine. Every honor was accorded to the royal and state barges as they moved out of the Tagus, both the American and Portuguese men of war, which were gayly dressed for the occasion, firing salutes. As the barges neared the flagship Brooklyn the band aboard played the national anthem of Portugal.

The royal personages were received at the head of the ladder by Admiral Cotton, who was surrounded by his chief of staff, the commanders of the other ships and United States Minister Bryan. Files of sailors manned the gangway. The king and his entourage made a tour of the Brooklyn. The king made a complete examination of the equipment, guns and armor of the ship, his conversation on this subject with Admiral Cotton being very interesting and cordial. The visit ended after a luncheon at which champagne was served.

Three Drownings Near Stamford.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 3.—Three drownings have occurred in this vicinity within a few hours. Arthur Keefe, thirty years of age, unmarried, was drowned while bathing in the harbor. He was seized with cramps. Thomas J. Dinnan, eight years of age, son of Captain Dignan of the steamer Maid of Kent, while waiting for his father's boat to come into port last night fell into the water and was drowned. The fact that the boy had been drowned did not become known until later. Search for the body was immediately instituted, and it was found. John Farrarree, nine years old, was drowned in the Myannis river, near Greenwich. The boy had been in bathing and had probably been seized with cramps.

Powers on Trial For Goebel Murder.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Aug. 3.—The third trial of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers as accessory before the fact to the murder of Governor William Goebel was opened here today before Judge Robbins. All the other trials of Powers, Howard and Youtsey, who are now serving life sentences for conspiracy, were before Judge Cantrill of this circuit. Both sides claim to have much additional evidence, and it is thought the hearing will continue all this month. Powers has been convicted twice and sentenced for life both times. James Howard, who is charged with doing the shooting, also awaits a new trial.

There is a man in our town who has pessimistic views regarding the value of advertising. Let us call his attention to a certain cigar which is widely advertised. Go where he will that "ad" confronts him. The cigar is "rank," but it commands enormous sales. The advertising costs a barrel of money, but the barrel is well spent.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

The longest strike on record is not yet ended. The 2,800 men and boys employed in the Lord Penrhyn's slate quarries in Wales went out two and one-half years ago and the settlement of the strike is now a question in British politics.

There is a general lockout of the union workmen in Pittsburg. It will remain in force until a settlement of the dispute between the hoisting engineers and the contracting firm of A. & S. Wilson. It will affect no less than 20,000 workmen, all of whom ill remain idle until the disputes have been terminated.

"Pete," the oiler on the night gang at the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant, met with a painful accident Friday night. "Pete" was oiling the hanger pulleys, when the machine hand started the machine. The oiler's arm was nearly pulled from his body. It will be necessary to carry the arm in a sling for several weeks.

—Three brothers engaged in a rough and tumble fight on West Front street in front of Hill & Shupp's store Saturday night. A large crowd of people gathered and tried to separate the combatants. They were finally warned of the approach of an officer and they made their escape.

—Men worked for two hours Saturday afternoon at the Spooner avenue switch trying to replace the trolley sprinkler on the tracks. In trying to make the switch the front wheels left the rails and the weight of the water in the tanks caused the wheels to sink into the soft earth. The car had to be "jacked" up before it could be gotten back on the tracks.

—While at work, Thursday night, replacing the cable on East Fifth street, Howard Jackson, a lineman, was overcome by escaping gas in the connection main at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street. His fellow workmen cared for him and took him into the central telephone station where he was revived. He was able to go back to work in an hour.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The forfeited ball game on Saturday afternoon raised quite a kick among those who had money on Aeolians, for sometime. Stakeholders refused to pay over the bets, but the backers of the home team insisted on having their money and finally the losers decided to pay up. This is one of the unpleasant features of the game, the club does not encourage it and are opposed to having any money wagered on the grounds, but they are simply helpless. The sporting population will bet even if they have to do it by using the sign language. All teams have the same difficulty and many ways have been tried to put an end to it but they have been useless.

The several committees from the village Sunday-schools desire that all local residents who intend joining them on their annual excursion to Asbury Park tomorrow, buy their tickets at the Fanwood station. Members of the committee will be at the station in ample time so as to enable all to purchase tickets. This will do away with the annoyance of buying them at Westfield and the local schools will get the credit of the sales when the financial part of the excursion is settled.

"Lefty" Davis came near losing his own games on Saturday. Walt tries to cover all the ground possible. A hot infield hit in the third inning struck his hand and bounded out of the diamond before it could be fielded. The runner was safe on first base and before the side was retired scored Aeolians' first run. "Chick" would have got the ball at short and made a sure thing of it. This is what he is there for.

The large "Red Devil," owned by O. W. Bright, of New York, son-in-law of A. D. Shepard, of "The Gables," won the fifteen mile open and the one mile automobile races held last week at Long Island.

Rev. J. S. Braker, a former pastor of the local Baptist Church but now pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Lynn, Mass., occupied the pulpit of the Park Avenue Baptist Church, of Plainfield, Sunday morning.

Rev. C. C. Woodruff, formerly pastor of the Methodist Church but now located at Little Falls, this State, attended the Whitenack-Kandelky nuptials on Saturday and visited friends in town.

Weather permitting, the grand union excursion of the village Sunday-schools and the schools of Westfield, should be one of the most successful ones ever held by the two villages.

Considering the counter attractions in the way of games the attendance at Saturday's game was very good; nearly 800 people were lined about the field and in the grandstand.

The local ball team will try hard to take the second game of the series with Westfield, which is to be played on the local diamond on Saturday afternoon.

The membership committee of Fanwood Council, Royal Arcanum, will hold an important meeting at the home of Wm. E. Collins, on Tuesday evening.

William Archibold and family, of Westfield, were the guests of Mr. Archibold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Archibold, of Washington Valley.

Mrs. Hoyt, formerly of the village but now of Brooklyn, was the geust Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haberly, of Front street.

Andrew Riley, who has been visiting his afther, James Riley, of Washington Valley, has returned to his home in New York.

Miss Sadie Reger, who is spending her vacation at Succasanna, Morris County, was the guest, Saturday, of friends in town.

The postponed automobile case of the Township against Unger will be called again in Judge Clark's court this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Whitenack have been entertaining Mr. Whitenack's mother, Mrs. McCord, of Bound Brook.

Miss Minnie Guest led an interesting weekly meeting of the Epworth League at the Methodist Church Sunday night.

Miss Church led an interesting weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. held last night in the parlors of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Henry, of Plainfield, were the guest Sunday of Mrs. Henry's sister, Mrs. George A. Clark.

Wm. Bryan, of Brooklyn, who formerly covered first base for the locals, was the guest, Saturday, of friends in town.

METHODISTS AT LOS ANGELES

WESTERN CITY DECIDED UPON AS PLACE FOR CONFERENCE.

Seven Hundred and Fifty Delegates at Annual Meeting in California in 1904—Some Facts.

The next General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held at Los Angeles, California in 1904. The arrangements for the conference, in which there will be 750 members, making it the largest ecclesiastical body in the country, are in charge of seven commissioners selected by the book committee of the church, to which the entire matter was referred at the last conference. Hazard's pavilion, where the conference sessions are to be held, has a seating capacity of over 4,000 and is to be entirely remodelled and refitted for the use of the Methodists, at a cost of several thousand dollars. The local hotels, it was found, were also preparing to give the best possible service to the delegates and visitors and had already made contracts with the local committee for that purpose. The Chamber of Commerce guaranteed a contribution of $25,000 to aid in defraying the expenses of the gathering.

No Assessment.

Circulars issued to the members of the local lodges of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of New Jersey announce that there will be no beneciary assessment levied on the members during the month of August. The assessment is generally levied for the benefit of the General Beneficiary Fund.

DeWitt Is the Name.

When you go to buy Witch Hazel Salve look for the name DeWitt on every box. The pure, unadulterated Witch Hazel is used in making DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which is the best salve in the world for cuts, burns, bruises, boils, eczema and piles. The popularity of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, due to its many cures, has caused numerous worthless conterfeits to be placed on the market. The genuine bears the name of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

EMPRESS STOPS REFORM.

Death of Chien Has Made Chinese Officials Dumb.

PEKING, Aug. 3.—China is witnessing a return to the conditions which followed the coup d'etat of 1898. Political discussions among the Chinese, which increased during the imperial court's recent policy of friendliness toward foreigners, has suddenly stopped. The plan of the dowager empress to terrify the reformers by the execution of Shen Chien has been successful.

All the liberal Chinese, particularly those who have been associated with the reformers, are in the greatest fear of arrest, and it is difficult to find a Chinaman who is willing to mention politics or the tragedy of Chien's death, although the latter is almost the only topic of conversation among trusted friends. The officials are particularly dumb. The affair is disappointing to the foreigners, who had hoped that the empress dowager's association with the ladies of the legations would have a civilizing influence.

Prince Su, the most liberal of the Mantchoo princes, who in March last issued a proclamation against incense burning to military idols because it was the chief rite during the Boxer troubles, is reported to have risked his office by opposing the execution of Shen Chien.

Shen Chien was a native editor and reformer who incurred the anger of the empress dowager. The evidence at his trial was so weak that Chien probably would have been acquitted had he not boldly proclaimed his principles throughout and his willingness to die for them. The condemned man was beaten to death with bamboo canes.

ROOSEVELT INSULTED.

Wheelman Named McCann Uses Insulting Language.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Profane and abusive language was directed toward President Roosevelt and his family as they were driving up to Christ church here to attend the morning service. The offender was a resident of Oyster Bay named McCann. He was hustled away from the church unceremoniously by the secret service operatives.

Accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and two of her children, the president had driven to the village from Sagamore Hill to attend church service, as is their custom on Sunday mornings. Directly in front of Christ church the man McCann was walking along the roadside pushing a bicycle. As the president's carriage was about to turn into the driveway leading into the church grounds it passed McCann. Without provocation the man, with an offensive oath, demanded to know whether they wanted the whole road. This was followed by abusive and profane language. As the carriage stopped at the church door the president, greatly annoyed at the insult offered to Mrs. Roosevelt and the children, alighted and directed the attention of the secret service officers to the man and ordered that he be compelled to leave the vicinity of the church. McCann hesitated when ordered to move on, but as an officer was about to stimulate his movements he sprang on his wheel and rode away rapidly. While the incident was annoying to the president and his family, it is his desire that no action be taken against the man.

Big Jewel Robbery In Honolulu.

HONOLULU, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Samuel Parker has been robbed of $80,000 worth of jewelry, consisting chiefly of diamonds, rubies and solitaire studs. She wore the jewels at a reception held to signalize the opening of a new hotel. Several hours later the thief or thieves entered her home and stole many of the gems she had displayed. Mrs. Parker, who is the wife of Colonel Samuel Parker, one of the wealthiest men in Hawaii, was the widow of J. K. Campbell, who left her one-third of his $4,000,000 estate. She was married to Colonel Parker about a year and a half ago, and on the same day her eldest daughter was wedded to Prince David.

Russian Troops Fire on Strikers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 3.—There have been fresh collisions between the troops and strikers on the Transcaucasian railway near Tiflis, and the troops were ordered to fire upon the rioters, who were using revolvers, with the result that twenty-one workmen were killed. The removal of a rail by the strikers wrecked a Transcaucasian train. Twelve carriages were smashed and two people killed. It is asserted here that the Armenians are inciting the strikers.

Robbed Frogs to Make New Skin.

MARION, Ind., Aug. 3.—The surgeons of the Marion hospital are robbing the frogs of their skins and grafting them on the arm of Samuel Jones of Converse, who suffered an accident fifteen months ago. Jones was at Loogootee, Ind., where he attempted to board a moving train. He fell, and the car wheel pinched a large piece of skin and flesh from his arm. The victim suffered fifteen months. He was taken to the hospital and the work of grafting began.

Mother and Daughter Killed.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Henry McDermont and her daughter Nellie were caught on the girder bridge over the Oswegatchie river here and instantly killed by an incoming New York Central passenger train. They were walking across the bridge to the berry fields. The daughter was to have been married in a few days.

LIPTON AT NIAGARA.

Greeted by Members of the Canadian Yacht Club.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Sir Thomas Lipton has returned to New York after a bit of strenuous sightseeing, including a jolly reception by the members of the Royal Canadian Yacht club at Niagara-on-the-Lake. Accompanied by his party, Sir Thomas visited the falls and the Sister islands above them. Later he inspected the big electric power plant and then went for a trolley ride past the falls and down to Lewiston, where he boarded one of the Niagara Navigation company's steamers for Niagara-on-the-Lake, to which place the Canadian yachtsmen had brought their defender of the Canada's cup, the Strathcona.

Upon his arrival at the Queen's hotel at Niagara-on-the-Lake Sir Thomas was greeted by Commander Jarvis and the Canadian yachtsmen. After luncheon the yachtsmen drank a toast to Sir Thomas' health. In responding he said: "Our good friends the Americans have a wonderful boat in the Reliance, but we have a bit of a wonder too. I am glad to have this opportunity on British soil of testifying to the very many courtesies and kindnesses I have received from your good neighbors, the American people, and of stating that there are no better nor truer sportsmen the world over than your good friends across your frontier. If an error was ever made it would be in favor of the foreigners. For good sportsmen give me the American people. I hope to come to Toronto and bring that cup after the races."

A prominent sporting man at Wilkesbarre said to Sir Thomas, "I understand you have a set of green sails in the hold of Shamrock III. on this trip for use in case you win."

Sir Thomas laughed and in a confidential manner said: "Let that matter drop for the present. I shall not say that we have or have not a supply of green sails on hand. Wait and see."

Two Balloons Will Race.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—It is announced that on Carnival day at New York a balloon race for a prize of $5,000 and the championship of the world will be held between Leo Stevens, representing America, and Carlos La Strange, representing France. Leo Stevens has made more than 200 balloon ascensions and has more than once been near death in his undertakings. La Strange has devoted much time to the construction of flying machines and is said to be widely known in Europe as an aeronaut.

New York Puzzles Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 3.—The New York Nationals defeated the Providence Eastern league club at Rocky Point before 5,100 spectators. Taylor was a puzzle, and Miller pitched strongly for the last three innings. Errors by the Providence infield were costly. Score, New York, 17; Providence, 1.

Police Had to Protect Umpire.

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 3.—A Sunday baseball game here was marked by much rowdyism, and the police had to escort Umpire Cox from the grounds. Score, Shreveport, 7; Nashville, 7; nine innings.

TENNESSEE TRAIN WRECK.

Eight Killed In Head on Collision at Cumberland Falls.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 3.—Eight people have been killed in a head on collision between two double header freight trains near Cumberland Falls, on the Cincinnati Southern railroad.

The trains met while going at full speed, and it is understood that the dead are the four engineers and firemen who were on the engines.

It is one of the worst wrecks in the history of the railroad.

Railroad Officers at Wreck.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 3.—President David Willcox, Second Vice President and General Manager Abel I. Culver, Superintendent C. D. Hammond, Chief Engineer James MacMartin and several other officers of the Delaware and Hudson railroad left here by special train for the scene of the big freight wreck which occurred at Cooperville, where an engine and twelve freight cars, eight of them loaded with live stock, went through the drawbridge, instantly killing the fireman, William Braw of Whitehall. It is estimated that this wreck will cost the railroad from $75,000 to $100,000.

To Fortify Manchuria.

PEKING, Aug. 3.—Advices from Port Arthur say the Russian government as a result of the recommendations made by the recent conference there has appropriated $6,500,000 for additional fortifications, particularly for the protection of Dalny, and that when completed there will be a continuous line of fortifications from Port Arthur to Dalny, thirty-five miles along the coast. Two thousand soldiers from Moscow have arrived in Port Arthur, and 14,000 more are reported to be on their way there.

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

WHAT IS WORN.

Elaborate Linen Costumes—Collarless Gowns the Fad.

Ankle length linen costumes are trimmed with medallions and embroidery, but are otherwise made in severe tailor made.

Collarless gowns are the fad of the moment in demitollets. The high collar seems to have entirely given way except in cases where the neck is too thin to be shown.

Hats with high crowns are becoming more and more popular, and these are very smart for dressy occasions when made of white lace or black chip and trimmed with handsome ostrich feathers.

Sailor costumes of blue serge and white linen are the smart thing for seashore wear. They are made with habit back skirts laced after the fashion of a sailor's trousers.

A great deal of cluny lace is being used even on fine gowns, in which case it is embellished with silk embroidery or chiffon motifs.

The favorite material of the hour for practical use is the linon de soie. This is a new, soft make of linen, or a compromise between a linen and a canvas. It can be had in black and all sorts of charming light shades, sometimes plain and sometimes spotted. It is light and cool and possesses the enormous advantage of not being easily creased.

Some charming little coats in biscuit and black cloth have revers, collars and cuffs of very bright colored plaids, lined with gay hued silks. Many of the traveling wraps have plaid capuchins.

An elaborate sack coat of lace and white taffeta is shown in the illustration. It is worn over a gown of Irish lace.

SMART HEAD GEAR.

Very Wide, Flat Hats—Picture Hats. Dark Brims.

The very wide and flat hats are not by any means universally becoming. Worn in connection with the wide pelerines, they are apt to dwarf the figure.

Most of the toques and the ordinary models are of the wide, flat, improved sailor shape, simply trimmed with wreath of flowers. They have all the chic of elegant simplicity and suit piquant French face, but the real artist viewing them from the side and back will find the lines a trifle hard.

The picture hat is mostly of the shepherdess type, and this is very becoming to round, babyish faces, but absolutely at variance with hard, strongly marked features. There is little variety in this class of head gear unless we turn to the Gainsboroughs and Romney shapes at high prices.

There is always a certain amount of danger when pale colors are worn on the head, such as green, mauve, etc.; they may be beautiful in themselves, but they are trying even to pretty faces and good complexions. This is one reason why dark brims are so much seen.

The continued ubiquity of the bolero is one of the unexpected events of existence. There is conspicuously in evidence for summer frocks a pointed handkerchief shaped bolero, a rather close fitting affair about the shoulders, and very often privileged to tell its elegant story in lace.

The cut shows a tilted hat of white leghorn trimmed with yellow roses.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

That day the major wired to Omaha that he should be reinforced at once. One-half his little force, he said, was now mounted each day for guard, and the men couldn't stand it. The general, of course, was in the field, but his chief of staff remained at headquarters and was empowered to order troops from post to post within the limits of the department. Flint hoped two more companies could come at once, and he did not care what post was denuded in his favor. His, he said, was close to the Indian lands—separated from them, in fact, only by a narrow and fordable river. The Indians were all on the warpath, and, aware of his puny numbers, might be tempted at any moment to quit the mountains and concentrate on him.

And so another restless day went by and no more news came from either front or rear—from the range to the north or Rock Springs at the south, and Flint was just formulating another fervid appeal to that impassive functionary, the adjutant general at Omaha, when toward evening word came whistling down the line in the person of Master Sanford Ray, that two couriers were in sight "scooting" in from Moccasin Ridge, and Flint and fully half the soldier strength of Fort Frayne gathered on the northward bluff like the "wan burghers" of ancient Rome, to watch and speed their coming. Who could tell what the day might yet bring forth?

It was well-nigh dark before the foremost reached the ford—a scout in worn and tawdry buckskin, wearied and impassive. He gave his dispatch to the care of the first officer to accost him, and took the way to the store, briefly saying in reply to questions, that he was "too dry to speak the truth." So they flocked, at respectful distance, about the major as he read the hurried lines. The general bade the post commander wire the entire message to Washington, and to "take all precautions for the protection of the few settlers about him. The columns under Col. Henry and Maj. Webb had united near the head waters of the Clear Fork of the Powder; had had a rattling running fight with Lame Wolf's people; had driven them into the mountains and were following hot on the trail, but that Stabber's band and certain disaffected Sioux had cut loose from the main body and gone south. Whistling Elk, a young chief of much ambition, had quarreled with certain of the Red Cloud element, and joined Stabber, with his entire band. Look out for them and watch for signals any day or night from Eagle Butte."

Flint read with sinking heart. Indian fighting was something far too scientific for his martial education, and too much for his skeleton command. In the gathering dusk his face looked white and drawn, and old Wilkins, breasting his way up the slope, puffed hard, as he begged for news. There was still another dispatch, however, which was evidently adding to the major's perturbation, for it concerned him personally and for the moment Wilkins went unheard.

The general desires that you send the couriers back within 24 hours of their arrival, after you have had time to scout the line of the Platte say 20 miles each way, giving full report of every Indian seen or heard of. He enjoins vigilance and hopes to keep the Sioux so busy that they can send no more in your direction. Should they do so, however, he will pursue at once. He trusts that you are doing everything possible to comfort and reassure Mrs. Hay, and that you can send good news of Lieut. Field.

"He is simply fretting his heart out here," were the doctor's words to him but a short time before, "and, while unable to mount a horse, he is quite strong enough now to take the trip by ambulance, slowly, that is, to Rock Springs. I fear his father is failing. I fear Field will fail if not allowed to go. I recommend a seven days' leave, with permission to apply to Omaha for 30—he'll probably need it."

"I can't permit government teams and ambulances to be used for any such purpose," said the major, stoutly. "It is distinctly against orders."

"Then, sir, he can go in my spring wagon and we'll hire mules from Mrs. Hay," was the doctor's prompt reply. "He can do no good here, major. He may do much good there."

But Flint was full of information and official zeal. The matter of Field's going had been broached before, and, when told of it, the Wilkins pair had been prompt with their protests. "Of course he'd be wantin' to get away," said Wilkins, "wid all that money to account for, let alone these other things." The Irishman was hot against the young West Pointer, who had derided him. He doubtless believed his own words. He never dreamed how sorely the lad now longed to see his father—how deep was his anxiety on his father's account—how filled with apprehension on his own, for that rifled desk had brought him reason for the most painful thought. Wilkins and Field had been antagonistic from the start. Neither could see good in the other, and, egged on by his worthy spouse's exhortations, the quartermaster had seized the opportunity to fill the post commander's too receptive mind with all his own suspicions—and this at a crucial time.

"I can't listen to Dr. Waller," said the major, sternly. "Here's a matter of near $1,000 that young man has got to answer for the moment he is well enough to stir. And if he can't account for it—you well know what my duty will demand."

CHAPTER XIX.

The columns of Col. Henry and Maj. Webb, as said "the chief," had united, and here were two men who could be counted on to push the pursuit "for all they were worth." Hitherto, acting in the open country and free from encumbrance, the Indians had been hard to reach. Now they were being driven into their fastnesses among the mountains toward the distant shelter whither their few wounded had been conveyed, and where the old men, the women and children were in hiding. Now it meant that, unless the troops could be confronted and thrown back another transfer of teepees and travois, ponies and dogs, wounded and aged would have to be be made. Lame Wolf had thought his people safe behind the walls of the Big Horn, and the shifting screen of warriors along the foothills, but the blue skirmish lines pushed steadily on into the fringing pines driving the feathered braves from ridge to ridge, and Lame Wolf had sense enough to see that here were leaders that "meant business," and would not be held. Henry had ten veteran troops at his back when he united with Webb, who led his own and the Beecher squadron, making 18 companies, or troops, of horse, with their pack mules, all out at the front, while the wagon train and ambulances were thoroughly guarded by a big battalion of sturdy infantry, nearly all of them good marksmen against whose spiteful Springfields the warriors made only one essay in force, and that was more than enough. The bluecoats emptied many an Indian saddle and strewed the prairie with ponies, and sent Whistling Elk and his people to the right about in sore dismay, and then it dawned on Lame Wolf that he must now either mislead the cavalry leader, throw him off the track, as it were, or move the villages, wounded, prisoners and all, across the Big Horn river where hereditary foemen, Shoshone and Absaraka would surely welcome them red-handed.

It was at this stage of the game he had his final split with Stabber. Stabber was shrewd, and saw unerringly that with other columns out, from Custer on the Little Horn and Washakie on the Wind river—with reinforcements coming from north and south, the surrounding of the Sioux in arms would be but a matter of time. He had done much to get Lame Wolf into the scrape and now was urging hateful measures as, unless they were prepared for further and heavier losses, the one way out, and that was—surrender.

Now, this is almost the last thing the Indian will do. Not from fear of consequences at the hands of his captors, for he well knows that physically, he is infinitely better off when being coddled by Uncle Sam than when fighting in the field. It is simply the loss of prestige among his fellow red men that he hates and dreads. Therefore, nothing short of starvation or probable annihilation prompts him, as a rule, to yield himself a prisoner.

And this was the situation when the general's first dispatches were sent in to Frayne—this the last news to reach the garrison from the distant front for five long days, and then one morning, when the snow was sifting softly down, there came tidings that thrilled the little community heart and soul—tidings that were heard with mingled tears and prayers and rejoicings, and that led to many a visit of congratulation to Mrs. Hay, who, poor woman, dare not say at the moment that she had known it all as much as 24 hours earlier, despite the fact that Pete and Crapaud were banished from the roll of her auxili-

M. PAUL DESCHANEL.

Clever French Politician Who Wants to Succeed M. Loubet as President of the Republic.

It is rather difficult to think of an American politician with whom to compare Paul Deschanel, the brilliant ex-speaker of the chamber of deputies, who is now working his way to the presidency of the French republic. Mr. Deschanel still is a member of the chamber. "In America Deschanel would be described as a "smooth article." Naturally, a man of uncommon gifts and simple huge ambitions, he "gets on" by being agreeable to every one—high and low alike. He is on especially good terms with the czar of Russia, so much so, in fact, that when the czar visited France Deschanel was appointed by the president to represent the chamber of deputies at the reception. When the young diplomat went to Constantinople, he made a point of calling upon Abdul Hamid, and in Paris they say jokingly that if ever he goes to Rome, "Paul" will kiss the pope's slipper. Deschanel, who is well to do, also keeps his fellow deputies well disposed to him by innumerable little grateful acts—such as the unexpected bestowal of a brace of plump pheasants from his preserves at times when game is dear in Paris. Deschanel's marriage to a woman of wealth and social position has helped him materially. He means to be president some day, and seems likely to achieve his ambition. He is the youngest man who ever was president of the French congress, with one distinguished exception—Gambetta. Incidentally, Deschanel is admittedly the best dressed man in the "chamber."

M. PAUL DESCHANEL.
(French Politician Who Has Been Stung by Presidential Bee.)

MISS FLOY GILMORE.

Bright Indiana Girl Gets Position as Assistant Attorney General for the Philippines.

Miss Floy V. Gilmore is the new assistant attorney general for the government in the Philippine islands. She is the first woman ever appointed to such an important position. Miss Gilmore is the daughter of A. M. Gilmore, of Elwood, Ind., and is 24 years old. She was graduated from the law school of the University of Michigan, and was admitted to practice at the Indiana bar two years ago.

Miss Gilmore owes her distinction entirely to her ability and ambition. She was clerk and secretary to E. Finley Johnson when he was professor of law at the University of Michigan.

MISS FLOY GILMORE.
(Recently Appointed Assistant Attorney General for the Philippines.)

While thus employed she devoted her spare time to the study of law, and was eventually rewarded with a diploma. Prof. Johnson was appointed a judge in the Philippines in 1901, when the judiciary was first established there, and Miss Gilmore went with him. She took the civil service examination and was appointed a stenographer in the office of the attorney general.

Her marked legal ability attracted the attention of Gov. Taft, who appointed her assistant attorney general. The appointment was unanimously confirmed by the Philippine commission and by the war department. Miss Gilmore's salary as stenographer was $1,400 a year, which is doubled under her new position. Army officers from the Philippines say that Miss Gilmore is pretty.

Rats Are Miners' Friends.

An explosion in a Michigan iron mine killed all the rats, and the miners refused to return to work until a fresh supply of rodents was obtained. Rats are regarded as a necessity in these mines, and are known as the miners' friends. They act as scavengers, and give warning of impending danger, thus saving miners' lives. When the rats leave a mine the miners refuse to stay any longer.

ALIS TEAM SHUT OUT BY WESTFIELD NINE

locals only finding him for a few scattering hits and were unable to score until the seventh.

Pandemonuim reigned as the score was sure to be tied with a man on third and another on first. Davis stole second base on the first ball thrown. Bolsterli placed a sacrifice hit to short stop, who threw him out at first, thinking to double Allen at plate. The play was fast, but Allen went under Poole and was safe by a foot, Davis had reached third and the game was practically won as there was only one out. Capt. Poole made a protest against the decision, claiming he touched the man. Failing in this he said the runner did not touch home plate. This would not go so he put up the plea that he ran out of base line. The umpire ordered him to play ball but he refused so the game was given to the home team by the usual score of 9 to 0. WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Asbury's Sunday Trains.

No Sunday trains will stop at Ocean Grove as long as "Uncle Rufus" Blodgett lives. At least that is the declaration he is said to have made yesterday, and in explanation thereof he cited an agreement between himself and the late President Stokes, of the Ocean Grove Association, to that effect. Asbury Park may as well begin to fence in the place, as it is stated the old Bradley rules governing the beach front are to be enforced, and that, with no Sunday trains, will prevent the booming of the Park that was contemplated when the city secured control of the Bradley preserves.—Camden Courier.

Sea Girt—Not America.

The State rifle range at Sea Girt is certainly claiming and receiving wide attention and is becoming the most famous in the Union, if it is not already so. Last year President Roosevelt visited the range and the State camp. This year the Secretary of War pays it a visit, and at its targets the United States regulars practice rifle shooting because it is the best and most convenient range for the purpose. At the New Jersey rifle range teams from all States compete for trophies of high value, and at the Sea Girt butts the men were qualified who won the Palma trophy at the recent international contest in England. When the Englishmen learned that the trophy was to come to this country they said: "Well, we'll have to go over to Sea Girt and bring it back again." Mark you, they did not say "over to America," but "over to Sea Girt," showing that the name and fame of this rifle range had crossed the ocean.

Secretary Root paid a neat and deserved compliment to the Sea Girt range and to this State when he said that so long as the regular army men, sailors and National Guardsmen stood shoulder to shoulder, as he had seen them doing on the rifle range, the nation need have no fear of anything but peaceful conditions. It is to the credit of the State militia that in field tactics and at the targets they have shown the soldierly qualities and the skill of the United States regulars. Better proof of utility of the Sea Girt range and camp could not be desired.—Newark Evening News.

TWO CORNERSTONES LAID

ONE STONE PLACED IN POSITION WITHOUT CEREMONY.

Articles Contained in Core of Which no Public Announcement Has Been Made.

The big crowd which witnessed the laying of the cornerstone of the new Court House building at Elizabeth with elaborate Masonic ceremony knew that it was the second one laid in the building, and if the building lasts a couple of centuries those who demolish it will be puzzled by the presence of two stones. The first stone was laid without ostentation and only a few knew it was put in.

Some time ago, when the cornerstone arrived, it was not accepted by the authorities, so a new one was ordered. The old one was trimmed down and used and it is upon it that the one laid Thursday is imposed. The cavity was in the stone, and it was determined to utilize it, and this was filled with things which will be of more interest a hundred or more years from now than was the official stone.

Among the articles put in this stone is a court summons dated in 1796, which was found in the old Court House; a key, apparently of Colonial times, and said to be the key to the old-time dungeons; an old worn-out razor, said to have been used in the jail by prisoners for many years; papers of today, including one published at Manila; a baseball score card for a game to be played on the day the stone was laid, but which was postponed; some photographs, the signatures of all the men employed on that day on the erection of the building, some coins and postage stamps, and a cigar which cost a quarter, which was bottled up and labeled as being for the man who "opens this stone in the fiftieth century." All these were sealed in a heavy tin box made to fit the hole in the stone.

Joseph Green, a blacksmith, was given forty days in jail, this morning, by City Judge Runyon for throwing stones at a trolley car and for disorderly conduct.

Weddings in Holland.

In Holland the wedding party enters the church two and two, the procession being headed by the bride and bridegroom. Forms are arranged in a semicircle around the pulpit and there the young people with their friends and relatives seat themselves. The ceremony consists of the reading of a portion of Scripture and a long admonition to the bride and bridegroom, delivered extempore by the black-gowned minister. The prayers are sat through like the rest of the service, for it is against Calvinistic custom to kneel to pray. At the close of the service Bibles are presented to the young couple and to certain of their relatives. Then the marriage is registered. This free distribution of Bibles, which is made by the state, accounts for the very small sale there is for the Holy Scriptures in Holland.—Chicago Daily News.

Strange Zigzag of a Bullet.

According to a story from Leipzig, the surgeons at a hospital there have been treating a young man who was brought to them with a bullet in his heart. The bullet caused no bleeding and did not injure the heart in a vital part, for after 12 hours the patient recovered and remained well for three weeks. Then dangerous symptoms appeared, and an examination with Roentgen rays showed that the bullet was being tossed about inside the heart "like a ball bouncing off the sides of a room." After six months the bullet became imbedded firmly in the flesh of the heart, and once settled in an immovable position the patient's condition rapidly improved. The young man left the hospital, and the doctor's believe that the bullet in his heart will give him no further trouble.—London Mail.

He Wanted a Receipt.

A mighty hunter from Boston recently "put up" at a quaint little Maine hostelry, and left word in the office that he wished to be called at 4:30 in the morning. Sharp at that time the next morning came a thundering rap at his door.

"All right! I'll be down in a minute!" called a muffled voice from under the quilts.

"You get up here now and sign this receipt!"

"Receipt! What receipt?" demanded a very wide-awake voice, and the bed squeaked loudly.

"Wal," grunted Uncle Cy, "I don't calkerlate to have ye jumping down to the office at eight o'clock, declaring that ye ain't been called."—Lewiston Journal.

Novel Charity Event.

A lady in Buda-Pesth recently gave a charitable luncheon party to the poor of her district. She placed no limit on the number of invitations, and the result was that 2,000 people arrived, all eager for the treat. Eventually the police had to draw their sabers to keep order among the revelers. There were no two opinions about the success of the function. The guests to a man declared that they had never assisted at so immense and exciting a luncheon before in their lives. They were quite cut up when the time came to go.—London Mail.

CUPID'S SLY TRICKS.

They Bring Joy and Happiness to Many Loving Hearts.

Love Romances in Various Walks of Real Life Are Marked by Facts That Seem Stranger Than Ordinary Fiction.

Cupid certainly works in a most mysterious way his wonders to perform and in the affairs of a young mechanic, named Dwyer, who works in the municipal lighting plant in Detroit, his messenger was a pair of greasy overalls. Dwyer wished to demonstrate to a friend the powerful draft of the big chimney. So he put a pair of old greasy overalls in the door at the bottom of the tall stack. The trousers, so strong is the draft, gracefully sailed up the chimney and out at the top.

Ordinarily the story should have ended here, but in this case it doesn't. It's an old saying "that what goes up must come down," and it was the coming down of the well lubricated overalls that makes this o'er true tale. For in descending the overalls had the extreme bad taste to come down plump on a neatly dressed young woman who was taking an afternoon stroll a block or two away, blissfully unconscious of any draft testing experiments. It is not nice to be struck squarely by a pair of dilapidated overalls and it does not at all improve the appearance of a tailor made walking suit.

The young woman was righteously indignant and she made inquiries as to where the suddenly bestowed came from. Some boys playing in the street had seen the flight of the overalls and told the young woman their origin. She lodged complaint at the power house and the young mechanic who had made the draft test was summoned to make the amende honorable.

How well he succeeded was demonstrated the other day when he was married to the young woman whom he met under such novel circumstances.

Cupid seems to have no racial prejudices. The latest proof he has given of this was the bringing together as man and wife a Chinaman and a German girl. The groom was Charley Tang and the bride was Miss Dora Wenholz, both of Newark, N. J. Tang conducts a laundry and tea store in Newark, where he is superintendent of the Chinese department of the Centenary Methodist Sunday school. Miss Wenholz was a pretty girl, 22 years old, who, up to the time of her wedding, was studying for a trained nurse in a Brooklyn hospital. Miss Wenholz met Tang at the home of a schoolgirl chum, who is also wedded to a Chinaman. It was a case of love at first sight, but the wedding was postponed several times on account of the objections of the bride's parents. Finally Miss Wenholz decided that it was she who was to marry a Chinaman and not her parents, and that the question really concerned her and not them, so the other night there was a quiet little wedding in a pretty little home in Newark, and now Mr. and Mrs. Tang are receiving the congratulations of their friends.

The much discussed question anent long and short engagements was settled by two young people in Louisville in favor of the latter. Miss Elizabeth Pohlmann met Ferdinand de la Gasse one evening and the next day they were married. M. de la Gasse is a Parisian, the descendant of a noble race. He is an educated, much traveled man who went to Alaska several years ago in search of a fortune and found one. He came down to the United States to live and settled in Minneapolis. A few months ago he happened to pick up a matrimonial paper and saw an advertisement signed by Miss Pohlmann. M. de la Gasse wrote to the Louisville girl, and after awhile they exchanged photographs. The Frenchman was so struck by Miss Pohlmann's counterfeit presentment that he at once hurried to Louisville and went immediately to the young woman's house. Miss Pohlmann herself answered his knock and the two met for the first time. It was love at first sight, and the next day the marriage was celebrated, and the two, after a wedding trip, will begin married life in one of the most beautiful homes in Minneapolis.

The Latest Dyspepsia Fad.

The latest fad in the way of a cure for dyspepsia is bread made of sea water, instead of fresh water. A Philadelphia baker makes a specialty of this bread, and the dyspeptics who use it declare that it aids them. The baker gets his sea water from Atlantic City.

JUSTICE DISMISSES AUTO SPEEDING CASE

Fanwood Township's Action Against Herman Unger, of Newark, Ended.

BEFORE JUSTICE CLARK

ASSEMBLYMAN SWACKHAMER'S FIGHT FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Judge William A. Coddington Appeared for the Defense—Technical Questions—The Findings.

Justice Joseph Clark at Scotch Plains yesterday afternoon dismissed the case of the Township of Fanwood against Herman Unger, a wealthy merchant of Newark, charged with violating the new automobile speed ordinance last October, on the grounds that the charges against the defendant were not drawn according to the requirements of the law. The action of Justice Clark settles a case which has been before the people for nearly two years.

The court was called at 2 o'clock in the theatre-fire engine house on one of the side streets. Backed up on the rear was a row of windows where red, white and blue evidences of washday could be seen through the dusty panes, the sedate justice sat. The wind, caused a pair of red flannel underdrawers hanging on the line in a neighboring yard to slap against the windows in perfect time to the impatient breaths of the justice as he waited for the time to arrive when he could call the court. The witnesses, court attendants, scribes and others hung their hats on the hook and ladder truck stationed in the village theatre while small boys stood about or sought places of comfort on the hand fire engine and hose reel. A stray dog now and then would enter the court room, sniff about and slink out again when some small boy would suddenly move his foot.

William A. Coddington, counsel for the defendant, moved for a dismissal of the case as soon as court opened on grounds set forth in writing. As a member of the firm of Reed & Coddington he challenged the jurisdiction of the court and objected because the complaint was not specified enough, that the "justice did not make a special note in his docket of the day, month and year of the complaint," therefore the proceedings were lacking in legal requirements. Another ground was because the case had been dismissed in that court without notifying said defendant for a period of almost one year since the proceedings were instituted.

S. S. Swackhamer, of the law firm of Codington & Swackhamer, represented the Township in the matter. Mr. Swackhamer made a good fight for the case. He offered to show the justice by witnesses present that the defendant was operating his automobile faster than seven miles an hour and that he was violating the law. The case had been dismissed, however, and the defendant walked out of the concert hall, fire headquarters, and village court house to where his waiting auto stood puffing and trembling as if it was almost ready to shy at the fluttering underclothes of various hues on the line near by.

The case has been watched by automobilits for some time. It has been in the supreme court where the rights of the Township to make such ordinances as were made in Fanwood Township. The Township was sustained in that and it was then brought back to the justice's court, ending in a dismissal yesterday.

COUNTERFEIT COIN.

Spurious Ten Cent Piece in Circulation in This City.

Spurious money has been circulated in this city during the past few days. A sample of the ten cent denomination was received at this office and it appears to be the work of amateurs.

The dime is brass, silver plated. The imitation on its face is a fairly good one but is betrayed on close scrutiny by poor lettering and uneven milling on the edge. It has a smooth greasy feeling. The word "of" in the phrase, "United States of America" is poorly made and the "f" resembles a "p." The coin is dated "1902" and is lighter than the genuine dime.

LIVED THE LIFE OF A HERMIT

FUNERAL OF MATTHIAS EADER, OF DUNELLEN, WHO WAS A RECLUSE.

Found Dead in His Hut at Peapack—His Funeral Held in Plainfield.

Matthias Eader, a former resident of Dunellen and a brother of Mrs. Catherine Maier, of that place, was found dead in a hut at Peapack, N. J., Saturday and the remains were interred in St. Mary's Cemetery here yesterday. Eader had wandered away from Dunellen three years ago and no clue was obtained as to his whereabouts until the announcement of his death.

He had lived the life of a hermit during these years and people of that locality knew practically nothing about him. On Saturday some Peapack people thinking something was wrong broke into the hut and found him lying on the floor dead. A paper in the pocket of his coat disclosed his identity and Mrs. Maier was at once notified. The remains were brought to Dunellen yesterday and at once interred in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery in this city. The dead man was fifty-seven years of age and at one time was a wealthy contractor.

MISCELLANEOUS WORK OF COMMON COUNCIL

Committee Appointed to Seek Light on Telepone Systems in Use.

STREET IMPROVEMENT

BIDS TO BE OPENED AT A SPECIAL MEETING CALLED.

More Electric Lights Wanted—Contract Awarded for Police Department Barn—The Routine Business.

For the purpose of acquainting themselves more fully with other telephone systems beside that of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, the Common Council, at its regular August meeting, last evening, voted to have a committee from that body inspect the workings of other systems and report its investigations with a view to granting another franchise in this city. The committee is to report at its own convenience. This action was taken in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Daniel, chairman of the finance committee. The resoluton included in that committee President Buckle, W. S. Tyler, chairman of the license committee, and R. I. Tolles, chairman of the streets and sewers committee.

Mr. Randolph, chairman of the police board, reported that the bids advertised for the erection of a brick barn to be located back of police headquarers, had been received and that the bid of Titus H. Laury, $599 being the lowest, he moved that the contract be awarded to him, after the contract is approved by the Corporation Counsel. E. V. French is the architect.

Mr. Randolph also presented the lease for the property occupied as police headquarters and the ground back of it upon which a brick barn will be erected for the care and keeping of the police patrol wagon and horse. The lease was approved by Corporation Counsel Marsh and in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Randolph, the lease is to be accepted by the city after it is signed by the owners of the property, J. B. Coward and J. W. Murray. This gives the city complete use of the property used as police headquarters and the right to remove the cells, barn and all furnishings owned by the city, whenever it is desired.

Mr. Pray offered a resolution to the effect that the city clerk give notice in the official newspapers that the Council will meet on Tuesday evening, August 24, for the purpose of receiving bids for the macadamizing certain streets in the city. The streets so designated are these:

Woodland avenue from East Seventh street to Watchung avenue; East Seventh street from Richmond street to Belvidere avenue; East Third street and Midway avenue from Richmond street to Berckman street; Berckman street from East Front street to South avenue; Prospect avenue from Park avenue to Woodland avenue; West Seventh street from the Middlesex County line to the end of macadam; West Fifth street from Grant avenue to Monroe avenue; South Second street from Plainfield avenue to Muhlenberg place; Albert street from West Front street to Dunellen avenue; Dunellen avenue from Clinton avenue to Compton avenue; Rock avenue from Middlesex County line to end of macadam-Darrow avenue from West Fourth street to West Seventh street; North avenue from Richmond street to Berckman street.

A petition was received from the Manganese Steel Safe Works and other residents west of Clinton avenue, asking for a dozen additional electric lights in that section of the city. This was referred to the lights and trees committee. The Council received a lengthy petition from a large number of residents asking that $300 be appropriated for a series of band concerts. The matter was referred to the finance committee, but it is understood that the question was recently debated in a committee meeting and that it was decided upon adversely.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-two permits were granted during July and Street Commissioner Gavett reported that during June and July forty-one sewer permits were granted. The resignation of James E. Totten, as a patrolman, was received and accepted.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Daniel, $1,000 was transferred from the general to the fire fund and $800 from the general to the poor fund.

Mr. Lee reported back the petition received from the Plainfield Produce Company, asking for permission to erect an awning in front of its place of business in North avenue, and moved that the same be granted. He reported adversely on the request for permission to erect an iron railing at the same place. The resolution was adopted and the work is to be done under the supervision of the committee on fire and buildings. Another resolution offered by Mr. Lee and adopted provided for the location of a fire hydrant at the end of the present water main at the corner of West Seventh street and Clinton avenue.

Mr. Murphy reported back the petitions of E. W. Brokaw for lights on Columbia avenue, between Leland avenue and Frederick street and that of Mrs. Elizabeth Apgar for lights on DeKalb avenue and on his motion the lights were granted.

Mr. Murphy also reported on the matter of poor electric wire insulation about the city, especially in the city park. He stated that the electric light company had remedied the existing trouble.

A resolution offered by Mr. Daniel and which was adopted, provided that insurance be effected for one year on all property held under the Martin Act. The Council then adjourned to Tuesday evening, August 18, when the books of the tax collector will be examined.

Rome, August 4—Cardinal Giuseppi Sarto, Patriarch of Venice, was chosen Pope by the Sacred College of the Roman Catholic Church in conclave today on the seventh ballot.

Giuseppe Sarto, long known as a patriot and a liberal, consistently opposed Leo's policy of enmity toward the King of Italy and is now expected to establish a modus vivendi with the Italian government, the principal members of which are his personal friends.

WILLIAMS RECOVERING.

Washingtonville Man Slowly Improving From Experience During Thursday's Storm.

George Williams, of Washingtonville, who is manager of the general store owned by Freeholder William Demler, is gradually recovering from an electric shock sustained at New Market during the thunder shower Thursday.

He drove to New Market on that day and transacted some business in a grocery store there. He put a rubber blanket over his horse and went inside. A sudden flash of lightning followed by a terrific crash of thunder frightened the horse and the next instant the horse was thrown down and lay stunned for a minute. Miss Williams, who was in the carriage, was also stunned. Williams, who had reached the horses' head was knocked unconscious and an hour elapsed before he could be aroused.

POLITICAL CALENDAR FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

Work Commences Earlier on Account of New Primary Election Law.

COUNTY BOARD MEETING

HOUSE TO HOUSE CANVAS TO SECURE THE VOTERS.

Election on Constitutional Amendments Falls on September 22—Days of Registry for Each Campaign.

Contrary to the usual custom, the political campaign will open earlier this year than generally and this is due to the new primary law. The work of preparation begins with the meeting of the county board of election today at Elizabeth, for organization and confirming of the selection of the district boards. During this month the Secretary of State notifies the clerk of each county of such officers as are to be elected at the coming election, and the county clerk within fifteen days of that time must deliver a certified copy of the notice to each township and municipal club in the county.

The political calendar for September is as follows:

September 1—House to house canvass begins in election districts outside of cities having over 30,000 inhabitants.

September 8 — First meeting of registry boards in cities having over 30,000 inhabitants and on same day will be held in the polling places the primary election, under the law, from 1 till 9 p. m.

September 15 — Second day of registry in cities.

September 19—County board of election meets.

September 22—Election on the constitutional amendments.

MR. M'CULLOUGH THERE.

Boroughite a Delegate to Session of the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

Richard H. McCullough, of North Plainfield, is a delegate in attendance at the American Federation of Catholic Societies' annual session in Atlantic City. He is an active worker and contributor to St. Joseph's parish. This society represents 1,500,000 persons.

"The America Federation of Catholic Societies, so far as possible, is endeavoring to create a Catholic public opinion in the United States on all leading questions, and is anxious to impress on the minds of the Catholic people of America the necessity of conforming to the mastering of the economical ideas of his late holiness, Pope Leo XIII."

Changes in Board.

C. Addison Swift and Robert H. McAdams have received their commissions from Governor Murphy as members of the Union County Board of Elections. Mr. Swift, the Republican member, succeeds William O. Carr, and Mr. McAdams takes the place formerly occupied by Mayor P. J. Ryan. The Board will meet for organization next Tuesday. Mayor Ryan was the president of the old Board. The Board is evenly divided, and the honor of the presidency has previously gone to the oldest member. Should this precedent be followed, the honor will probably again go to a Democrat, John L. Crowell, of Rahway. John W. Murray, of this city, is the other Republican member of the Board.

"Knocking" Swackhamer.

The witty Samuel S. Swackhamer, Assemblyman from Somerset, is budding out as a farmer's picnic orator, and is billed to address four such meetings next month. Is it possible that Swack is booming himself, and, with lightning rod up, expects that Gubernatorial lightning to strike him in the Democratic State Convention next year? Of course, Senator Childs will have something to say about it, and he may think that if Somerset should be drawn on for the nominee he would better fill the call than Swackhamer. But Mr. Smith is working out the problem to suit himself, and it is not likely that Somerset County will be in his mind.—Camden Courier.

Firemen's Outing.

Delegates will be elected to the Firemen's Relief Association meeting at Atlantic City at a meeting of the North Plainfield fire department on Monday evening, August 10. Chief J. J. Stahl, of the borough fire department, will attend.

BAD BOY VANNEST UP TO OLD TRICKS

Rifles Pockets of J. Newton Apgar and Secures Small Sum.

A YOUTHFUL SCAMP

HAS BEEN ARRESTED THREE TIMES IN TWELVE MONTHS.

To be Placed in Charge of the Probation Officer—Terror in the West End—His Past Record.

Plainfield's bad boy, little Arthur VanNest, was arrested again yesterday on the complaint of J. Newton Apgar, a West End carpenter. The charge was petty theft and VanNest admitted having taken money to the amount of $1.48 from the coat pocket of Apgar who was working on the construction of a house on Monroe avenue. The theft was committed on Friday and the warrant was sworn out before Justice Huff yestreday.

Young VanNest is but twelve years old and small for his years but he has been arrested more times than any boy of his age in this city. He lives on Monroe avenue near the corner of West Sixth street and is reported to be continually in trouble in that neighborhood. At one time he was charged with having stolen goods from a store in the West End and later he was accused of having appropriated jewelry from a house in West Seventh street. Having a special fondness for candy and realizing that this delicacy can be procured only with money, he has lately made a point of collecting the necessary funds to satisfy his craving for sweetmeats. He reported in court this morning that the entire sum of money taken in this latest episode was expended for candy.

This is the third time this year that the lad has been convicted of petty theft and it has become necessary to use severe measures. Accordingly it has been decided to send the youthful offender to Elizabeth where he will be placed in charge of the county probation officer.

A large new organ has been ordered. It will be set within the circle of the climbing tracks and will be run by steam dispersing the latest popular airs to the riders. Candy and peanuts will also be sold on the grounds. It consists of twenty-four cars moving on several hundred feet of spiral track.

Mrs. R. A. Martin, of Jackson street, says: "I had a pain in my back and loins for about a year or more, no doubt caused by my kidneys being out of order. I felt it more in the morning, just after getting up or if I did any stooping or lifting. Notwithstanding the fact that I took all kinds of medicines I never found anything which helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They not only removed the pain, but they strengthened me in other ways."

WHO WILL BE POPE?

After Six Ballots Leo's Successor Is Yet Unknown.

THOUSANDS STILL WATCH SMOKE.

Rome Becoming Impatient Owing to Delay—Foreign Cardinal, Bishop of Breslau, May Be Elected as a Compromise.

ROME, Aug. 4.—After three full days of deliberation, during which six ballots have been taken, the members of the conclave still remain shut up in the Vatican without having selected a successor to Leo XIII. The futility of the ballots taken was again evidenced by the smoke which arose from the Sistine chapel.

This mute signal was watched by another large crowd which partly filled the square of San Pietro and which, it was estimated, numbered about 15,000. Great disappointment was manifested, and when the little puff of smoke appeared there were loud cries not only of disappointment, but even of derision. Rome is becoming extremely impatient over the delay in the selection of the new pope, concerning which there appears to be no definite explanation owing to the rigid secrecy with which the proceedings within the conclave are being guarded.

It is presumed that the aged cardinals are suffering from their prolonged incarceration and the intense heat. Among the ambassadors and ecclesiastics there exists a general opinion that if only for the sake of relieving the aged cardinals much may be sacrificed within the conclave to arrive at a speedy conclusion. On the other hand, there are those who are pessimistic enough to believe that the hostility among the factions in the sacred college is so bitter that the struggle may be continued for several weeks.

The most persistent report is to the effect that the Rampolla and Serafino Vannutelli factions have remained compact and that the attempt of one faction to press forward a new candidate in the hope of breaking the strength of the other had failed. It is said that matters have reached a point which presages the possibility of the election of a foreign pope and that Cardinal Kopp, bishop of Breslau, who is most frequently mentioned in this connection, has the support of the German emperor. If this is true it is a move on the part of the Rampolla faction to win over the Austro-German cardinals from Serafino Vannutelli.

One of the daily sights at the Vatican now is the arrival of the nun whom Cardinal Vaszary, prince archbishop of Gran and primate of Hungary, brought with him from Hungary to act as his cook. He is reputed to have an income of $400,000 annually and desired to have his cook enter the conclave; but, the presence of women being forbidden by all the rules, he arranged to have her cook his dinner outside and bring it to the Sistine chapel. She comes daily in a cab escorted by two Hungarian soldiers in uniform.

It is reported that when Cardinal Sarto, patriarch of Venice, received the good wishes of his friends he replied smilingly: "Oh, no. I purchased a return ticket when I left Venice."

A Chinese Reformer in Trouble.

PEKING, Aug. 4.—The question has arisen among the foreign ministers as to whether they have jurisdiction at Shanghai in the case of the editor and staff of the Chinese reform newspaper Supao, published in that city, against whom warrants of arrest have been issued by the taotai of Shanghai on the charge of publishing seditious matter. The Russian, French and American ministers are in favor of surrendering the reformers, while it is understood that the British minister is opposed to taking this step and is awaiting instructions from London. This conflict of opinion will possibly result in no action being taken.

Fred C. Pierce Shot Himself.

WINCHENDON, Mass., Aug. 4.—Fred C. Pierce of Fitzwilliam, N. H., has shot himself at his home, near the Royalston line. After firing the shot he walked downstairs from the bedroom, went through the kitchen to the hallway, where he fell on his face and died. Despondency is given as the cause of his deed. He was married, but lived alone, as his wife was an invalid and is cared for by her sister. He was seventy-three years old. His three children are Charles F. of Fitzwilliam, Herman of Troy, N. Y., and Mrs. Webster Hill of Rindge, N. H.

Oyster Bay Will See Von Sternburg.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Baron Speck von Sternburg, the ambassador of Germany to the United States, is expected to visit the president at Sagamore Hill for the purpose of presenting his credentials as ambassador. Apartments have been engaged for the ambassador, his secretary and suit. Ambassador von Sternburg is a close personal friend of the president. Baron von Sternburg will have the unique distinction of being the first ambassador formally to present his credentials and be received by a president outside of the White House.

Had No Knowledge of Fraud.

PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Justice Wilmot M. Smith has filed a decision relative to the Anglo-American Savings association, recently defunct, exonerating the former directors of the association from having guilty knowledge of the mismanagement of the association and from fraudulent intent in the statements that were issued concerning the association. Among the directors were Thomas L. James, former postmaster general, and former Governor Phineas C. Lounsbury of Connecticut.

READING LAND BILL

Duke of Devonshire Urges House to Pass It.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF ALL CLASSES

Expenditure of £60,000,000 Was In the Nature of a Treaty of Peace and May Prove of Immense Benefit.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Duke of Devonshire moved the reading of the Irish land bill in the house of lords. He used the same arguments in favor of the necessity for passing the measure as were previously uttered by George Wyndham, the Irish secretary, in the house of commons.

The duke declared that the government was confident that the expenditure of £60,000,000 provided in the bill would be finally compensated economies in the judicial machinery and the reduction in the police expenses which the adoption of the measure would render possible.

In conclusion the speaker declared that the house of lords could not substantially alter the bill as adopted by the house of commons without serious risk of losing it altogether. The bill was in the nature of a treaty or instrument of peace, and, although it would be rash to predict that it would prove a final settlement of the Irish question, any serious alteration would release the contracting parties from the obligations mutually undertaken. Never before, he said, had the representatives of the various interests concerned asked parliament to sanction a settlement the main principles of which they had themselves suggested.

Many others spoke, very few showing a disposition to prolong the discussion of the bill. One of its stoutest opponents was Viscount Hampden, Liberal, who characterized it as thoroughly mischievous and corrupt. He said it would result in a land war more fierce and imbittered than any which had preceded. Lord Londonderry, Conservative, claimed the measure was for the benefit and welfare of all classes and entailed no risk whatever to the imperial exchequer. Earl Spencer, Liberal, supported the bill, saying he thought the possibility of settling the agrarian difficulty justified even the large expenditure involved. Lord Lansdowne, secretary of state for foreign affairs, did not share the sinister views which had been expressed regarding the effect of the bill on resident landlords. On the contrary, he believed the measure was so framed as to induce them to remain in Ireland, and he expressed the hope that both the landlords and tenants would do their utmost to make it successful.

NAVAL WAR GAME.

North Atlantic Fleet In Mimic Battle Array.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 4.—The war maneuvers for the week ending Monday next began when the so called hostile squadron withdrew from the combined north Atlantic fleet and departed from the harbor.

The squadron, in command of Rear Admiral Sands, consisted of the battle ships Texas, Indiana and Massachusetts and the torpedo boat destroyers Lawrence and Whipple. The vessels headed south southeast.

Tomorrow at noon the rest of the fleet, under Rear Admiral Barker, will assume the defensive. Each vessel will hurry to a point assigned by secret instructions. Some time between tomorrow noon and next Monday the hostile squadron must make whatever demonstration is to be made or secure an anchorage in order to win.

An attack may be attempted at any point between Eastport and Cape Ann.

Fire In Navy Yard.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—A tugboat belonging to a private company, which was tied up in the back channel at the League Island navy yard, was badly damaged by fire. The United States ram Katahdin and the old monitor Jason, which were lying near, were menaced by the fire, but the flames were prevented from reaching them. As soon as the fire was discovered all the sailors and marines were called out and the fire brigade was quickly set to work. The city fire and police boat King was also sent to the scene and assisted in quenching the flames.

Rhode Island Tennis Champions.

BRISTOL, R. I., Aug. 4.—The Rhode Island state championship for tennis in doubles was won by C. R. Budlong and R. M. Dana, who defeated H. D. Wilcox and E. Tudor Gross in straight sets, the scores being 6-3, 6-3 and 6-3. This was the fourth time that Budlong and Dana have won the state championship.

First of New Cotton Crop Sold.

ALBANY, Ga., Aug. 4.—The first bale of the new cotton crop of Georgia to be marketed here was sold by Deal L. Johnson, a negro farmer, for 15 cents a pound. The bale weighed 368 pounds and was classed as fully middling. It went to Savannah.

Cobori's Victim Is Worse.

MILFORD, Mass., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Concetta Misci, who was shot by Rocco Cobori last week, had a change for the worse, and her condition is dangerous. Two bullets in her body have not been located. The police have not found Cobori.

A Servian Traitor.

BELGRADE, Servia, Aug. 4.—A Servian officer has been arrested here on the charge of selling the mobilization plans to a foreign power. It is believed that he has several accomplices. A rigorous investigation is proceeding.

RUSSIA'S ACTIVITY.

Troops and War Munitions Being Hurried to the East.

WAR IS EXPECTED AT ANY TIME.

Russian and Japanese Squadrons Are Both In Northern Waters on the Korean Coast—Minister Ito Is Honored by Mikado.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 4.—Russian agents are buying up the large orders of bean cakes at the Japanese ports and storing provisions and war munitions at Port Arthur. Troops are also being hurried westward and war is expected to occur at any time.

Three Roman Catholic missionaries have been murdered by Chinese insurgents at Pinli, in Shansi province. The remaining missionaries and their families, escorted by Chinese troops, arrived at Hsunyange, whence they took passage for Hangkow.

Shiro Inou Yenoule, a Japanese astronomer, has discovered a new comet in the Cygnus constellation, not far from the Lyra, moving northward.

The Japanese telegraph companies have consented to the lowering of the telegraphic charges on messages between Nagasaki and Hongkong for the Pacific cable.

The Russian Asiatic squadron has been ordered to assemble for maneuvers in the vicinity of Vladivostok.

The Japanese standing squadron is now engaged in summer maneuvers off Hokosaido. Thus, says the Japanese Herald, the main naval forces of Japan and Russia are "naturally" attracted to northern waters.

The way of Marquis Ito, who has been made president of the privy council, is cleared for his ascendency in the national council. Count Mutsukata and Marquis Yamagata have been made privy councilors.

The appointments, which were impressively conferred by the mikado, were unexpected by the two latter, as well as by the Japanese public.

FORTY-FIVE ARRESTED.

Italian Strike Breakers Cause Labor Riot.

BUFFALO, Aug. 4.—A fierce riot broke out in front of the Niagara elevator, on Ohio street, and as a result forty-five Italians are under arrest and detectives are looking for more. Fortunately no one was hurt, although scores of shots were exchanged.

The fight took place between employees of the Niagara elevator and Italians who are employed at the plant of the Buffalo Union Furnace company. It is said that the riot was provoked by an employee of the Niagara elevator, who called "Scab!" at the Italians as they were passing along Ohio street.

When the arrested men were arraigned James Bona pleaded guilty to carrying a revolver and was sent to the penitentiary for ninety days. Leopold de Salva, accused of carrying on his person a dangerous knife, was held for the grand jury. B. Caputa was held for a further hearing. The remainder were allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Dissatisfied Sailors Paid Off.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—Because of dissatisfaction among the sailors in the crew of the United States revenue cutter Onondaga twenty-three of them were paid off at their own request upon the arrival of the vessel at this port. The Onondaga was on a cruise off the New England coast. It is possible that the firemen will make a similar demand. The grievance of the men was that the food was not up to the standard and that under a new regulation of the treasury department a certain sum of the seamen's monthly wages was held back. The report that the dissatisfied men had been put ashore on Staten Island was denied by the officers of the Onondaga.

International Sugar Question.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—In the house of commons, replying to Mr. Lough (Liberal), who asked whether communications had passed between the governments of the United States and Great Britain relative to the possibility of the prohibition of American bounty aided sugar if the sugar convention bill passed, Viscount Cranborne, foreign undersecretary, said that the decision whether the sugar was aided by bounties lay entirely with the commission dealing with the subject. In the absence of such finding there was no call for any action on the part of the British government.

The Kaw Falls Rapidly.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Aug. 4.—The water in the Kaw river, which rose rapidly here, has fallen a foot. The wash against the north bank of the channel has caused much damage by reason of the swift current, and streets and buildings in North Lawrence have again been endangered by the constant caving in of the banks. The north approach to the bridge has been so badly undermined that crossing by wagons was impossible. Repairs will be made at once to restore communication between the two parts of the cities.

Canal Project Committee.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 4.—A committee of fifty prominent citizens was appointed by a nonpartisan mass meeting to help carry out the thousand ton barge canal project. A permanent organization in each city ward was formed. State Excise Commissioner Cullinan and Deputy Attorney General Bulger spoke in advocacy of the measure.

Weather Probabilities.

An Oyster Bay resident swore at the President the other day. Evidently he did not know what risk he was taking. If that strenuosity had been let loose for a few seconds probably there might have been an accident case in a Long Island Hospital.

General Passenger Agent Charles M. Burt is making a success of The Suburbanite. The August issue is better than ever. Let us suggest that he devote an entire number to Plainfield, which will be none too much for the portrayal of the beauties of this city.

"Newspaper men are not so hard-hearted as they seem. Many a good story has never been made public because it would have worried a mother's heart and disgrace a father's name. But when cases are so frequent that public opinion demands it, the news of such escapades must be published or the newspapers would soon lose caste as a free and independent press."

We can endorse this plank in the Hopewell Herald platform. Reporters are paid to get the news and publishers are paid to print it. A newspaper man's work is like unto that of a judge—there's lots of unpleasant features about it.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

The strange spectacle of a woman seated on a horseless carriage in Park avenue yesterday afternoon carrying in her hand a horse whip attracted much attention. Some one said that the machine was somewhat like David Harum's horse which was traded with the Deacon's that would stand without hitching but would not go worth a cent. The novel sight kept many awake all night, 'tis said, wondering what the woman would do with the whip.

William Schorb, formerly manager of Washington Hall is camping on the Orange mountains. Mr. Schorb is manager at the John Wilson stone quarry, and as his duty there compels him to be near at all time, he has a large tent pitched on a high cool spot, near a spring, which at one time was used by a New York doctor, during the summer months as a cold pure water cure, for consumptives. Mr. Schorb has had several doctors from Bellevue Hospital, visiting at the camp, who declare the water to be very pure. His place is known as "Camp Comfort," and the name is certainly a fitting one, inasmuch as everything is neat, and home-like. Mr. Schorb and family will remain in camp until cold weather sets it.

An observing citizen stood on the corner waiting for the car the other afternoon. A reporter stepped up to him and asked him what was new and said he: "They say women is a vain creature but I will show you something to show that man is equally vain. There comes three young fellows down the street now. I'll bet ten to one that every one of them will look into this show window as they pass to see how they look in their best Sunday clothes." They did as the observing fellow predicted and one of them detected a small white piece of cloth on his trousers leg and as he passed, he stooped and picked it off "There you are," said he, "talk about woman's vanity vain. "They have seen women walk along the street and look at their reflection in the clean plate glass windows and they involuntarily do likewise." We pointed out many cases where men walked along the street for almost a block looking at their reflections in the windows. "Such is another side of human nature," said he as he jumped on the street car and left the reporter with a story.

The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council was held last evening in the Town Hall. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Whykoff and all the members were present but Fredricks and Randolph. A committee from the fire department submitted a proposition offering to buy a fire bell weighing about 800 pounds if the borough would erect a tower for same. This was voted on and accepted. A committee consisting of Messrs. Kenny, Snyder and Ryno were appointed to decide on the cost, height, etc., of the tower and report at the next meeting. The question of accepting South avenue as a street was laid over pending further investigation.

Pitcher Thorn distinguished himself in the box against the Silver Leaves, of Piscataway, Saturday afternoon. The latter team has a reputation of being heavy batters but Thorn's curves and delivery was too much for them and fourteen men fanned the air in vain. He allowed only four hits to be made.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Cards are out announcing the marriage on Saturday, August 1st, of John Burdon Day George to Miss Ella Augusta Squiers, the happy event being solemnized at the bride's home on St. George's avenue, Rahway. The bride has been an efficient member of the corps of teachers of the public school for several years past, and has a host of friends in town who wish her all happiness in the years to come, as they travel life's pathway together. Mr. George, who is well known in the village, is a valued employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at their New York office. Upon their return from a short wedding trip the happy couple will reside at 16 West 99th street, New York, where they will be at home to their friends after September 1st.

John Singer, of Westfield, while driving down the steep incline near the Stony Hill Church, on Sunday afternoon, had a narrow escape from a serious runaway. The yoke strap broke on the harness, scaring the horse, which is a spirited animal. Fortunately another carriage as passing at the time and the driver came to his assistance and between them held the animal until it had quieted down.

The local team will lineup against Westfield on Saturday afternoon. Manager Johnston intends playing his regular team. No changes whatever will be made. Manager Denman will probably pitch Waller but their is no telling as he may change his mind.

Manager Johnston has cancelled the remaining two games of the series with Aeolians on account of Capt. Poole's action in taking his team off the field on Saturday afternoon.

Two congregations in Ohio are after his services, and he is in receipt of another invitation from Jamesburg, Middlesex County, asking him to come there on August 9 to preach as the only candidate to be considered in connection with the vacant pulpit of the Presbyterian Church, caused by the resignation of Rev. Joseph L. Ewing, who goes to the Presbyterian Church at Bridgeton. Shamrock III. Has Fleet Wings.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 4.—With all the luck against her, Shamrock III. again proved herself a splendid racer in light winds by beating her pacemaker, Shamrock I., 9 minutes and 57 seconds in a thirty mile windward and leeward race off Sandy Hook. That the challenger is a wonderful boat for windward work in light winds all her admirers know, but she outdid herself for the run back to the finish line. All the way the challenger ran like a witch in a freshening breeze. Rarely before has she given such a splendid exhibition of superiority in running before the wind. Shamrock I. was more than a mile astern of the challenger at the finish.

Miss Mae Day Won by a Head.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—Miss Mae Day, well ridden by Jockey A. W. Booker, won the feature of Delmar's card, a handicap for all ages at a mile. Bas d'Or was made favorite at 3 to 2. Miss Mae Day jumped into the lead when the barrier went up and through good handling on the part of Jockey Booker lasted long enough to reach the wire a short head in front of Bas d'Or. Hugh McGowan, Pretension and Ingolthrift finished noses apart in the sixth. McGowan's number was hung up, but to many it appeared as if Pretension had won in the last stride.

Waterboy Won Handicap.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The summer race meeting of the Saratoga association has auspiciously opened. Three stake races were carried—the Flash of $5,000 for two-year-olds at five and a half furlongs, the Ballston cup, a hunters' steeplechase of $2,000 over the full course, and the Saratoga handicap of $12,000 for three-year-olds at a mile and a quarter. Interest naturally centered chiefly in the handicap which was won by J. B. Haggin's brown chestnut Waterboy in the excellent time of 2:05 3-5.

Racing at Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The Mohawk and Hudson circuit trotting and pacing races have opened at the Hudson River Driving park. Tiverton, winner of the 2:12 trot, was the only successful favorite. Billnice, favorite in the 2:30 trot, was distanced in the first heat. Dart was the favorite in the 2:24 pace and won the first two heats easily. He broke badly in the third, and after that Driver Kinney was unable to keep the horse on his feet.

Our Cricket Team In England.

LANCASTER, England, Aug. 4.—The first innings of the Philadelphians in their match against Leicestershire, which has opened here, lasted three hours. J. A. Lester scored 126 runs, not out. He batted faultlessly, and his score is the best made during the tour. The Leicestershire eleven lost half their wickets for forty-six runs, but the succeeding batsmen stood until the adjournment.

Dan T. Won at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Aug. 4.—The Buffalo Driving club's grand circuit meeting has opened at the Kenilworth track. The famous reinsmen, Geers and Doble, met in the 2:29 trot, and in the third heat of the race they came to the wire in a finish that brought the grand stand to its feet. Geers put Dan T. over by the shortest of heads.

Reliance Is Ready.

BRISTOL, R. I., Aug. 4.—Completely fitted out for her great contest with the Shamrock III., the Reliance has left her builders' works and gone down to Newport. Mr. Iselin, who has been in Providence for the past three or four days, sailed on board the yacht.

New Canadian Record.

BUFFALO, Aug. 4.—Wire In won the Civic handicap at a mile and an eighth at Fort Erie and hung up a new Canadian record, doing the distance in 1:52¾. The old mark, which has stood for half a dozen years, was 1:54.

COWES REGATTA.

German Kaiser's Meteor Wins the Schooner Race.

COWES, England, Aug. 4.—Emperor William's American built yacht, the Meteor, won the first race for sailing craft in the Royal London Yacht club's regatta, which has opened here.

The race was for the Rear Commodore's cup, value 110 guineas, and brought out three schooners. The German emperor's Meteor led over the line, with Mr. Quentin's Cicely on her weather beam and Mr. Cayley's Adela close astern. In the course of the first round the Cicely led to the end of the round. The Meteor held her advantage throughout and won the race.

A smart westerly wind was blowing when the fleet of cruisers started on a thirty mile course for a cup worth 60 guineas presented by the vice commodore of the club. There were five entries. The gaff of Sir James Pender's yawl Brynhild snapped just before she crossed the line, while immediately after the Therese carried away her bowsprit, leaving Mr. Eckford's Namara, Mr. Donaldson's Bona and Mr. Kerr's Valdora to compete for the prize. The Valdora won the race.

The king landed at Cowes and visited Consuelo, duchess of Marlborough, who, with her sister, Miss Emily Yznaga, and the Hon. and Mrs. George Keppel, are among the guests of M. Poklewski at Egypt House.

The Solent yachting season, thus opened, promises to be more than usually interesting. The presence of King Edward and Queen Alexandra guarantees the social success of the week, while the entries for the races will be up to the average.

The great fleet of yachts at Cowes includes many large steamers, but H. J. Drexel's Margarita dwarfs all, with the exception of the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The other American yachts are Allison Armour's Utowana and Mrs. Robert Goelet's Nahma, while among the racers the German emperor's yacht Meteor and Herr Watjen's Navahoe represent American yacht building yards.

SWIFT JUSTICE.

Turckowski Trial and Execution Was a Record.

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Antonio Turckowski was electrocuted in the Sing Sing prison for the murder of John Shepoloski, a Brooklyn saloon keeper.

Two applications of the electric current were required before the physicians pronounced him dead. Just before reaching the chair he collapsed entirely and had to be dragged to the place and strapped in the chair.

When the procession was started from the cell for the death chamber the condemned man set up a loud cry, shouting:

"I am innocent! I must have another trial! I do not know for what I am to die!"

He could not bring himself to believe that these moments were his last and that in a minute he would be dead. He hysterically cried and repeated that he must have another trial. If he prayed it was silently. The attendants believe that he was so frightened when he reached the chair that he was unconscious and practically dead.

The execution of Turckowski is probably the swiftest from the time of the crime until the execution in the history of the state, excepting that of the assassin of President McKinley.

Turckowski killed John Shepoloski, a saloon keeper, at 76 North Sixth street, Brooklyn, the night of March 6 last. There had been a meeting in the saloon that night for the collection of a fund for a Catholic church. At 3 o'clock the next morning Mrs. Shepoloski notified the police that four men had entered the saloon, had assaulted her husband and had killed him by beating his skull in with a beer mallet.

MYSTERIOUS KILLING.

Man and Woman Found Dead at Northboro.

NORTHBORO, Mass., Aug. 4.—No explanation has yet been obtained of the double tragedy here in which Mrs. Sadie Booth and F. P. Egan were killed. Both were found in G. F. Sawyer's dooryard with their throats cut. Near by was a bloody razor, the case of which was found in Egan's pocket.

It was learned that a Marlboro man called on Mrs. Booth at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edward A. Logan, during the evening, and she went with him when he went to take the 10 o'clock car for Marlboro. It was a few minutes after the car left that she was killed. Egan called on Mrs. Booth at the Logan house five months ago, when she was there on a visit, but his calls were not encouraged. Egan is known as a traveling shoemaker who has worked in Spencer. Mrs. Booth's husband lives on a farm in Palmer. The couple had been separated for a number of years.

Scoter Will Watch Fish Pirates.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Miss Mildred Fitzpatrick, seven years old, daughter of George Fitzpatrick, christened the thirty-two foot gasoline launch Scoter as it slipped off the ways into the ocean at her father's shipyard at East Boston. The Scoter is designed for the use of the Massachusetts fish and game commission to patrol the coast in search of violators of the law. The craft is expected to make ten knots an hour.

Austrian Train Wreck.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—A dispatch to the Volks Zeitung from Breslau reports a serious disaster on the railway between Sucha and Kalavaria, Austrian Silesia. Eleven cars heavily loaded with stones broke the couplings and ran at a terrific speed down a sharp grade for twenty miles until they collided with a passenger train. Thirty persons are said to have been killed and fifty-two others severely injured.

SUMMER TOILETS.

A Check Costume—Shades Suitable For Traveling.

A smart toilet of brown and white check, made for traveling, has a skirt to clear the ground, neatly finished at the hem with three narrow bands of brown taffeta. The little coat bodice has a brown taffeta collar inserted with some very coarse lace motifs, and it is worn over a brown shirt waist with cream silk turn over collars and cuffs.

DINNER WAIST OF YELLOW LACE.

With this is worn a hat of brown straw, the only trimming being a bunch of grapes and pomegranates. To throw over this costume, as occasion required, is a brown taffeta wrap, with a hood lined with coral pink.

Brown is certainly a rather trying color to many women, but where it suits it is eminently smart and useful. There are so few colors which look really nice when traveling, and black is rather apt to show the dust, it really only remains for women to wear gray, biscuit shades and navy blue.

Currants are a feature of the new millinery. Great bunches of red and white currants look delightful, and the fruit used by the best milliners is no longer heavy.

The illustration shows a dinner waist of yellow lace with black velvet bows.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MODES AND FANCIES.

The Useful Linen Gown—Cape Effects Ever Popular.

The French are remaining faithful to the linen frock in many phases. Very charming and simple are the coarse linen embroidery gowns, but for real smartness nothing beats linens trimmed with drawn work and hand-made insertions and veinings. In spite of its apparent simplicity this fashion involves a good deal of labor, which is perhaps the reason of its unprecedented success.

The bodice or blouse of almost every frock is finished with the pelerine collar and a yoke of lace or embroidery. A very pretty biscuit colored linen seen recently had an inserted yoke of coarse ecru embroidery with raised black spots thereon. Around the shoulders, in fichu fashion, was a scarf laced into the embroidery with knotted fringed ends. The hem of the skirt was finished with black veining, and the waist was encircled with a band of black taffeta.

Another cream hopsack linen had a plait all the way down of Russian embroidery, with a pelerine collar of the same coming low over the sleeves. The bodice pouched blouse fashion all around over a shaped leather band.

The cut shows a grenadine gown made with a wide collar and skirt panel of lace. The skirt is the new shirred model.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

Even as the new couriers came speeding through the veil of falling flakes, riding jubilantly over the wide-rolling prairie with their news of victory and battle, the post commander at Fort Frayne was puzzling over a missive that had come to him, he knew not how—mysteriously as the anarchists' warnings are said to find their way to the very bedside of the guarded Romanoffs. Sentry Number 4 had picked it up on his post an hour before the dawn—a letter addressed in bold hand to Maj. Stanley Flint, commanding Fort Frayne, and, presuming the major himself had dropped it, he turned it over to the corporal of his relief, and so it found its way toward reveille into the hands of old McGann, wheezing about his work of building fires, and Michael laid it on the major's table and thought no more about it until two hours later when the major roused and read, and then a row began that ended only with the other worries of his incumbency at Frayne.

Secretly Flint was doing his best to discover the bearer when came the bold riders from the north with their thrilling news. Secretly, he had been over at the guard-house interviewing as best he could, by the aid of an unwilling clerk who spoke a little Sioux, a young Indian girl whom Crabb's convalescent squad, four in number, had most unexpectedly run down when sent scouting five miles up the Platte, and brought, screaming, scratching and protesting, back to Frayne. Her pony had been killed in the dash to escape, and the two Indians with her seemed to be young lads not yet well schooled as warriors, for they rode away pellmell over the prairie, leaving the girl to the mercy of the soldiers. Flint believed her to be connected in some way with the coming of the disturbing note, which was why he compelled her detention at the guard-house. Under Webb's regime, she would have been questoned by Hay, or some one of his household. Under Flint, no one of Hay's family or retainers could be allowed to see her. He regarded it as most significant that her shrillest screams and fiercest resistance should have been reserved until just as her guardians were bearing her past the trader's house. She had the light little prison room to herself all that wintry morning, and there, disdainful of bunk or chair, enveloped in her blanket, she squatted disconsolate, greeting all questioners with defiant and fearless shruggings and inarticulate protest. Not a syllable of explanation, not a shred of news could their best endeavors wring from her. Yet her glittering eyes were surely in search of some one, for she looked up eagerly every time the door was opened, and Flint was just beginning to think he would have to send for Mrs. Hay when the couriers came with their stirring news and he had to drop other affairs in order to forward this important matter to headquarters.

Once again, it seems, Trooper Kennedy had been entrusted with distinguished duty, for it was he who came trotting foremost up the road, waving his dispatch on high. A comrade from Blake's troop, following through the ford, had turned to the left and led his horse up the steep to the quarters nearest the flagstaff. This time there was no big-hearted post commander to bid the Irishman refresh himself ad libitum. Flint was alone at his office, at the moment, and knew not this strange trooper, and looked askance at his heterodox garb and war-worn guise. Such laxity, said he to himself, was not permitted where he had hitherto served, which was never on Indian campaign. Kennedy, having delivered his dispatches, stood mutely expectant of question, and struggling with an Irishman's enthusiastic eagerness to tell the details of the heavy fight. But Flint had but one method of getting at facts—the official reports—and Kennedy stood unnoticed until, impatient at last, he queried:

"Beg pardon, sir, but may we put up our horses?"

"Who's we?" asked the major, bluntly. "And where are the others?"

"Trigg, sir—Capt. Blake's troop. He went to the captain's quarters with a package."

"He should have reported himself first to the post commander," said the major, who deemed it advisable to make prompt impression on these savage hunters of savage game.

"Thim wasn't his ordhers, surr," said Kennedy, with zealous, but misguided loyalty to his comrades and his regiment.

"No one has a right, sir, to give orders that are contrary in spirit to the regulations and customs of the service," answered the commander, with proper austerity. "Mr. Wilkins," he continued, as the burly quartermaster came bustling in, "have the other trooper sent to report at once to me and let this man wait outside till I am ready to see him."

And so it happened that a dozen members of the garrison gathered, from the lips of a participant, stirring particulars of a spirited chase and fight that set soldiers to cheering and women and children to extravagant scenes of rejoicing before the official head of the garrison gave out the news. Kennedy had taken satisfaction for the commander's slights by telling the tidings broadcast to the crowd that quickly gathered, and, in three minutes, the word was flying from lip to lip that the troops had run down Lame Wolf's main village after an all-day, all-night rush to head them off, and that with very small loss they had been able to capture many of the families and to scatter the warriors among the hills. In brief, while Henry, with the main body, had followed the trail of the fighting band, Webb had been detached, and, with two squadrons, had ridden hard after a Shoshone guide, who led them by a short cut through the range and enabled them to pounce on the village where were most of Lame Wolf's non-combatants, guarded only by a small party of warriors, and, while Capts. Billings and Ray, with their troops, remained in charge of these captives, Webb, with Blake and the others, had pushed on in pursuit of certain braves who had scampered into the thick of the hills, carrying a few of the wounded and prisoners with them. Among those captured, were Mr. Hay and Crapaud. Among those who had been spirited away was Nanette Flower. This seemed strange and unaccountable.

And yet Blake had found time to write to his winsome wife—to send her an important missive and most important bit of news. It was with these she came running in to Mrs. Ray before the latter had time to half read the long letter received from her soldier husband, and we take the facts in the order of their revelation.

"Think of it, Madie," she cried, "Think of it! Gerald's first words, almost, are, 'Take good care of that pouch and contents,' and now pouch and contents are gone! Whoever dreamed that they would be of such consequence? He says the newspaper will explain."

And presently the two bonny heads were bent over the big sheets of a dingy, grimy copy of a Philadelphia daily, and there, on an inner page, heavily marked, appeared a strange item, and this Quaker City journal had been picked up in an Ogallala camp. The item read as follows:

AN UNTAMED SIOUX.

The authorities of the Carlisle School and the police of Harrisburgh are hunting high and low for a young Indian known to the records of the Academy as Ralph Moreau, but borne on the pay rolls of Buffalo Bill's Wild West aggregation as Eagle Wing—a youth who is credited with having given the renowned scout-showman more trouble than all his braves, bronchos and "busters" thereof combined. Being of superb physique and a daring horseman, Moreau had been forgiven many a peccadillo, and had followed the fortunes of the show two consecutive summers until Cody finally had to get rid of him as an intolerable nuisance.

It seems that when a lad of 18, "Eagle Wing" had been sent to Carlisle, where he ran the gamut of scrapes of every conceivable kind. He spoke English picked up about the agencies; had influential friends and, in some clandestine way, received occasional supplies of money that enabled him to take French leave when he felt like it. He was sent back from Carlisle to Dakota as irreclaimable, and after a year or two on his native heath, reappeared among the haunts of civilization as one of Buffalo Bill's warriors. Bill discharged him at Cincinnati and, at the instance of the Indian bureau, he was again placed at Carlisle, only to repeat on a larger scale his earlier exploits and secure a second transfer to the plains where his opportunities for devilment were limited. Then Cody was induced to take him on again by profuse promises of good behavior, which were kept until Pennsylvania soil was reached two weeks ago, when he broke loose again; was seen in store clothes around West Philadelphia for a few days, plentifully supplied with money, and next he turned up in the streets of Carlisle, where he assaulted an attache of the school, whose life was barely saved by the prompt efforts of other Indian students. Moreau escaped to Harrisburgh which he proceeded to paint with his favorite color that very night, and wound up the entertainment by galloping away on the horse of a prominent official, who had essayed to escort him back to Carlisle. It is believed that he is now in hiding somewhere about the suburbs of West Philadelphia, and that an innate propensity for devilment will speedily betray him to the clutches of the law.

THE FOLSOM CONVICTS.

One of the Fugitives Supposed to Be Shot.

DUTCH FLAT, Cal., Aug. 4.—Two of the fugitive Folsom convicts were surrounded here, and a fight ensued. It is supposed that one of the convicts was shot by Glen Wedgewood. Wedgewood was shot in the hand by the convicts.

The big fight which resulted in the death of two guardsmen was started by the convicts who lay in ambush. Lieutenant Smith and seven men were pursuing a trail that had been discovered. Their first intimation of the presence of the convicts was when the latter opened fire on them at close range from a hiding place in the bushes. Three members of Lieutenant Smith's squad fell at the first volley. They were Rutherford, Jones and Gill.

The soldiers returned the fire and retreated down the hill, leaving the fallen men to take care of themselves. Gill managed to make his way to a place of safety and was picked up by friends and carried to the mine. The pursuers made no attempt to get back to the scene to learn the fate of the other men.

News of the battle spread quickly to Placerville and the surrounding country, and by 9 o'clock the hill was surrounded by a large force, including the entire strength of the Placerville company. Near by and co-operating with the militiamen was a posse of citizens from Placerville headed by the sheriff's son, Dallas Bosquit. They were within sound and sight of fighting, but dared not fire for fear of hitting the militiamen.

Lieutenant Smith says there were four convicts in the band that opened fire on his men, but he was unable to identify any of them except the negro Seavis.

SPANISH STRIKERS.

Government Troops Will Enforce Order if Necessary.

MADRID, Aug. 4.—The threatened general strike has commenced in several centers, including Barcelona, Murcia, Cadiz, Ronda and Alcoy. The general unrest is largely attributed to bad harvests, but the immediate motive for the strike is to re-enforce the demand for the release of numerous workmen who have been thrown into prison for offenses in connection with recent strikes. The leaders of the movement are exhorting the members of the trades unions not to return to work until all the imprisoned men have been released.

The government has taken stringent measures to cope with disturbances. The military forces and the civil guards have been re-enforced wherever necessary and the troops have been confined to barracks. The instigators of the strike are threatened with severe penalties.

The residence of the mayor and a number of private houses at Alcala, province of Cadiz, have been attacked by strikers, who exchanged shots with the gendarmerie.

CENTERED AT SAN JOSE.

Earthquake In California Causes a Lady's Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Reports received from different portions of California say that but little damage was done by the seismic disturbance, although it was quite severe. The tremor was centered at San Jose, where numerous windows and much crockery were broken. Mrs. P. M. Lusson, a sufferer from heart disease, died during the shock.

Lick observatory reports the shock the heaviest in the history of the place. The indicator of the seismograph was dislodged and no record obtained. In San Jose the shock lasted from twenty to thirty seconds and was from east to west. Three shocks were felt in the Yosemite valley.

SPORTING NEWS.

ROD AND REEL.

Harry R. Bennett, of Elm place, returned yesterday from Carteret, where he has been on a crabbing expedition.

George Gould and Fred Beekman, of the Campbell Press Works returned yesterday morning from a fishing cruise on Staten Island Sound. They captured fifty-seven fish.

Charles Smith, of Somerset street, returned home yesterday from a two days' fishing trip on Amboy bay. He credits eighty-four fish to his catch and one five-pound weakfish that took three men to land.

A party of Plainfielders, comprising Councilman Robert L. Lee, Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, Dr. D. O. Adams, George Macintyre, Harry Potter and Otto Mueck, are cruising for a week with Captain John L. Dorsett in his schooner "Rosamond," off Barnegat.

Dr. F. C. Herbert and Hugh Todd, of this city, returned last night from a two days' fishing trip at Bedford, N. J. The men went for weakfish and report the fishing fine. In the two days' fishing they had excellent luck and brought back 250 two and three pounders.

Charles Keller, James Day, William Gaub, Fritz Bimble and William Mills, all of Prideville, returned yesterday from a fishing trip on Staten Island Sound. Some of the members of the party relate a thrilling experience which happened to William Gaub. They say that he fell overboard in trying to haul in a fish and that he was saved from drowning by one of the party reaching out and grabbing him as his head appeared above the surface of the water for the second time.

Fishermen's stories are usually of the exaggerated sort, but there was no fairy tale about the trip made by Dr. Herbert and H. A. Todd, of this city, to the fishing banks on Saturday. They left here early in the morning and that night when the sun went down their total catch was six black bass and forty porgies. Yesterday the two Plainfielders enjoyed a sail and this morning at 2 o'clock they again tried their hand at fishing. This time they caught forty bluefish and 138 weakfish. In the string were two very rare fish, one a stingaree and the other a sucker pilot fish. The scene of all this fishing was near Sandy Hook and the Plainfielders were with Capt. Dan Oswald and Mate Reide McGee. They report a fine time. The stingaree and sucker pilot are on exhibition at Rogers' fish market in West Second street.

ASSISTS.

Manager MacLaughlin seems to have found a good one in Gormley.

Shortman did not get a hit in Saturday's game. Something unusual.

With Taylor in left field and Cooney on third base, St. Mary's need fear no one.

The New Market Y. M. A. would like to fill August 15 and 22 with first-class teams. F. A. Dayton, New Market, N. J.

Those who go to Crescent Oval, Saturday, will no doubt witness a fine game of ball between Alis and St. Mary. This will be the first meeting of these teams this season and the result will be watched with much interest. Both teams are in the best of condition and the score should be a close one.

An erroneous report has been in circulation that the Aeolian A. A. baseball team was to disband after last Saturday's game. This is denied emphatically by P. H. Lenz, the manager, who says that the team will play ball the rest of the season according to the schedule. The Aeolians have been playing gilt-edge ball and the team is considered one of the strongest in the State.

ANTICS OF A SPRINKLER

WATER CAR OF LOCAL TRACTION COMPANY JUMPS THE RAILS.

The Same Old Place—Third Time in Last Few Days—Traffic Delayed.

The trolley street sprinkler became derailed again this morning at the customary place, Fourth street and Watchung avenue. This heavy car seems to take a certain troublesome delight in losing the rails at that especial point of its course and the crew considers it a fact worthy of notice if they are able to cross Park avenue in safety. The accident Saturday caused a spreading of the rails in the middle of Park avenue and whenever the heavy car essays to cross that thoroughfare great care must be exercised to avoid an accident. An accident occurred shortly before 10 o'clock this morning as the car was going west on Fourth street. The front trucks left the rails completely, stalling the car squarely in the middle of Park avenue. Considerable delay was caused and it was nearly an hour before traffic was again restored.

RESCUED WITH PITCHFORK.

Mr. Casnove Saves His Guest From Serious Onslaughts of Hog.

Wilbur Hotchkiss, a New Yorker, spending his vacation at the home of Peter Casnove, near Mt. Bethel, had an exciting encounter yesterday with a large hog and escaped with his life only through the timely arrival of the owner who beat off the animal with a pitchfork.

Young Hotchkiss volunteered to assist in the feeding of the pigs. While engaged in his task he dropped his hat into the sty. He climbed over the pen and the largest hog in the pen rushed at him. The young man tried to get over the fence but was too late. The hog tore his clothing and bruised him considerably. Mr. Casnove rushed into the pen with a pitchfork and succeeded in beating back the enraged animal.

GETTING HIS SEA LEGS.

Life on the Ocean Wave Has Its Drawbacks for the Young Navy Recruit.

The phrase "acquiring the sea habit," which is frequently used in connection with the training of recruits in the navy, carries to the lay mind something of an impression of a rolling gait, a chronic hitching at the waistband of the trousers, a saline vocabulary and a canny knowledge of the brands of eating tobacco. The navy department knows the epoch as one in which the recruit is learning to make himself comfortable aboard ship, and during which he is liable to fits of depression, in which more things than sea water look blue. It is the period in which the romance of a life on the rolling deep becomes temporarily obscured and life seems hard.

During such a period the recruit is likely to write to his family or his congressman in such terms as seem to warrant an abolition of the service, and a considerable part of the work of the navy department lies in assuring inquiring friends that the recruit will feel better when he gets over it. If the investigation which is made in each case of complaint happens to cover some weeks, it is likely to get to the recruit about the time he is beginning to take notice and enjoy himself, and he is quite willing to admit that "things look different."

The present conditions of the service which seem likely to be permanent, says the Washington Times, make it absolutely essential that the enlistment contract shall be enforced as strictly as it has been enforced since the date of the executive order which abolished the former privilege of discharge by purchase.

WAIL OF A DEPOSED KING.

Paris Chef Who Has Cooked for Royalty Tells of the Good Old Days.

Casimir, the chef of the Maison Doree, in Paris, which closed its doors some months ago, now describes himself as a king without a kingdom, says the Detroit Free Press. He has been lamenting to a correspondent that the beaux jours have gone forever. He says:

"In the olden days—in the days of Rosini and the duke of Hamilton and others, or during the empire—the people knew how to dine. M. Le Bardon would come and consult me five hours in advance and Mme. La Marquise two days ahead. They came down to the kitchens, and we consulted, and a dinner in those days was a poem, not a meal. The kings, alas, have changed all this; ah, they have much responsibility, the kings.

"Your King Edward was a customer of mine; but what do you think he preferred? The simplest dishes. And Leopold of Belgium"—Casimir's dark eyes blazed with scorn—"soup, and a slice of beef. Alas, is that a dinner for a king? The king of Portugal is the only one who knows in these degenerate days how to eat. The last time he dined with me he sent for me and pressed both my hands. Tears were in his eyes. He kissed me on both cheeks and assured me that it was not a dinner, but a creation."

WHERE ASPHALT IS CHEAP.

Indian Territory Contains an Extensive Mine That Is Being Utilized.

Not far from the town of Ardmore, in Indian territory, and partly within the corporation limits is an asphalt mine which is thought to be extensive enough to pave all the streets in Indian and Oklahoma territories. Ardmore proposes to build her streets of native asphalt, says a report from that place. She will be prodigal in the use of asphaltum, for the reason that it is more economical than crushed rock and cement. The plan is to take the asphaltum as it comes from the mine and make a foundation six inches thick. This will be pounded and rolled until compact. Upon this will be spread a coating of the same material crushed into coarse gravel size, mixed with the powdered material that results from the crushing.

This also is thoroughly tamped and rolled. The last coat is made of the same material ground to a powder and then heated. No wagon ways have been made, but many sidewalks have been built in this manner and they are giving most satisfactory results. The crude asphaltum can be laid upon the streets at about half the cost of crushed stone.

Projectiles in Navy.

Four classes of projectiles are used in the United States navy—armor-piercing projectiles, for use against armor; common shell, for use against unarmored, or very thinly-armored parts; shrapnel, for service against exposed detachments of men a considerable distance away, and canister, which is employed against detachments of men lacking protection within close range.

Locating Ores.

It is claimed by the Draft-Williams method of locating ores by the deflection of electrical currents that not only can deposits be located, but that the extent and depth of the lode can be determined with an accuracy that is quite impossible with any existing system of prospecting.

A Film of Oil.

According to Lord Rayleigh, a film of oil on water may be so thin that its thickness is no more than one twenty-five-millionths of an inch, which is computed to be, in all probability, the size of a molecule of the oil.

LOCAL ARCHITECTS RECEIVE A REPORT

State Commission of Architects Tells of Its Work for the Benefit of the Profession.

ISSUING CERTIFICATES

498 PERMITS GRANTED DURING THE YEAR JUST CLOSED.

New Jersey is the Third State to Recognize the Responsibility of the Architect—Registration Law—Its Effect.

Special attention is directed to the general desire of architects to become registered with the New Jersey State Board of Architects, in the first annual report of the commission to Governor Murphy, copies of which are issued in pamphlet form, have been received by Plainfield architects. The board was appointed under the provisions of an act passed in March of last year. During the year ending June 1 last certificates were granted to 498 architects. The board refused forty-three applicants, finding on examination that they were not qualified to assume the responsibility of designing and superintending the erection of buildings. The law compels each architect to have a certain amount of professional knowledge before he can receive a certificate and become registered.

New Jersey is the third State to recognize the responsibilities of the architect toward the public by passing a registration law. The report says that the law has been found sufficiently complete to make its enforcement practical and beneficial. The officers of the board were quite surprised by the large demand for certificates, and in order to accommodate all extra meetings had to be held. Those rejected were informed that they were debarred from again applying for examination.

Certificates issued to those who have passed the regular examination, which went into effect October 17 last, differ from those given to architects who were practising at the time the law was passed. The rights and privileges, however, are the same, but the certificate granted after passing the examination is regarded by the board as the higher one. It is stated that any of the architects who were registered because of the fact that they were practising at the time the law was passed, can take the examination any time they desire and receive the higher certificate.

The report goes on to tell of a number of complaints having been made of violations of the law's provisions. These complaints, it appears, were against either persons practising without certificates or architects who are not regarded as practitioners. It is added that at present the board is in such a position that it feels it cannot begin to undertake the prosecution of violators. Certain amendments, in order that the law may be made clearer, are suggested in the report.

BOROUGHITE HONORED.

Lewis C. Wyckoff Appointed a Deputy Fish and Game Warden for the State.

Lewis C. Wyckoff, of the borough, who, during the past fifteen years has served as a fish and game detective, yesterday received the appointment of deputy fish and game warden for the State. The appointment was made by the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners. Mr. Wyckoff has been a successful detective and his new position comes as a reward of merit for past services. A handsome certificate investing Mr. Wyckoff with power was recieved by him yesterday.

Murphy Favors Amendments.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Aug. 5—Governor Murphy was at the State House yesterday for the first time in several weeks, and his presence was the signal for the gathering of a large number of politicians than is usual at this time of the year. The proposed constitutional amendments formed the topic considerable discussion in the corridors. Governor Murphy said a number of members of the bar had expressed themselves to him as approving of the amendments, and he himself, from a layman's standpoint favored them.

Miss Josephine Petrie, of the young people's department Home Missions, of the Presbyterian Church, will speak tonight in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, of her late trip to the General Assembly held at Los Angeles.

BLUE LAWS BEFORE BOROUGH FATHERS

North Plainfield Council to Discuss Subject of Sunday Desecration.

FREE BAND CONCERTS

APPROPRIATION MADE FOR POPULAR FEASTS OF MUSIC.

Only Two Members Now in Town and a Postponement of Meeting is More Than Likely—Much Business to be Transacted.

Should there be a quorum present at the Common Council meeting in North Plainfield Friday evening matters of much importance will be discussed. Among other things it is expected that the death-knell of the illegal selling of liquor in the borough will be sounded when Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed submits his opinion regarding the enforcement of the blue laws in North Plainfield. In all probability the matter of appropriating a sum of money for band concerts during the rest of the summer will be disposed of, as well as a project to establish a public park in the borough.

As already told the borough fathers have been investigating the charges made that several Italian fruit dealers are in the habit of keeping their stores open on Sunday to sell liquor. It is stated that evidence has been secured against several of these merchants and steps will be taken to compel them to close heir shops.

Corporation Counsel Reed has been asked for an interpretation of the State laws regarding the proper observance of Sunday and upon his report will depend the future action of Mayor Smalley in the matter. He has placed himself on record as being determined to close these "joints" and it is probable that complaints will be made against them.

Although a sum of money has been secured for a band concert in the borough Mayor Smalley will probably bring up the matter of making an additional appropriation. The first concert will be held in the borough Saturday evening, August 29. The location has not been decided upon.

At present there are only two councilmen in town. They are Councilmen James F. Arnold and Robert Clark. In the event of there not being a quorum present the meeting will be adjourned one week.

VALUABLE CANINE KILLED

UNKNOWN MAN SHOOTS MRS. CRUIKSHANK'S BULLDOG.

The Animal Was Worth Five Hundred Dollars—Dr. Knott Extracted Bullet.

A valuable English bulldog belonging to Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, was shot by an unknown man last evening. The animal was a pet of the family and was valued at $500. The ball entered the right side and lodged somewhere in the left flank. Dr. Knott was summoned and the bullet was probed for and extracted but the wound was fatal, the animal dying shortly afterwards. It cannot be learned who fired the shot.

New Appliance to be Given a Trial by Chief T. O. Doane in West Fourth Street.

Chief T. O. Doane will test the new Deluge nozzle this evening on West Fourth street, near No. 3's engine house. The new appliance makes it possible for the firemen to direct a stream of water in larger quantities at a conflagration in the top floor of a building.

Should the test prove satisfactory it is probable that Chief Doane will suggest the purchase of a set of the nozzles to the fire committee. It is in use in all the large cities and has proven to be a valuable acquisition to the fire fighters in the case of large fires.

School Directors Meeting.

On account of the bad weather last evening the City Board of Education did not hold its regular monthly meeting. Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the Board, has postponed the meeting until next Tuesday evening.

COAL TO RETAIL AT $6.50 PER TON

Price to be Advanced Twenty-Five Cents by September First Say the Dealers.

PRESENT RATE IS $6.25

IN NEW BRUNSWICK THE CONSUMERS HAVE BEEN PAYING $5.75.

Wise Housekeepers Will Profit by Laying in Winter's Supply Now—Saving Will be Twenty-Five Cents on Every Ton.

From the best authority obtainable, Plainfielders will pay $6.50 a ton for coal this winter. This information was secured yesterday from one of the leading coal dealers of the city. The present retail price is $6.25, an advance of 25 cents over the price prevailing June 1. The wholesale dealers, as usual, notified the retailers that commencing May 1 last and continuing each month until September 1, the advance in price would be ten cents a ton per month, making the total increase fifty cents. The local dealers have not raised the price fifty cents at once, but have divided the increase, so that consumers pay 25 cents more now and an additional 25 cents September 1.

Last year the long strike in the coal fields completely upset the market and consumers throughout the country were paying all sorts of fancy prices up to $20 a ton. From the present indications there is not likely to be a repetition of this during the coming winter. The miners seem to be well satisfied with their present conditions and newspapers reports indicate that there will be plenty of coal the coming season and there should be no good excuse for the charging of exorbitant prices.

In New Brunswick the consumers have been paying $5.75 a ton, but on August 1 the retail dealers advanced the price to $6.25, which is the same that is being asked here. There the increase was made fifty cents at one time, which is not as advantageous as the rule adopted here. In this city the consumers can lay in their winter supply at $6.25, while in New Brunswick they have to pay the increase of fifty cents at one jump. Those fortunate enough to get their coal now will be able to save 25 cents a ton.

P. S. C. TROLLEY CHANGES

Plainfield is in the Second District, Which Has Its Headquarters in Newark.

The Public Service Corporation has divided its system into three groups, for the purpose of simplifying operations. General Manager W. W. Wheatley has arranged them as follows:

GEORGE HONEYMAN ALIVE?

SO SAYS CLAIRVOYANT TO MISSING MAN'S MOTHER.

Futile Search Made for His Body in Vicinity of Weston by Two Friends.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 5—Frank Morrell and John Austin, of this place, went to Weston yesterday and made a thorough search for the body of George Honeyman, supposed to have been drowned there while camping about two weeks ago. No trace of the body was found.

Mrs. Honeyman, the boy's mother, has, it is said, visited a clairvoyant, who declared that her son was not drowned, but had run away, leaving his coat along in the water to give the appearance that he had fallen in. George ran away once before several years ago.

ARRANGING FOR RACE MEET

PURSES AMOUNTING TO $450 TO ATTRACT HORSE RACERS.

Event at Plainfield Driving Park on Saturday Afternoon, Aug. 29—Band of Music.

Members of the Plainfield Driving Association met last evening at the offices of William A. Coddington to arrange for the race meet to be held Saturday, August 29, at the Driving Park. Nothing of importance was done except the issuing of entry blanks.

Mayor N. B. Smalley said last evening that a feature of the meet will be a running race between local horses. Purses of $450 will be put up and some exceedingly good matches are anticipated. Benjamin LaVere's band has been secured for the afternoon and the music promises to be a most enjoyable feature. Trotting and pacing matches will be run off.

GLADNESS FOLLOWS SADNESS

SYMBLOS OF MOURNING REMOVED FROM LOCAL R. C. CHURCHES.

Parishioners Rejoicing Over Papal Accession—Announcement From Altars.

There will be no special services at St. Mary's Church relative to the election of the new Pope, but Father Egan, the rector, will make reference to the noteworthy event at the services next Sunday. This will also be done at St. Joseph's Church by Father Miller. A general spirit of rejoicing is found among local Catholics regarding the choice and prayers have been offered for a long and happy reign of Pius X. The drapings put up in commemoration of the death of Pope Leo were today removed from St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Church. About August 20, a month after the death of Pope Leo, there will be a special requiem mass.

Better Judge Than Lipton.

The Newark Evening News suggests a congress of the beauties at Newport, Coney Island, Bar Harbor, Asbury Park and Atlantic City, in bathing costumes, in a competitive exhibit of physical development, the idea being to determine whether the style of living of the fashionable rich or of the plain people produces the finest specimens of American womanhood. The editor doesn't say so right out, but he plainly intimates that he would make an expert and appropriate judge.—New York Herald.

Mrs. Howe's Effort.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, of Boston, whose summer home is at Newport, L. I., is making an effort to revive interest in history and travel among the women who frequent that fashionable watering place. Her niece, Mrs. Winthrop Chanler, of New York, is one of the cottagers who seconds her efforts and has loaned the use of her drawing room for one of these morning conferences. Mrs. Howe is the mother of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue.

He was lodged in the county jail here, and yesterday was taken back to Fort Totten.

STREET COMMISSIONER STILL BUSILY ENGAGED

Repair Work on Thoroughfares Already Finished in Various Sections.

NEW CULVERTS BUILT

TOP DRESSING BEING APPLIED TO SEVERAL OF THE STREETS.

Watchung Avenue to be Re-Macadamized—Work to Start Next Week—East End Streets to Go a Little While—Other Work.

The past month has been one of exceeding activity with City Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett and the streets as a whole are much improved by the care and attention he has given them. While there is yet considerable to be attended to, no time has been wasted and the unusual number of clear days has made it possible to accomplish a large amount of work.

Perhaps the most important work of the month has been the repairing done along the principal streets in the West End. West Front street, West Sixth street and West Fifth street have each been repaired to a considerable extent. North avenue in the East End, as far as Terrill road, as well as Jackson avenue and Clinton avenue, South of Third street, have also been improved by a renewal of the top dressing in patches and general cleaning and levelling of the roadbed. West End avenue is being treated to a heavy coat of slag, heavily rolled, and the work there is now almost completed. New storm sewer culverts have been installed on Stelle avenue near Union street and the standing water is now drained off and does not gather.

Two new culverts have been installed at Clinton avenue near South Second street and the inlets for water have been made more efficient on West Fifth street near New street. Repairs of this character will shortly be stared this month. Aside from these repairs, there has been a general overhauling and cleaning out of culverts and catch basins all over the city.

The main work contemplated for the coming month is the repairing of Watchung avenue by re-macadamizing the street from Sixth street to Woodland avenue. The roadbed here has been in poor condition for a long time as the surface macadam has been worn in holes for several months and has long needed the attention of the city repair gang. This work will be started in about a week's time and together with the general repairing of the East End streets will be the important work of the street department for the month.

FACTS ON STREET SPRINKLING

IN ONE DAY 15,000 GALLONS OF WATER USED IN BUSINESS SECTION.

Over Thirty-seven Thousand Gallons Sprinkled From One Cart in a Single Day.

Under the new regime of municipal street sprinkling a few interesting facts have been collected showing what is being done by John Keely, who has the contract for this work. There are eight sprinkling carts used in keeping the dust down in all parts of the city. Each wagon holds 600 gallons of water and during a recent dry spell these carts were emptied a great many times in one day. Nearly every day in the business part of the city twenty-five cart loads of water are placed on the streets before 12 o'clock noon.

Mr. Keely says that on one extra dry day one cart was emptied sixty-two times and this just about kept the dust off the streets. A great deal of territory is covered by the eight wagons and that the residents are better satisfied than at first is evidenced by the fact that not one complaint has been received during the past week. During very dry weather it is exceedingly difficult matter to keep the dust down as the sun absorbs the water almost as fast as it is put on the streets.

Alex. Jeffers Dead.

Alexander Jeffers, a well-known farmer, died yesterday at his home on Sherman avenue. Mr. Jeffers was seventy-six years of age and had been ill for some time before his death. He owned considerable property near his home. Surviving him is a son, John Jeffers.

GARBAGE COLLECTION DISCUSSED BY BOARD

Health Authorities Working on Various Systems of Garbage Disposal.

EXAMINATIONS OF MILK

HEALTH OFFICER DISCOVERS USE OF FORMALDEHYDE.

Action Taken to Stop Injurious Practice—Sixteen Marriage Certificates—Forty-Six Births and Twenty-Nine Deaths.

The question of municipal control of the collection and disposal of the city's garbage and refuse was brought up at the August meeting of the Board of Health held yesterday afternoon in the rooms in North avenue. The practices in other cities were considered and the subject discussed at some length. A final report on the needs and possibilities in Plainfield will be made later. The Board of Health is anxious to do something, but it desires to be practical and the best information on the subject is being obtained.

During the past month a thorough examination of all milk sold here was made to detect any use of formaldehyde which is the basis of a large number of milk preservatives sold under the name of "preservaline," "freezine," and the like. It is used in milk to prevent souring and its effect is that of an antiseptic. It will postpone the curdling point of a milk from six to one hundred and fifty hours according to the strength of the solution used.

Aside from being in direct violation of the State law and punishable by a fine, formaldehyde in milk is considered by physicians who have made a study of the effects of milk preservatives, to be injurious, especially to infants. Thirty-three samples of milk were taken last month and analyzed for formaldehyde, but it was found in only two. The Board took action to have its use in those two cases stopped.

The Board received during July sixteen marriage certificates, forty-four births certificates, two still-birth certificates and twenty-nine death certificates. Two applications were made for permits to sell milk here and one to collect garbage. At present the city is practically free from contagious disease, there being but four houses under quarantine as against eight at the corresponding period last year.

STORM DOES DAMAGE IN CITY AND BOROUGH

Streets Resembled Miniature Rivers During the Heavy Downpour of Rain.

BRIDGES SWEPT AWAY

TELEPHONE AND TROLLEY SERVICE MADE TO SUFFER.

Storm Sewers Choked Up—Stony Brook and Green Brook Like Roaring Rivers—Incidents of the Storm.

Bridges were washed out, streets damaged and cellars were filled with water last night during the heavy downpour of rain. Most of the damage was done in North Plainfield along the routes of the two brooks although during the storm North avenue was like a river and several other down town streets, including Fourth, West and East Front streets, Park avenue and Watchung avenue were impassible. Beneath the railroad bridges on Watchung avenue the sewers were choked up to such an extent that it was impossible to run cars beneath the structure.

Green brook was a raging torrent. It was higher than it has been in six months and at one time it threatened to break over the banks and flood the rear of George Stewart's blacksmith shop. At Grove street the brook became choked up at about midnight and a miniature dam was formed. The water banked up four feet and then broke away again with a roar which could be heard for two blocks.

At the telephone station the operators were unable to make many connections on account of "grounded" wires. New Brunswick was the only out-of-town call that could be secured until linemen located the trouble.

Stoby brook was a roaring river. The water broke over the banks and flooded back yards and covered Greenbrook road. William Feiring, who was on his way home was overtaken by the storm and had to wade through the water, on Greenbrook road, half way up to his knees.

Bridges on the properties of Martin I. Cooley and Former Mayor John F. Wilson, were washed away at the abuttments. The trolley cars could not pass Grandview avenue on account of the storm on their north bound trips. That part of Duer street which was recently macadamized was washed considerably.

Through the burning out of a fuse the borough was plunged in darkness during the heaviest part of the rain fall. The troubles of the electric light company were numerous and kept a gang of linemen at work for two or three hours.

The connection man-holes of the telephone system were filled with water and all this morning workmen were engaged in pumping them out. The water caused many short circuits in the system.

Weatherman John Neagle reports that 3.81 inches of water fell during the storm.

CHILD RUNS AWAY.

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chandler Alarm Her Parents.

Men, women and boys scoured the borough far and wide this morning in search of little four-year-old Mary Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Chandler, of 80 Manning avenue.

When last seen the child was playing in front of the house on Manning avenue. Shortly after she was missed. A score of people gathered at the house and started off on a child hunt. One party went towards this city while another started towards the mountains. The child was located near the upper end of Westervelt avenue plodding her way towards the mountains.

Funeral of Samuel Hedden.

In the presence of a large number of friends and relatives the services over the remains of the late Samuel Hedden were held yesterday afternoon at his late residence No. 5 Duer street. Rev. Dr. Yerkes was the officiating minister. The bearers were John Shotwell, Alexander Thorn, Lewis Barkelew and Andrew Johnston. Interment took place in the M. E. Cemetery.

—A small colored boy drove about North Plainfield, Sunday afternoon in Dr. F. W. French's carriage with two little white boys, without the knowledge and consent of the owner. They were reprimanded by Chief Marshal Campbell.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has decided to make a thorough test of the high class French locomotive and accordingly an order has been sent for a De Glehn four-cylinder compound engine to be built in France. The first locomotive will reach here early next year. It will be given a test and then made a part of the Pennsylvania's exhibit at St. Louis. Tests will also be made to determine the uniformity in rail pressure due to the balanced engine, as well as its economy in coal and water consumption.

AMUSEMENTS.

Elliott Schenck, who is to be one of the conductors of Henry W Savage's English Grand Opera Company next season, is spending the summer at North-East Harbor, Maine. He has composed several new songs and violin pieces which will shortly appear.

During the past week the attendance upon the Madison Square Roof Garden has broken all records for that popular summer amusement resort, and the new comic opera "Otoyo," which is the feature of "Japan by Night," has won thousands of new friends. The Madison Square Roof Garden is the only real cut-of-doors place of amusement in the city of New York.

Business at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre has been exceedingly good during this hot spell, owing probably to the fact that many brilliant comedies have been offered as attractions, interpreted by skillful comedians and comediennes. If, in his regular stock company, Mr. Proctor finds that he has not exactly the right person or persons to fill the various characters, he scours the market until the right one is found. The consequence is that every production at this theatre is perfect, not only from the scenic standpoint, but also in cast.

The Methodist Churches of this city will leave early tomorrow morning for their annual excursion. This is an opportunity for all to see the famous seaside resort at the lowest possible price. Go.

People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising nowadays. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one—Perry Davis' Painkiller—has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

SCHWAB RESIGNS.

William E. Corey Now President of the Steel Corporation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The resignation of Charles M. Schwab as president of the United States Steel corporation was tendered and accepted at a meeting of the directors. William E. Corey was unanimously elected his successor.

Mr. Schwab's resignation caused no surprise in financial circles, where it had for some time been foreshadowed. The new president was for years one of Andrew Carnegie's ablest lieutenants and is now president of the Carnegie Steel company, one of the subsidiary concerns of the United States Steel corporation. It is scarcely more than a month ago that Mr. Corey was made assistant to the president (Mr. Schwab) because of the latter's continued ill health.

Mr. Schwab attended the meeting of the directors, coming to town, it was said, for that especial purpose. He appeared to be in good health and spirits and seemed rather glad to be relieved of the duties imposed on the chief executive of the "billion dollar" corporation. Before and after the meeting Mr. Schwab conferred with Mr. J. P. Morgan. Mr. Schwab will continue as a director of the steel corporation and a member of its finance committee.

Formal announcement of President Schwab's resignation was made in appended form:

"At the regular meeting of the directors of the United States Steel corporation Mr. Schwab in consequence of continued ill health tendered his resignation as president, and it was accepted. Mr. W. E. Corey, who has been for some time performing the active duties of the president, was elected to the vacancy."

The foregoing statement, given out by Chairman Gary, was supplemented by the following from Mr. H. C. Frick:

"Several months ago Mr. Schwab told me that he would very much like to be relieved from the presidency of the steel corporation on account of his continued ill health and asked me to assist in so arranging. The matter was arranged entirely upon his request. Mr. Corey, who succeeds him, has been educated upon the same lines as Mr. Schwab and has been his associate for twenty years. I am sure his election will give general satisfaction to all concerned."

LITTAUER'S ANSWER.

Congressman Quotes Secretary of War For Vindication.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Congressman Littauer has made the following statement:

"I am of course surprised and disappointed at the decision of the secretary of war that there may exist even a prima facie case of violation of statute. The decision only creates an inquiry as to whether a technical violation of law has been committed and removes from the case entirely any suggestion of dishonesty or dishonorable action on my part and of any improper use of my influence as a congressman in regard to any glove contracts.

"I can ask no more sweeping and complete vindication of my honor and business integrity than the findings of the secretary. If, as the secretary says, 'there is no doubt that a manufacturing firm, one member of which happens to be a member of congress, has a right to manufacture and sell goods to jobbers who are filling government contracts and that they do not come within the prohibition of the statute so long as the contract between the firm and the jobber is a separate and distinct transaction from the contract between the jobber and the government,' I fail to see, and I am sure the community will fail to see, how even a technical or legal violation of any statute or of any code of moral or commercial propriety or any invidious criticism or censure can be founded upon this transaction."

CIGAR DUTY FRAUDS.

Judson Brinson Held as Head of Conspiracy Combine.

SMUGGLING TOBACCO FROM CUBA.

Many Officials Holding Prominent Positions Are Accused of Complicity in an Alleged Evasion of Customs.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 5.—Judson Brinson, alleged to be at the head of prominently connected with a conspiracy to defraud the government of revenues by means of smuggling cigars from Cuba, has been held under bond of $10,000 to appear before the next term of the United States court.

Brinson denies the charge of smuggling, asserting that he and others bought the cigars in question in this country and resold them. He has furnished the assistant United States district attorney a list of names of some thirty-four persons who bought the cigars. On both lists are the names of well known persons. On the first are employees of the railroads leading to Port Tampa, express messengers, revenue and customs officers, depot agents and one or two women.

Some of these are officials holding important positions. In the second list are merchants, brokers, professional men and leading citizens of Savannah who are alleged to have bought the cigars. It is further alleged that cigars were shipped by the "combine" to Charleston and Philadelphia. A number of those who bought the cigars here have settled with the district attorney by paying him the amount of duty that would have been collected had the goods been imported in the regular way. One man is said to have paid $400 and one merchant $1,200. More than 1,000,000 cigars are alleged to have been brought in by the "combine."

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

First International Congress Opens at Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—The first international congress of wireless telegraphy, convened by the imperial post office, has opened here. Forty-four delegates attended, representing Germany, Russia, France, Italy, Austria-Hungary, Spain and the United States. The Americans present were General A. W. Greely, Captain F. M. Barber, who was attached to the United States embassy in Paris for eighteen months, representing the government's interest in studying developments in wireless telegraphy and buying apparatus, and J. J. Warbury of the department of commerce.

The congress was called upon Germany's invitation, which was issued a year ago with the avowed purpose of agreeing on international regulations to control the operation of wireless telegraphy systems and prevent any one system getting a monopoly and rendering the employment of other systems impossible. The present congress does not contemplate adopting any binding agreements between the powers, but is merely a preliminary discussion with a view to clearing up the situation for future action. It will perhaps be followed later by a congress clothed with treaty making functions.

At the first session Undersecretary for Posts Herr Sydow presided, and Herr Kraetke, imperial minister of posts, greeted the delegates in behalf of the German government. Herr Sydow at the close of the session moved that the proceedings be kept secret at present, which proposal was unanimously adopted. Hence it was impossible to get the delegates to tell what had been done. It is assumed that the congress will continue for a week or ten days.

Root May Seize Big Bridge.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Secretary Root has addressed a communication to the Merchants' Bridge company, owners of the large bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis, asking the company to show cause why the United States should not take possession of the bridge under statute which provided for its construction. Under the law the secretary of war can take possession of the bridge without legal proceedings of any kind if any of three things happens—namely, if the bridge company consolidates with any other bridge company; if the company pools its earnings with any other company; if the same officers of any other company become officers of the Merchants' Bridge company.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 5.—The preparations which were being made for the first execution by hanging in Porto Rico, which was fixed for Friday next, have been suspended by the granting of an appeal to the supreme court in the case of the condemned man Pedro Diaz. Diaz was convicted of a murder committed during a political riot at Humacao last August and sentenced to death.

Sherwood Pleads Not Guilty.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 5.—Oliver T. Sherwood, the cashier of the Southport National bank, who is charged with embezzling funds of the bank to the amount of $100,000, was arraigned before Judge Platt in the United States district court on a bench warrant. Through his counsel he entered a plea of not guilty and was bound under bonds of $25,000.

Stamping Ground Won Turf Race.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Conditions for racing were very unfavorable on account of rain. The Alabama stakes of $5,000 at a mile and a sixteenth, however, was run on the turf, that course being used for the first time. R. Doctor's Stamping Ground, by Lamplighter—Elise, ridden by Jockey Fuller, captured the stakes, with Gravina a close second and Astarita third, the time, 1:56 4-5, being slow compared with that of Kantaka, who won the event last season in 1:47 3-5. William C. Whitney's pair of three-year-old fillies, Girdle and Judith Campbell, who went to the post favorites at 11 to 5, finished in the ruck. J. B. Haggin's Ada Nay, who had been well liked at odds of 5 to 1, ran well, but could not take the show money from Astarita.

Bondage Won at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Bondage, backed from 3 to 1 to 2 to 3, won the mile and an eighth handicap at Harlem. The Arthur colt, however, had to stretch his neck to beat Bragg a head in a desperate drive, which lasted the full length of the stretch. Lucien Appleby, almost invincible last year in the mud, quit badly in the last eighth and finished in third place, three lengths back of Bragg. Hermencia was the only other starter. With the exception of the fourth race, which was won by the favorite, Aladdin, the other events went to long shots and second choices.

War Paint a Winner.

BUFFALO, Aug. 5.—Three jockeys fell in the second race at Fort Erie, but none was seriously injured. War Paint, a 30 to 1 shot, won, while Iole, the favorite, finished last. The judges suspended Forrest for his ride on Iole.

Rainland Won at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Rainland at 11 to 5 beat the favorite, Forehand, in the feature at Delmar park. Rainland and Forehand trailed their field for five furlongs, when Rainland came on, winning by a length and a half.

EUROPEAN FLEET.

To Come Across Atlantic In the Late Autumn.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling has sent the following cablegram to Rear Admiral Cotton at Lisbon:

"Squadron sail Saturday for some quiet ports in Mediterranean where conditions are best to increase efficiency of gun crews preparatory to target practice in September."

In the late autumn the European squadron will come across the Atlantic and proceed to the Caribbean, where, with the north and south Atlantic squadrons, it will participate in the winter maneuvers.

It has developed that as a result of the successful visits paid by the European squadron to Kiel, Portsmouth and Lisbon the officials are inclined to accept from year to year invitations to visit foreign waters. In this connection the interesting fact has come to light that the Russian government will probably invite the European squadron to visit Kronstadt some time next summer.

Farmer Confessed Murder.

LEWISTON, Ida., Aug. 5.—William Hamilton, a farmer, aged twenty-four years, has confessed to the murder and mutilation of Mabel Richards, an eleven-year-old girl, whose body was found near Anatone. The child was waylaid by Hamilton while en route to Sunday school. Hamilton is in jail, and in all probability he will be lynched, as hundreds of people are now reported to be assembling in the town.

Fire and Robbery at Ponce.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 5.—The warehouse of Blasini Bros., at Ponce, was set on fire and robbed. The safe was forced and $14,000 stolen from it. The fire was only extinguished with difficulty. An investigation is proceeding. The Blasini brothers have been arrested at Ponce for alleged complicity in the burning and robbery of their warehouse and are under bonds pending examination.

CUNARD AGREEMENT

Steamship Company Gets Advance of Thirteen Millions.

OCEAN GREYHOUNDS AS CRUISERS.

British Admiralty, Board of Trade and Postmaster General Arrange For Atlantic Mail Service and Auxiliary Fighting Ships.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The agreement between the admiralty, the board of trade, the postmaster general and the Cunard Steamship company has been issued in a parliamentary paper. Accompanying the agreement is the draft of a trust deed securing the debenture stock on which the government advance of $13,000,000 for building the two new steamships is made.

The new mail carrying agreement substitutes for payments by weight a fixed annual payment of $340,000 during the life of the contract, which is for twenty years, dating from the first sailing of the second of the two new steamships. It provides that the mails shall be carried more speedily than at present. The company will be bound to utilize the best steamships for the mail service, and the agreement stipulates for deductions from the subsidy in the event of the company failing to carry out the terms of the contract.

All the company's steamships between Liverpool, New York, Boston, the Mediterranean ports and Havre, including the new steamships, which will have a speed of twenty-four to twenty-five knots, will be at the disposal of the admiralty for hire or purchase in the event of war. The vessels must be maintained under the British flag and managed without any undue increase in freight charges or under preference against British subjects. The masters, officers and engineers of all the vessels must always be British subjects, and the same condition applies to at least three-fourths of the crew.

On the Campania, Umbria and Lucania until the new vessels have been completed and thereafter on the new vessels all the certified officers other than the engineers and not less than half the crews must belong to the royal naval reserve.

The company is not allowed to sell any vessel whose speed is seventeen knots and upward without the consent of the government, which will indicate the plans for the new vessels with a view to their conversion into armed cruisers. The company must maintain the gun mountings, etc., ready for use. For these concessions the government agrees to subsidize the new vessels at $375,000 per year each. The loan of $13,000,000, which will bear interest at 2½ per cent and is to be repaid in twenty annual installments, will rank as the first charge on the whole Cunard fleet and will be secured by the debentures.

The agreement provides for a reduction in the subsidy for the new steamships in the case of their failure to attain a minimum speed of twenty-three and a half knots.

The revised articles of the Cunard company, which are included in the parliamentary paper, contain the provisions previously cabled, stringently excluding foreigners from holding shares in the company directly or in trust.

The agreement provides for a weekly mail service between Queenstown and New York, the company to carry the whole week's mail.

SHAMROCK SKIPPERS.

Captains of Challenging Yachts In Rivalry.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 5.—Captain Wringe got into a hot contest in the race of the twin boats off Scotland lightship, and the masterly fashion in which the clever skippers handled the big racers delighted Sir Thomas Lipton and Captain McKinstry of the Teutonic and Captain Bertram F. Hayes of the Arabia, his guests, as well as all the Erin's company.

Captain Wringe, who has yet to discredit Sir Thomas' word that he is the best of Great Britain's skippers at getting a coveted position at the start, sent the challenger over the line, with the old boat under her lee, for a ten mile beat to windward and a run home in a rattling twelve knot breeze from the southeast.

Running home to the finish line in such a breeze as the old boat ought to be at her best in, the cup hunter added almost five minutes to her victory, an astonishing performance. It was one of the prettiest races yet sailed by the Shamrocks and gave evidence of the keen but good natured rivalry between the two skippers and proof that the challenger's victories are won without favoritism and solely on her merits.

Time at the finish: Shamrock III., 1h. 27m. 2s.; Shamrock I., 1h. 34m. 19s.

People of this city have reason to give thanks for the efficiency of its health department just at this time when typhoid is raging elsewhere. Impure milk is alleged to be the cause of the existence of the disease in other places.

When one wants to sharpen his adze, he reduces its bulk by grinding it down. Possibly you could make your ads. cut better by reducing the quantity of matter, and so giving a sharper point to them.—Progressive Advertising, London.

President Roosevelt, father of the Ancient and Honorable Anti-Race Suicide League, has sent his check for $100 to Theodore Roosevelt Signet, the twentieth child of a McKeesport couple. The market shows an upward tendency. Short time since Chief Justice Gummere held that a child is worth one dollar.

Dean Gessner is the type of citizen that Elizabeth needs. The other day Mayor Ryan told him that the brewers wouldn't stand for a license fee of $1,000 and he promptly inquired whether the liquor men are running the local government. The dean wishes to have the fee raised from the absurb amount of $250 to $750 as it is in this city.

Booker T. Washington, the acknowledged leader of his race, is held responsible by a Chicago negro for the lynching bees in the South and West. The accusation is that "he teaches the colored people that they are only fit to fill menial positions." The New York World has this to say in his defense:

"The difference between Mr. Washington and some other people who aspire to be leaders of the colored race is that he sees things as they are. He holds that a negro is fit for what he is fit for—neither more nor less. His constant aim is to qualify the men and women of his race for better and ever better positions. He does not despise the humble but lucrative sphere of a sleeping-car porter, but he encourages the young man who has aspirations toward something different."

PONTIFF IS PIUS X.

Joseph Sarto, Patriarch of Venice, Chosen.

AN ABLE AND MODEST CARDINAL.

His Elevation to the Supreme Papal Dignity Is Hailed on All Sides as a Blessing to the Roman Catholic Church.

ROME, Aug. 5.—The conclave, after being in session four days, has elected Giuseppe Sarto, patriarch of Venice, as pope to succeed Leo XIII., and he now reigns at the Vatican and over the Catholic world as Pius X. All Rome is illuminated in his honor. His election and the assumption of his holy office were marked by a striking demonstration and impressive ceremonies at the Vatican.

The new pope, clad in his full pontifical robes and with all ritualistic ceremony, will receive the members of the diplomatic corps, the cardinals and the bishops, who will offer their official homage, this notwithstanding the fact that twice the cardinals and many high officials of the Vatican went through a similar ceremony. The date upon which the coronation of Pius X. will occur has not yet been officially decided, but the impression prevails that it will occur Aug. 9.

The election was announced to the world forty-five minutes after the final vote had been taken by the appearance of the new pope at the window of St.

PIUS X.
[Joseph Sarto, Patriarch of Venice.]

Peter's after the conclave was formally dissolved. The cardinals returned to their various apartments in Rome with the exception of Cardinals Oreglia and Rampolla, who temporarily retain their official suits in the Vatican, and Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa, who is too ill to be moved for several days. It was to the sick cardinal that the new pope paid his first visit after being formally proclaimed pontiff.

The cardinals will remain in Rome for the ceremonies, and should the coronation be fixed for next Sunday they are not likely to return to their respective homes until after that. With the exception of the Spanish cardinal, Herrero, all the others are now in fairly good health.

The election of the patriarch of Venice was unanimous. After many ballots it was a foregone conclusion that he was the only candidate sufficiently acceptable to all to secure the necessary two-thirds which the laws of the church require. One of the cardinals said that he believed Pius X. would follow the broad lines of Leo's policy, although not likely to accentuate it. This voices the general feeling here, which is one of satisfaction. The new pontiff is a man of simple origin and although not a very prominent candidate he had been frequently mentioned as one of the many cardinals who might be taken up as a compromise. In several respects he resembles his venerable predecessor, notably in his reputation for culture and piety. Having been associated with no factions this fact alone won him much favor from foreign cardinals who were without an especial candidate. Pius X. was humorously described as "a country mouse who could not possibly find his way about Rome." Venetians who know the new pope well say that he will soon be as much beloved as pontiff as he was beloved as patriarch of the poor of the Adriatic. In appearance Pius X. is a very handsome man. He has a fine, erect figure despite his sixty-eight years, his face greatly resembling that of the late Phillips Brooks, the eminent Boston divine. When he pronounced his first benediction at St. Peter's his voice rang out with splendid resonance. In every way he showed beyond a doubt that he has dignity and personality in keeping with the best traditions associated with the famous pontiffs who for centuries have ruled the Vatican.

Before opening the conclave Pius X. repaired to the Sistine chapel in full pontifical robes and wearing the miter, where he seated himself on the throne which he so little expected to occupy, as he left the affairs of the patriarchate at Venice in a certain confusion. There on the throne he received the second obedience, or so called "adoration," of the sacred college, each cardinal, as before, kissing his hand and foot as a sign that he acknowledged the new pope's sovereignty. Meantime the oration super pontificum electum was recited in low tones. Then the new pontiff rose, and, extending his hands and his powerful and magnificent voice, which is much stronger than that of the late pope, reverberating through the dim chapel, he pronounced the apostolic benediction amid profound silence.

The new pope seems to embellish the modest surroundings. Pope Pius' benevolent manner is gaining him friends from moment to moment.

All the members of the sacred college declare that they are very well satisfied with the election of Cardinal Sarto, but the Rampolla faction consider it as a special victory. When the first ballot was taken it showed that the sacred college was divided into two groups, the stronger one for Rampolla and another not quite so strong for Serafino Vannutelli. The other votes were scattered, but included four for Sarto. On the subsequent ballots, while the two principal factions were losing ground Sarto gradually gained, drawing strength from both sides as well as from the neutrals until the ballot Monday afternoon, when his vote had increased to thirty-seven, within six of the necessary two-thirds.

When the result of this ballot was announced in the conclave Cardinal Sarto was so overwhelmed with emotion and so touched by the unlooked for confidence reposed in him that he could no longer control his feelings, and, to the surprise of all, he broke down, declaring that such responsibility and honor were not for him and that he must refuse it if offered. Tears rolled down his cheeks, and he seemed firm in his determination to refuse the dignity. He was so palpably sincere that consternation reigned in the conclave and the cardinals spent the whole evening and far into the night in convincing him that his election was the will of Providence and that he must accept.

Several times he almost fainted and had to be revived by the use of salts. He seemed happy, but broken down even after all the other candidates had retired, and on the final ballot he looked a statue of resignation. Cardinal Casetta, as scrutineer, was reading out the vote. When forty-two votes had been recorded for the patriarch of Venice the scrutineer arose, lifted his red zucchetto, saying, "Habemus pontificem." But from many sides cardinals cried out, "Continue!" As the vote approached fifty, however, the cardinals, as of one accord, surrounded the new pontiff and, according to tradition, demanded to know if he would accept the pontificate. Cardinal Sarto's lips trembled so that he could hardly articulate, but after a visible effort he said, "If this cup cannot pass from me"— There he paused, but the cardinals around him insisted that it was necessary for him to answer "Yes" or "No." Thereupon he replied firmly, "I accept."

Cardinal Gibbons said that the election of Cardinal Sarto had produced the best impression in the entire sacred college, being a man of such piety, tact and culture that he was best fitted to be the head of the church at the present time. Cardinal Gibbons hopes that the coronation of Pius X. will occur soon in order that the foreign cardinals may be able to assist.

Soon after the conclave dissolved one of the cardinals said:

"We really were very, very well treated, and I feel better than when I went into the conclave. The perfect rest was really a treat. We had good food, and the arrangements for looking after so many people could not have been better. After mass every morning we entered the Sistine chapel and transacted our business. I can quite understand that those outside grew impatient, but I scarcely think we could have been expected to decide so weighty a matter by such a lengthy method of procedure within a shorter time. No doubt the appearance of the smoke was irritating to those who looked for a speedy conclusion, although personally I am surprised to know that the smoke was seen at all. Looking into the little stove in the Sistine chapel and seeing the diminutive heap which the ballots made, one could scarcely think that they would form when burned a cloud as big as a man's hand. Today of course there was no smoke, as all the ballots were sealed for preservation. After each morning session we had dinner. In the afternoon most of us killed time by reading in our rooms. I varied my literature with several American periodicals and learned treatises on the conclave, all of which latter disagreed and invariably put me to sleep with a headache. Through a chink in the boards which were placed over the window in my cell I could see the crowd in the piazza of St. Peter's. They indeed formed a wonderful sight.

"I am told he is devoted to Venice and has frequently said that he could never be happy elsewhere. Poor man! Unless things change far more than we expect Pius X. will never see his beloved Venice again unless, perhaps, after his body lies beside that of Leo XIII., his spirit may be able to revisit the place where he spent so many happy years."

There is much speculation regarding the political attitude of the new pope, inasmuch as he has not participated in the general affairs of the church during his career. The general opinion, however, is that he will make no change in the relations between the Vatican and the Quirinal, except perhaps to render them more courteous, inasmuch as he enjoys a personal acquaintance with the king and members of the royal family. Queen Margherita considers him almost a friend. One of his first steps certainly will be to ameliorate the relations of the Vatican and France and try to prevent a similar struggle against the congregations in Spain. He is not credited with being particularly favorable to Austria, as he still remembers how much his fatherland suffered under the domination of that country. Pius X. admires the progress of Catholicism in America and considers the United States a most fertile field for religion. The cardinals mentioned as likely to be appointed secretary of state are: Ferrata, prefect of the congregation of bishops; Cavagnis and Vincenzo Vannutelli, bishop of Palestrina.

DRESSY COSTUMES.

Blue a Popular Color—Evening Dress and the Lace Craze.

Blue is a color very much in favor and comes in a variety of shades, all of which harmonize well with tinted lace.

Practical frocks in biscuit yellow and ivory shades are mostly trimmed with black taffeta, but these bizarre contrasts are not effective unless carried out with consummate skill.

There is a tendency toward the bizarre in dress. Theater and evening wraps are becoming most luxurious, trimmed with jeweled embroideries and costly lace, and in nearly every case the lining consists of an accordion plaited mass of chiffon or mousseline de soie.

It is in full evening dress that artists can exercise to the full their fancy in the mixing of colors. The craze for lace is by no means abating. In fact, it seems to be increasing, and really wonderful imitations are produced.

A great many accordion plaited effects are to be seen among the more expensive gowns.

The fancy for spotted materials is by no means abating, and the early autumn will see a revival of the old shepherd's plaids and checks of various kinds.

The cut shows a dinner dress of painted chiffon and lace.

To Wear With Country Frocks. Smart Hats.

To wear with country frocks there is a jaunty little marquise hat which is smart in chip or tulle finished with cockades or knife plaited ribbon. There are also all kinds of bows and rosettes made in various soft materials which also form inexpensive trimmings for the country hat with the addition of a soft quill or two.

Hats made of linen embroidery have taken the place of those of muslin and when worn with a frock to match have a decided chic of their own.

The Dolly Varden hat will always have its admirers, and it is very girlish and pretty trimmed with its butterfly bows and strings and its simple wreath of flowers.

Many of the imported hats for morning wear are in coarse pale straws, very flat, with the brim lined with dark ruched mousseline de soie, tulle or velvet, with a flat wreath of flowers or a big bird on top. Wings went out with the approach of the hot days, and the revival in the fall will be tremendous.

The cut shows a blue cloth tailor made trimmed with fringe. The cuffs and collar are of mirror velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

A few moments after reading this oddly interesting story the two friends were in consultation with Mrs. Dade, who, in turn, called in Dr. Waller, just returning from the hospital and a not too satisfactory visit to Mr. Field. There had been a slight change for the better in the condition of Gen. Field that had enabled Dr. Lorain, of Fort Russell, and a local physician to arrange for his speedy transfer to Cheyenne. This had in a measure relieved the anxiety of Waller's patient, but never yet had the veteran practitioner permitted him to know that he was practically a prisoner as well as a patient. Waller feared the result on so high-strung a temperament, and had made young Field believe that, when strong and well enough to attempt the journey, he should be sent to Rock Springs. Indeed, Dr. Waller had no intention of submitting to Maj. Flint's decision as final. He had written personally to the medical director of the department, acquainting him with the facts, and, meanwhile, had withdrawn himself as far as possible, officially and socially, from the limited circle in which moved his perturbed commanding officer.

He was at a distant point of the garrison, therefore, and listening to the excited and vehement comments of the younger of the three women upon this strange newspaper story, and its possible connection with matters at Frayne, at the moment when a dramatic scene was being enacted over beyond the guard-house.

Kennedy was still the center of a little group of eager listeners when Pink Marble, factotum of the trader's store, came hurrying forth from the adjutant's office, speedily followed by Maj. Flint. "You may tell Mrs. Hay that while I cannot permit her to visit the prisoner," he called after the clerk, "I will send the girl over—under suitable guard."

To this Mr. Marble merely shrugged his shoulders and went on. He fancied Flint no more than did the relics of the original garrison. A little later Flint personally gave an order to the sergeant of the guard and then came commotion.

First there were stifled sounds of scuffle from the interior of the guard-house; then shrill, wrathful screams; then a woman's voice uplifted in wild upbraidings in an unknown tongue, at sound of which Trooper Kennedy dropped his rein and his jaw, stood staring one minute; then, with the exclamation: "Mother of God, but I know that woman!" burst his way through the crowd and ran toward the old log blockhouse at the gate—the temporary post of the guard. Just as he turned the corner of the building, almost stumbling against the post commander, there came bursting forth from the dark interior a young woman of the Sioux, daring, furious, raging, and, breaking loose from the grasp of the two luckless soldiers who had her by the arms, away she darted down the road, still screaming like some infuriated child, and rushed straight for the open gateway of the Hay's. Of course the guard hastened in pursuit, the major shouting "Stop her! Catch her!" and the men striving to appear to obey, yet shirking the feat of seizing the fleeing woman. Fancy, then, the amaze of the swiftly following spectators when the trader's front door was thrown wide open and Mrs. Hay herself sprang forth. Another instant and the two women had met at the gate. Another instant still, and, with one motherly arm twining about the quivering, panting, pleading girl and straining her to the motherly heart, Mrs. Hay's right hand and arm flew up in the superb gesture known the wide frontier over as the Indian signal, "Halt!" And halt they did, every mother's son save Kennedy, who sprang to the side of the girl and faced the men in blue. And then another woman's voice, rich, deep, ringing, powerful, fell on the ears of the amazed, swift-gathering throng, with the marvelous order: "Stand where you are! You shan't touch a hair of her head! She's a chief's daughter. She's my own kin, and I'll answer for her to the general himself. As for you," she added, turning now and glaring straight at the astounded Flint, all the pent-up sense of wrath, indignity, shame and wrong overmastering any thought of prudence or of "the divinity that doth hedge" the commanding officer, "As for you," she cried, "I pity you when our own get back again! God help you, Stanley Flint, the moment my husband sets eyes on you. D'you know the message that came to him this day?" And now the words rang louder and clearer, as she addressed the throng. "I do, and so do officers and gentlemen who'd be shamed to have to shake hands with such as he. He's got my husband's note about him now, and what my husband wrote was this—'I charge myself with every dollar you charge to Field, and with the further obligation of thrashing you on sight'—and, mark you, he'll do it!"

CHAPTER XX.

In the hush of the wintry night, under a leaden sky, with snowflakes falling thick and fast and mantling the hills in fleecy white, Webb's column had halted among the sturdy pines, the men exchanging muttered, low-toned query and comment, the horses standing with bowed heads, occasionally pawing the soft coverlet and sniffing curiously at this filmly barrier to the bunch grass they sought in vain. They had feasted together, these comrade troopers and chargers ere the sun went down—the men on abundant rations of agency bacon, flour and brown sugar, found with black tailed deer and mountain sheep in abundance in the captured village, and eked out by supplies from the pack train—the horses on big "blankets" of oats set before them by sympathetic friends and masters. Then when the skies were fairly dark, Webb had ordered little fires lighted all along the bank of the stream, leaving the men of Ray's and Billings' troops to keep them blazing through the long night watches to create the impression among the lurking Sioux that the whole force was still there, guarding the big village it had captured in the early afternoon, and then, in silence, the troopers had saddled and jogged away into the heart of the hills, close on the heels of their guides.

TWO MOSQUITO YARNS.

They Were So Extraordinary That the Third Liar Did Not Dare to Tell His Little Story.

They were telling mosquito stories. They had prevaricated right along, to the amusement of the listeners, and each was about to run out of yarns. Each felt that it was time to get in his best yarn.

"Why, over in Jersey," said the Harlem man, "I was spending the night with a friend near a big swamp. After I crawled in bed I heard a crashing noise near my head, and turned around to find that a mosquito had been perambulating through the hallway, had gotten mad, and had driven his bill through the ceiling into my room. I jumped up, seized a monkey wrench, and bradded the bill on the inside. Then I walked through the side door, seized a shotgun, loaded it with buckshot, fired the whole load into that mosquito, and went to bed again.

HE BRADDED THE BILL.

Later on I heard another noise. Going out to investigate, I ascertained that the mosquito had broken his bill off and had gone out of the house minus a part of his probing apparatus. Three days later I saw that same mosquito eating a chicken it had caught."

"I believe you are a very strict churchman," said the other man, "and, of course, you had to tell the whole truth about that story, but I'll tell you what is a fact. Down in the Florida Everglades there is a mosquito that beats yours. I was fishing on a creek one day when I heard an awful buzzing noise overhead. Looking up, I saw a mosquito flying along with a half-grown colored child under one wing, and a grindstone under the other. Occasionally he would wheel his bill on the grindstone and take a bite of the child. To show you that this story is true, I will cross my heart."

The third liar, says the New York Times, had prepared to say something, but he saw the threatening looks on the faces of the crowd and desisted.

WITNESS WAS TOUGH.

Lawyer Tried Hard, But Could Not Extract Much Information from Andrew Anderson.

The lawyer for the defendant was trying to cross-examine a Swede who had been subpoenaed by the other side as a witness in an accident case.

"Now, Anderson, what do you do?" asked the lawyer, according to the New York Times.

"Sank you, but Aw am not vera well."

"I didn't ask you how is your health, but what do you do?"

"Oh, yas. Ow vewrk."

"We know that, but what kind of work do you do?"

"Puddy hard vowrk; it ees puddy hard vewrk."

"Yes, but do you drive a team, or do you work on a railroad, or do you handle a machine, or work in a factory?"

"AW VEWRK IN FACT'RY."

"Oh, yas; Aw vewrk in fact'ry."

"Very good. What kind of a factory?"

"It ees wery big fact'ry."

"Your honor," said the lawyer, addressing the court, "if this keeps on, I think we'll have to have an interpreter." Then he returned to the witness.

"Look here, Anderson, what do you do in that factory—what do you make?" he asked.

"Oh, yas, I un'erstan'—yo want to know vat I make in fact'ry, eh?"

"Exactly. Now tell us what you make."

"Von dollar an' a half a day."

And the interpreter was called in to earn his salt.

SPORTING NEWS.

POP FLIES.

Why do managers insist upon playing new men under assumed names?

Westfield's win was a lucky one. They ought to shake hands with St. Mary's.

Martin's errors seems to have started the fireworks in both of the last two games that Hopes have played, and both times have—played prominent parts in Hopes losses.

Jack Burke, the popular catcher on the Westfield team, has gone to the Catskills for two weeks. Jack will be missed next week when the Westfield boys go to Scotch Plains.

In Saturday's game between St. Mary's and Hopes, Umpire Creedom raised the point that there is nothing in the official rules that authorizes an umpire to call a player out for making a foul bunt on the third strike. Rule No. 41 of the playing code defines a bunt as a deliberate attempt of the batsman to hit the ball slowly within the infield so that it cannot be fielded in time to retire the batsman. The rule also provides that all foul bunts shall be called strikes. It is a natural sequence that if the third strike results in a foul bunt the batsman must be declared as having made three strikes and therefore out.

The right step in the suppression of open gambling on ball games in the grand stands of various clubs has been taken by Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains ball teams. The managements have had a lot of trouble with the so-called sports, who make a practice of betting on the games. These cliques make life miserable for persons who attend the games merely to get an afternoon's enjoyment. Special officers have been employed to get evidence against them and then he proposes to take legal action to keep the betting element away from the grounds. Mr. Johnston is one of the magnates who is wise enough to see the injury that will result to the National game if gambling is kept up.

ROD AND REEL.

For the benefit of local fishermen it might be of interest to them to know something about the nearby resorts. At Amboy the new rate is $2 a day for a boat and at Boynton Beach the price is $1 a day. At Amboy $2 a dozen is charged for soft shell crabs.

A party of young men of this city composed of Edward Baker, Harry DeMesa and Chris Utzinger, left town Sunday for a ten days' outing at Camp Halsey, Lake Hopatcong. The young men went equipped to fish and will spend much of their time on the water striving with rod and reel for the capture of the finny inhabitants.

Weak fish are so plentiful this season at the fishing banks as well as the inland ponds along the coast, that all fishermen are rejoicing daily in large catches of 200 or more. The New Jersey Pond Fishers' Association recently decided to store the fish in their own storage houses rather than get the low price netted by sending them to Washington Market, New York.

Letters which have been received from Walter Long and William Rushmore, of this city, who are off on a fishing trip at Green Pond, N. Y., show that they have made some fine catches since their arrival. Walter Long claims the honor of having landed an eight-pound pickerel after a good fight and the men both say that small mouth bass have several times been caught weighing five and seven pounds apiece.

PYTHIAN DAY AT THE SHORE

KNIGHTS TO GATHER AT ASBURY PARK ON LABOR DAY.

At Least 8,000 to Attend, Among Number Being Members of Local Lodges.

On Labor Day the Knights of Pythias of New Jersey will spend Labor Day in Asbury Park. About 8,000 members are expected and in this army will be Perseverance and Unity Lodges of this city. A telegram received by Mayor Keator from P. Frank Shanley, grand chancellor commander of the order, is as follows:

"The Knights of Pythias have decided to visit you in a body on Labor Day and expect to bring from 6,000 to 8,000 people. The headquarters will be at the West End Hotel, through the courtesy of Mr. Ten Broeck. Your permission to hold a parade of a half hour's duration is solicited, and we would also like to use your reviewing stand. If you could grant us the use of your band for the parade, together with a police escort, the order would be under eternal obligations."

It took the Asbury Park Council no great time to decide that all the requests which the order made would be granted very willingly by the city. The parade will probably be held in the afternoon and all the Knights of Pythias will get in line.

T. H. HANDLER DEAD.

Peritonitis Setting In, Death Follows Operation for Appendicitis.

Thomas J. Handler, son of Mrs. Mary Handler, of Stony Hill, died yesterday afternoon at Muhlenberg Hospital where he was taken Saturday for an operation for appendicitis. Peritonitis developed and death resulted yesterday. The boy was nine years of age. He was a nephew of contractor Thomas J. McGann, of this city.

The funeral will be held tomorrow from the home of Mr. McGann, on Lincoln place, and Rev. Father Miller, of St. Joseph's R. C. Church, will officiate. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

LITERARY.

The first article in The Popular Science Monthly for August is the Romanes Lecture, given by Sir Oliver Lodge at Oxford, the press reports of which have attracted much attention. The lecture now published for the first time is certainly of unusual interest, giving a clear and comprehensive account of the new discoveries regarding the breaking up of the atom and the transmutation of matter. President Jordan, of Stanford University, contributes an article on the training of the physician, which like everything that he writes contains many new and suggestive ideas.

LENK'S COSTLY "CUSSWORDS"

Plainfielder Swore When Claiming Property Stored in Defendant's Barn.

Through a decision of a six-man jury in a trover and conversion case in Justice Cooper's court, yesterday in Washingtonville, Henry Albert has become the owner of $40.65 worth of farming implements for $5 because the plaintiff "cussed him."

The defendant was Henry Albert, a farmer and the plaintiff was John Lenk, a neighbor. Albert was represented by S. S. Swackhamer and Lenk employed Horace Coddington, of Somerville, to fight his case. The evidence showed that Lenk stored some property in his neighbor's barn. War was declared between the two and when Lenk came to get his belongings he "used some curse words in the presence of me and my wife," as Albert testified, and he was not allowed to enter Albert's yard.

The jury was composed of Gus Schneider, T. C. Bird, J. W. (Walt) Whitman, Fred Kirch, Charles Lock and Edward Handel.

THE FORUM.

Communications from readers of The Daily Press on all subjects of local interest are invited. All such communications must be stripped of personalities, and must be signed by the writer. His name will not necessarily be published. The editor is not responsible for views expressed in this column.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

In the Mount Olive Church on Sunday morning service I said that three years ago I had made the statement that I would make an attack upon any article of a criticising nature published in the city papers against our race, but the time has come that I am compelled to be dormant as to any defensive stand. You have made no attack. I said: "The conduct of our people, that low and debase element, which has recently come here, has been the means of the better class of our people keeping silent as to any attempt to defend them.

"All I regret is that the better class of the whites will not discriminate our people, as a good, and upright class as they find in their own race, and not include us all, and say we are alike, for we are not alike morally. This class of negroes which has caused the closing of Galvin's Park against the race by their conduct, is a part of that element which caused lynching, and inhuman outrages upon the negro of the South; and will stirr up a similar lawless feeling here in the North. We have a first class, well educated, and Christian class of colored people here in Plainfield, and are as much opposed to this ignorant, debased and brutal class of negroes as the white race is. We unite in protesting against them being rendered accessible to any place where the moral element of either white or black assemble for social pleasure." This is the cause of my dogmatic stand against public balls. I speak for the better class of colored people in this city, and say that the only offence committed against us by the barrier put up against the negro frequenting the park is, by allowing that class any day at all. I also condemned the people for such a little demonstration of street etiquette, loud talking, taking up the whole sidewalk when they should divide; using proper language, while some of the lower class of the white race is guilty of the same on the street, yet he urge that we follow the example laid down by the most lofty, and demonstrate to the world that the church, the school, and the fire side teaching has had their effect. We are more of an enemy to ourselves than the white race is.

Indignation meetings held by the negroes of the North against the whites of the South, will never do any good. The problem of the race must be solved by the two races on a high plane, and morality is the standard. I said with all of the intellectual training there seems to be a moral reaction. Our young people's moral standard numerically speaking, is not as high as that of their parents forty years ago. I hold that the two races should be kept separate so far as marriage is concerned, and no human associaiton that would mix the blood should be countenanced, and if Mr. Galvin saw a sign of this in the park, he has my heartiest congratulations.

BEHIND CLOSED PORTALS

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

There will be an important meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tomorrow evening, and every member is urged to attend.

One new candidate was initiated to the rank of Pilgrim last night at the meeting of the members of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle. On account of the severe storm there was a small attendace and few more than the regular quorum necessary was on hand to attend to the routine business.

The plans for the new Masonic Hall in Nutley have been completed, and it is expected that ground will be broken soon. It will cost about $25,000. The building will be forty by eighty feet, of brick, three stories high, with an extension twenty by forty-two feet, and one-story high. The first floor will contain stores, with three bowling alleys in the extension; the second will include two apartments of six rooms each and janitor's quarters, while on the third floor will be the lodgeroom and a public hall which with the gallery will have a seating capacity of about 450. The gallery will be so arranged that it may be used as a dining-room. The building will be heated by steam and lighted by gas and electric light.

PERSONAL.

Charles Vail, of Valley Station, is visiting his mother at her home on Arlington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Ulrick, of East Fifth street, are spending the week at Manhattan Beach.

Mrs. J. H. Krymer, of East Fifth street, who is at the hospital, is reported to be better today.

Mrs. John Haffner, of Central street, Netherwood, who met with an accident Monday, now has peritonitis. Her condition is as well as can be expected.

Injured by Fall.

John Pennington, of Liberty street, while at work on a building at Westfield, yesterday, fell from the second story and injured his back and limbs. He was brought to this city in the ambulance and was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital. After his injuries were dressed he was removed to his home. His injuries are not serious.

NEXT BEST PLACE?

Allegation That Plainfield is Second Only to Bound Brook, "Most Unkindest Cut of All."

We do not hear much at present concerning the annexation of North Plainfield to its big sister town, but it is a fact that Plainfield is slowly acquiring some of Somerset's best citizens, even if it does not get any of our territory. From Bound Brook alone within a few years past many of our good people have removed to Plainfield, and this week the families of Rev. T. E. Davis and L. O. Haughey have been added to the list. The principal reason for this state of affairs seems to lie in the fact that Bound Brook has no stock of vacant houses standing ready for new occupants, and when it becomes necessary for people to vacate residences here they are obliged to go out of town, and they locate at Plainfield, as it is the next best place.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

Patriotic Order's Session.

Potent Pill Pleasure.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot, of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel blue-mass or any other pills I ever took and at the same time it effected me pleasantly. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by L. J. H. CARNEY'S REMAINS BORNE TO THE GRAVE

Funeral of Popular Boroughite Attended by a Large Crowd of Personal Friends.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

BAYONNE MINISTER HAS CHARGE OF SERVICES AT THE HOUSE.

Odd Fellows Conduct Its Ritual at the Grave—Organizations Present in a Body—Interment in M. E. Cemetery.

In the presence of three hundred people funeral services over the remains of John Henry Carney were held at the home of his father-in-law, former Freeholder Jacob Voehl, on Somerset street, yesterday afternoon.

The services were impressive in their simplicity. They were opened with a solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Elmer Cutting. Rev. Dr. Millard Grant, pastor of the M. E. Church at Bayonne, N. J., officiated and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved family and friends gathered at the house out of respect for the departed. "Abide With Me" was another hymn sung in a feeling manner by Mr. Cutting. At the close of the service the people were given an opportunity to pass the bier to look for the last time on the face of one of the best known citizens of North Plainfield. In the line were members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., Perseverance Lodge, No. 47, Knights of Pythias and of the Master Mechanics' Association, of which organizations the dead man was a member.

At the grave the services were in charge of the Odd Fellows. The interment was in the M. E. Cemetery. The remains were borne by pall bearers representing the Odd Fellows and the Knights of Pythias. They were John H. Cose, Morgan Turton and Andrew Saffron, of the Pythian lodge, Seaman Mantz, John Becker, Jr., and Henry Nischwitz, of the Odd Fellows. The ritual of the Odd Fellows was read at the grave in the presence of the immediate family and relatives. Chaplain C. M. Raybert, Fred Becker and S. H. Schleif were master of ceremonies.

The floral display was handsome. Set pieces were conspicuous and among others was one large piece, the gift of the Odd Fellows lodge and another from the Pythians.

It was one of the largest funerals held in the borough in some time and in the gathering of friends there were people present from many other places.

NEWARK'S CITY HALL.

Cornerstone Laid by Grand Lodge of New Jersey, Free and Accepted Masons.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, Aug. 6—With impressive display, in the presence of a great multitude of citizens, and with all the ceremony of its ancient craft, the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, Free and Accepted Masons, officiated in the laying of the cornerstone of Newark's new city hall, at Broad and Green streets, yesterday morning.

The actual ceremonies attending the placing of the stone were directed by W. Holt Apgar, of Trenton, grand master of the Grand Lodge. He formally laid the stone, and his order various other officials of the Grand Lodge went though the form of testing the stone after it was set, in order to ascertain if it was level, plumb and square. These functions were interspersed with the singing of appropriate odes by the Aurora Grata quartette, a Masonic institution.

Well-Earned Vacation.

Money Order Clerk Wm. B. Sharp, of the postoffice staff, is taking a much-needed rest from his duties. He is on his fifteen days' vacation. His place is being filled by Ernest Millard, while Daniel Shea, a substitute, is assisting James A. Martin at the general delivery window. These changes were necessary on account of the illness of Daniel T. Clawson.

THOS. WEARREN TAKES A BRIDE

CHOOSES MISS MARGARET HART, OF THIS CITY, AS HIS WIFE.

Wedding in St. Mary's Church—Attendants at Ceremony—Father Egan Officiating.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Hart and Thomas Wearren, Jr., both of this city, took place in St. Mary's Church yesterday afternoon. Rev. Father Egan officiated in the presence of a large congregation of friends.

Miss Jeanette Hart, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor; Patrick Wearren, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with lace and the maid-of-honor was attired in pink silk. Both carried roses.

After the wedding a short reception was held at the home of the groom, the couple subsequently departing for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in this city. The bride received a large number of handsome presents including cut glass, silverware and furniture.

Miss Hart is a resident of Westervelt avenue and is well known in the city. Her father-in-law's gift is a house at Rock avenue on Second street.

METHODISTS AT SHORE TODAY

All of the M. E. Sunday-Schools Well Represented—Return at 9:15.

Dispite the chilly morning, nearly five hundred members of the First M. E. and Grace M. E. churches, of this city, left town today for a day's sojourn beside the briny ocean at Asbury Park. Aside from these churches, large representatives from the Monroe Avenue and the Dunellen M. E. churches were already aboard the train and when the long section of fifteen cars and a baggage coach pulled out of the station here there were few seats in the cars to spare.

While the visiting element at today's excursion was less than at any thus far this season, almost full representations from the various Sunday-schools represented were taken along, and all anticipated a pleasant day at the shore. The return will be made this evening at 7:10 and the excursionists may be expected to arrive in this city at about 9:15.

RARE BIRD CAPTURED.

Farmer Kills Bittern on the Mountain and Will Have It Stuffed.

A farmer by the name of Anderson while walking on the mountains back of town yesterday started up a large and beautiful bird. He blazed away with his gun and brought down the creatuer, which proved to be a most perfect specimen of English bittern. Such a creature is considered a rare avis in this locality and has been much admired by the friends of the capturer. The bird stands all of thirty-five inches in height and its wings have a spread of nearly four feet. Anderson brought the bird to town to have it stuffed and mounted by a local taxidermist.

Terrill Gets Five Years.

J., and who also figured in the police court here, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Skinner, of Newark, to five years' imprisonment at hard labor. George Grouse, who was an accomplice in the Y. M. A. C. robbery at Newark, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Needs Attention.

Persons who are obliged to travel along West Front street in the vicinity of Grant avenue, are complaining about the way that the weeds and broken limbs are allowed to remain in front of the Bernard Brady property, extending from the coal yard of Geo. O. Stevens to Oxford place. A word from the street commissioner would certainly have the desired effect.

AMENDMENTS VIEWED BY LEARNED LAWYER

E. Q. Keasbey Explains the Provisions the Constitutional Changes.

ADVOCATES ADOPTION

DECLARES THAT AMENDMENTS ARE FOR BEST INTERESTS OF STATE.

Special Election to be Held September 22—Provisions in Detail—Reason for Their Submission to the People.

Counselor Edward Q. Keasbey, a prominent member of the State Bar, has issued this interesting statement to explain the effect of the proposed constitutional changes soon to be submitted to the people:

"The amendments relate for the most part to the judiciary. Incidentally there is a change in the paragraphs relating to the pardoning power of the Executive and in a paragraph relating to the appointment of civil officers.

"The first amendment affects paragraph 10 of Article V, concerning the Executive. This paragraph gives the pardoning power to the Governor, the Chancellor and the six judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals, or the major of them, of whom the Governor shall be one. The proposed amendment gives this power to the Governor, the Chancellor and the Attorney General, or two of them, of whom the Governor shall be one.

"The six judges in the Cour of Errors and Appeals provided for in the constitution of 1844, were a survival of the Council which with the Governor under the Constitution of 1776 constituted the Court of Errors and Appeals and possessed the pardoning power.

"The Senate took the legislative power of the Council, but these portions of their executive and judicial power were given to the six judges.

"The pardoning power is one of the functions of the Executive and the Governor alone can actually grant a pardon. The Chancellor and the Attorney General are selected as competent officers to advise with him on this subject.

"There are several amendments proposed to Article VI concerning the judiciary. No charge is proposed in the first section, which names the courts in which the judicial power is vested.

"Section 2 of this article relates to the Court of Errors and Appeals. It declares that the court shall consist of the Chancellor, the justices of the Supreme Court and six judges to be appointed for six years. It directs that the six judges shall arrange themselves so that the seat of one shall be vacated each year, and that they shall receive a per diem compensation; that the Secretary of State shall be the clerk of the court, and that neither the Chancellor nor the justice of the Supreme Court shall take part in the hearing of cases in which the court have decided below, but shall inform the court in writing of the reasons for their opinion.

"The proposed amendment declares that the court shall consist of a chief judge and four associate judges, or any four of them. This is the important change that is made. Instead of the Chancellor, the nine justices of the Supreme Court and six other judges, the court is to be composed of five judges who are not to be members of the courts appealed from and who shall have no other judicial duties.

"Provision is made for designation of a justice of the Supreme Court, the Chancellor or Vice Chancelelor to act as judge in case of the disqualification of incapacity of two of the judges. A new provision is made so as to do away with a second appeal from Circuit Court cases. It is provided that the jurisdiction heretofore vested in the Supreme Court by writ of error shall be vested exclusively in the Court of Errors and Appeals.

"The purpose and effect of the amendment of this second section of the judiciary article is to relieve the Chancellor and the justices of the Supreme Court of the increasing pressure of their duties in the Court of Errors and Appeals and to provide a bench of judges that shall devote themselves wholly to the deliberate hearing and prompt decision of cases on appeal both at law and in equity.

"The next amendment is of section 4 of the judiciary article. This relates to the Court of Chancery. The amendment declares that the Court of Chancery shall consist of a Chancellor and such number of Vice Chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom shall exercise the jurisdiction of the court, the court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the court where the same is not regulated by statute."

"As a matter of fact Vice Chancellors have exercised the jurisdiction of the court for the last thirty years. The purpose of this amendmen is to give the Vice Chancellors constitutional authority and to make them de jure as well as de facto members of the court with power to sign the orders and decrees which they make. They, together with the Chancellor, are to constitute the Court of Chancery, and the court as a body is empowered to make rules regulating the practice.

"Section 5 of the judiciary article relates to the Supreme Court and the Circuit Courts. The constitution of these courts remains unchanged. The number of the associate justices of the Supreme Court may be increased or decreased by law, but must not be less than two. The Circuit Courts are to be held in every county by one or more of the justices of the Supreme Court or a judge appointed for the purpose. The first amendment authorizes the court to sit in divisions at the same or different times and places, and the second strikes out the last paragraph, so that the jurisdiction to review judgments of the Circuit Court by writ of error may be vested exclusively in the Court of Errors and Appeals. The first of these amendments will serve the public convenience by permitting the court to sit in different cities at the same time.

"The amendments to section 6 strike out two obselete provisions limiting the number of Common Pleas judges and arranging the dates of their commissions and insert instead the following: 'The Court of Common Pleas shall be constituted and held in each county as may be provided by law.'

"The amendment of section 2 of article 7, concerning civil officers, makes provision for the continuance in office of the Chancellor and the justices of the Supreme Courvt according to their respective commissions, and provides that all judges and Chancellor and Vice Chancellors shall be appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

"The only new thing in this amendment is the provision for the appointment of the Vice Chancellors. There is no provision for such officers under the present Constitution, and the appointment of these officers, like that of all other judicial officers, is given to the Governor, with the consent of the Senate.

"Each of these amendments may be voted on separately. To vote against any particular amendment you write the word 'Against' on the margin; to vote for all the amendments you cast the ballot as printed. If there is any amendment you do not wish to vote on either way, this amendment may be cancelled by lines drawn across it on the ballot."

MISSIONARY WOMAN'S TALK ON WESTERN LIFE

Miss Josephine Petrie Makes a Delightful Address on Manners and Customs.

INCIDENTS OF A TRIP

VISITS LOS ANGELES AS REPRESENTATIVE TO MISSIONARY MEETING.

Passage Through Indian Territory, New Mexico, Colorado and Montana—Address in First Presbyterian Church.

An interesting informal talk on the habits and customs of the inhabitants of the West was given by Miss Josephine Petrie last evening in the assembly hall of the First Presbyterian Church. Miss Petrie is secretary of the young people's department of the Board of Home Missions in connection with the church and has but recently returned from an extended visit of the church mission schools along the Pacific coast. The address was in connection with a service of song and praise led by Eugene M. Cave.

Early in May, Miss Petrie visited Los Angeles as the representative from this city at the meeting of the General Assembly Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church, at that place. From Los Angeles, she travelled northward almost to Canada and then Eastward to Chicago and thus to New York. The trip took seven weeks and was over eleven thousand miles.

Miss Petrie spoke in a delightfully informal way throughout the whole address, outlining her course along the Pacific and giving here and there interesting incidents showing the manners and customs of the people as well as sketches of stages of the trip. She spoke of her passage through the Indian Territory and of her tedious thirty-mile mule ride northward then into New Mexico, of the visits to Santa Fe, the grand canon of Colorado, and to San Francisco, where she made a trip through the world-famed "Chinatown." Thence of the course northward through Montana to Portland where some little time was spent, and of the noted salmon fisheries visited in the trip up the Columbia River and Southward and eastward again through the various states and territories to Chicago and on to New York.

GOOD NOZZLE.

Chief Doane's Successful Experiment With Nozzle Sending Stream 175 Feet.

The trial of the deluge hose nozzle which took place yesterday afternoon on West Fourth street near Darrow avenue, was successful and Chief Doane, of the local fire department, announced himself as well pleased. With a full head of water, the nozzle threw a large stream 176 feet and when pointed straight in the air the water rose to a height of 100 feet. The outfit was sent on to the local fire department for trial by the manufacturers and is of excellent quality and workmanship, being of the most modern style. Equipment of this character would be of great benefit to the fire department in handling conflagrations in some of the high buildings of the city.

Firemen's Jaunt.

L. B. Bodine, foreman of Warren Engine Company, is in receipt of an invitation from the members of the Bound Brook fire department to attend their outing at Riverside Park, Monday evening. Although the communication arrived too late to be presented at the regular meeting Monday night last, the majority of the members will take the trip to the Park. The local men will leave here on the 6:30 train.

Work on Engine House.

The work of placing the heavy iron beams in the new fire engine headquarters in North Plainfield has been going on for several days. A large machine punch has been taken to the new building and many people watch the machine punch holes in the heavy iron girders. The ease with which the machine drives bolt holes in the iron beams is astonishing.

Plainfielders at West Point.

Seventy-five people from here are among those enjoying the special excursion to West Point, today, under the auspices of the New Jersey Central. They went from here to New York on a regular train and at the latter place a steamboat took the party up the Hudson.

South Jersey glass blowers have expressed themselves in open defiance to the enforcement of the provisions of the new child labor law as passed by the Legislature last winter. This law, which fixes the minimum age of which children may be employed at fourteen years, becomes effective September 1.

The machinists at the shops of Theodore Smith & Sons, of Jersey City, are on strike for lower wages. Eight weeks ago a walking delegate called at the works and made inquiries as to scale of wages paid. When he was told that no workman received less than $3 per day, but some skilled men received $3.50 and one or two experts $3.75, he demanded that the firm should abrogate this custom and adopt a uniform scale of $3 a day for skilled and unskilled workmen alike. The firm refused to do this, and the walking delegate ordered a strike.

New Materials for Bread.

Some of the many materials used for bread have been brought to notice by M. Paul Combes. Beans, peas and other leguminous seeds, as well as maize and other vegetable substances, require mixing with wheat or rye, or the bread is liable to be soggy, indigestible, or otherwise of poor quality. Mashed potatoes mixed with wheat or maize flour give palatable bread, which, however, attracts moisture. Rice flour makes fine yellow bread, agreeable both to sight and taste, and the chestnut bread that forms the chief food of the Corsican mountaineers is healthful, agreeable, digestible and keeps 15 days or longer. Bread has been made from acorns, people in France having been reduced to the necessity in time of scarcity. Mosses, dried and powdered, are still esteemed for bread by Norwegians; and other substances that have been used—most of them yielding little nutrition without the addition of cereal flour—include the roots of bryonia, colchicum, iris, serpentaria, mandragora and hellebore and the leaves of aconite, etc.

Not Wasted.

One of the principal sights in Tangiers, to a certain class of tourists, is the city jail, wherein the sultan of Morocco's subjects are kept chained amid surroundings that are inconceivable to European minds.

But the "trippers" do not see the old original prison that did duty in Muley Hassan's time.

That was built deep down below sea-level, and was so unutterably loathsome that it was, in deference to the prejudices of the foreign consuls, closed outright by his majesty's express order.

This, however, did not suit the then governor of Tangiers. It seemed to him a wicked and wanton waste of valuable space. So he had the horrible place perfunctorily cleansed—in obedience to those ridiculous consular prejudices again—and utilized it as a storehouse for ripening bananas.—Stray Stories.

Self-Convicted.

"I thought you had never been married!"

"Well, have I?"

"You have! and you have basely deceived me!"

"Who has been so kind as—"

"Oh, it was from your lips I had it."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. Do you remember that you dozed away in the hammock when I was swinging you last evening?"

"Well, suppose I did, what of it?"

"Only this: When I stopped swinging you, you yelled: 'John, for heaven's sake put out the milk bucket and come to bed! You know I can't sleep till you do.'"—Houston Post.

Sold Her Child.

A lady in costly mourning attire was walking in a street in Vienna the other day when she saw a beggar woman with three children, one of them a girl of two, sitting at the foot of a monument. She sent a street porter to ask if she would give up the girl. The woman nodded, whereupon the lady in black walked up to her, gave her some banknotes, and took the child to a store. Half an hour later she emerged with the same child elegantly dressed, hailed a cab and drove away.—N. Y. Post.

Tough Microbes.

That the microbes which cause disease cannot be killed by firing them out of a gun has been proved in official government experiments. Microbes of malignant pustule, of abscesses and of the intestines were smeared upon the face of the gun wad, put next the powder, and fired into sterile gelatin in agar-agar. In each case the microbes developed, each after its kind, in the medium receiving the wad.—Science.

The Higher Court.

Jenkins—I think it's a splendid opportunity for you. What are you going to do about it?

Henpeck—I haven't the slightest idea.

"But surely you can give an opinion."

"Oh, bless you, no! My wife always hands down the opinion."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Castalian Took Seneca Stakes.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The racing was characterized by a very heavy track. The stake event was the Seneca, for three-year-olds, a six furlong sprint, in which there were eight starters. Toscan, the favorite, got away in the lead, a good start, with Castalian following closely and the rest of the field bunched. Counterpoise, an Albany horse, who had been backed from 2 to 1 down to 9 to 5, was third at the start. The positions were unchanged at the quarter pole, but Castalian took the lead at the three-eighths mark and was never headed, Toscan finishing second by two lengths in a drive and Virgin Soil by three-quarters of a length. Counterpoise finished fourth, half a length ahead of Foxy Kane.

Alleged Ringing at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—By the alertness of Judge Brady what is believed to have been an attempt at "ringing" was frustrated at Delmar park. Untrue, a two-year-old of fair class, has been running unplaced in poor fields of horses for some time. Untrue opened at 20 to 1 and was heavily played, going to the post at 5 to 1. The betting aroused Judge Brady's suspicion. The horse Untrue, in a dash of five and a half furlongs for two-year-olds, on examination was found to be a four-year-old. Judge Brady declared all bets off and ordered the horse scratched.

Dan Patch Broke Track Record.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 6.—A record breaking crowd attended the first day's racing of the Lake Erie circuit at Reed's track. The weather was fine, but the track was slow owing to recent rains, with a strong wind blowing up the home stretch. It was favorites' day, all three races having been won in straight heats. The judges nipped a job in the first heat of the 2:19 trot and fined the driver, Al Marion, $25 for deliberately losing the heat. Dan Patch, the famous pacing stallion, broke the local half mile track record of 2:10½ by going the mile in 2:09. He went the half mile in 1:03¾.

Warned Off Harlem Track.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The racing firm of Lind & Co. of San Francisco, Jockey Treanor, James Lynch and James Harris, the latter two employees of the Arthur stable, were ruled off the turf by the stewards of the Harlem Jockey club and Chicago Jockey club. The ruling of the Harlem officials follows: "The temporary suspension of C. Lind, D. J. Lynch and Jockey Treanor is made permanent, and they are warned off the Harlem race track."

Finals For Glenview Golf Cup.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Miss Bessie Anthony of Glenview, the western champion, and Miss "Johnnie" Carpenter will contest this morning in the finals for the Glenview cup. Both won their matches in handy fashion in the semi-finals, Miss Anthony winning from Miss Elizabeth Congdon, Glenview, 5 up, 4 to play, and Miss Carpenter from Miss M. Morris, Evanston, 5 up, 3 to play.

Banckart Got the Verdict.

BUFFALO, Aug. 6.—There were close finishes in nearly all the races at Fort Erie. There were five heads on the wire in the mile event, and Banckart, well ridden by Adams, got the verdict. Little Boy and Albula had a duel in the first race, and the first named won by a nose. Trocadero had a head the best of Arrah Gowan in the mile and a furlong race.

Warte Nicht Won at Harlem.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Gregor K. in the feature event at Harlem met defeat by Warte Nicht, a 4 to 1 shot. Sidney C. Love was third. Sardine was the only other starter in the race. Wolfram, at 150 to 1 and neglected almost entirely in the betting, won the second race easily by three lengths.

Faulkner Gets Three Years.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—Harry A. Faulkner, former member of the house of delegates, after his third trial on the charge of perjury, was convicted and his punishment fixed at three years' imprisonment. At the first trial Faulkner was convicted, but the supreme court reversed and remanded the case. The jury that tried the case the second time disagreed.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Phil May, the artist and illustrator of Punch, the Graphic and other periodicals, is dead.

STORM'S FATAL WORK

Workmen at World's Fair Blown From the Buildings.

ONE KILLED, MANY BADLY INJURED

Some Roof Workers Were Carried More Than Fifty Feet by the Wind Before Being Dashed to the Ground.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—Caught by the heavy windstorm here, one man was killed and three or four are so badly injured that they will die and many received less injury by being hurled from buildings in the world's fair grounds. So suddenly did the violent storm break that the men who were at work did not have time to climb down out of harm's way.

Calls were sent in at once by members of the Jefferson guards on the grounds for ambulances to care for the wounded. At first it was believed that five men had lost their lives and even now it is impossible to ascertain definitely just how many persons were killed or injured.

One was dead when the guards reached his side, and it is said that four others could not live until the trip to hospitals was made.

The accident wards of the hospitals were filled with men who had been injured less seriously. Some of the men caught by the wind before they had time to climb down from the buildings were carried more than fifty feet by the wind before being dashed to the ground.

WIZZ WAGON TEST.

Motor Cars Will Be Tried on Eight Hundred and Fifty Mile Run.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Pittsburg is to be the destination of the greatest endurance test run for automobiles ever planned in this country. This was definitely decided at a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers.

A run will be started from New York on Wednesday, Oct. 7, and will terminate in Pittsburg on the following Wednesday. The route of approximately 850 miles will be covered in seven days, an average of 120 miles a day. The shortest day's runs will be eighty-three miles and the longest will be 150 miles. The route will be across the state via Corning and Binghamton to Buffalo and thence to Erie, Cleveland and Pittsburg.

The contest will not be one of speed, it being the aim to make the run as nearly as possible under ordinary touring conditions.

Escaped From Wreck by Window.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 6.—The Boston and Chicago special was wrecked at Charlton depot in a collision with an east bound freight. The freight engine after taking water was recrossing the main track when the express bound for Boston came along at a forty-five mile clip, with all signals set for a clear track. Both engines were wrecked and two cars of the express derailed. The damage is estimated at over $30,000. Passengers on the derailed cars escaped through the windows. The engineer and fireman of the express crawled out of the ruins unhurt. The passengers in the Pullmans were badly shaken up and tumbled around. The tracks will not be clear till morning.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Andrew Carnegie has made known his intention to donate $2,500,000 in United States Steel corporation bonds to Dunfermline, Scotland, his birthplace. He stipulates that the gift shall be employed in keeping up the estate of Pittencrieff, which contains the tower in which Malcolm Canmore married Princess Margaret and which he recently purchased, as a pleasure ground. The gift is also to be used for the maintenance of a theater, the encouragement of horticulture among the working classes and the advancement of technical education in the district, which is the center of the linen industry.

LONG LIVE THE KING!

Spiritual Sovereign of Rome Receives American Pilgrims.

CARDINAL GIBBONS ARRANGED IT.

Band of Americans In the Holy City After Journeying to Receive Leo XIII.'s Blessing Get Special Benediction From Pius X.

ROME, Aug. 6.—The spirit of "the king is dead, long live the king," which has been repeated through all the languages upon a change of sovereigns was the dominant note at the Vatican among those gathered there, not to acknowledge an earthly sovereign, but to accept without reserve Pope Pius X. as their spiritual king.

Not only has American enterprise enjoyed the honor of first announcing the accession of the present pontiff to the chair of St. Peter, but Americans enjoyed the far greater privilege and honor of being the first among those of many other countries who were to follow to convey to his holiness the homage of the nations. The American pilgrimage conducted by John J. McGrane of New York and Father Lynch of the Niagara university, Buffalo, which left the United States for its pious journey to Rome to receive the blessing of Leo XIII., arrived while the conclave was sitting. Its members lingered until the never to be forgotten moment when the election of the new pope was announced and then decided reluctantly to leave. But it was with tears of disappointment at not having been able to see the holy father that the pilgrims packed and strapped their luggage and sent it to the station.

While the desolate band was eating a hurried luncheon preparatory to leaving Mr. McGrane, with radiant face, burst in waving a paper and almost dancing in his excitement.

"You shall see him, you shall see him!" he cried. "Our cardinal has arranged it."

Cardinal Gibbons had been asked to try to arrange for the reception of the Americans and had promised to do his best, at the same time explaining how unprecedented it would be for a pope so soon after his election to receive a foreign pilgrimage when there were scores of high dignitaries who had not yet been admitted, including even the diplomatic body. Nevertheless he used his immense influence with the happiest result and secured the consent of the pope to receive his fellow countrymen.

Their luggage was hastily brought back from the station in order that they might appear in proper apparel at the bronze doors of the Vatican. There they were met by Mgr. Kennedy, rector of the American college, whose presence was quite sufficient to make the Swiss guard step back, present arms and give entrance to all. They trooped up the high stairway and on through the corridors, bending their heads to pass through the openings in the walls which had been erected for the conclave. Bricks were still lying about on the flagstones.

Through the beautiful loggia of Raphael they passed to the unique hall of Inscriptions, where a halt was called. Every heart was fluttering, every pulse beating highly as they waited moment after moment, but still the holy father did not come. Guards gathered and strangers passed to and fro. Cardinal Gibbons, Mgr. Kennedy and Mgr. Bisleti disappeared. The poor pilgrims, who numbered about a hundred, waited on as though they had been abandoned. Suddenly there was a murmured "Hush, hush!" and they saw two Swiss guards enter from a corridor. Before they could quite realize it the pope stood among them. Pius X. is a little taller than Cardinal Gibbons, giving, however, the impression of being a much larger man, as he is inclined to stoutness. He has abundant gray hair, with no sign of baldness; dark, clear eyes, handsome features and a magnificent soft voice, to which is added a peculiar grace due to his musical Venetian accent. His whole person evidenced great benignity and cordiality.

He walked slowly, but with the firmness of quite a young man, down the long kneeling line, accompanied by Cardinal Gibbons and Mgr. Kennedy, and giving to each of the pilgrims as he passed his hand to be kissed. He spoke a few words to almost every one. Pius X. was arrayed completely in white, without a gleam of color except that which sparkled from the huge emerald on his finger. Cardinal Gibbons was on his right in red robes and Mgr. Kennedy on his left in purple. They were preceded by Swiss guards, with halberds, and followed by members of the Noble guards. The moving group was set off by the kneeling women, who were all in black, their womanliness made more womanly by the black lace veils which hung from their hair. The men wore dress suits and the priests black gowns. Pope Pius X. appeared to be very much interested when Father Lynch presented to him a box containing a white zucchetto, saying:

"We would be extremely gratified if your holiness would accept this gift in exchange for the one you wear."

"I will cheerfully do so," the pope replied immediately. Thereupon Mgr. Bisleti lifted the zucchetto which the pope wore from his head and replaced it with the one which had been presented by Father Lynch. Mr. McGrane handed to Pius the offerings which the pilgrims had hastily put together after lunch.

The pope spoke specially to the members of the Lante family of Philadelphia, Father John E. Burke, pastor of the Church of St. Benedict the Moor of New York, and Father Wall, who expressly represented Archbishop Farley, and to Father James Roger Matthews of Washington. To Father Burke he gave a special benediction for the colored people. Occasionally as the pope passed along he laid his hand upon the head of one of the pilgrims. He spoke to Eugene Kelly of New York, Father McKenna of New York, the brother of Mgr. Kennedy, Father James E. Cleary of Reading, Pa., and to Mr. White of Louisville, Ky. The latter was so touched that he could not restrain his emotions. When Pius reached the persons who waved two American flags yesterday at St. Peter's and who were carrying them he exclaimed: "Cara, cara, America—dear America! Forty-four stars, eh?"

When he reached the last person in the line he turned, and while all the pilgrims knelt he gave the apostolic blessing, ending with the words:

"I recommend myself to your pious prayers."

It was a moment of most intense emotion, and scarcely an eye was dry. Cardinal Gibbons upon leaving the Vatican said that he had been delighted to present the American pilgrimage to the new pope under such happy circumstances.

Pope Pius X., yielding to the pressure exercised by the foreign cardinals, who are desirous of returning to their respective countries as soon as possible, has decided that his coronation shall take place next Sunday.

ROOT VISITS ROOSEVELT.

On Matters of Importance Regarding Army and Littauer Case.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Secretary of War Root has arrived here to confer with the president concerning some pending matters of importance in his department. In a few days the army will have a new commander in the person of Major General Samuel B. M. Young, who will become chief of staff on the retirement of Lieutenant General Miles. A few details concerning the work of the general staff remain yet to be worked out, and these the secretary desired to discuss with the president. Secretary Root also desired to talk with the president about the latest developments in the Littauer-Lyon glove contract case, one phase of which has been referred to Attorney General Knox for an opinion as to whether the government may recover any part of the money paid under the contract.

In a driving rain storm a brass band composed of colored boys from the Jenkins orphanage at Charleston, S. C., marched from the village to Sagamore Hill, about three miles, to serenade the president and his family. The band did not reach the president's residence, being turned back to Oyster Bay by the secret service officer on duty.

All telegraphic communication has been cut in the districts mentioned. A dispatch from Salonika reported dynamite outrages in the vicinity of Monastir and the existence of great uneasiness which had led the authorities to take extraordinary precautions. The dispatch stated that several nihilists had arrived at Salonika and that it was feared a serious outbreak had been planned for Sept. 1, the sultan's birthday, although it might occur sooner.

KODOL Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

DEFENSE OF MAINE COAST.

Admiral Barker Sails to Look For the Hostile Fleet.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 6.—To defend the Maine coast from attack by the "hostile fleet" of United States vessels which put to sea from here the remaining portion of the north Atlantic squadron sailed out, with the flagship Kearsarge, Rear Admiral Barker commanding, in the lead, but soon after they were clear of the harbor the vessels separated to proceed to the positions or sections of coast assigned to them for protection. As the orders were secret, none of the ships knew what its station was to be until after the departure from here.

With Admiral Barker to act on the defensive are Admiral Coghlan on his flagship the Olympia and Admiral Wise on his flagship the Yankee. The other vessels of the fleet are the battle ships Alabama and Illinois, the cruisers Baltimore, Prairie and Panther, the dispatch boat Vixen, the torpedo boat destroyers Decatur, Bainbridge, Barry, Dale and Chauncey, two government tugs and the school ship Hartford.

As the hostile fleet, which is under Rear Admiral Sands, is expected to make an attack or attempt an anchorage at any time now, every vessel on the defense should reach its position as soon as possible. They must protect the coast from Cape Ann to Eastport.

Admiral Sands' squadron includes the battle ships Indiana, Massachusetts and Texas and three torpedo boat destroyers.

Three battle ships have been sighted off Machias Libby island moving west, and two torpedo boat destroyers were maneuvering among the islands of the inner harbor at the same time. The vessels are supposed to be a part of the defending fleet.

The saloons and gardens of the villa were thronged. The band of the Brooklyn furnished the music.

HANGED ON A WIRE

William Hamilton Confessed Killing Little Girl.

WORK OF DETERMINED, QUIET MEN

Masked Band After Discussing a Suitable Death For the Murderer Lands Him on Wire Between Telegraph Poles.

ASOTIN, Wash., Aug. 6.—William Hamilton, the farmer who confessed that he murdered Mabel Richards, the eleven-year-old daughter of Sheriff Richards was taken from the county jail here by a mob and hanged. Sheriff Richards swore in a force of twenty-five deputies to protect Hamilton, but they made no attempt to prevent the mob from carrying out its purpose.

A band of masked men, their faces concealed with handkerchiefs, marched up the street to the county jail. The officers and guards were swept aside by the mob, and Hamilton was dragged out of the cell and down into the yard.

When the lynchers, with Hamilton, reached the street they halted under a guy wire stretched between electric light poles. Here a leader asked Hamilton if he wanted to confess. He did so.

Then there was another short wait. The manner of Hamilton's death was under discussion. Some of the mob thought hanging too good for him and wanted to torture him, but the original programme prevailed, and it was decided to hang him.

Some one produced a black mask like that used in a legal hanging, and it was put over the head of Hamilton. It reached down to his shoulders. The rope was then placed about his neck and thrown over the guy wire. It was seized by many hands, the body was lifted and suspended at a height of about four feet. The doomed man gasped for breath, and his efforts were plainly discernible a distance of two blocks.

After Hamilton's body had been held suspended long enough to make certain that he was dead the rope was tied to a telegraph pole and the body left hanging. The crowd quietly melted away and the streets were soon deserted.

Fatal Quick Blaze.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Robert Bartel lost his life in a fire which destroyed the meat storage house of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, 108 North Sixth street, Williamsburg. He was a carpenter and lived in Bloomfield street near Hudson, in Hoboken. The building, a two and one-half story brick structure, was in course of completion. Five carpenters and five painters were at work, and other men are supposed to have been in the refrigerators when the fire broke out. The place was one of the Armour company branches, and from it was distributed meat to butchers throughout Long Island. Such a dense smoke arose from the burning tarred paper that the neighborhood was shrouded in thick clouds, and it was impossible to tell the fate of the inmates of the building. Firemen working close to the building said they saw two men fall into the fire when the second floor came crashing down. The two men were Bartel and Otto Schwartz of 210 Elm street, Richmond Hill, N. Y. Bartel's body was recovered from the ruins later. Schwartz managed to crawl out a rear door and was sent to the Eastern District hospital. He is badly burned, but it is thought he will live.

Miners Will Not Obey Nichols' Order.

WILKESBARRE, Aug. 6.—Although District President Nichols has ordered the striking miners at the Red Ash colliery to return to work in accordance with the recent resolution of the conciliation board, the miners at that colliery decided to remain out. This will further complicate matters and will result in a long drawn out struggle unless the miners and the company agree on some compromise. The miners say that they cannot return under the present conditions, but are willing to meet with the officials and endeavor to reach an understanding and end the controversy. The colliery has been idle about two weeks, and there is no sign of resuming.

Rebels Capture Anjenhsien.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 6.—The civil and military officers of Kwangsi have been denounced to the Chinese government by the new viceroy for sending false reports of the rebellion in that province, which is regarded as very alarming. The rebels attacked Anjenhsien, in Hengchu prefecture, recently. The citizens were practically without arms, and the governor, hearing of its danger, sent a large amount of war munitions to them, but the escort was defeated and the munitions captured by the rebels, who then assaulted and captured the city.

Kentuckian Blew Out the Gas.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 6.—Pearce Thaxton of Millersburg, Ky., aged twenty years, was found dead in bed in his room. Deceased is said to be the only son of a wealthy Kentuckian. Mr. Thaxton registered at a prominent beach front hotel with five friends. When he arrived he told the bell boy of the hotel that this was his first trip away from home and asked him to show how the gas was used. When he failed to rise the door of his room was forced open, and the young man was found dead in bed. He had evidently blown out the gas.

Death Mystery at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—David Shortsleeves, a machinist who had been missing since Saturday, was found dead at his home here. He had evidently been dead two or three days.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 6, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

Governor Pennypacker boasts of the fact that he never reads the newspapers. He looks it.

James Corbett declares that the fight is never on his mind. Never has been on other people's mind.

Centenarian attributes longevity to minding one's own business. No, the aged person in question is not a woman.

People are not conscious of half their wants. The mission of advertising is to educate them to desire what they need.—Jed Scarboro.

Press and Printer says: "The man who begs that his name be left out of the list of drunks for fear it will hurt his mother's feelings never considered that good lady's sensibilities before in his life."

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe is wasting valuable time in her effort to instill an interest in history among the fashionable women who frequent Newport. Lessons on common sense would be better.

Editor Mason, of the Chronicle, observes that Plainfield is "the next best place" to Bound Brook. We don't know just what causes his hallucination but we do hope for brother Mason's recovery.

With one exception the citizens of this country are trying to figure out whether Emperor William is showing his regard for the guest personally or for the people of the United States generally. The one exception is Cornelius Vanderbilt.

It is announced that Former President Cleveland and United States Senator Hanna are to make addresses from the same platform in the near future. Would like to have been in the Commoner's office, when the news reached Lincoln, Neb.

The Board of Health will receive the thanks of a suffering public which it represents if some suitable means is taken to dispose of garbage. As a disease breeder what is here more harmful than a pile of garbage on a hot summer's day? The people are anxious that the health authorities take prompt action to remedy the present condition of affairs.

"If the members of the Board of Freeholders do not fear an investigation of their methods, it is reasonable to expect that they will call the Newark News to account for its resume of Middlesex County affairs, which, if the Freeholders are really only half as innocent as they claim to be, must be basely slanderous. The public waits anxiously for such a move."—New Brunswick Home News.

"And wouldn't they be chumps to attempt it? On the other hand, if they are half as bad as painted why did not the grand jury indict and the prosecutor try them in court instead of the newspapers."—Perth Amboy Chronicle.

The newspaper has rendered valuable service to the people of Middlesex County in bringing the search light of printer's ink to play on the alleged rottenness. It's up to the prosecutor after that.

Philadelphia may be slow in some things but when it comes to newspapers the Quaker City is entitled to the gold medal. The publishers realize that there are certain intereste which they have in common and are losing no time to protect them.

In referring to the admirable condition prevailing in newspaperdom at the City of Brotherly Love the Camden Post-Telegram observes: "Instead of the cutthroat policy which heretofore has prevailed, they propose to act in mutual accord, agreeing upon certain business propositions which will not interfere with legitimate rivalry, but will effect saving to all. For one thing, they propose to eliminate the 'free puff' and enforce payment for advertising which under various guises creeps into the news columns. The occasional insertion of a free notice for a regular advertiser is a matter of business discretion that will not be interfered with, but the ubiquitous press agent who works the papers for free reading matter and makes himself solid with the advertiser by the amount of space he thus secures without pay, will find it much more difficult to get his matter published, except at advertising rates. Advertising space is the chief asset of a newspaper, and when a publisher gives it away it is like giving away money out of the cash drawer. By a thorough understanding and the maintenance of harmonious business relations, the Philadelphia publishers will be able to increase their profits, at example to be emulated by competing newspapers in other cities."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 9—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Lessons from Paul: How we may get his passion for souls.—Rom. i, 1-17.

Few people have ever been truly converted but that they have had, to some extent at least, a desire for the conversion of others. No sooner had Andrew found Jesus as the Messiah than he sought his brother Peter and led him to Jesus, and this desire for the salvation of others has always been looked upon as one of the evidences of true conversion. But some men have been characterized by this desire far above others. The salvation of the souls of men has been a passion with them—it has been their meat and drink. Conspicuous among such stands the apostle Paul. He was all things to all men if thereby he might save some, and so great was his desire for the salvation of his countrymen, who were Israelites, that he declared that he could wish himself accursed from Christ for their sakes. In other words, he was filled with such a burning desire for their salvation that he would have sacrificed his own soul if thereby he could have saved theirs. Few indeed have been possessed with such a passion for souls, and we may well contemplate it in the great apostle, with the hope and prayer that to some extent at least his mantle may fall upon us and that we may be filled with a deeper desire than ever before for the salvation of the souls of men.

Paul's passion for souls is expressly set forth in his letter to the Romans: "I long to see you that I may impart unto you some spiritual gift." "Oftentimes I purposed to come unto you * * * that I might have some fruit among you also as among other gentiles." And with these expressions of his desire there are also some explanations of it which may suggest to us how we may also become possessed of it.

1. Paul appreciated his own salvation. He delighted to call himself "Paul, a bond servant of Jesus Christ." No one more than he realized that salvation was of grace and that at the same time it was of inestimable value. Appreciating the great gift that God had bestowed upon him, he was anxious that it should be received by others. If we only appreciated our own salvation more we would be filled with a greater desire to see the souls of others saved.

2. Paul realized his indebtedness to the unsaved. "I am a debtor both to the Greeks and to the barbarians; both to the wise and to the unwise; so as much as in me is I am ready to preach the gospel." The saved owe a debt to the unsaved. We have the gospel and can give it to them, and therefore we are under the obligation to do so. Christ has commanded us to preach the gospel to every creature. This debt should impress itself upon us and not be allowed to be lightly set aside. If we could only feel as the apostle felt when he said, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel," we would have a more burning desire to save the unsaved.

3. Paul had faith in the power of the gospel to save. "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one who believeth." Paul earnestly believed in the power of the gospel to save. Do we? We profess to believe it, but do we practically believe it? If so would we not be more anxious and zealous for the salvation of the souls of men? The gospel can save. It is "the power of God unto salvation." Believing this let us seek more earnestly to apply the gospel as a saving power to those about us.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 9, "Stir Up the Gift of God Which Is In Thee"—Text, II Tim. i, 6-8.

Paul, the aged preacher, is prisoner in Rome under sentence of death. His anxiety is not about his own fate, but for the welfare of the churches after his death and for the progress of the Christian faith. He naturally turns to the younger men who have been his companions in travel and preaching. Timothy is particularly dear to him, and his mind many times a day brings up the scenes of his early ministry where he found the young man in a godly home circle. He now longs for the companionship and presence of this active and ardent helper. The tearful sympathy of Timothy appealed strongly to Paul, who had resolutely endured privations, bodily suffering and opposition of every kind. His own pious ancestry was held in thankful remembrance. So he will remind Timothy of his faithful mother and grandmother and the heritage received from them. Of greater value, however, was the commission transmitted by the apostle when by the laying of hands on the young disciple's head he set him apart for the special service of Jesus Christ and His gospel.

The tender heartedness which seems to have been so natural to Timothy might lead him to shrink from the hardships and opposition he had seen heaped upon Paul. Sensitiveness to shame and pain might cause a relaxation of effort and diligence. So he shall be reminded of the danger and exhorted not to be ashamed of the testimony of the Lord nor of Paul, the prisoner, but to suffer hardship, sustained by the power of God. This is a call to the highest and noblest living. It is the recognition and acceptance of the fact that God has saved and called to high and holy work. This was not because of any business capacity or special religious merit and moral excellence. It was because "long ages ago" God had of His own grace and His purpose in Christ Jesus planned just this gift of good tidings to men. This intention of God, ages old, but concealed from men, had now been clearly shown by the appearing of Jesus Christ, who abolished death and brought life and incorruption to open view.

This glad news for men was a sacred deposit or gift intrusted to Paul of God. He was a herald, a witness, a teacher of this truth. This was the reason why he suffered as he did and yet was not ashamed. God had not given a spirit of timidity or doubt, but instead of fearfulness was the spirit of power and love and sober discipline. Because he knew Him whom he believed, he was confident the Lord would be able to fully guard and protect until the day of consummation of God's purpose and grace all the gift and interest committed to His herald, witness and teacher.

So Timothy should arouse his powers and stir up the gift of God in himself. So should every one of us Leaguers who profess to be followers of Jesus Christ bestir ourselves to increased activity and renewed fidelity to the trust given into our care. Never was there greater need than now of clear, Christian thought and deep heart devotion. Laxity in belief and practice widely prevails. Earnestness in living is too rare. Anxiety for pleasure and worldly gain press out of sight in too many cases the claims of God and our calling by Him. His gift and His commission are our richest possessions. There is danger of eternal loss to us and others unless we stir up this gift of God which is in us.

Christ and Care.

Jesus Christ is able to deal with our cares. But it is important for us to notice how He deals with them. He deals with them as He deals with our sins—by taking them upon Himself. He bids us cast all our care upon Him. That is the open secret of peace, the open secret of complete and continuous victory over this cruel enemy. When we cast all our cares upon Christ there is no sin upon us, and so we enjoy pardon; when we cast all our care upon Christ there is no care upon us, and so we enjoy peace. How simple it is! If we keep the cares we cannot have peace; if we cast the cares we cannot help having peace.—G. H. C. Macgregor.

By Faith and Earnest Action.

If you advance in the Christian life at all it must be by a live faith and most earnest action. Every power must be brought into exercise. Speak, sing, work, pray, agonize if need be. Make a business of your religion, and a pushing, aggressive business too. Eternity will reveal the fact that God's true service is the best that man ever engaged in.—Michigan Christian Advocate.

Your Daily Life.

Make your common daily work an instructor in divine things. Fill up the measure of your daily life with all that is pure and good and true, and these lowly temporal things shall be as the first rounds of a ladder reaching from earth to heaven. This is clearly the appointed order of development—first, that which is natural; afterward, that which is spiritual.

A Partnership.

Life is a partnership with one another, in which the profits are in proportion to what is put in. There is no investment in this business that pays better than kindness.—Lutheran Observer.

Christ's Christianity.

Christianity as Christ taught is the truest philosophy of life ever spoken. But let us be quite sure when we speak of Christianity that we mean Christ's Christianity.—Phillips Brooks.

An Ideal Location:
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

New Bathing Suits—Smart Lines Robes.

Some of the new bathing suit models are cut princess fashion, with the skirt fitting the hips closely and sloping out very wide and full at the edge. Sometimes the tunic is made in the two tier fashion or the godet flounce is employed to widen the edge, but the gored tunic trimmed with flat bands or strappings is by far the neatest and most becoming style. Swimming toilets are usually cut in princess fashion or the bodice is separate and slightly eased into a deep band for the waist. A sash or scarf is usually worn with the bathing costume, but a shaped band is pretty, or even a smooth patent leather belt if the waist is small and round. The Swiss shape is also becoming if the bodice is allowed to bag back and front, and it should be of the material trimmed with braid or stitched in rows all around the edges.

There are some charming linen robes with hemstitched borders to be had at the summer sales. These are not difficult to make, as they are already cut out, but they require care in the arranging. Very often if they are made at home a good collar or a sash will hide the deficiencies.

Very pretty skirts can be bought ready to wear, many being sold with an extra length of material, which, when of cloth or other suitable fabric, can be converted into a smart little bolero or sack coatee. The usual length allowed is two yards in a double width, and this is ample.

The costume in the cut is of pale blue linen, with the collar of embroidered lawn.

Hats Made of Currants—Brown Veils Popular.

A pretty hat entirely composed of red and white currants was made on a foundation of red and white tulle. It was worn with an ecru and white linen dress, and the whole effect was very good.

Red is extremely popular both here and in Paris. Some clear lawns in the new shade of currant red are quite beautiful, provided they are toned down by exquisite lace.

Many French people are wearing veils at all, still, taking it all in all, veils are generally worn and some are very becoming. The bizarre, large patterned veilings are giving place to fine, flimsy Russian nets and tulle. Navy blue spotted tulle is worn with the al blue hat, and it suits women with good complexions and auburn hair.

Brown veils are charming with brown hats. The finest Russian nets are becoming to the majority.

Everything pertaining to the pelerine shape is fashionable. Certainly the fluffy pelerines are much more becoming than the flat stoles of past seasons. These are now giving way to the pelerine collar of mousseline de soie and chiffon, and to the lace scarf draped in this fashion.

The hat in the picture is of blue straw trimmed with a blue and white silk scarf.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1902, by The Robert Company.

There had been little time to look over the captures. The main interest of both officers and men, of course, centered in Mr. Hay, who was found in one of the tepees, prostrate from illness and half frantic from fever and strong mental excitement. He had later tidings from Frayne, it seems, than had his rescuers. He could assure them of the health and safety of their wives and little ones, but would not tell them what was amiss in his own household. One significant question he asked: Did any of them know this new Maj. Flint? No? Well, God help Flint, if ever he, Hay got hold of him.

"He's delirious," whispered Webb, and rode away in that conviction, leaving him to Ray and Billings.

Three miles out, on the tortuous trail of the pursued, the column halted and dismounted among the pines. Then there was a brief conference, and the word "Mount" was whispered along the Beecher squadron, while Blake's men stood fast. With a parting clasp of the hand Webb and "Legs" had returned to the head of their respective commands, "Legs" and his fellows to follow steadily the Indian trail through the twisting ravines of the foothills; Webb to make an all-night forced march, in wide detour and determined effort, to head off the escaping warriors before they could reach the rocky fastnesses back of Bear Cliff. Webb's chief scout "Bat," chosen by Gen. Crook himself, had been a captive among the Sioux through long years of his boyhood, and knew the Big Horn Range as Webb did the banks of the Wabash. "They can stand off a thousand soldiers," said the guide, "if once they get into the rocks. They'd have gone there first off only there was no water. Now there's plenty snow."

So Blake's instructions were to follow them without pushing, to let them feel they were being pursued, yet by no means to hasten them, and, if the general's favorite scout proved to be all he promised as guide and pathfinder, Webb might reasonably hope by dint of hard night riding, to be first at the tryst at break of day. Then they would have the retreating Sioux, hampered by their few wounded and certain prisoners whom they prized, hemmed between rocky heights on every side, and sturdy horsemen front and rear.

It was eight by the watch at the parting of the ways. It was 8:30 when Blake retook the trail, with Sergeants Schreiber and Winsor, the latter borrowed from Ray, far in the van. Even had the ground been hard and stony these keen-eyed soldier scouts could have followed the signs almost as unerringly as the Indians, for each had had long years of experience all over the west; but, despite the steadily falling snow, the traces of hoofs and, for a time, of travois poles could be readily seen and followed in the dim gray light of the blanketed skies. Somewhere aloft, above the film of cloud, the silvery moon was shining, and that was illumination more than enough for men of their years on the trail.

For over an hour, Blake followed the windings of a ravine that grew closer and steeper as it burrowed into the hills. Old game trails are as good as turnpikes in the eyes of the plainsman. It was when the ravine began to split into branches that the problem might have puzzled them, had not the white fleece lain two inches deep on the level when "Lo" made his dash to escape. Now the rough edges of the original impression were merely rounded over by the new fallen snow. The hollows and ruts and depressions led on from one deep cleft into another, and by midnight Blake felt sure the quarry could be but a few miles ahead and Bear Cliff barely five hours march away. So, noiselessly, the signal "Halt!" went rearward down the long, dark, sinuous column of twos, and every man slipped out of saddle, some of them stamping, so numb were their feet. With every mile the air had grown keener and colder. They were glad when the next word whispered was, "Lead on!" instead of "Mount."

By this time they were far up among the pine-fringed heights, with the broad valley of the Big Horn lying outspread to the west, invisible as the stars above, and neither by ringing shot nor winged arrow had the leaders known the faintest check. It seemed as though the Indians, in their desperate effort to carry off the most important or valued of their charges, were bending all their energies to expediting the retreat. Time enough to turn on the pursuers when once the rocks had closed about them—when the wounded were safe in the fastnesses and the pursuers far from supports. But at the foot of a steep ascent, the two leading scouts—rival sergeants of rival troops, but devoted friends for nearly twenty years—were seen by the next in column, a single corporal followed them at thirty yards distance, to halt and begin poking at some dark object by the wayside. Then they pushed on again. A dead pony, under a quarter inch coverlet of snow was what met the eyes of the silently trudging command as it followed. The high-peaked wooden saddle tree was still "cinched" to the stiffening carcass. Either the Indians were pushed for time or overstocked with saddlery. Presently there came a low whistle from the military "middleman" between the scouts and a little advance guard. "Run ahead," growled the sergeant commanding to his boy trumpeter. "Give me your reins." And, leaving his horse, the youngster stumbled along up the winding trail; got his message and waited. "Give this to the captain," was the word sent back by Schreiber, and "this" was a mitten of Indian tanned buckskin, soft and warm, if unsightly, a mitten too small for a warrior's hand, if ever warrior deigned to wear one—a mitten the captain examined curiously, as he ploughed ahead of his main body, and then turned to his subaltern with a grin on his face:

"Beauty draws us with a single hair," said he, "and can't shake us even when she gives us the mitten. Ross," he added, after a moment's thought, "remember this. With this gang there are two or three sub chiefs that we should get, alive or dead, but the chief end of man, so far as "K" Troop's concerned, is to capture that girl, unharmed."

And just at dawn, so gray and wan and pallid it could hardly be told from the pale moonlight of the earlier hours, the dark, snake-like column was halted again, nine miles further in among the wooded heights. With Bear Cliff still out of range and sight, something had stopped the scouts, and Blake was needed at the front. He found Schreiber crouching at the foot of a tree, gazing warily forward along a southward-sloping face of the mountain that was sparsely covered with tall, straight pines, and that faded into mist a few hundred yards away. The trail—the main trail, that is—seemed to go straight away eastward, and, for a short distance, downward through a hollow or depression; while, up the mountain side to the left, the north, following the spur or shoulder, there were signs of hoof tracks, half sheeted by the new-fallen snow, and through this fresh, fleecy mantlet ploughed the trooper boots in rude, insistent pursuit. The sergeant's horses were held by a third soldier a few yards back behind the spur, for Winsor was "side scouting" up the heights.

The snowfall had ceased for a time. The light was growing broader every moment, and presently a soft whistle sounded somewhere up the steep, and Schreiber answered. "He wants us, sir," was all he said, and in five minutes they had found him, sprawled on his stomach on a projecting ledge, and pointing southeastward, where, boldly outlined against the gray of the morning sky, a black and beetling precipice towered from the mist-wreathed pines at its base. Bear Cliff beyond a doubt!

"How far, sergeant?" asked the captain, never too reliant on his powers of judging distance.

"Five miles, sir, at least; yet some three or four Indians have turned off here and gone—somewhere up there." And, rolling half over, Winsor pointed again toward a wooded bluff, perhaps 300 feet higher and half a mile away. "That's probably the best lookout this side of the cliff itself!" he continued, in explanation, as he saw the puzzled look on the captain's face. "From there, likely, they can see the trail over the divide—the one Little Bat is leading the major, and, if they've made any time at all, the squadron should be at Bear Cliff now."

All Plainfield People Have to Do Is to Follow Their Neighbors' Advice.

Our readers have no excuse for going astray. The way is almost fenced with guide-posts in Plainfield. They are on every highway and by-way: "He who runs may read." Investigate this example:

Mrs. R. A. Martin, of Jackson street, says: "I had a pain in my back and loins for about a year or more, no doubt caused by my kidneys being out of order. I felt it more in the morning, just after getting up or if I did any stooping or lifting. Notwithstanding the fact that I took all kinds of medicines I never found anything which helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They not only removed the pain, but they strengthened me in other ways."

TOUGH PROPOSITION.

Riding a Bucking Steer Is Called a Harder Task Than Sticking on a Bucking Bronco.

"A bucking bronco," said the retired cowboy to a New York Sun reporter, "is generally considered the hardest proposition to ride in this land, but until a man has tackled a bucking steer he has not realized all the possibilities of the gentle art.

"Out in the cow country they have just begun to learn the art, and it is really an art. None of the Wild West shows has yet got hold of the few fellows who have mastered the straddle and seat, and until they do their congresses of rough riders will not be complete.

"You can cinch a horse up until there is little possibility of the saddle's slipping, but it can't be done on a steer, for the simple reason that the skin is so much looser and there is no place in which to gather up lost motion. The horse has 18 ribs and a steer but 13.

"When the horse bucks, as he does when he is burdened with something he doesn't want to carry, his rider can get a pretty firm bridge at most any place between the crupper and the shoulder. When the steer bucks, as he generally does when he feels a saddle on his back, there is a rolling motion that is for all the world like that of a vessel at sea. The steer pitches with a head and tail movement, while a horse stops his side swings before they range far.

"The steer-riding fad had its start down in Texas, where the animals are wild enough to suit even the most exacting cowpuncher, and it is now being introduced further north. A puncher's playtime is often long enough to give him a chance for such experiments, and some of the more skillful have got it down to a fine point.

"But the hombre who thinks it is an easy task to stick to a wild boy who knows enough to do the grand buck and pitch is down for an experience he will carry in his book of remembrance for a long time."

WALKED IN HIS SLEEP.

Wound Up Midnight Expedition by Leaping from Window and Being Caught on Iron Hook.

Jacob Cugameck, of Manayunk, Pa., aged 12 years, is in a serious condition at St. Timothy's hospital, resulting from injuries received when he jumped from the second-story window of his home during a fit of somnambulism.

Cugameck, Sr., is a butcher, and has his store on the first floor of his home. Young Jacob slept with his mother in the second story front room directly over the store. She was awakened by her son arising. The latter went to the window and raised it to get some air, his mother thought as the night was very sultry. Suddenly he began to climb out, and before she could reach him he had made the leap.

In front of the store is a row of heavy iron hooks, used to suspend meat for display. In his fall young Jacob's right leg was caught on one of these hooks, and he hung suspended head downward for a minute or two. This broke his fall, but before assistance came the hook had torn through the flesh and the boy fell to the ground.

Assistance was quickly summoned and the injured lad hurried to St. Timothy's hospital. Examination showed that his flesh had been horribly torn and physicians say his condition is serious.

Boers Coming to Texas.

It is estimated that about 10,000 Boers will immigrate to the United States ere the close of next summer. Most of them, it is believed, will settle in Texas.

INSHOOTS.

MacManus, the fast player of the Scotch Plains team, is a wonder at fielding balls and is now ready for one of the major leagues.

Hope Y. M. A. team will meet the famous High Bridge team at the latter place, Saturday. The local team will leave the North Avenue station at 2:11.

Cooney made a brilliant catch of Dodge's liner on Saturday and thereby saved two runs. He over ran the ball, and had to bend back nearly double to catch it.

Manager MacLoughlin's new third baseman, Castmeyer, is a fast fielder He knocked down several hard hit balls Saturday and by fast fielding nailed the runner at first.

For the second time this season, Scotch Plains will meet Westfield on the diamond next Saturday afternoon. The game will be played at Scotch Plains and the locals will make the effort of their lives to win the game.

"Colonel" Bolan was injured while catching in the eighth inning Saturday, and will be forced to retire from the game for a few weeks. One of "Smiling Jimmy's" out-shoots caused the injury. Bolan misjudged the ball and it hit his right hand and split his second finger.

Gastmeyer, who played his first game last Saturday for Alis showed up strong on third base He appears to be equally as fast as the other infielders. Kavanaugh, who plays short, is certainly a strong player, although last Saturday he had an off day, as did also Richardson at first.

Hopes team will journey to High Bridge, on Saturday and endeavor to take the village team's scalp. The locals will leave this city on the 2:11 train, with their regular rooters. Pitcher Ramsey will oppose the West Enders, and a warm time is anticipated as he has a great record as a strike out man.

No doubt the baseball game Saturday afternoon on Crescent Oval between Alis and St. Mary will be one of the best of the season. The St. Mary team has been materially strengthened and they intend to make a strong fight to win against the strong Alis aggregation. MacLaughlin and Walsh will do the pitching.

Speaking of odd names of ball players, if one goes to Jersey City he will see a Bean, at Springfield a Berry, while Elizabeth has Pears, and Milburn Rice. Bass flourishes at New London. One can get Coffey at Newark, while Alis has Moore. In the line of rolling stock, machinery and similar things, baseball contributes Carr of St. Mary's, Ferry of Buffalo, Drill of High Bridge and Gear of Baltimore. When it comes to birds and trees, we have Martin of Hopes and Burch of Westfield.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. OLDEST BIBLE IN THE STATE

OWNED BY CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM SULZER'S MOTHER.

Book Printed in 1618—The Bible Was Original Property of Mrs. Sulzer's Father.

Mrs. Lydia Sulzer, of Elizabeth, mother of Congressman William Sulzer, of New York, probably has the oldest Bible in New Jersey, if not in the United States. Mrs. Sulzer's Bible was printed in Amsterdam in 1618.

The newspapers of the State have recently been setting forth the claims of their townspeople to the ownership of the oldest Bible. Dewitt VanBuskirk, of Bayonne, whose copy of the Holy Scriptures was printed in 1637, long held the undisputed title of possessor of the oldest Bible, but his claims, vaunted in the public press, brought out another aspirant for the honor in the person of William Link, of Newark, whose volume was published in 1629. Mrs. Sulzer's Bible was printed in 1618, and is consequently eleven years older than any Bible which had previously laid claim to the distinction of being the oldest.

All three of the Bibles are printed in Dutch. Mrs. Sulzer's is in an excellent condition. The print is large, distinct and perfect. The paper shows little sign of age.

There are numerous old-fashioned wood cuts and many valuable maps. The maps and pages are all perfect with one exception. Mrs. Sulzer says that her father once loaned the book to some friends and the children were so attached to the pictures, representing Adam and Eve before the Fall and after, that they cut them out. This grieved her father very much, and he shed many tears over the damage to the book and the sacrilegious act of the children. After that incident the book was very religiously guarded.

Peter Jans Jelleme, father of Mrs. Sulzer, was a very devoted student of the Bible and during his long life of 88 years he received much inspiration and spiritual help by perusing the pages of this old volume. In the latter years of Mr. Jelleme's life he had the book rebound, and upon the inside of this new cover in his own handwriting are his name, place and time of birth, similar data concerning his wife, the date of their marriage, and the time of their arrival in America in October, 1846, after eight weeks on the sea. The destruction of the original binding may detract a little from the book's value as viewed by the antiquarian, but Mrs. Sulzer will never place it in a book mart, so this defect counts but little to her.

The Bible is sixteen inches long, ten inches wide, and four inches thick. It contains the Old and New Testaments, the Apocrypha, and an excellent and complete concordance. Mr. Jellemo died May 3, 1900, and in his will he directed that the Bible should go to his distinguished grandson, Congressman William Sulzer, of New York. None of the Sulzers, however, can read Dutch.

Signs of Weakness.

The two weakest points in the constitutional amendments are those which clothe seven chancellors with equal power and eliminate the six judges of the Court of Errors from the Court of Pardons. But neither one is regarded as serious enough to weigh against the advantages of the proposed amenements.—N. Y. Herald.

BEWARE OF THE PHAGOCYTE.

Little-Known But Much-Dreaded Creature That Frequents the Human Body.

"The hope of mankind," says Metschnikow, "depends upon the proper restriction of the phagocyte."

Very few nonprofessional men know what a phagocyte is, and even numerous physicians try to get along without having made its acquaintance, while most medical handbooks ignore the thing, and the few dictionaries mentioning it describe it wrongly. Here is Prof. Metschnikow's definition: "Phagocytes constitute the police of the human body. As a big city cannot get along without officers of the law to keep crime and vice under control and the moral atmosphere pure and wholesome, so health is impossible unless the phagocytes exercise their proper functions in the streets and channels of our interior.

"Phago means eat, devour, absorb; cyte is the Greek for cell. The phagocyte, then, is an absorbing or eating cell; one might term it the scavenger of the human body. So much science recognized long ago; also that its main food consists of bacteria, the elements of organs peculiar to the larvae stage and other noxious matters."

The author continues, according to the Indianapolis Journal: "The above, my biological and bacteriological investigations and experiments proved correct, but science's further argument, namely, 'that the phagocyte, after performing this most important office for the youthful body, becomes itself food for the developing organs of the adult,' is a serious mistake."

JAPAN A CURIOUS LAND.

Almost Everything Seems to Go by Contraries in the Mikado's Kingdom.

"There is no land that I have ever seen so curious as Japan," said Robert W. Brinkley, of Yokohama, to a Washington Star reporter recently. "I have lived in Japan for the past 22 years and it is to me still a sort of wonderland.

"One of the strange features of the country is that all crops and fruits are almost certain to deteriorate. I have seen beautiful peaches grown the first year from stock imported from the United States. The second year they were still fairly good; the third season poor and after that unfit to eat. Nothing in the vegetable world would seem to retain its excellence for any length of time. It is a bamboo country and everything reverts to the bamboo. Beautiful lush grass covered many a plain and yet it gives no nutriment to cattle. Garden vegetables look as fine as any grown in the United States, but when cooked they have no taste. The flowers are of gorgeous hues, but they are without perfume.

"But even with these imperfections it is a very interesting corner of the earth and many things recommend it. Its inhabitants are in their way a fine people. In the rural districts particularly the natives are the most honorable beings I ever met. In the cities they are sharper mentally, but not nearly so scrupulous."

WILL STUDY OLD RUINS.

American Savants on the Way to Explore Remains of Civilization in Russian Turkestan.

Raphael Pumpelly, who has been charged by the Carnegie institution with the exploration of Russian Turkestan has arrived at St. Petersburg with his son, R. W. Pumpelly, to procure the necessary permission. They will join Prof. W. H. Davis and Ellsworth Huntington, of Harvard, and Prof. Richard Norton, director of the American school of classical studies of Rome, at Baku.

The party will search for remnants of the once flourishing civilization of the basin of the Sea of Aral, will investigate the climatic changes that have taken place there in historical times, and will seek to discover whether such changes have been sufficient to cause the present decline of this region, and whether equal if not greater importance should not be attributed to economic and political changes, such as the interruption of the old caravan route by the Arabs and Turks the devastation of the country, the settlement of a population unused to agriculture and the discovery of the Cape of Good Hope route to India.

The party will remain several months, some of the members perhaps longer, future work being determined by the results of the present reconnaissance.

Will Be Bride of a Peer.

Lord Monson and Mrs. Turnure, daughter of Gen. Roy Stone, U. S. A., will be married soon, according to announcement made at London. Lord Monson is the nephew of Sir Edmund Monson, the British ambassador to Paris, and was at one time intended for the diplomatic service. He was appointed to the household of the late duke of Saxe-Coburg, but by the death of his father in 1900 he found himself a peer of the realm, the owner of the country seats and entailed estates. He is 34 years of age.

Big Wild Animal Trade.

A dealer in wild animals in Hamburg collected and sold last year 76 lions, tigers and panthers, 42 bears, 52 elephants, 64 camels and dromedaries, 730 monkeys and a large number of smaller animals and birds.

Where Man Is Small.

To ordinary eyes a man 1,000 yards away—say, on a rifle range—appears as a dot; he could not be seen as a man except as being a smaller dot than a horse.

SAME OLD STORY IN POLICE COURT

Sinners Who Sought the Flowing Bowl Brought to Book by Judge Runyon.

DRUNKS WERE UNHAPPY

ALL WERE FINED IN SPITE OF THEIR AVOWED PENITENCE.

One Wanted to Take Pledge on Advice of His Wife—Another Abused Wife and Child—The Treatment Was Summary.

"Oh Jim, you see what this drinking has brought you to! Why don't you take the pledge now never to drink again? Do, now!" Thus pathetically urged Mrs. Jim Torode, to her recreant husband this morning in the city court.

"Well, I will, and right away, too," replied Jim suddenly reaching for the Bible on the Judge's desk.

"Three dollars or ten days."

The voice of the law was heard and James Torode, brought to court for the first time charged with drunkenness, paid his fine and was led away from the presence of the assembled court.

Torode had been gathered in last evening on the city streets whither he had returned from Newark. It was the old story of meeting convivial companions, but the lesson struck home this morning and it is safe to say that the name of James Torode will never again appear on the police blotter.

But there were others this morning at the East Front street tribunal.

William Wilterman was there charged with the same too free indulgence in the flowing bowl. His wife appeared against him stating that while in a drunken condition he had abused her and her three-months-old-child. Judge Runyon was roused to indignation by the story and William will spend a twenty days' vacation in the lockup unless he can produce a five spot to satisfy the sentence.

The same conditions of punishment were visited on Frank Burk, the third and last of the list of drunks.

"That's pitchin' into 'em some, eh?" was the remark from the visitors' corner which exactly sums up the conduct of the cases of the past few days.

ST. MARY'S FESTIVAL.

The mid-summer night's festival which was planned for last evening by the members of the St. Mary's baseball nine on the West Fourth street grounds was postponed until tonight on account of the rain. Beware of Counterfeits.

There is in circulation a counterfeit five dollar note on the Morristown Iron National Bank. It is almost perfect on the face, but on the reverse side the imitation can be easily detected. A twenty dollar gold certificate of the issue of 1876 has also been counterfeited, and is also easy of detection.

Mink Slaughtered Chickens.

A mink raided the chicken house of L. D. W. McIntosh, of Arlington avenue, last night and killed twenty-seven of his chickens. Mr. McIntosh considers his a big loss as he placed a high valuationon the fowls which were handsome Wyandotte stock. The mink's second visit will be his last.

JIM IN HARNESS.

Fire Horse Wounded in Flank is Ready for Active Service Again.

Jim, the fire horse which was cut in the flank three months ago in an accident on Park avenue, when the truck was responding to an alarm of fire, has been placed in the service again.

The wound was almost eighteen inches in length and at the time it was thought that the horse would never again be fit for any kind of service. The wound was cared for by Dr. Lewis Pocock and was healed by what is known in veterinary vernacular as "first intension." Not even a scar is now visible from the wound. The horse answered its first alarm of fire a few mornings ago and came up into the harness in excellent style. It is not even lame.

A CONTEST OVER A WILL

H. WALDRON, OF LEBANON, LEFT HIS ESTATE TO HIS SON OF THIS CITY.

His Daughter Claims Undue Influence and the Case Will be Tried Next Week.

The will of Henry Waldron, of Lebanon, Hunterdon County, is being contested by his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, of Lebanon. Mr. Waldron died last April at the residence of his son, George Waldron, of West Fourth street, who is employed as a motorman in this city. The elder Waldron left all of his property, consisting principally of real estate in Lebanon, to the value of about $8,500, to his son George and also named him executor of the will.

The will was drawn up by Stewart Hoffman, of Lebanon, so loosely as to admit of several constructions. Mrs. Hall intends contesting it on the ground principally of undue influence exerted, she claims, by her brother.

The case was called Monday last before Judge Connett, of the Orphan's Court, Flemington and the witnesses were sworn in. Adjournment was then taken to next Tuesday, August 11. Judge R. S. Kauhl represents the caveator and Hetfield & Hetfield, of this city, will appear on behalf of the will.

HEAVY CRASH.

Startled People on West Front Street—Ceiling Fell in Store Undergoing Repairs.

A volume of white dust following a terrific crash startled a number of shoppers on West Front street yesterday afternoon. The dust poured out of the front of the store formerly occupied by Smith Brothers and now undergoing repairs. Without a word of warning the ceiling gave way and fell with a crash. Several men rushed into the store to ascertain if there were any men at work on the floor when the ceiling fell. No one was injured. The report was heard for nearly a block and some of the employes of Hill & Shupp rushed out, thinking there had been an explosion.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

Mrs. Hafner, of Netherwood, Undergoes Surgical Treatment.

Mrs. John C. Hafner, of Central street, Netherwood, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, last evening, where she underwent an operation for abdominal hemorrhages. The operation, which was in charge of Dr. W. Kempton Browning, assisted by Drs. G. W. Endicott and Albert Pittis, was successful and the patient passed a comfortable night.

The case is a most peculiar one. Mrs. Hafner, a few days ago, fell off a chair and ruptured a blood vessel, hemorrhages resulting. Her condition became such that the operation was deemed absolutely the only chance for recovery.

Ardent Autoist.

Dr. P. J. Zeglio, of Somerset street, purchased an automobile yesterday of a New York dealer. The machine is one of the larger patterns and is of a maroon color. Dr. Zeglio made the trip from New York in the new machine yesterday with one of the automobile firm's chaffeurs and has become quite proficient in handling it. He has the craze and will soon be a leader in the auto ranks of this city.

Farmers Disappointed.

The farmers' picnic was postponed yesterday on account of the storm, and Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer did not have an opportunity to speak, as slated. The picnic was postponed until today when it is probable that Somerset's "Bill Nye" will be present and make the address.

EXPLANATION OF NEW ELECTION LAW

Assemblyman E. E. Gnichtel Makes Clear Its Applications and Meaning.

THE LAW OF PRIMARIES

AFFECTS ALL POLITICAL PARTIES HAVING CANDIDATES AT LAST ELECTION.

Specifies in Detail the Method of Conducting Primaries—It Prescribes the Manner in Which Votes Shall Be Polled.

The new primary election law is somewhat perplexing to the average voter and for this reason the party leaders have been endeavoring to make clear its provisions. One of the best elucidations is that made by Assemblyman E. E. Gnichtel. He says in part:

"The new law instructs how, when and where to conduct the primaries and by whom they shall be conducted; how the candidates may be nominated and the manner in which the delegates to the different conventions are elected. It applies to all political parties which, at the last election, polled for members of Assembly at least five per centum of the total vote cast in the district or division in which the nominations are made or delegates are chosen.

"Hereafter, the first registry day and the primary of both parties shall be held at the same time, and the place shall be designated by the city clerk. The polls shall be open from 1 in the afternoon, to 9 at night, on the second Tuesday in September, and every man who is entitled to vote on election day has the right to vote at the primary.

"Upon entering the polling place to vote at a primary the voter asks for an official primary ballot of the party in whose primary he desires to participate. He then retires to a booth and prepares his ballot. He has the right to vote for any person whose name is not printed on his party ticket by adding the name to the ticket. He can vote only for the number of delegates or candidates to which the district in which he votes is entitled.

"The ballot is folded in such a way as to disclose the city clerk's official indorsement on the back. The Republican ballots are deposited in the Republican ballot-box and the Democratic ballots in the Democratic box by the election officers of the different parties. A ballot deposited in the wrong box will not be counted. At the close of the primary election the officers count the votes cast and make a statement of the result to the city clerk. The person receiving the highest number of votes in the whole ward as candidate of any party for any ward office shall be the candidate of that party for that office. The persons receiving the highest number of votes in each election district as delegate to a party convention, to the extent of the number of delegates to be elected in that district, shall be the delegates.

"The chairman of the county committee of each party participating in the primary may appoint two persons in each election district, who have the right to hear and see the ballots counted and to challenge a voter offering to vote. The candidate whose name is printed on the official ballot has the same privilege. A voter may be challenged for not being a legal voter in the district, or because he is not a member of the political party whose ticket he has asked for. In both cases the voter has the right to swear in his vote.

"The candidate for a ward office, such as freeholder, alderman and school commissioner, is nominated by a direct vote of the party voters of the ward. Hereafter there will be no ward conventions. Delegates will only be elected to the city, county, State and Congressional conventions. The names of the candidates for ward nominations and for delegates to the conventions will be printed on the same ballot.

"All candidates for nominations for public office or for election as delegates at the primary can have their names placed upon the official ballot by complying with the following regulations: A petition is presented to the city clerk, signed by not less than ten legal voters, who are members of the same political party and who reside in the same election districts, giving their names, residences and addresses, and stating that they indorse the person or persons named in the petition as candidate or candidates for nomination for the office or offices therein named, or for the office of delegate or delegates at the ensuing convention. They state the political party to which they belong and request the city clerk to print upon the official primary ballot of said political party the names of the person or persons indorsed by them. Such petitions must be verified by oath or affirmation by at least one of the signers.

"The signers of any petition may not indorse more persons as candidates or delegates than are to be chosen at the primary election district in which the signers reside.

"It is not necessary to secure then signers for every delegate to be voted for at the primary. Ten legal signers to the petition are sufficient for the whole number of delegates to which the district is entitled to all the different conventions. But the same signers may not petition for more than one set of delegates to the same convention. All candidates for office or delegates to conventions indorsed in this manner shall file a certificate consenting to stand as such.

"There are no requirements in the primary law as to who or in what manner these petitions shall be prepared. All that is necessary is that when the petition is presented it shall comply with the requirements of the law, and that it shall be filed with the city clerk not less than ten days prior to said primary election. The city clerk shall prepare the ballots at public expense and distribute them among the various election boards on the morning of the day preceding the primary election. Each party will have but one ticket for every election district, and the names of all candidates for office of delegate to a party convention in each election district shall be arranged in alphabetical order.

"On receiving this ticket you may vote for as many candidates and delegates as your district is entitled to and erase, with black pencil, all names thereon other than those for which you desire to vote. The law makes it a crime for a member of one political party to sign his name to any petition purporting to indorse any person as a candidate for office or delegate to a convention of another political party.

"The object of the law was to make the primary election a more important factor in political affairs, and when it is better understood it will do effective service in the interest of good government."

RESTORED TO PENSION LISTS

SUCCESSFUL EFFORTS OF JUSTICE MATTISON, OF THE BOROUGH.

Mrs. Headley, Widow of Soldier, Married Again and Lost Second Husband—Again Pensioned.

Mrs. Lydia A. Headley's claim for back pension was proved by Justice Mattison yesterday and Uncle Sam has presented the poor widow of one of his soldier boys of '61 the sum of $291.20 in payment of arrears. Mrs. Headley's name has again been placed upon the pension lists, entitling her to $12 a month.

This is only the second case of the kind in North Plainfield where a widow of a soldier who has married again and become a widow for the second time, has been restored to the lists for pension. William E. Mattison, the Justice of the Peace, some time ago discovered an old law which enabled him to secure a place on the pension list for a poor widow of the borough, thus situated.

Hearing of that case Mrs. Lydia Headley-VanArtwick, of Jersey City, placed her case in Justice Mattison's hands. She proved that she was the widow of Jeremiah Headley, a private in the 5th New Jersey Regiment during the war of '61. Her husband died and she married a Mr. VanArtwick, of Jersey City. The latter died recently and his widow has been having a hard time eking out a livelihood.

Her brother-in-law, William N. Pangborn, of Linden Pangborn, avenue, took up the case and put it in Justice Mattison's hands with the result that yesterday she received $291.20, the amount of pension due her from the time she made her claim and a monthly allowance of $12.

Damage by Cloud Burst.

Boynton Beach was visited yesterday afternoon by a cloudburst which did considerable damage. The big steamer New Brunswick was blown ashore. Fortunately no damage was done to the boat and the trip was continued after a considerable delay. Manager Stratton, of the Boynton Beach Association, reports big damages to the beach property by the rain and wind.

Among the guests booked at the Long Beach Hotel, Long Island, is James Dodd, of Plainfield.

MOTHER JONES IN PLAINFIELD

Will Arrive Here Tomorrow Night According to a Newark Despatch.

IS IN YONKERS TODAY

ARMY IS IN ELIZABETH WHENCE IT WILL COME TO PLAINFIELD.

Meeting to be Held in One of the Down Town Lots—The Leader's Latest Remarks on Roosevelt and the Government.

A Newark dispatch says that "Mother" Jones will be in this city tomorrow night with her army of striking textile workers and is scheduled to lead a meeting in one of the local down town lots. The army was expected in Elizabeth today and although the leader of the band will not be in the march from the county seat to this city she will join her followers here.

That the government has its eye on Mother Jones and her army is shown by the fact that the strike leader picked out a secret service man in her audience at Newark Thursday evening. She opened a tirade against the man. Regarding her intention to injure Roosevelt's chances of re election, she said:

"I give pledge that when the campaign begins I will never sleep or eat when there is a political meeting at which I can hurt Roosevelt's chances."

She turned and pointed at the agent. "Take that back to Oyster Bay," she said, and while the audience still wondered she turned her batteries on the agent. Amid a pandemonium of cheers, hisses and groans he arose and hastened from the audience.

The "Mother" is in Yonkers today and will join her army here tomorrow.

FREIGHT IN TROUBLE.

Stopped in Front of the North Avenue Station and Had Difficulty in Starting.

A heavy freight train got in trouble this morning while trying to start up in front of the North Avenue station. There were fifty-seven coal cars in the string, all heavily loaded with soft coal which had increased almost a hundred per cent in weight by becoming soaked and caked in yesterday's rain.

There was no pusher on the train and when a start was contemplated it was necessary to whistle for one. The second engine arrived from the front and was coupled on next to the other. The proverbial long and strong pull caused the drawhead of the fourth car to pull out, taking with it part of the bumper platform. Considerable delay was caused before the broken car could be pulled to the neighboring switch and the wreckage cleared away for another coupling.

SEVERAL BOATS SEIZED.

Sheriff Coriell, of This City, Seizes on Ferryboat Plainfield Among Other Vessels.

Sheriff Coriell, of Union County, yesterday levied on the Mexican gunboats Tampico and Vera Cruz, the ferryboat "Plainfield," building for the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and other vessels as announced in yesterday's Daily Press.

The sheriff acted under a warrant of seizure issued by the Supreme Court Commissioner William Pinland, of Red Bank. The seizure of these vessels took place in the Crescent Shipyard at Elizabeth. The action was taken to satisfy claims held by a Perth Amboy man who asserts that the United States Shipbuilding Company owes him $9,127.38 for lumber supplied.

TRIP TO ASBURY.

Methodist Excursionists Delayed by Collision With Ice Wagon—Enjoyable Day.

Sixteen cars loaded with Methodists from this city journeyed to Asbury Park on the annual excursion yesterday. The day was cool at the shore and the bathing was enjoyable. There was no rain until about 7 o'clock when the excursionists were about to leave for home.

A Methodist excursion was at the Park from Somerville also. When almost at the Park depot the engine of the Somerville train collided with an ice wagon, killing the driver instantly and injuring the horses. The accident caused a delay of almost twenty minutes to both trains.

The first lady's prize was won by Mrs. W. I. Coombs and H. M. Stevens was the winner of the gentleman's prize. After the winners were announced, refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. G. H. Brown, Mrs. C. L. Thorn, Mrs. A. F. Cross, Miss M. Allen and Mrs. H. B. Hebert.

HURLED TO DESTRUCTION

ROYAL BLUE FLYER KILLED TWO YOUNG MEN AT BOUND BROOK.

Their Appearance Indicated Refinement—Probably Came From Philadelphia.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Aug. 7—Two well dressed young men were killed yesterday afternoon by the Royal Blue "flyer" train No. 502, about one mile west of Bound Brook.

The men stepped in the path of the flyer and were hurled into a field.

One victim was about twenty-five years old, with smooth face, black hair, gray eyes and weighed about 140 pounds. The only thing that would lead to his identificaion was a Catholic prayer book.

The other victim was about twenty-three years of age, with smooth face, light hair and weighed about 130 pounds. In his pockets was found an envelope from the office of the Police Pension Fund, City Hall, Philadelphia, that contained two complimentary tickets for a picnic of the Pfaelzer Harmonic, at Goose Grove, Philadelphia, August 3 and 4.

DOINGS OF FREEHOLDERS.

Items of Interest Concerning the Somerset County Board.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will hold a regular meeting on Tuesday, August 11, at Somerville.

Upon the invitation of Clark Sutphen, the Somerset Freeholders will visit Lake Hopatcong tomorrow

For the purpose of macadamizing the road between Somerville and the county line at Whitehouse, the Somerset County Board of Freeholders has ordered a survey made of that thoroughfare.

Respectful attention of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders is called to the fact that the cement bridges withstood the floods of May in Kansas when all other types of bridges went out with them.

Gas in Demand.

The Plainfield Gas Company has had hard work keeping pace with the growing demand for gas. Residents of all parts of the city have been putting gas into their homes, and the consequence has been that in some sections the company has been obliged to lay the mains before connection to houses could be made. This, together with a difficulty in getting pipes, has caused considerable delay.

ACTRESS APPEARS IN DIVORCE CASE

Further Complications in the Suit Brought by Mrs. Adele Watt, of the Borough.

THE CO-RESPONDENTS

TWO ACTRESSES INVOLVED IN COUNTER SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND.

Gladys Renshaw Was Questioned Concerning Sum Promised Her by Mr. Watt—Refused to Give Account and Trouble Follows.

Further complications in an already complex legal case in the divorce courts were added yesterday in the suit of Mrs. Adele Watt, of Rockview avenue, against her husband, Archibald Watt. Gladys Renshaw, an actress, served a notice of appearance through her attorney, former Senator Frederick Werner, of New York, in the counter divorce suit between the husband and wife.

Miss Renshaw is one of the two women named by the wife as correspondents in her suit against her husband. By serving the papers yesterday Miss Renshaw follows the example of Rev. George Van De Water, the Episcopal rector, who is named as correspondent by the husband in his suit for divorce against his wife. Mr. Van De Water filed notice of appearance and also a bill of particulars.

Miss Renshaw's action, it is said, is the result of an attempt on the part of John C. Shaw, Mrs. Watt's counsel, to secure a statement from her showing how she spent the $20,000 she is seeking to collect from Mr. Watt. It is said this sum was promised her by Mr. Watt for absenting herself from New York City following a mutual agreement.

Judge Delahanty, in a court of Special Sessions in New York some time ago ordered that such a statement be secured and it is the intenion of Mrs. Watt's attorney's to force the mandate, Miss Renshaw having failed to make out the itemized bill.

MOTHER.

Now the weary day is ended,
For the strife at last is won,
And mother passes to her rest,
At the setting of the sun.

She had weary grown of waiting
For she longed to see His face,
And the loved ones just before her,
Who had gone to take their place.

Now she's reached that Palace Holy,
Where no tears will ever be,
And with Jesus Christ beside her
She will wait for you and me.

Though we see her here no more
O' selfish heart that sighed,
If our eyes were not so dim
We could see her glorified.

For she was so pure and holy,
Jesus wanted her above,
There to be one of His angels
And to sing His wond'rous love.

Just a few more struggles,
Then we'll reach that glorious land,
And victorious stand beside them,
Crowned upon that heavenly strand.

It must be apparent to every thinking union man in the big cities, says an exchange, that organization must soon supersede all other methods of arranging for the proper distribution of labor. Competition will sooner or later compel organizations to establish employment bureaus, these bureaus to co-operate under some system of inter-communication, and to keep in close touch with the demands for labor all over the country. Only by some such agency can the idle of the big cities and the immigrants that flock to them, be given employment. The prosperity of labor depends on the prosperity of all its component parts, for the products of one man's labor are consumed by another if he has the money with which to purchase. Not until labor is well distributed and employed will any portion of labor reach its highest degree of prosperity.

JETT AND WHITE ON TRIAL.

Defense Continues to Contradict Prosecution's Witnesses.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Aug. 7.—In the case of the commonwealth against Jett and White the defense put Henry F. Wilson, a drummer of this place, on the witness stand to prove the existence of a large hole in the floor of the courthouse at Jackson. His testimony corroborated fully Dr. Taulbee, James Hargis and Ed Callahan as to the fact of there being trees between the house of Marcum and the rock quarry. On cross examination he said his expenses were paid by Jackson and he was to get $10 besides.

Green Strong and James Lee, other witnesses, who were introduced to prove the bad character and reputation of Captain Ewen, on cross examination were made to contradict former statements. Burt Jett and Thomas White were called to the stand and asked by the defense to go to the farther end of the courthouse and stand side by side, with their backs to the jury and their hats on. This is upon the theory of the defense that they looked much alike and are so nearly the same height that at several hundred yards they could not be told apart.

Considerable consternation was created when Breck Combs was recalled and made the statement that he had never testified.

Captain Golden, one of the attorneys, announced that the defense rested as to evidence in chief. Many witnesses were introduced to impeach Captain B. J. Ewen. Some twenty-five witnesses from his own county and other witnesses from Powell county, where he resided until he moved to Jackson, some ten years ago, testified that his morality was bad, as well as his reputation for truthfulness. Others testified that he was a churchgoer and never drank whisky or gambled. Many of them appeared to be confused on cross examination.

Joseph Bruner, who testified for the defense in the first trial, was called by the prosecution in rebuttal and said that Ewen did tell him that he knew who killed Marcum.

TRIAL OF CALEB POWERS.

Defense's Challenge of Jurors Is Overruled.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Aug. 7.—In the third trial of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers for complicity in the Goebel murder Judge Robbins overruled a motion of the defense challenging the jury panel which had been provisionally accepted.

The motion was supported by the affidavit of Thomas C. Whalley, alleging that of the ninety-five jurors only two were Republicans and that Deputies Lusby and Rogers in impaneling the jurors had been accompanied and directed by William Burke and John Williams, both "well known Democratic workers," who assisted them and caused discrimination in the selection of jurors.

The ground for overruling the motion was that "political affiliation is not a disqualification for jury service at law."

LABOR RIOTS IN BRITTANY.

Soldiers Ride Down Mobs of Strikers In L'Orient.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Serious rioting has been reported at L'Orient, on the coast of Brittany, where labor troubles have been brewing for the past several days. The rioters assembled in the Place Alsace-Lorraine and attacked the Military club over the Grand cafe. They also stoned and broke shop windows.

The military was called out, but the rioters put out the street lamps and erected barricades. The cavalry charged, and troopers, losing their tempers, rode down the mob, striking the rioters with the flat of their swords.

COSSACK CRUELTY.

Savage Attack Made on Russian Strikers.

RODE OVER AND LASHED BY TROOPS

Four Hundred More or Less Seriously Injured, and Six or More Have Succumbed Under the Charge of the Czar's Horsemen.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—A dispatch from Nikolaieff, Russia, says that a quarter of a million men are affected by the strikes in south Russia and that simultaneously strikes have occurred over a vast industrial area. The amount of studied organization and well concealed preparation was unprecedented in the troubled annals of Russian labor. Prices of the necessaries of life are rising by leaps and bounds. The strikers on the whole have preserved exemplary order, but this, however, has not saved them from savage attacks directed by General Arsenieff, governor of Odessa.

Groups of men who assembled with the intention of holding a meeting were driven into a solid mass by 500 Cossacks, backed by two lines of infantry with fixed bayonets. About 2,000 strikers, being thus inclosed by a double cordon, the Cossacks rode through them, striking right and left with heavy whips, the fallen men being trampled under the horses' feet.

"When the living mass had been thoroughly kneaded to the governor's will," and things were in train, numerous men were arrested as suspected agitators. The infantry then marched off, and the strikers scattered in a dozen directions with Cossacks at their heels. It is reported that 400 strikers were more or less seriously injured and that from six to a dozen succumbed. The whole affair is a typical piece of administrative savagery. The extraordinary feature of the movement at Odessa is that the police and gendarmes belonging to one depot threatened to throw off their uniforms and risk all the terrors of insubordination unless the miserable pittance of 11 to 14 pence which they are allowed daily was increased and the hours of labor reduced. Siberia is losing its terrors even for Russian policemen.

"The epidemic of incendiarism is spreading through Russia. Scarcely a day passes without news of conflagrations. At Baku alone the destruction has been colossal. Tens of millions of gallons of naphtha have been burned. In twenty-four of the largest towns the damage by fire during the past month is estimated at from $30,000,000 to $35,000,000. The object of the bulk of the fires is to get insurance money. Many of the incendiaries are Jews, and the insurance companies in some cases have raised premiums 50 per cent. Public opinion in Odessa is entirely on the side of the striking sailors and stokers. A wealthy company which has been employing men for years has only paid sailors at the rate of 25 shillings a month."

FISH CANNERS' WAR ENDS.

Canadians and Americans Each to Fish In Home Waters.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 7.—As a direct result of the treasury department's recent ruling permitting American salmon packers to recover a drawback of duties paid on foreign fish caught for export the Canadian packers have sought a truce in the warfare going on near the border waters. A conference has just been held here between J. A. Trussel of Vancouver, B. C., and T. B. McGovern of the Pacific Packing and Navigation company at which it was agreed that the Canadians would cease fishing in American waters and buy American fish and the Americans, so far as the salmon combine is concerned, will keep out of Canadian waters.

The Canadians for years have encouraged fishing in American waters for their canneries, but the duty on salmon prevented retaliation by the Americans. With the drawback allowed by the treasury the Americans were put in a position to retaliate.

Explosion Injures Eight Miners.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Aug. 7.—A terrific explosion of powder at Monongah mine No. 2 resulted in the injuring of eight miners, three of whom cannot recover, and probably two others will die. The accident happened in a peculiar manner. The men were in a mine car going down the slope of the mine entrance. One man on the rear of the car carried some cans of powder strung from a coal auger. This rested on his shoulder. A short circuit was formed when he accidentally touched the electric trolley wire over his head with the auger and the powder exploded. The injured were brought here by train and taken to the State hospital.

To Explore Labrador.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 7.—The steamer Virginia Lake has sailed for Labrador with an expedition aboard headed by Colonel Willard Glazier of Albany, N. Y., which intends to explore the interior of the peninsula. It will proceed inland, if possible, as far as Grand falls. Hamilton inlet, which are said to surpass the falls of Niagara. The expedition expects to spend two months in Labrador.

Fire In a New Jersey Town.

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., Aug. 7.—Fire which started in the store of former State Senator J. G. W. Havens destroyed several business houses in the center of the town. The damage is estimated at about $100,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. Ex-Senator Havens lost a valuable collection of antiquities which he had been collecting for forty years.

WILL CRUSH REVOLT

Turkish Government Intends to Adopt Extreme Severity.

REBELS WILL RECEIVE NO MERCY.

Menacing Attitude of Macedonians and Armenians Will Cause Cruel Reprisals on the Part of the Sultan's Troops.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 7.—Consular advices from Monastir indicate that the situation in Macedonia is constantly growing worse.

At a meeting of the ministers it has been decided, therefore, to adopt measures of extreme severity in order to suppress the revolution. It is reported that Albanian troops will be employed, in which event massacres are almost inevitable.

The Bulgarian exarch was summoned to the Yildiz palace and urged to make a final appeal to his flock to deliver up their arms and thereby avoid bloodshed.

The menacing attitude of the Kurds in Armenia is causing increasing alarm at Erzerum, Bitlis and Karput. It is asserted in some quarters that the authorities are secretly arming the Kurds while endeavoring to convict the Armenians of revolutionary intentions.

A circular note, it is stated, has been sent out to warn the European powers of the Turkish government's intention to crush the revolt. The note stated that the situation was very serious, and, although it did not mention Bulgaria, the document was regarded as a menace to the Bulgarian government.

The Macedonian committee in Sofia has announced that a revolution was proclaimed on Sunday in the vilayet of Monastir by the central revolutionary committee and that the revolutionary forces in all the districts began hostilities simultaneously. Telegraphic communication with the vilayet has been cut.

SHEN CHIEN'S CRUEL FATE.

Dowager Empress Deals Death to a Chinese Reformer.

PEKING, Aug. 7.—Edward T. Williams, the Chinese secretary of the United States legation, has made an extensive investigation into the execution of Shen Chien, the reformist journalist who was put to death by orders of the dowager empress July 31, and has handed Minister Conger a detailed report, proving that the executioners, after beating Chien for three or four hours, despaired of being able to fulfill the dowager empress' orders and, yielding to Shen's pleadings to end his misery, strangled him with their hands.

Shen Chien was executed by special instructions from the dowager empress, who desired to make an example of the journalists with which to terrify other reformers. The execution was declared to be the most horrible that has occurred in China since the massacre of 1900. The victim was beaten with bamboo rods in the courtyard of the yamen of the board of punishment until the flesh on his back, arms and legs was torn to ribbons.

Chien was thirty years old and had many friends among the foreign residents of the city, who described him as educated and high minded. The affair has created intense feeling in the foreign community at Peking and a strong sentiment against surrendering the Shanghai reformers to Chinese jurisdiction.

Canoe Trip of 1,650 Miles.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Everett Ward, Jr., and Robert Brotheroe, two students from Columbia university, have arrived here on their way to New York. The young men are making a canoe trip of about 1,650 miles from New York via the Hudson river and Erie canal to Buffalo, thence by the Niagara river to Lake Ontario and St. Lawrence river to Montreal, and return through Lake Champlain and Lake George. They left New York on June 22, reached Buffalo seventeen days later and Montreal on July 30. They expect to arrive in New York about Sept. 1. Their outfit consists of one seventeen foot canoe, blankets, oilskins, two guns and a small army tent. During their trip they have been successful in shooting the Little Sioux, Cedar, Split Rock cascade and Lachine rapids.

Trespassers on Naval Reservation.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Aug. 7.—Some engineers who were surveying a site for a terminal of the Cuba Eastern railway on the United States naval reservation at Guantanamo bay were warned off by the American officers there, but refused to go. Admiral Coghlan thereupon notified the Cuban government, and President Palma sent a revenue cutter, which forcibly ejected the trespassers. The railway, having acquired the land, claims heavy damages.

Criminal Proceedings Against Deibel

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 7.—Criminal proceedings have been instituted in the federal court here by attorneys representing the City National bank of Canton, O., against Albert W. Deibel, teller of the latter institution, on the charge of embezzling about $22,000 in funds and falsifying the bank's books. A deputy marshal has been sent to Canton to take charge of Deibel, who is under arrest there.

Saratoga Results.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 7.—There were no sensational features on the fourth day of the Saratoga meeting. The Spinaway, at five and a half furlongs, valued at $14,000, was the stake event. It was won by Raglan, a two-year-old filly by Plaudit, out of Royal Gun, whom Frederick Gebhard purchased of J. E. Madden. She was well ridden by Hicks. Fuller, on Little Em, got a poor start, but piloted his mount home for place money. A large amount of money was wagered on Runnels and Masterman, the only two starters in the fourth race. The former won easily after leading all the way.

Grand Circuit Races.

BUFFALO, Aug. 7.—Two stakes were on the card for the grand circuit here. The Electric City stake of $5,000 for the 2:25 class trotters was taken in straight heats by Jay McGregor. Budd Doble got second money with his brown stallion Kinney Lou. Star Hal took the Empire State stake of $2,000 in the 2:14 pace in straight heats. The driving of Geers in the 2:04 class pace was the feature of the day. In the second and third heats he made up much ground and won going away with Harold H. While the horses were on the back stretch in the third heat of this race, the last of the day, rain fell heavily.

Miss Anthony Won Glenview Cup.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Miss Bessie Anthony, western golf champion, won the 1903 Glenview cup yesterday from Miss "Johnnie" Carpenter of Westward Ho by 2 up in one of the closest played matches ever witnessed on the Glenview links. Miss Anthony was completely outplayed the first half of the journey and was 2 down at the turn with a medal score of 49 to her opponent's 46. In the second half, however, Miss Anthony played with great accuracy, and the match was practically won by her nerve.

Ulotma Is Fast.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 7.—The world's running record for three and a half furlongs has been cut a quarter of a second by Ulotma, who ran it in 41¼ seconds at the Meadows. The new record was made in the third race, in which Judge Thomas, the world's record quarter horse, was one of the starters. Ulotma is by Salvado out of Lightning, and made her initial appearance on a recognized track at the Meadows in June last. She is owned by W. F. Robb of this city.

Reliance Tries New Sails.

BRISTOL, R. I., Aug. 7.—The cup yacht Reliance arrived here shortly after 6 o'clock last night from Newport, having been out nearly all day trying her refitted sails. The Reliance was towed in by the tender Sunbeam and anchored off the Herreshoff pier. Today she will receive her new mainsail, and if the weather permits it will be given a trial late in the day.

Favorites Won at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Aug. 7.—Favorites won a majority of the races over the soft track at Fort Erie. Iole, winner of the five and a half furlong dash for two-year-olds, made a show of her field, and Jockey Forrest, who was suspended for a bad ride on the filly on Aug. 4, was ruled off the turf after her fine performance.

Racing at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—The racing at Delmar park was only ordinary. W. B. Gates won the feature of the card at one mile, galloping, by ten lengths. The race of interest turned up in the third, in which Follies Bergeres beat Ben Adkins by a head. Track heavy.

British Delegates Sail For Canada.

GENERAL MILES RETIRES.

After Forty-two Years' Service In the Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—After forty-two years' service in the United States army Nelson A. Miles, a Massachusetts boy, the commandant of Fortress Monroe and custodian of Jeff Davis, who entered the service as a lieutenant in the Twenty-second regiment and rose through every grade except that of lieutenant colonel, which he skipped, at length reaching the culmination of his military honors in the commission of lieutenant general, will retire from active duty tomorrow, having reached the official age limit of sixty-four years.

Nelson Appleton Miles will always be remembered as an Indian fighter, but his claim to fame by no means rests alone on his campaigns against the redskin during his forty-two years' service in the army.

At the time of the Spanish war he was raised to the exalted rank of lieutenant general. He headed the expedition to Porto Rico and took that island with no difficulty and trifling loss. He was censured by President Roosevelt and Secretary Root after the report of the court of inquiry on the Schley case had been made public by the promulgation of a general order condemning his statement when interviewed on the decision of that court.

Upon but seven men since the nation was born has the title of lieutenant general been conferred. Washington, Scott, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Schofield and Miles compose the list of generals who thus have been honored, and of these seven Grant alone was honored with the still higher title of general.

He was rebuked for declaring that our military operations in the Philippines were conducted by "marked severity," and again for this "breach" a movement was put on foot peremptorily retiring the veteran commander.

It is General Miles' intention to live in the south after his retirement.

PARKS FOUND GUILTY.

New York Walking Delegate, Convicted of Assault, Makes Threats.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Samuel J. Parks, walking delegate of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's union, who was charged with assault by Peter O'Neil, one of the members of the union, has been found guilty of assault in the third degree in the court of special sessions. He was released on the original police court bail until next Thursday, when, District Attorney Jerome announced, motion will be made either to pass sentence or further adjourn the sentence until the felony charges against Parks of extortion have been heard.

Timothy McCarthy, also a walking delegate of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's union, tried jointly with Parks, was acquitted after an examination lasting less than a minute.

Parks in talking to reporters later said: "I will pull out every job in the United States before I am through. I am heartily in favor of arbitration in any form that is agreeable to the laboring class. We have an arbitration plan with the Iron league. That is a plan they themselves saw fit to violate, and we are going to fight them to the last. The Housesmiths and Bridgemen's union and the Structural Iron Workers' union are two of the strongest in the United States, and we are ready to stay out anywhere from a year to five years."

THE MIMIC WAR.

Rear Admiral Barker's Squadron Reported Off Desert Rock.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 7.—A tug of Admiral Barker's squadron—which in the war maneuvers now going on is defending the Maine coast—which put in here for mail, reported Admiral Barker, with the flagship Kearsarge, the battle ships Alabama and Illinois and the tugs Peoria and Nina, off Desert rock, about twenty-seven miles from here.

The old school ship Hartford and the Chesapeake are guarding the mouth of Frenchman's bay near the Egg Rock lighthouse, though it was not the first intention to have the training ships participate in the maneuvers.

Only the scout boats have gone any great distance from this section of the coast, the superior force apparently being held in readiness to repulse any attack. Should the enemy enter an anchorage it would be necessary for this superior force to attack within five hours.

Three torpedo boat destroyers, the Decatur, Chauncey and Barry, appeared off Vinal Haven. The Dale also was at Swan's island and the Bainbridge at Camden. The Bainbridge was reported later at Portland, where she had proceeded from Camden.

Victim of Lynch Law Buried.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 7.—"Death by strangulation from having been hanged over a guy wire at the corner of First and Fillmore streets by masked men unknown to the jury" is the substance of the verdict returned by the coroner's jury at Asotin, Wash., at the inquest over the body of Will Hamilton, lynched for the murder of Mabel Richards. Hamilton's body was buried by his father and two or three other men. No funeral ceremonies were held.

Board Failed to Agree.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 7.—The conciliation board appointed to adjust the differences between the anthracite miners and the operators failed to agree on certain grievances and made an appeal to the judges of the third judicial circuit of the United States court for the appointment of a seventh man or umpire. The questions in dispute will be referred to this umpire, whose decision will be final and binding on both parties.

CORONATION OF PIUS X

Pontiff Will Be Crowned With Great Pomp.

IN THE WORLD'S GREATEST CHURCH

Holding the Ceremony In St. Peter's Represents a Great Concession, as the Sistine Chapel Has Hitherto Been Used.

ROME, Aug. 7.—The attention of Rome is now centered upon the solemn coronation ceremony which is to occur on Sunday and for which great preparations are being made. The throne of St. Peter which Pius X. will occupy will be surmounted by a canopy forty feet high. The function will consume five hours.

The pope has informed the Vatican officials that he wishes to be received on the threshold of the basilica by Cardinal Rampolla, who, as archpriest of the church, will address the formal greetings to him. At the conclusion of the ceremony the pope will confer his blessing upon the people, but it has not yet been decided whether he will do so inside the church or from the balcony looking out upon the piazza, where many hoped he would bestow his benediction on the day of his election.

It is said that Pius is favorable to the latter plan, but the influence of the Vatican officials is against it on the ground that it might be interpreted as a recognition of the present state of affairs in Italy. The holding of the coronation ceremonies in St. Peter's itself represents a concession, as in the case of Leo it occurred in the Sistine chapel. Although it is expected that 60,000 tickets will be issued for the event, the demand for them is already very great.

In the consistories to be held Monday and Thursday next the pope will confer the red hat upon Cardinals Aiuti, Taliani, Katschthaler and Herrero y Espinosa, who were raised from the purple June 25, but who have not yet received these symbols of rank because of the illness and death of Leo. It is believed that the Spanish Cardinal Herrero will not be able to be present at the coronation ceremonies.

It is now definitely known that the war between the Vatican and the Quirinal will continue under Pius X. as vigorously and bitter as it ever was under Leo XIII. or Pius IX.

Failure to receive an official communication from the Vatican announcing the election of the new pontiff has led the Italian government to take most drastic measures, drawing the line between church and state more stringently than before.

Because of this absence of an official notification from the Vatican Signor Zanardelli, Italian premier, has sent a strongly worded circular to all government officials positively prohibiting them from participating in homage to the new pope.

Count Grimani, mayor of Venice and a warm personal friend of Pius X., has arrived here for the express purpose of paying his respects to the new pope, but orders from the government are that if he calls on the pontiff or even at the Vatican he is to be immediately dismissed.

Thus active hostilities between the Italian government and the Vatican will be begun.

Senator's Romance Ends Happily.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 7.—A romance extending over a quarter of a century will come to a happy climax when Welden Brinton Heyburn, United States senator from Idaho, will marry Miss Gheratine Yeatman of Chester county, Pa. Years ago young Heyburn met Miss Yeatman, like himself, a Pennsylvanian of Quaker ancestry, and they became friends. In 1884 the young lawyer came west and settled in Idaho. He became a leader of the bar, acquired wealth and last winter became United States senator. Senator Heyburn has left for the east, and it is announced that his marriage with Miss Yeatman will occur shortly, probably at the home of the bride's mother.

Trolley Collision, One Dead.

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 7.—While returning from a church picnic a trolley car with a hundred passengers on the Youngstown and Sharon Electric line ran into a car ahead, killing one man and more or less seriously injuring about twenty others. Joseph Beer, aged sixty-five, of Sharon, was crushed to death. The more seriously injured are Archibald Totten, Mrs. E. Sheasley, Miss Zella Cooper, Mrs. Arthur Radford, Miss Maggie Gammil, Motorman Hays, Carl Peters and Lizzie Minchel, all of Sharpsville, and Elmer Rose of Sharon.

Tramps Stab Brakeman.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 7.—A terrific fight occurred between four tramps and the crew of Erie freight train 82, east bound, between Falconer and Kennedy, during which Jack Allen, a brakeman of Meadville, Pa., was badly stabbed and one of the tramps fell between the cars of the train and was cut in two. There was nothing on the body of the dead man to indicate who he was except a bunch of keys and a key check which bore the name of Samuel Frey, Excelsior Coal company, Akron, O.

These Cotton Mills to Run.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 7.—A special to the Telegram from Webster says the big cotton mills of the Grosvenor Dale company, in Grosvenor Dale and North Grosvenor Dale, Conn., will not shut down or lessen production, as other New England cotton mills are doing, on account of the high price of cotton, but will continue to run full time, as the company has nearly a year's supply of cotton on hand, bought when prices were much lower. The mills employ 2,000 hands.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

If New Brunswick cannot be as progressive as Plainfield, Hoboken.

Newark may be the mother city of New Jersey but she may never Paterson.

Though many have been wrecked by the continued squeezing of watered stock in Wall street, we haven't noticed that any subscriptions have been taken for the flood victims.

Authorities at Washington are experimenting with the idea of changing the bank note from a crisp to a velvety texture. Stop right there. Money passes through one's hands quickly enough.

The Chinese government has addressed the foreign ministers demanding the extradition of the editor and staff of a Chinese reform organ. She's attacking the Western ideas again. Evidently her majesty wishes to disprove the adage that "The pen is mightier than the sword.

New Jersey's lax laws in regard to the selling of poisons and poisonous narcotics, have often caused trouble in the past and are a frequent cause of adverse comment. The other day a Plainfield woman entered a local apothecary shop and asked for laudanum. Her object in buying it was suicide, her attempt following a long sickness and despondency. On buying the poison, she offered no explanation of the uses to which she intended putting it and the clerk who waited upon her required none. The woman took a large dose after reaching home, and but for the prompt discovery of her condition and the immediate services of a physician would have accomplished her purpose. The woman's husband immediately consulted a lawyer with a view to bringing suit against the apothecary at whose store the laudanum was sold. He was informed that he had no case, inasmuch as the law merely provides that the druggist shall state the nature of the poison he is selling and label the bottle containing it. Nothing further is required of him. This should not be so. In nearly every other eastern State, the laws governing the selling of poisons are stringent. The person buying is required to register his name and state whether he intends using the poison for himself or another; and is obliged also to state the medicinal uses to which he proposes putting it. In some places a written order from a physician is demanded. The ease with which poison is obtainable in New Jersey is undoubtedly a temptation to many to take advantage of it when the desire to "shuffle off this mortal coil" becomes overpowering. As a preventative of suicide and crime, it should be made possible to trace every ounce of poison sold in the State.

GIANT EGG OF ÆPYORNIS.

Marvelous Specimen Recently Acquired by the American Museum of Natural History.

A rare and remarkable curiosity in the shape of the largest egg in the world is now on exhibition in Bird hall of the American museum of natural history. The egg belonged to a gigantic extinct bird, called the aepyornis, formerly inhabiting the wilds of the Island of Madagascar. This huge member of the bird kingdom, for some unknown reason, was exterminated in comparatively recent times, and nothing but its fossil eggs and fragmentary remains of the skeleton can be found.

From the length and size of the limbs and feet the birds are said by scientists to have been probably twice or three times the height of an ostrich, of which they are supposed to be a distinct group. They were powerful and ever dangerous creatures to human life. It is related that they carried off cattle and sheep and the white inhabitants had to walk about with tame tigers to guard and protect themselves from their attack. The extraordinary size of the egg, which is nearly a foot long by ten inches in diameter, is vividly shown by comparison with a hen's egg, which seems nothing but a mere speck in comparison.

Nearly half a hundred hen eggs could be packed inside, says the New York Commercial-Advertiser. Only a few perfect eggs have been found. They command a high price, owing to their scarcity, averaging from $100 to $500 a piece.

QUEER KIND OF THEFT.

Mexican Hotel-Keeper Tapped Electric Light Company's Cable to Save Cost.

A hotel keeper in the City of Mexico, whose place was always brilliantly lighted by electric lamps, apparently without regard to cost, has recently been convicted by a local judge for stealing from the electric light company the current with which his hostelry was lighted. He was condemned to a year's imprisonment and a fine of $33.70, and, as an additional penalty, was "disqualified for all kinds of public honors and employments," reports the Chicago Chronicle.

The landlord who attempted to evade the electric company's charges wired his house and made a connection with the company's cables, with the intention, as he pleaded, of calling at the office of the company and explaining the matter at a later day. He also declared that he had used the current for "only a month." The company had its suspicions aroused and applied to the court for authority to make an examination of the hotel lighting system, which was granted, with the result of revealing the fraud. The legal point of interest involved in the case hinged upon the definition of the word "robbery," which the district code thus elucidates: "He commits robbery who possesses himself of a movable thing belonging to another, without right and without the consent of the person entitled by law to dispose of it."

EXCHANGE OF CHILDREN.

Where City Parents Trade Their Offspring with People from the Country.

A curious arrangement, called "The Exchange of Children," was adopted by some charitable people of Berlin last summer, and will be revived this spring, says the New York Tribune. The promoters arrange for the temporary interchange of city and country children. Children of working people there begin to contribute to the support of the family sooner than in this country. The little ones all have their tasks. This is true in the country, as well as in the cities, but the labor performed by children in the towns is very different from that on the farm. Hence some charitable women of Berlin organized a fresh-air scheme, by which the children of the poor may exchange places for a few months in the summer. Those from the farms come into the city, which is a valuable educational experience for them, and those in the city have an opportunity to enjoy a little country life, without depriving the parents of either of their assistance. Families who are willing to make such exchanges are invited to report at the headquarters, where an exchange is arranged.

Highest Waterfall.

While mining in Mexico, William P. Dunham, of Denver, visited what is considered the highest waterfall in the world. It bears the Indian name of Bassaseachic, and is located about 190 miles west of the city of Chihuahua, near the summit of the Sierra Madre mountains. The elevation of the mountain is 6,500 feet above sea level. The cascade falls 978 feet.

Large Artificial Lake.

In a gorge of rock little more than 200 feet wide the United States government has decided to construct a dam of solid masonry, the first under the Hansborough-Newlands act, at the Tonto Basin site, that will create in the valleys of the upper Salt river and Tonto creek the largest artificial lake in the world. It will irrigate 200,000 acres.

BATTLE WITH MOSQUITO.

New Jersey Judge Fights Bitter Duel Which Is Without a Peer in History of Chivalry.

Loud war cries and much shedding of blood marked the battle between Recorder Jacob G. Post, of Bloomfield, N. J., and a monster mosquito of the Orange Mountain species. The recorder had held court all day and he slept like a log until shortly after midnight. Then he was awakened by a loud, strident, insistent yell of: "Him-m-m-m-m!"

So vicious was the slogan, so significant of a raging blood thirst, that the recorder trembled as he awoke, struck a light and began to search for an intruder. He found no one. Then he thought that perhaps some passing late drinker had amused himself by blowing one of the fiendish revolving bicycle whistles. He looked out of the window, but saw no one in the street. As he turned toward his bed a fierce, winged monster with a long bill like the blade of a swordfish flew at him. It was a robust Orange Mountain petroleum-nourished mosquito, mighty of wing and of a most atrocious disposition.

The recorder smashed at the monster with a heavy cane and missed him. With a yell of delight the thing darted at him again. Once more the recorder made a mighty lunge at his assailant, but again he missed. The bird of prey retreated to a shadowy corner of the room and got ready for another attack. Evidently he was up on baseball tactics, for as the recorder swung a high blow that would have batted him away far beyond Hobokus the creature swooped downward and planted his bill in one of the smaller arteries of the calf of the recorder's right leg.

His honor dropped the stick and with a mighty swat of his right hand laid the monster sprawling on the rug. It measured nearly three inches from tip to tip—the mosquito, not the rug.

The recorder's wound bled so profusely that he sent for Dr. F. G. Shoul, who treated the cut with antiseptic dressing, and after some time succeeded in stopping the flow. The mosquito was the largest ever seen in the neighborhood of Bloomfield.

TWO UNDONE BY BEER.

Prisoners Inform Chicago Justice They Thought That Railroad Company Was Treating.

"It was like this, your honor," said John McNulta to Justice Hennessey of Chicago. "We wus goin' past dat car and we sees de door open. We s'poses de company is treatin' and we just takes a case or so of beer. We wus drinkin' to de health of de railroad company when along comes dis copper and pinches us."

A policeman from the Englewood station told the court that while on duty near the Belt-Line railway at Seventy-sixth street he found a refrigerator car with the seals broken and several cases of beer missing. A trail of beer led from the car and he followed it. It led to an empty car, where he discovered McNulta and Henry West rapidly opening bottles and disposing of the contents.

"I like your story very well," said Justice Hennessey to the prisoners, "but I fear I shall have to impose a light tap on the wrist. It will be $50 each, which trifling sum I suppose you have about you."

Doctors Have Right of Way.

In the streets of Berlin doctors' carriages have the right of way. Even the emperor's carriage must pause when a doctor's vehicle is about to cut across its path.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

FASHION NOTES.

New Turbans—Long Floating Sleeves on Evening Gowns.

Nothing is smarter at French watering places than the new wide turbans trimmed with red and white currants and their own foliage. They also give a lighter effect to the heavy cloth frocks with which they are sometimes worn.

Tussore silk is being revived, but as a rule it is more practical than becoming. It is very popular for dust coats and useful traveling frocks, for it is inexpensive and washes well.

Immensely long floating sleeves are a feature of nearly all the smart evening gowns. A gray mousseline de soie seen recently was trimmed with lines of the palest mauve velvet. The corsage was finished with the long floating sleeves edged with tiny ruches of chiffon. It is a matter of choice whether these floating appendages come straight from the shoulder or start from a close fitting epaulet and end proportionately short, but however fancy dictates their disposal they are always smart and pretty.

TAILOR MADE TOQUE.

The bolero continues as popular as ever.

Some of the new hats in chip are turned up abruptly at the sides toward the back, where they are simply trimmed with a bow of black velvet and perhaps an ostrich feather. These are smart and at the same time serviceable, for there is nothing on them if the feather be omitted, to get spoiled by wind or rain. A favorite hat has again come into favor. It is called the "Nell Gwynn." It is very large, takes most becoming lines and is trimmed with beautiful feathers coming out around from the crown and just overhanging the brim.

The illustration shows a toque of black straw trimmed with two wings.

USEFUL GOWNS.

Soft Makes of Linen—Tailor Made Cheek Gowns.

There are a great many soft makes of linen this year, and they are really more serviceable wear because they do not crease so easily and are so much easier to wash and iron even if they do cost a little more at first.

A feature of the early autumn will be checks, red and white, brown and white, green and white and blue and white. They sometimes do the duty of plain cloth in the between seasons and do duty on chilly days. The Parisienne always has a check dress in her wardrobe.

A dress of this description should be tailor made, decorated perhaps, but at the same time neat and useful, with a skirt neither too short nor too long. A charming model was made with narrow box plaits on the hips, down the front and in the center of the back, with a skirt just to clear the ground. The blouse bolero was also box plaited with a shoulder piece of very coarse Italian lace and some incrustations of black velvet. The waistband was of turquoise panne, and there was a suspicion of turquoise chiffon at the neck. Altogether it was an essentially practical gown suitable for many occasions.

The cut shows a costume of spotted canvas, with a box plaited bolero trimmed with embroidery and tassels.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

They were crawling to him by this time, Blake and Schreiber, among the stunted cedars that grew thickly along the rocky ledge. Winsor, flat again on his stomach, sprawled like a squirrel close to the brink. Every moment as the skies grew brighter the panorama before them became more extensive, a glorious sweep of highland scenery, of boldly tossing ridges east and south and west—the slopes all mantled, the trees all tipped, with nature's ermine, and studded now with myriad gems, taking fire at the first touch of the day god's messenger, as the mighty king himself burst his halo of circling cloud and came peering over the low curtain far at the eastward horizon. Chill and darkness and shrouding vapor vanished all in a breath as he rose, dominant over countless leagues of wild, unbroken, yet magnificent mountain landscape.

"HE FOUND SCHREIBER CROUCHING AT THE FOOT OF A TREE GAZING WARILY FORWARD."

"Worth every hour of watch and mile of climb!" muttered Blake. "But it's Indians, not scenery, we're after. What are we here for, Winsor?" and narrowly he eyed Ray's famous right bower.

"If the major got there first, sir—and I believe he did—they have to send the prisoners and wounded back this way."

"Then we've got 'em!" broke in Schreiber, low-toned, but exultant. "Look, sir," he added, as he pointed along the range. "They are signaling now."

From the wooded height 1,000 yards away, curious little puffs of smoke, one following another, were sailing straight for the zenith, and Blake, screwing his field glasses to the focus, swept with them the mountain side toward the five-mile distant cliff, and presently the muscles about his mouth began to twitch—sure sign with Blake of gathering excitement.

"You're right, sergeant," he presently spoke, repressing the desire to shout, and striving, lest Winsor should be moved to invidious comparisons, to seem as nonchalent as Billy Ray himself. "They're coming back already." Then down the mountainside he dove to plan and prepare appropriate welcome, leaving Winsor and the glasses to keep double-powered watch on the situation.

Six-fifty of a glorious, keen November morning, and 60 troopers of the old regiment were distributed along a spur that crossed, almost at right angles, the line of the Indian trail. Sixty fur-capped, rough-coated fellows, with their short brown carbines in hand, crouching behind rocks and fallen trees, keeping close to cover and warned to utter silence. Behind them, 200 yards away, their horses were huddled under charge of their disgusted guards, envious of their fellows at the front, and cursing hard their luck in counting off as number four. Schreiber had just come sliding, stumbling down from Winsor's perch to say that they could hear faint sound of sharp volleying far out to the eastward, where the warriors, evidently, were trying to "stand off" Webb's skirmish line until the travois with the wounded and the escort of the possible prisoners should succeed in getting back out of harm's way and taking surer and higher trail into the thick of the wilderness back of Bear Cliff. "Some of 'em must come in sight here in a minute, sir," panted the veteran sergeant. "We could see them plainly up there—a mule litter and four travois, and there must be a dozen in saddle."

A dozen there were, for along the line of crouching men went sudden thrill of excitement. Shoulders began to heave; nervous thumbs bore down on the heavy carbine hammers, and there was sound of irrepressible stir and murmur. Out among the pines, 500 yards away two mounted Indians popped suddenly into view, two others speedily followed, their well-nigh exhausted ponies feebly shaking their shaggy, protesting heads as their riders plied the stinging quirt or jabbed with cruel lance; only in a painful jog trot could they zig zag through the trees. Then came two warriors, leading the pony of a crippled comrade. "Don't fire—don't harm them! Fall back from the trail there and let them in. They'll halt the moment they see our tracks! Get 'em alive, if possible!" were Blake's rapid orders, for his eyes were eagerly fixed on other objects beyond these dejected leaders—upon stumbling mules, lashed fore and aft between long, spliced saplings and bearing thus the rude litter—Hay's pet wheelers turned to hospital use. An Indian boy, mounted, led the foremost mule; another watched the second; while, on each side of the occupant of the Sioux palanquin, jogged a blanketed rider on jaded pony. Here was a personage of consequence—luckier much than these others following, dragged along on travois whose trailing poles came jolting over stone or hummock along the rugged path. It was on these that Blake's glittering eyes were fastened. "Pounce on the leaders, you that are nearest!" he ordered, in low, telling tones, the men at his left; then turned to Schreiber, crouching close beside him, the fringe of his buckskin hunting shirt quivering over his bounding heart. "There's the prize I want," he muttered low. "Whatever you do, let no shot reach that litter. Charge with me the moment the leaders yell. You men to the right," he added, slightly raising his voice, "be ready to jump with me. Don't shoot anybody that doesn't show fight. Nab everything in sight."

"Whoo-oop!" All in a second the mountain woke, the welkin rang, to a yell of warning from the lips of the leading Sioux. All in a second they whirled their ponies about and darted back. All in that second Blake and his nearmost sprang to their feet and flung themselves forward straight for the startled convoy. In vain the few warriors bravely rallied about their foremost wounded. The unwieldy litter could not turn about; the frantic mules, crazed by the instant pandemonium of shouts and shots—the onward rush of charging men—the awful screams of a brace of squaws, broke from their leading reins; crashed with their litter against the trees, hurling the luckless occupant to earth. Back drove the unhit warriors before the dash of the cheering line. Down went first one pony, then a second, in his bloody tracks. One after another, litter, travois, wounded and prisoner, was clutched and seized by stalwart hands, and Blake, panting not a little, found himself bending staring over the prostrate form flung from the splintered wreck of the litter, a form writhing in pain that forced no sound whatever from between grimly clinching teeth, yet that baffled effort, almost superb, to rise and battle still—a form magnificent in its proportions, yet helpless through wounds and weakness. Not the form Blake thought to see, of shrinking, delicate, dainty woman, but that of the furious warrior who thrice had dared him on the open field—the red brave well-known by sight and deed within the moon now waning, but, only within the day gone by, revealed to him as the renegade Ralph Moreau—Eagle Wing of the Ogallala Sioux.

Where then was Nanette?

Cost of Civil Uniforms.

Civil uniforms are, in some instances, expensive. The British prime minister's full-dress embroidered coat costs $38.50—quite enough for a garment that is so seldom worn. The embroidered tunic of a lord lieutenant of a county costs $92, a city lieutenant's uniform coming to a little over that sum.—London Mail.

Only One Gas Yet to Be Solidified.

Profs. Moissan and Dewar have lately succeeded, with the aid of liquid hydrogen, in solidifying fluorin, and they remark that helium is now the only gas which has not been obtained in the solid state. An interesting result of the experiments was the demonstration that, although chemical activity tends to cease at extremely low temperatures, yet fluorin, which is known to possess more powerful affinities than any other element, is capable, even when reduced to the solid state, of combining with liquid hydrogen. Such a combination, accompanied with a violent explosion, was produced when the solid fluorin and liquid hydrogen were kept at a temperature of —252.5 degrees Centigrade, equivalent to 422.5 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.—Science.

Royal Stamp Collectors.

The prince of Wales is not by any means the only royal philatelist. It is said, indeed, that every royal family in Europe has a member who is collecting stamps. Probably the most zealous collector is Princess Clementine of Belgium. She has made a study of stamps and is regarded as an authority on the subject. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and the king of Servia have for years been placing stamps in beautiful albums, but of late it is said their interest in the work has somewhat waned. Pope Leo XIII. has a collection of exceptionally rare stamps, and frequently he spends his leisure moments in examining them. The prelates of the church are aware of his interest in them, and whenever they can they send him new treasures for his collection.—Golden Penny.

Peas from Pharaoh's Tomb.

There are bargains and finds to be made in the plant world equal to any picked up in old curiosity shops. Some time ago a Glasgow gentleman received from his son in Egypt an envelope full of peas, which were said to have been found in the tomb of one of the Pharaohs. He sent them to a friend of his at Hames, in the isle of Bute, who sowed them. They grew up into plants quite unlike anything known at present, strong and about six feet high, with a great white flower having a red center. The pods were long, and full of excellent peas. This new old variety found a ready sale at good prices.—Nature.

Pewter a Rare Metal.

At the beginning of the sixteenth century, pewter was so rare in England as to be hired by the year for noblemen's houses, and even during the reign of Elizabeth was a very costly material. Gremio, in "The Taming of the Shrew," alludes to it as one of the important articles of housekeeping in his city mansion. Before the invention of carpets the rooms were spread with rushes, even in the noblest mansions, and Shakespeare has many allusions to this old custom in words put in the mouths of Iachimo, Glendower and Romeo.

Taxes in London.

Practically only the buildings are taxed in England, and this tax the occupant pays. There is now a strong movement in favor of taxation of "ground rents" and "site values," and the introduction of the plan of laying assessments on property for local improvements, as in this country. It is vigorously opposed by the wealthy class, especially by the dukes, who own the ground upon which London is built.—N. Y. World.

Wisdom of Experience.

"What is your opinion as to long engagements?" queried the young man whose springtime fancy lightly turned to thoughts of a matrimonial nature.

"They're the worst ever," answered the man who had found it necessary to comb his hair with a towel for lo, these many moons. "A long engagement means a short bank balance to begin housekeeping on."—Chicago Daily News.

Prompt Action.

The auctioneer was closing out the effects of a bankrupt athlete.

"Well," he said, "here's a football, good as new. Take it and look at it. What am I offered to start it?"

A college boy in the crowd grabbed it, started it with a kick, and when last heard from it was still going, going.—Chicago Tribune.

An Effectual Quietus.

He—Why, we haven't even to extol the virtues of men to prove the inferiority of women. The very failings of womankind prove the point. No woman, for example, has a sense of humor.

She—She hasn't? Then why is it that all bits of bright repartee are called Sallies?—N. Y. Times.

Poverty.

Mr. Newrocks—What sort of folks are the Bluebloods next door, Mariah?

ENGLISH HOUSEHOLD TROOPS

Regiments That Date Their Establishment from the Time of Charles II.

The privileges of the household troops, which are now being called into question, date from the establishment of the regiments from Charles II., according to the London Chronicle. A fortnight before his coming from Holland he selected 80 cavalier gentlemen, and formed them into a corps of life guards, under Lord Gerard. Increased to 600 men, they formed the king's bodyguard, and escorted him into his own again.

Parliament disbanded the Ironside army, but an outburst of fifth monarchy fanatics in January, 1661, afforded Charles a pretext for maintaining troops for his personal protection. Out of Monk's disbanded army the king increased the life guard by 500 men, raised a regiment of foot guards, transformed the Coldstream regiments into a second corps of foot guards, and converted troops of Cromwellian cavalry into royal horse guards. The Third regiment of foot guards was established in 1713, in honor of the union with Scotland. The earl of Linlithgow's fusiliers were brought to London and converted into "Scott's guards." These five regiments formed the nucleus of the British army.

CAMELS IN LOUISIANA.

Said to Have Been Introduced There by a Lumberman as Far Back as 1842.

James Boardman Cable, of Longbeach, Miss., is authority for the statement that his father, the late George W. Cable, imported a herd of camels for utilitarian purposes in 1842, reports the New Orleans Picayune. He was engaged in the manufacture of lumber under the firm name of Cable & Simpson, in the vicinity of Covington, in St. Tammany parish, La. St. Tammany parish has a very sandy soil, and Mr. Cable conceived the idea of using camels in the hauling of logs.

That was long before the days of the logging steam train. Horses and mules were unserviceable, because of the sandy soil. In 1842 a herd of camels was imported from Arabia, through New Orleans, and put to work hauling logs to the saw mill. The venture was a big success. The queer-looking beasts, with their slouchy gait, hauled logs to the mill and hauled the lumber to the river, which led to Lake Ponchartrain, over which the lumber was carried in schooners to New Orleans. Some years after the firm dissolved, and the camels were sold to a man out west. That was the last of the herd, so far as Mr. Cable knows.

ANIMALS ON ANIMALS.

Parasites That Take Up Their Lodgings on the Bodies, Beasts, Birds and Fishes.

All animals both great and small, suffer as severely as mammals in the matter of parasites, says Leslie's Monthly. The parasite of the ostrich is a formidable-looking example. The most interesting of the pigeon's parasites is the one known as the slender pigeon louse, which is supposed to do good service to the bird by thinning its body plumage as the weather grows hot. Fish also have parasites. The legs of one variety which inhabits the carp and pike are attached to the posterior part of its anatomy, and constitute paddles by means of which the organism can change its host and depart to pay its attentions to another fish. Two dark spots in the forepart of the creature represent the first pair of legs, which have been converted into suckers, by means of which the organism retains hold of its host. There is good reason to believe that this "pike louse" is not a parasitic torment, but rather a desired attendant. In all probability it derives its nourishment from the mucous products secreted by the skin of the fish. And when it has satisfactorily arranged the toilet of one fish it abandons it for another which needs its help.

WHEN MILES WAS DEFEATED.

Irish Woodchopper Was More Than a Match for the General in Repartee.

Gen. Miles is quoted by a fellow officer as telling the following story on himself:

"It was during our pursuit of Chief Joseph," said the general. "One exceedingly stormy night we encountered on our march in the Bearpaw mountains a few woodchoppers' cabins. The woodsmen were not inclined to be very hospitable, but we finally induced them to share with us the protection their huts afforded.

"They consented, however, only upon condition that they should not under any circumstances be compelled to give up their beds. It fell to my lot to share the bunk of the boss, a very stern Irishman, who was not delighted with his guest.

"Hoping to establish an entente cordiale I said, banteringly, as we were preparing to retire:

"'Come now, Patrick, you know you'd be a long time in Ireland before you'd get a chance to sleep with a general.'

"'And it's Oi that am thinking,' he instantly retorted, 'that you'd be a long time in Ireland before you'd iver be made a general.'"

SPORTING NEWS.

INFIELD HITS.

Welsh, Hope's new short stop, comes from Jersey City and has a good reputation as a fielder and batsman.

Many of the ball cranks have learned with sorrow that "Doc" Doyle, the Saints popular captain, has retired from baseball.

Manager Cose has done a wise act in placing Martin in the outfield. "Brit" is a good hitter, but he has seen his best days as an infielder.

Catcher Bolan revels in speed. The faster the pitcher sends them in the better he likes it. He could hold them just the same if the pitcher was only ten feet away.

It has not been definitely decided who will pitch for St. Mary's against Alis, at the Oval, on Saturday. It is possible that a new man may be put in, as has been the rule of late.

Henriques is an infielder and no mistake about it. He plays second base in fine style, and his error on Saturday was due to the fact that he had a particularly hard ball to handle.

Manager Cose announces the following lineup for his team in the coming game with the fast High Bridge team: Bolan, c; Montross, p; Gauven, 1b; Dodge, 2b; Welsh, ss; Shortman, 3b; Hewitt, lf; Baldwin, cf; Martin, rf.

The lineup of the St. Mary's team with Alis tomorrow will be this: Mallay, c; Mauer, p; Winn, 1b; Holland, 2b; McIntyre, ss; Cooney, 3b; Taylor, lf; Hartley, cf; Cheever, rf. Creedon, of Raritan, will umpire the game.

Manager MacLaughlin, of the Alis baseball nine, yesterday, announced the line-up for tomorrow's game. It is: Kavanaugh, ss; Gormerly, c; Henriques, 2b; Richardson, 1b; Davis, cf; Gastmeyer, 3b; Lederer, lf; MacLaughlin, p; Dupee, rf.

Colored Servants Organize.

Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, has called a meeting of the colored servants for Wednesday evening, August 12, at the church, when a beneficial organization will be instituted. There are a large number of servants here and they believe that by forming such a society it will have a tendency to help them in times of need.

Undergoing Repairs.

Extensive repairs are in progress at the Meeker building on East Front street. Iron girders are being put in as new supports in the front of the store and the store floor is being lowered two and a half feet. Charles Hand has charge of all the work.

SNAP SHOTS.

Edward Baker, of the borough, who is camping out at Lake Hopatcong with a party of young men, has written to Albert Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, telling him his experience fishing in the lake. Monday morning the party went out in a boat and after an hour's fishing, Mr. Baker landed an eight-and-half pound bass. This is claimed to be the largest bass caught in the lake in two or three years. Some friends of Mr. Baker have doubted the truthfulness of this story, but the fact that he is so much like George Washington, leads them to believe him rather than hunt for proof. He has promised to send a large mess of fish to Plainfield for distribution among his friends.

The Plymouth, (N. H.,) Record, contains this contribution of George Taggart, formerly of this city:—

GIGGLE.

"Girls hez lots o' funny ways
Ez like as not you know,
Giggle from their younges' days
An' keep on doin' so;
Don't care who th' girls may be
Ner how they stan' with you,
Bet cher life, 'tween you an' me,
The thing they mos'ly do
Is giggle.

"When th' luck is good er ain't
They giggle jes' th' same,
Make th' longes' suff'rin' saint
Be sorry thet he came;
Ef a feller's flush er broke,
Healthier er sicker,
Girls jes' think it,s all a joke,
Set eroun' an' snicker
An' giggle.

"Man can't never understan'
What's so blamed amusin'
'Bout some trick thet's underhan'
Er a game he's loosin';
Girls, tho', jes' laff fit t' kill—
Man keeps quiet till he Finds hisself a-feelin' ill
Cause they act so silly
An giggle.

"Still, altho' t' mortal men
It's demoralizin',
Mebbe girls jes giggle when
They're philosophizin';
Sad folks don't know where they're at Ain't no use o' cryin',
Better let it go at that,
Cut out tears an' sighin',
An' giggle."

FAILED IN ATTEMPT TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Miss Anna Vanderweg Tried to Cut Her Throat With Butcher and Peeling Knives.

ALSO USED THE SCISSORS

DISCOVERED BY HER BROTHER STILL CONSCIOUS—TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

Refuses to Give Reason for Act—Had Been Despondent—In a Critical Condition, But May Recover—An Aunt of the Patrolman.

Miss Anna Vanderweg, an aunt of Patrolman Matthew Vanderweg, made an attempt to take her own life at her home at 14 Elm place, last evening and is now at the hospital in a precarious condition.

Miss Vanderweg is housekeeper for her brother, Edward Vanderweg. At 6 o'clock last evening the latter returned from his work and found the house closed. Thinking his sister had gone out and forgotten to leave the place unlocked he found his way in through a rear door. He discovered an apron on a chair and evidences of preparation for dinner. Some half peeled potatoes were in a pan on the table and the fire in the kitchen stove had been lighted but had gone out.

Vanderweg called several times but received no answer. Suddenly as he was about to relight the fire he heard a peculiar sound in his sister's room. He hastened up stairs and the sight that met his gaze staggered him. Lying on the floor in a semi-conscious condition was his sister in a large pool of blood. From an ugly gash in her throat, the blood was fast flowing and beside her lay a large butcher knife, a pair of scissors and a peeling knife, the implemens with which she had made the attempt on her life.

Vanderweg immediately summoned help, calling in Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loughlin, his next door neighbors. The latter stopped the flow of blood as best they could until the arrival of Dr. Olin F. Jenkins, who had been sent for.

A hasty examination of the wound was made by the physician who found tha the jugular vein had been missed by a hair's breadth. A hurry call was sent for the ambulance and the woman was taken with all speed to Muhlenburg Hospital where restoratives were applied and the wound dressed. When she regained consciousness she refused to give any reason for her action.

Neighbors, when seen by a representative of The Daily Press, said that they had noticed something peculiar about the woman all day. They remember seeing her in the yard shortly after 5 o'clock, wandering about in an excited manner. It is believed that the woman attempted suicide in a temporary fit of insanity brought about by despondency.

Miss Vanderweg is fifty years of age and has lived in this city nearly all her life. She has been her brother's housekeeper for many years. She has been a conscientious worker in the First Presbyterian Church.

The condition of Miss Vanderweg at noon today was reported as giving ground for encouragement.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Tendered John McKeon—Euchre and Dancing Enjoyed.

A birthday surprise was tendered John A. McKeon, Jr., of West End Park. Progressive euchre was the feature of the evening. The woman's prize was won by Miss O'Neil, of New York and the gentleman's by Andrew F. McKeon. Miss McCann and Mr. Frazee won the booby prizes. Refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed. Friends from Brooklyn, New York and Jersey City were present.

Borough Council Adjourns.

No meeting of the North Plainfield Common Council was held last evening because of a lack of a quorum. The only members present were Clerk Frank Rowley, James F. Arnold and Robert Clark. The meeting was adjourned until Friday, August 14.

GREETED BY LOCAL KNIGHTS

PERSEVERANCE LODGE, K. OF P., TENDERS ELABORATE RECEPTION.

J. B. Higgins, Master of Finance, Honored—Musical and Other "Stunts."

Members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, turned out in full force last evening at the reception given in honor of J. B. Higgins, the master of finance, who has the record of a thirty years membership in that organization.

The entertainment was entirely by local talent. Several tenor solos were rendered by Elmer Cutting, as well as a few by Tommy Muir. William N. Runyon accompanied on the piano. Joseph Loughhead presented some masterful selections on the mandolin and banjo. The Lodge jews harp quartette also entertained.

The "Coon Comedy Company" quartette gave songs and some first class buck dancing. "Skinny" Wilson, the manager, was especially active with his feet and won the contest of the buck dancers by truly remarkable work. The quartette next got to work on a watermelon eating contest in which some record breaking time was made by all. Each coon was seated before two quarters of a melon, his hands were tied behind his back, and as the word, the eating began. The winner put away his half melon in three-and-a-half minutes, and was awarded a melon as a prize.

In the name of the Lodge, William N. Runyon presented a mammoth bouquet to Mr. Higgins, accompanying with a brief address in which he ascribed to him the honor justly due a member who has served the Knights so long and faithfully. Mr. Higgins replied with well chosen words of thanks.

The entertainment was concluded by the selection of a committee of twenty-five members who departed for the beef house and presently returned each, bearing a huge melon right off the ice.

Walter L. Hetfield, William N. Runyon, Charles McGinley, William Mattox and Elmer Cutting were the committee in charge of the affair.

PERMANENTLY BARRED.

The Colored People Not Allowed to Enter Galvin's Park, Even on Thursdays.

Colored people have been denied the use of Galvin's Park at all times and if they persist in attempting to enter will be forcibly ejected. Last Thursday a number of colored people went to the place from Plainfield, and were told that they could not enter.

Mr. Galvin makes the distinction, he says, because he is obliged to by the white patrons of the resort. The action of the colored people in practically boycotting the place, has led him to deny them its privileges at all times. There is some talk among some of the colored people of this city of instituting suit against the management.

DEATH OF FORMER CITIZEN.

Alexander Runyon Died Sunday in Iowa—Well Know Here.

Word has been received by Mrs. Jeremiah VanWinkle, of Central avenue, of the death of her brother, Alexander Runyon, of Schellsberg, Iowa. Mr. Runyon had just completed his second term as mayor of Schellsberg. He was well known in this city, although he left it at the age of sixteen. He was seventy years old and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. P. Shea, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and his sister of this city.

Mr. Runyon died last Sunday after a four weeks' sickness. He was the son of Elisha Runyon, at one time Plainfield's city judge.

Horse Was Fractious.

While driving on Somerset street, yesterday afternoon, George Fritz came near figuring in a serious runaway accident. He had a fractious animal belonging to Stonewall Jackson which took fright and bolted suddenly, breaking one of the points of the shaft. Fritz held on to the reins with some difficulty and brought the horse to a standstill.

Street Being Repaired.

West Sixth street is in the hands of the repair gang of city workers. The thoroughfare west of Central avenue is being resurfaced with several layers of macadam and the steam roller is at work there. The repairs have come just in time as the street was in very bad condition and had worn into bad holes in places.

Miss Lillian Glen, of Madison avenue, has returned from Silver Bay, N. Y., and has gone to Asbury Park, where she will join her sister in a three weeks' stay at the shore.

WHO WILL BE THE NEXT GOVERNOR?

Supporters of Mr. Kean Certain That He Will Be a South Jerseyman.

EDW. STOKES NAMED

WILLIAM M. JOHNSON ALSO MENTIONED AS A POSSIBILITY.

South Jerseymen Think It Is Time They Were Represented in the Gubernatorial Chair — The Reasons for Their Position.

The supporters of Mr. Kean are as sure that the next Governor should be a South Jerseyman as they are that the tax levy for 1904 will be made and collected. On the other hand, the opponents of Mr. Kean are as confident that the next Governor should come from North Jersey as they are that the State's income from corporations has notably decreased within the last six months, says a correspondent of the New York Tribune. Incident and important to the situation is the fact that South Jersey will demand that the Republican candidate for Governor shall come from that end of the State. The Republicans there would not object to the selection of a United States Senator within their boundaries, but first and last they proclaim that the party candidate for Governor must be a citizen of South Jersey, and that his name is Edward Caspar Stokes. There are exceptions, of course, to the nomination of the present clerk in Chancery, but in this case, as in some others, they prove the rule, and it is entirely safe to say that the great majority of South Jersey Republicans are supporting Mr. Stokes. They assert not only the exceptional ability and qualifications of their candidates, but recite, on every occasion, the fact that South Jersey has not had a Republican candidate for Governor since the defeat of General E. Bird Grubb, about twenty years ago, and that the party has not had a Republican Governor from South Jersey since Governor Olden, in 1863. In fact, many of the more strenuous and locally particular Republicans in that part of the State say that Governor Olden was a Middle Jerseyman, and that South Jersey proper has never had a Republican Governor, and that the nearest to having one was when William A. Newell, "the Boy Congressman," was elected in 1857. The argument of these Republicans, therefore, is that it would not only be the personification of injustice for North Jersey to claim the right to name the next Republican candidate for Governor, but that such a course, if successful, might jeopardize Republican success in the State, and might enable the Democrats to choose the Governor and the United States Senator to be elected in 1904. So confident are the South Jersey Republicans that the *northern part of the State will con*cede to the southern part the right to name the next candidate for Governor that a number of their leaders have said that ex-Senator Stokes will be nominated by acclamation.

But not by any means all of the North Jersey Republican leaders and others accept this view of the political situation as final. Nor can it be said that the leaders in South Jersey are a unit in favor of the nomination of ex-Senator Stokes. A number of North Jersey Republicans of prominence and influence are very decidedly of the opinion that the next Republican candidate for Governor should be and will be ex-Assistant Postmaster General William M. Johnson, both because of his eminent fitness for the place and because of his freedom, as they say, from every sort of factional entanglement, and the impossibility of connecting him with any of the factional political proceedings of the last or preceding legislatures. These Republicans are not in any way meddling with the matter of the succession to Senator Kean. On the contrary, they are leaving that matter in an entirely secondary position to that of the selection of the Republican candidate for Governor. They make no exception to Senator Kean as his own successor at this time, nor is it at all likely that they will do so unless a more acute straining of the present situation than now seems probable should be the result of the Republican situation. They apparently are paying no attention to the frequently repeated rumors that Senator Kean and ex-Senator Stokes have formed a combination whereby the former is to succeed himself and the latter is to be the candidate for Governor. These North Jersey Republicans appear to be content with the prevailing deduction of public opinion among shrewd and thoughtful Republicans that such an alliance would alienate the strong and aggressive following which Congressman Charles N. Fowler has among the younger and numerically powerful Republicans of the State. In fact, many of these Republicans make no secret of the fact that they would ask no more welcome work than the opportunity to support Mr. Fowler for United States Senator, and among them is heard expressed the hope that Senator Kean and ex-Senator Stokes will enter on an agreement to aid each other, because, as they believe, it would result in the defeat of both, and in the nomination of ex-Senator Johnson for Governor, with the canvass for United States Senator open to anybody, Charles N. Fowler preferred.

It is not to be understood that Mr. Fowler is in any way connected with this outline of possibilities or probabilities, or that he has encouraged or will encourage any of his political supporters to engage in any sort of work which will entangle him either for or against Mr. Stokes or Mr. Johnson. As is well known, he has long been a staunch political friend of the South Jersey candidate for Governor, but it is equally true that he recently said to a Tribune correspondent that he was not pledged to any candidate for Governor, at the same time expressing an equally warm admiration for both Mr. Johnson and Mr. Stokes, either of whom, as he said, would be an honor to New Jersey as the Chief Executive of the State. Republicans, moreover, who are familiar with the political situation in New Jersey, and who know the party factional spirit which exists as between Senator Kean and Congressman Fowler, say that Mr. Stokes would seriously, if not fatally, jeopardize his prospects as a candidate for Governor if he should consent to a compact with Senator Kean now or hereafter, pending the oncoming State convention. Such a course would arouse the antagonism, they say, of every friend of Congressman Fowler in the State, and, as one of Senator Kean's closest political friends said, referring to this rumor of a Stokes-Kean alliance only recently: "John Kean is able to take care of himself. His following in the State has been entirely too largely discounted and injudiciously misrepresented by his few opponents. He has the call, and he will be his own successor." There are hundreds of Republicans who do not agree with this statement as to Mr. Kean's capacity or following, but they pretty generally admit that he is by far too intelligent to form any alliance with a candidate for Governor which would array against him a support which is important if not necessary to his success.

HE TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF

JOSEPH PENNINGTON TOOK POISON TUESDAY SAYS WESTFIELD PAPER.

Was Not Hurt by Fall From Roof—Gives No Reason for His Rash Act.

The Daily Press of Wednesday, August 5, stated that Joseph Pennington, of this city, was seriously injured by a fall from a roof. The Westfield Standard, of August 7, has it that Pennington attempted to poison himself. The Standard has this to say concerning the affair:

"Joseph Pennington, of Plainfield, had a close call Tuesday, and it was only through the heroic efforts of Dr. Laird that the man is alive today. Pennington is a slater in the employ of a man named Graves. Graves had a roofing contract in Westfield and one of the men on the job was Pennington. The latter left his co-workers on the roof Tuesday morning, saying it was too hot for him. He climbed down the ladder and was missed for about ten minutes. Soon the attention of the men on the roof was called to his actions. They hurried to him and found that he had taken poison and was in horrible agony. He was led to the police station and Dr. Laird sent for. Officer Toucey and others kept the man on his feet and walked him up and down to keep him from the deadly slumber that follows certain kinds of poisoning. Dr. Laird used a stomach pump on Pennington and worked over him for nearly an hour or more. An ambulance was sent for at Plainfield and later in the afternoon Pennington was removed to the Plainfield hospital.

"Pennington is a married man and has three children. It is not known why he took the poison or where he got it."

FOUR BOROUGH BAND CONCERTS

Promised for the Next Few Weeks — First One Saturday, August 29.

BENJ. LA VERE'S BAND

MAYOR SMALLEY EXPECTS TO RAISE A SUFFICIENT SUM.

Possible That Additional Concert Will be Held Before 29th—The Council to Assist — Location Not Decided Upon.

Although the first band concert in North Plainfield has been scheduled for Saturday evening, August 29, it is possible that one may be held before that time. It all depends, however, upon the amount of interest taken in the project by the residents.

Mayor Smalley, assisted by Benjamin LaVere, will start Monday evening securing subscriptions to the fund for a series of free public concerts. People desiring to donate money for this worhty cause can do so by sending it to Mayor Smalley, Bandmaster Benjamin LaVere or to the office of The Daily Press.

The cost of each concert will be $70 the same as in this city. This includes the cost of lighting and erecting the bandstand. It is the intention of Mayor Smalley to secure enough money to hold at least four concerts during the rest of the summer and to do away with the necessity of "passing the plate" at the concerts.

It is probable that the Common Council in the borough will appropriate a sum of money towards this enterprise at the meeting next Friday evening.

The location of the bandstand has not yet been decided upon. At first it was thought that a desirable place would be at the corner of Watchung and Fairview avenues but it is more probable that the stand will be located in the Park. Many store keepers have spoken in favor of the borough concerts and it is probable that they will donate sums of money towards the project.

WANTED TO FIGHT.

Charles Everett Was Not Polite to Westfield Liveryman.

In the Westfield Standard published yesterday, appears a story regarding the escapade of Charles Everett, of Plainfield. According to the above paper, Everett visited Westfield a week ago today and became abusive toward Albert E. Decker, the North avenue liveryman, his conduct landing him behind the prison bars. Everett, it seems, while under the influence of liquor, had endeavored to hire a rig from Mr. Decker and not succeeding used vile language and offered to "lick any man in the stable." His continued abuse made it necessary for Mr. Decker to call upon Officer Toucey to arrest the man. After a day in the lockup Everett appeared before Recorder Toucey and was fined $5 and costs.

Plainfielder Wants Damages.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 8 — Two suits against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway to recover damages for injuries have been started in the Union County Court. One is brought by James Thomas, of Plainfield, who wants $3,000. The other is brought by Harvey Primmer, a youth of this city, who claims he has been rendered a cripple for life by being caught between two cars of the defendant company, and asks for $5,000.

Waking Up at "The Home."

The Somerset County Telephone Company, better known as the Home, is again on an independent basis, having cancelled its lease to the State Telephone Company. Spencer Weart has succeeded Mr. Atkinson as president, and the lines are being rebuilt and put in a first-class condition under the supervision of foreman Wm. Trumbull. It is expected that the service will improve.

Large Sum Realized.

As a result of the charity euchre given at the Hotel Netherwood Thursday evening the sum of $325 was realized as profit for the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. G. H. Brown, a guest at the hotel, was general manager of the affair and at his own expense furnished refreshments to the guests.

MRS. JOHN C. HAFNER DEAD

ACCIDENT LAST MONDAY FOLLOWED BY DEATH AT THE HOSPITAL.

Funeral Will be Monday Afternoon—Peculiarly Sad Circumstances Connected.

Mrs. John C. Hafner, of Central street, Netherwood, died last evening at 6:45 at Muhlenberg Hospital, where she was taken Thursday evening for an operation. Last Monday, while doing some cleaning at her home, Mrs Hafner suddenly stepped off a chair, causing a rupture of a blood vessel in the abdomen. At first her condition was not considered serious, but later, when Dr. W. Kempton Browning was called in, it was decided that an operation was the only thing that would give a chance for recovery. Complications followed and death resulted last night.

The death is a particularly sad one as Mr. Hafner, the husband, lost his mother three weeks ago, and a sister who died six month ago. Mrs. Hafner was in the twenty-fifth year of her age and was the daughter of Peter Sutphen, of Somerville. She leaves a husband, a son, five years old, a daughter two years old, two brothers and five sisters.

The funeral services will be held from the late home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the interment will be at Hillside Cemetery.

NEARLY KILLED.

Charles Leffler Thrown From His Carriage in New Market.

Charles Leffler, a nephew of Mrs. Charles Fair, who was killed a year ago in France with her husband in an automobile accident, and who formerly lived at New Market, had a narrow escape from death yesterday while driving through Union Township. The horse he was driving became unmanageable and ran away. Leffler was picked up unconscious and taken home. His condition is critical.

Youngsters in Trouble.

Edward Bimble, Fred Conklin, William Perry and Peter Allen, all Prideville youths, were up before Recorder Doud in the borough court last evening charged with disorderly conduct. Marshal Fahn charged them with having taken a street roller into the middle of the road and endangered traffic. The Recorder fined them each $1. Young Allen's father threatens to appeal the case to Somerville.

Credit Misplaced.

Yesterday's Daily Press stated that the credit for the restoration of a pension to Mrs. Headley, now Mrs. Vanartwick, was due largely to Justice Mattison, of North Plainfield. William N. Pangborn did the work and should have been given the credit. The Justice merely executed the voucher. This correction is made at the request of Justice Mattison.

More Oysters.

Congressman Howell, of New Brunswick, is said to favor an appropriation by Congress for the construction of the proposed tideway between Manasquan river and the head of Barnegat Bay, which it is claimed would open thousands of acres to oyster and clam growing in the upper part of Barnegat Bay.

Sale of Real Estate.

Wm. F. Jeffery, the Park avenue real estate dealer, yesterday sold two Brooklyn properties. One was for Bolton Hall, one of the stockholders of the Investors' Realty Company, from Reuben Jacobs, of Brooklyn; and the other was for the Investors' Realty Company, a property at 2170 Fulton street, Brooklyn.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 8—Peter G. Quick, seventy-two years old, a wealthy farmer, committed suicide at his home near South Branch yesterday morning. He became melancholy over the prolonged illness of his aged wife. He believed she was about to die and said he would kill himself.

The "Mother" will give a parade in town this afternoon through the principal business streets, and this evening will address a meeting at the corner of East Fourth street and Watchung avenue. Her advance agent gave out this morning that she would talk on "Roosevelt and the Government," and explain her position with reference to child labor.

She will be in town over Sunday and will then push on to Bound Brook where she will speak Monday evening.

TIMELY RESCUE.

Thomas Kelley, of South Plainfield, Had Narrow Escape From Drowning.

While boating on New Brooklyn pond yesterday afternoon with a party of four young friends, young Thomas Kelly, of South Plainfield, had a narrow escape from drowning. The lad was standing in the stern of the rowboat which contained the party and was poling the flat bottom craft along near the shore. The pole in his hand became caught on a snag and before Kelly could let go, he was dragged overboard into the water.

Fortunately the shore was near and the water shallow, although the bottom was a bog of mud. The lad's feet sank deep and he was unable to swim. He yelled to his comrades and a pole was shoved to him and he was pulled into the boat just in time to prevent his sinking under the surface.

Summer Night's Festival.

St. Mary's baseball nine conducted a summer's night carnival on their baseball diamond on West Fourth street. The affair was a great success and was attended by three hundred people. A large platform was built and on it dancing was enjoyed until late in the evening. The music was provided by Eugene O'Reilly. The committee was composed of Clinton Shannon and John King, chairmen; Garret Kiely, John Owens, Henry Wieranga.

Farmer's Picnic.

Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer yesterday addressed several thousand farmers of Somerset County at the Farmer's Picnic at Nesbanic. Mr. Swackhamer told of the wonderful growth of the country and the improvements in agricultural implements. He dwelt on the dependence of the city on the products of the farm and mentioned a number of prominent men in Somerset County who came from farms.

Netherwood Entertainment.

The guests of the Hotel Netherwood were well entertained last evening by George E. Garretson, a travelling parlor eptertainer of considerable note. The programme consisted of handbell selections, feats of juggling and sleight of hand, and instrumental work on the mandolin and violin. Mr. Garretson is well known in this city, having appeared several times in receptions at the Y. M. C. A.

Rare Birds.

While gathering water cress in the brook back of the Old's place, a young man who is visiting here, surprised a pair of handsome English pheasants near the bank of the stream. The birds are very rare in this vicinity and are supposed to have escaped from some place in the neighborhood as they seemed very tame.

Paying the Fiddler.

The corner-stone is now in place. The ceremonies were quite interesting, appropriate, instructive, etc., and there were no hitches in the programme. All that is now required is to complete the courthouse and pay the bill, both matters of very small importance and which, we trust, will cause the residents of Union county no inconvenience.—Elizabeth Evening Times.

Lake Hopatcong.

Lake Hopatcong has become justly famous for several reasons, but chief of these is its location. High up in New Jersey's beautiful mountains, a thousand feet above the sea level, surrounded by verdant hills and charming landscape, it is the perfection of outing places. To reach it is a delightful journey through a series of picturesque valleys, and the time of the traveler is so occupied feasting on the scenic sights that the few hours journey are like fleeting moments. For a Sunday excursion no place is more popular than Lake Hopatcong, and if you want a day of enjoyment take in the $1 excursion to Lake Hopatcong the New Jersey Central is to run on August 9. People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising nowadays. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one—Perry Davis' Painkiller—has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Getting Close to Nature.

Richard and Cherry Kearton, who have recently brought out in England a new edition of Gilbert White's imperishable book, "The Natural History of Selborne," illustrated with photographs of the birds, animals and insects described by White, adopted methods of getting close to their subjects without alarming them which are worth the attention of amateur photographers. Sometimes they concealed themselves and their camera in a stuffed sheep, and sometimes it was a stuffed cow that they employed. On other occasions they built an artificial hollow rock near the haunt of the birds they were studying. Sometimes clothing, colored like the grass or the soil, served their purpose. They photographed not only birds on their nests, and feeding their young, but fish in the water, and dragon flies and beetles resting on leaves or stems, and even snakes in the grass.—Youth's Companion.

German Pine Needle Oil.

The making of pine-needle oil is an industry of the Thuringen mountains in Germany. The needles and young shoots of various pines—especially of Pinus pumillio—are collected late in May or early in June, and are cut into small pieces and put into a cylindrical still, though which steam is passed. The steam is then liquefied in a condenser, when the volatile oil carried over is skimmed from the surface of the water. The portion of the steam condensed in the cylinder falls through the bottom, carrying resinous, albuminous and tannated substances, and this extract is concentrated in a special vacuum evaporator, when it is added to the oil to give the necessary perfume. The oil is put up in jars as a remedy for rheumatic and similar complaints. The fibers left in the still are separated by a special machine, perfumed with the oil, and put up in packages for stuffing pillows.

Good Word for Rocking-Chairs.

Someone who was interested in the fact has discovered that while American women are shorter than their English sisters, their legs are much more symmetrical and their ankles more graceful. The belief is expressed that the reason for this lies in the great love of the American women for rocking chairs. Here a woman will sit down in a rocking chair, and, apparently happy, rock by the hour, were she not disturbed, perhaps not knowing that the mere movement employed to keep the chair in motion does, by repeated pushes of the toes, make the instep high, the calf round and full, and so keep from the ankle an accumulation of flesh.—Washington Post.

She Got Him.

A good story is told showing the rapidity with which things move nowadays. A certain servant went to her mistress and gave notice.

"I'm going to be married, ma'am."

"To whom?" asked her mistress.

"Do you remember the funeral you allowed me to go to three weeks ago ma'am? Well, I'm going to marry the husband of the corpse."

It subsequently transpired that the widower took a fancy to his fiancee, as "she was the only cheerful party there."—London Express.

Many Horses Withdrawn at the Spa.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Three of the five entries for the second race, a mile and a furlong handicap for all ages, were withdrawn, leaving only Surmise and Himself to run. Surmise, with Bullman up, won easily, and there was considerable adverse comment because "Father Bill" Daly allowed Himself to start, since the horse was in very poor condition. Conundrum ran alone in the sixth race, the other four entries having been withdrawn. He covered the mile in 2:05 2-5. The fifth race, a five and a half furlong sprint for two-year-old maidens, which was won by Thomas Hitchcock, Jr.'s, Avenger, was the nearest to a race of any of the day, although Golden Drop and Toledo had a rather pretty fight for the place in the third.

Lipton Flier Wins Again.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 8.—The Shamrocks raced in many kinds of wind. Running and reaching in a shifting breeze, Shamrock III. outsailed her pacemaker by 2 minutes and 6 seconds in sailing fifteen miles to the outer mark and beating back by 4 minutes and 9 seconds, a total of 6 minutes and 15 seconds elapsed time. The course was southeast, and the start was from the Scotland lightship. John Barrett, commissioner general of the St. Louis exposition and United States minister to the Argentine Republic, who was a guest of Sir Thomas, invited him to visit the exposition. Sir Thomas said he would endeavor to do so.

Teddy R. Never Got a Heat.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 8.—Although the weather was almost too cold for comfort, a good sized crowd was present at Reed's track to witness the third day's racing of the Lake Erie circuit. Frank Hidrick, owner and driver of Daisy Elder, was thrown from his sulky and trampled on, but pluckily continued the race to the end. The talent was badly thrown in the 2:20 pace, as Teddy R. was the strongest kind of a favorite and never got a heat. In the other two races, the 2:14 pace and 2:22 trot, the favorites won.

Postmaster Wright Won.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Postmaster Wright and Sidney C. Love, equal favorites at 6 to 5 in the mile handicap at Harlem, ran as one horse until straightened for home, when the former drew away and won by a length and a half. Sidney C. Love swerved badly in the last eighth and finished tired. Sioux Chief was third, four lengths back of Sidney C. Love.

Leander Was the Victor.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—George Leander of Chicago was the victor in the riding of the Golden Wheel race for pace followers at Charles River park, making the 48 miles 692 yards in one hour. There were three contestants—Benny Munroe, Gus Lawson and Leander, who appeared as a substitute for Basil de Guichard, who was unable to ride.

Doherty Brothers Won.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The British pair, R. F. and H. L. Doherty, scored another point for the international lawn tennis trophy by defeating R. D. and G. L. Wrenn, Jr., the American pair, three sets to one before 4,000 people on the Longwood Cricket club grounds.

Miss Golightly and Stand Pat.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—Miss Golightly won the feature of Delmar's card. Stand Pat was second, a head behind Miss Golightly. Maister, heavily backed and equal choice with Miss Golightly, was practically left at the post and finished last.

A SANTA FE FLIER.

Lowe's Special Train From New York to Los Angeles.

AT SEVENTY-FIVE MILES AN HOUR.

To Reach the Bedside of a Dying Child Chief Engineer of United States Steel Corporation Speeds Across the Continent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 8.—The special train bearing Henry P. Lowe, chief engineer of the United States Steel corporation, drew in at La Grande station at 1:07, having completed a run from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a distance of more than 3,200 miles, in the fastest time on record.

Mr. Lowe left New York Tuesday, Aug. 4, at 2:45 p. m. and arrived in this city 70 hours and 40 minutes later, or 1 hour and 20 minutes less than three days. The run from Chicago was made over the lines of the Santa Fe railroad, a distance of 2,256 miles. The time from Chicago to Los Angeles was fifty-three hours, an average speed of forty-two miles an hour, including all stops. The record breaking run just finished by Mr. Lowe was undertaken with the object of being at the bedside of his eleven-year-old daughter, who was dying in this city.

The child died early Tuesday morning, but Mr. Lowe was not advised of her death until well on his way. As all arrangements had been made for the special train and the schedules prepared by the railroad, the trip was continued as originally planned. When the Santa Fe special left Chicago on Wednesday at 10:15 a. m. it was intended that the run to Los Angeles should be made at a speed of forty-five miles an hour, including stops. As the train passed through Missouri and Kansas it was found that faster time than the schedule provided could be made.

Orders were then given to make as fast time as was considered consistent with safety. The special began to gain at once. At La Junta, Colo., it was more than an hour ahead of its schedule, and when Albuquerque, N. M., was reached at 5:45 this gain had been increased to 3 hours and 15 minutes. Reaching San Bernardino 9 hours and 20 minutes ahead of time, the special had a clear track to Los Angeles, sixty-three miles. The run over this last stretch of track was a record breaker, the speed at times being as fast as seventy-five miles an hour, and at 1:06 the engine whirled into La Grande station. Mr. Lowe was hastily driven to the Westminster hotel, where he joined his wife, who had been prostrated since the death of her child.

The previous record for a transcontinental run was made by A. C. R. Peacock, a director of the United States Steel corporation, who on March 27, 1900, made the run from Los Angeles over the Santa Fe railroad in 57 hours and 56 minutes. This record stood until it was excelled by the Lowe special by 4 hours and 56 minutes.

A TURKISH VICTORY.

Sultan's Troops Drive Back a Force of Bulgarians.

SALONIKA, Turkey, Aug. 8.—Four battalions of Turkish troops supported by artillery have met and routed a body of 1,700 Bulgarians near Sorovitch.

The fresh insurrectionary outbreak in Macedonia, which was believed to be impossible, has produced a sensation everywhere. It is believed that the latest provocations by the Turkish troops drove the insurrectionists to despair.

The Bulgarian government is resolved to maintain friendly relations with the porte and to prevent bands from crossing the frontier, but a popular movement is feared in the event of massacres of peaceful Macedonians by the Turkish soldiery.

Treasurer Admits Default of $80,000.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—In a letter written from Montreal to the pastor of his church in East Boston Willard S. Allen, treasurer of the Preachers' Aid society of the New England conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, confessed that he was a defaulter to the amount of more than $80,000 of the society's funds. Mr. Allen has been treasurer of the society for twelve years and clerk of the East Boston district court for twenty-nine years and for sixteen years was a prominent member of the school committee of Boston. He left home about a week ago without announcing his destination, and the first heard from him was the letter to the East Boston clergyman. Mr. Allen said that he had lost the money in speculation. He requests the minister to notify the members of the Allen family and the officers of the society of his confession.

Some Textile Strikers Go to Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—The first break in the ranks of the cloth weavers who are on strike along with the other textile workers occurred when the employees of the Saxonia Dress Goods mill voted to return to work on Monday. It is claimed by the strike leaders that the meeting was not a representative one and that many of the workers employed in that mill will not return to work until their demands are granted.

Thirty-five Soldiers Desert.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Thirty-five of the 240 artillerymen ordered out two weeks ago on a march of 150 miles to Camp Douglas, Wisconsin, have deserted, according to reports received at Fort Sheridan. The Eleventh and Twenty-fourth batteries were sent and are expected to arrive at the camp today. Twelve other men went by train to join them.

MILES' VALEDICTORY

Issues a Farewell Address to His Comrades.

CALLS FOR HIGH MORALE IN ARMY

Drill and Discipline Are Only the Preliminary Steps to Making the Soldier All That He Should Be as a Fighting Unit.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—General Miles has issued the following address on the occasion of his retirement from active service:

"In relinquishing the command of the army of the United States, to which he was assigned by the president Oct. 8, 1895, he hereby acknowledges his appreciation of the fidelity manifested by the officers and soldiers during the past eventful years.

"To those who were his companions and associates during one of the greatest of all wars he takes pleasure in expressing his gratification that they have lived through the trials and dangers of long service to witness the results of their fortitude, heroism and unselfish devotion to the welfare of their country. They have also in a most commendable manner exemplified to the younger generation of soldiers those principles of discipline and patriotism which make the army the protector and defender and never the menace of the nation and its liberties.

"The time and occasion are considered opportune for expressing to the army a few thoughts concerning its past and that which may affect its future welfare. It is from the best impressions and influences of the past that the most desirable results may be realized in the future.

"Unswerving devotion to our government and the principles upon which it was established and has been maintained is essential to the efficiency of the national forces, and especially is this so in a democratic government, where the individual in order to be a perfect soldier must first be a true citizen. The boast that every soldier of France carried a marshal's baton in his knapsack is in a higher sense more than equaled in significance by the fact that every American soldier personifies sovereign citizenship and may by his own conduct exemplify impartial justice to those who have never experienced it and the results of the highest liberty to those who have been strangers to it, thereby aiding to secure for his country a moral influence not otherwise attainable.

"During the darkest hour of our history the first commander of the American forces demonstrated the grandeur and nobility of his character by combating the evil influences then pervading the army and by manifesting the strongest confidence and faith in the ultimate justice and integrity of his government. His words of wisdom uttered at Newburg 120 years ago had the effect of inspiring 'unexampled patriotism and patient virtue, rising superior to the pressure of the most complicated sufferings.' It is one of the glories of our country that the army has maintained those principles for more than a century.

"The commanders of the army succeeding Washington have by their example, influence and orders engendered and maintained the highest degree of efficiency, discipline and patriotism.

"In the discharge of its manifold duties the army has confronted enemies representing every stage of human development from the highest civilization yet obtained to savagery and barbarism. It has ever been its duty to observe in war those chivalric and humane principles by which inevitable horrors are so greatly mitigated, while by unyielding prosecution of warfare against armed forces its valor has been demonstrated.

"All honorable activity and life for the army must exist within the well defined lines of patriotism—untarnished honor, sterling integrity, impartial justice, obedience to rightful authority and incessant warfare against armed enemies. Always to maintain truth, honor and justice requires the highest moral courage and is equally as important as fortitude in battle. Drill, discipline and instruction are but preparatory for the perfection and efficiency of an army.

"The lieutenant general has faith that under all circumstances the army will maintain its high character and that its future will be as honorable and glorious as has been its history in the past. His earnest solicitude and best wishes will ever follow the fortunes of the army."

To Investigate State Expenses.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—It is learned upon the best of authority that the legislative committee which met here intends to go further than merely to investigate thoroughly the various state departments with reference to expenditures for employees, devise a system designed to unify and classify the several grades of officers and clerks, and to systematize the collection and rates of fees. A prominent member of the committee admitted that it was the purpose of the committee to inquire also into the fiscal administration of all the state charities.

Ship Captain Dies at Seventy-four.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Captain Charles Egnor died here, aged seventy-four years. He was a well known boatman and in early life sailed aboard the Hudson river passenger sloops. He was in California in the gold fever days and in the fifties was the first man to offer smoked sturgeon for sale in New York. In those days sturgeon was unknown in the city, and, being unable to dispose of his first cargo, Captain Egnor was obliged to throw it overboard.

THE PAPAL CROWN.

Great Preparations Being Made For Sunday's Ceremony.

ROME, Aug. 8.—St. Peter's is closed, the preparations for the coronation next Sunday being nearly completed. Pope Pius X. has expressed a desire to have as many of the humble members of the faith as possible admitted, and 50,000 tickets have been distributed by the parish priests, Catholic clubs and associations, seminaries, ecclesiastical colleges, monasteries and convents. The remainder of the seats are reserved for distinguished guests. Only two tribunes have been erected, one for the diplomatic body and one for the Roman aristocracy. The body of the church is divided into compartments with separate entrances.

From the Venetian provinces people have already arrived by thousands to attend the coronation of "their pope." The papal master of ceremonies has issued the invitations to the archbishops and bishops who will participate in the procession from the Vatican into St. Peter's. They are to be at the Vatican at 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

The government, to avoid untoward incidents, has ordered the piazza and the neighborhood of St. Peter's and the basilica to be occupied by the military and has forbidden an anticlerical manifestation proposed by the Socialists and Republicans for that day. The pope's first allocution to be delivered at the next secret consistory is looked forward to with great interest.

Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, who is a personal friend of Pius X., has said to his followers that he would not now have the papacy against him as he did under the pontificate of Leo, who was the godfather of King Alfonso, and has even gone so far as to say that he hoped the accession of the pope would help him to the throne.

Dr. Lapponi has stated that Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa is now out of danger and that Cardinal Gibbons is merely suffering from intestinal trouble due to excessive heat and overfatigue. His illness is not regarded as serious.

FINLANDERS EXILED.

Members of "Young Finnish Party" Ordered to Leave by Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—Orders have been issued for the expulsion from Finland of Baron von Traid, Michael Linden, chairman of the city council of Ekenaes; Count Gustav Kreitz and his family of seven and some other prominent Finlanders.

The vice provincial secretary of Vasa province has been dismissed because he opposed the military ukase.

The Finnish cadet school has been abolished because the graduates refused to enter the Russian military service, only nineteen of 243 officers of the former Finnish battalions having accepted service with Russia.

The expulsion of prominent Finlanders, especially leaders of the "Young Finnish Party," has been going on for some time and has been marked since General Bobrikoff returned last April to Finland as governor of the province. July 28 eighteen prominent residents were expelled, and last Tuesday Rev. Magnus Rosendal, the well known writer and speaker and principal of the lyceum at Uleaburg, was ordered to quit the country.

It has been alleged that the purpose of these expulsions was to complete the pacification of Finland by getting rid of the disturbing elements. The ukase referred to in the above dispatch is probably the one issued June 27 prohibiting the sale of arms in Finland.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

General Situation as Good as Last Year.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade says:

It has been an eventful week in the stock market, more failures occurring, while prices fell to the lowest point since January, 1901. Yet there has been no corresponding demoralization in trade or industry. From an average of $116.27 last September the sixty active railway shares have fallen about $31, and it is not surprising that a few concerns have found it impossible to meet their obligations. Considering the great shrinkage in market value of securities it is evidence of solidity in the business world that suspensions are not more numerous, and most of those thus far reported were due to pool operations in specialties rather than general weakness. Trade advices from nearly every section continue to show as favorable conditions as a year ago, and in many lines the volume of transactions has increased. Jobbers report fall business opening with excellent prospects, and manufacturing plants are well occupied, with the exception of cotton mills.

Distribution of merchandise is so heavy that railway equipment already proves inadequate, although crops are not the factor that they will be in a few weeks. Earnings for July exceeded last year's by 12.7 per cent and those of 1901 by 20.2 per cent. On the whole, news from the farms is less favorable, but no serious curtailment is assured, and many sections make very bright reports.

Wheat has developed strength through small receipts at primary markets, which aggregated only 3,950,951 bushels, against 6,910,955 bushels a year ago. Foreign crop reports are less satisfactory, which gave further support to quotations that already ruled about 10 cents higher than at this time last year. While the corn movement is heavier than a year ago it does not show the wide margin that was seen earlier in the season.

Aside from the merely speculative disasters, it is evident that the mid-summer industrial house cleaning revealed many weak spots.

THE HOSTILE FLEET.

Enemy Sighted by Torpedo Boat Destroyer.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 8.—Information was received here that a torpedo boat destroyer in the war maneuvers has sighted the "enemy" off Bar Harbor.

The "enemy's" vessel was sighted by a torpedo boat destroyer while on patrol duty. Signals promptly announced the discovery, and the vessel under observation turned about and made off. Later the matter was reported to Rear Admiral Barker, commanding the defending fleet, on board the Kearsarge.

The dispatch boat which brought in the news could not give full particulars of the incident. The identity of the craft sighted if known on board the Kearsarge has not been learned by those on the dispatch boat, but the fact that the movements of the enemy had been so promptly discovered was viewed with satisfaction.

DE FOREST WIRELESS.

Successful Tests of Transmission Make Record Distance.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 8.—The first practical test overland of the De Forest wireless telegraph has been made. Signals were received from Buffalo, a distance of 180 miles direct, three-fourths of this distance being overland. The tests were conducted personally by E. Lee De Forest, who came here for that purpose.

The experiments extended over a period of several hours, the communications received consisting of cipher and the wireless code messages. No attempt was made at sending replies, the sending apparatus not being as yet properly adjusted.

It is claimed that the messages received were sent a longer distance overland than has ever before been accomplished.

The Russian Strike.

KIEV, Russia, Aug. 8.—The labor disturbances have been renewed, the strikers parading the town, breaking windows, invading workshops and compelling workmen to join them. The Cossacks fired upon a crowd and wounded many on the bank of the Dnieper after they had been assailed with a shower of stones. The tramways are tied up and the bakeries closed.

Irish Land Bill Passage In Sight.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Irish land bill passed the committee stage in the house of lords late last night after a lengthy discussion and amendment. In the course of the division the government was three times defeated. The Duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council, announced that the vote on the third reading of the bill would probably be taken next Tuesday.

Monterey and Holmlea Are Wrecks.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 8.—The steamer Grand Lake has arrived here from the wreck of the steamer Monterey, near St. Pierre-Miquelon, with 283 cattle taken from the wreck. The latest reports from the steamer Holmlea, a British steamer, Captain Luke, which went ashore at Point Riche, Belle Isle strait, are to the effect that she will be a total loss.

Large Loss of Cows and Dogs.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The state department of agriculture has taken action to stamp out rabies in the town of Montgomery, Orange county. Twenty-two cows have died of the disease in the town, and 100 dogs have already been killed. Commissioner Wieting has ordered all dogs in the town to be confined or muzzled.

DID AIR BRAKE FAIL?

Circus Train Wreck Causes Twenty-three Deaths.

MANY BODIES STILL UNIDENTIFIED.

Engineer Is Blamed For Not Seeing Danger Signals and Stopping the Train—Railroad Manager Says Brakes Were In Good Order.

DURAND, Mich., Aug. 8.—An air brake on the second section of Wallace Bros'. circus train refused to work in the Grand Trunk railway yards, causing a collision between the two sections, in which twenty-three persons were killed and about thirty injured. Two of the injured died at the hospital. Seven of the dead are unidentified.

The circus travels in two trains of about thirty-five cars each. After the exhibition at Charlotte the two trains left for Lapeer over the Grand Trunk road, the second section leaving a half hour after the first. It was a quarter to 4 o'clock when the first section pulled into the west end of the Grand Trunk yards here. A red light was hung on the rear car to stop the second section.

Engine Driver Propst of Battle Creek, who was running the engine of the rear train, says he saw this light and applied the air brake. To his horror it refused to work. He reversed his engine, but the momentum of the heavy train behind was too great, and with a crash which aroused all of the town near the yards the two trains met. Three cars of the stationary first section were telescoped and the engine and five cars were demolished. The rear of the first section was a caboose, in which the trainmen were sleeping, and the next two were filled with sleeping circus employees.

The greatest loss of life was in the caboose. One of the wrecked cars of the second section was occupied by five elephants and several camels. One of the elephants and two camels were killed outright, while the other animals and their trainer escaped. With the exception of this car none of the menagerie was wrecked, the other demolished cars containing canvas and wagons.

The dead, many of them so terribly mangled that identification seemed well nigh impossible, were carefully laid on the greensward a short distance from the wreck. By 6 o'clock a corps of twelve physicians was operating on the injured and dressing their wounds in the temporary hospital. More than twenty of the injured were fastened and pinned down in the wreckage so that they had to be chopped and pried out.

Their moans and cries were pitiful and spurred the wreckers on to redoubled efforts. It was late in the morning before all had been extricated and removed to the hospital.

All of the animal cars were unloaded and the cages removed to neighboring fields where the animals could get air and quiet down after the excitement.

In discussing the question of responsibility for the horror the railroad officials unhesitatingly lay it to Engineer Probst of the second section of the train, whose home is in Battle Creek. Probst says that the air brake on his train refused to work, but the officials declare that he could have stopped the train in time to have avoided serious consequences. General Manager F. H. McGuigan said:

"Probst knew that he was coming into a yard where trains usually stand and take on coal and water. The rules say plainly that engineers shall approach such yards with their trains under control. A brakeman sent back by the first train warned him of the danger three-quarters of a mile before he got to the standing section. For nearly half a mile before he got to the first train the track is straight and clear, and he should have been able to see the red light on the back of the train ahead in time to stop his train. Of course he, like any one else, will try to avoid such a dreadful responsibility."

The official report on the accident issued by Superintendent Brownlee declares positively that the air brakes have been tested since the accident and found to be in perfect condition, and there is evidence that they were not applied.

One of the officials in discussing the accident and its causes said he believed that Engineer Probst had exhausted his air in checking his train several times between Lansing and Durand and failed to again charge his tank. The head brakeman and fireman, who were on the engine, bear out Engineer Probst's statement that the brakes refused to work.

E. A. Guillaume of Louisville has telegraphed to Mayor Potter inquiring whether his brother was killed, and it is believed that he is one of the unidentified dead.

Twenty-two of the injured circus men were brought to Detroit in a special hospital train and taken to Harper hospital. At the hospital it was stated that none of them was likely to die, although John Thomson of Peru, Ind.; George Clough of Geneva, O., and James Stewart of Denver are in a serious condition and may not recover. The Pullman car that brought the injured from the scene of the wreck was a pitiful sight when it pulled into Detroit. The interior looked like a battle field after a fierce encounter. Suffering men lay in every imaginable posture in the berths swathed in incrimsoned bandages that bore silent witness to their wounds. Moans and stifled cries told the story of their agonies.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 8, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

Although Charles M. Schwab has joined the army of the unemployed we haven't heard of any subscriptions being taken up for his support. Possibly he may be able to worry along without assistance until he gets another job.

It is said that Harry Lehr, the Newport society leader, characterizes the story that he is in the habit of parading the streets with a rag doll in his arms as a "deuced outrage." Oh, fudge! Harry, how could you say anything so unladylike!

There are said to be 792,387,923,781 mosquitoes in existence. With a world's population estimated at fifteen billions, that means over fifty mosquitoes for every man, woman and child. The only thing Jerseymen kick about is the unevenness of the distribution.

Yesterday's Daily Press had it that a woman from Warrenville fainted three times in a local store "while she was being shown some goods by the clerk." In spite of appearances there was really no intention of reflecting on the quality of the goods displayed.

The first yacht race to regain the America's cup occurred August 8, 1870, just thirty-three years ago today. That's a long while the Englishmen have been trying to "lift" it. If success does come to them, as every patriotic American hopes it will not, it couldn't come through a truer sportsman than Sir Thomas.

At their meeting next Tuesday evening the members of the Board of Education will probably discuss the plans for the new High School building to be erected on Eighth street and Arlington avenue. It is possible that a decision may be reached in the matter of awarding the prizes for the best plans submitted by architects in competition for the privilege of designing the building. However the competition results, it is certain that the building will be a credit to the city, architecturally and educationally. Plainfield is to be congratulated upon having a Board of Education that is keenly alive to its best interests. Under the present progressive administration, the school equipment and methods of instruction have reached a point where they are generally acknowledged to be equal to the very best in this or other States.

The local lineup will be: McManus, lf; Brogan, c; Allen, 1b; Bosterli, 2b; Cruzius, ss; Williams, 3b; Davis, p; Flannery, cf; Kavanagh, rf. The fans can rest assured, however, that the locals will make their opponents realize that there has been a game of baseball before the nine innings are finished.

Judge Clark is fast becoming a terror to evil doers who have made Scotch Plains their stamping ground in days gone by. $10 and costs or 30 days in jail, dealt out to culprits regularly, is beginning to have the effect of quieting the lawless element. The Judge's reputation has travelled and ill-doers from other towns are consequently careful about ruffling the temper of the local police.

The ordinance against the posting of bills or advertisements of any kind along the streets of the village is fast becoming a dead letter. It is too bad, as the village has recently been fairly free from the unsightly posters, which at one time lined every available fence, pole and tree in town.

Services at the Baptist Church tomorrow will be as usual: Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7 p. m.; evening preaching, 7:45. Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, will occupy the pulpit at both services.

The Saturday evening dances at Earle's pavillion are proving attractive to many from Plainfield and Rahway. Every Saturday evening the floor is crowded with dancers footing it featly to the strains of Prof. Naylor's orchestra.

Sunday baseball is being played regularly at towns nearby but thus far Scotch Plains has kept to its old Puritanical ways, at least so far as playing the National game on Sunday goes.

Rev. G. M. Shott, of the Baptist Church, instead of taking a regular vacation this summer, will enjoy an exchange of pulpits only during the present month.

That abundant crop of weeds, which the trolley company has been raising on the line from the village to Leland avenue, Plainfield, is about ready for harvesting.

Up the Hudson.

History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip today words would not express his delight, for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with steamer St. Johns a popular priced excursion up the Hudson on Sunday, August 16, 1903. Rate to be $1.00 and train will leave Plainfield at 8:52 a. m. Fare for children half of above rate. Steamer St. Johns is one of the famous Sandy Hook fleet and is the best appointed and fastest excursion boat in the harbor. 8 7 td

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, July 12, 1903, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholders Cady and Klee—2.

The minutes of the previous regular meeting of June 4 (the reading of bills being omitted) were, on motion, approved as read.

The Director announced the appointment of Freeholder Smith as a member of the Committee on Jail Inspection, said committee to consist of four members.

PETITIONS, COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From John J. Coger, District Clerk of Westfield, N. J., as follows:

Westfield, N. J., June 16, 1903.

The Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union Co., N. J.:

Gentlemen—At a meeting of the Board of Education of Westfield, N. J., held June 15, the following action was taken:

Whereas, The bridges across Orchard and Elm streets are not of sufficient size to carry the water from the brook across the Washington Park, and the right angle turn of the brook between the two bridges aforesaid also impedes the free course of the water in said brook; be it

Resolved, That this Board respectfully petition the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union Co. to construct a bridge across Elm street, running from the southerly corner of the Washington Park to the southerly side of Elm street where the brook passes under the curb.

Resolved, That Charles M. Codding be appointed to represent this Board before the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union Co.

Very respectfully submitted,

John J. Coger,
District Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, received and placed on file.

From Wm. J. Fryer, asking that an appropriation be made for the westerly half of that portion of Springfield avenue from South street to the Passaic river. This roadway was put down about two years ago, but it was inadequately built, there not being a sufficient crown to the road, and at two places the bottom was not properly constructed; the present condition of the road was a disgrace to the county, and he therefore prayed that an appropriation be made to cover the original defects in construction.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, received and placed on file.

From J. Wallace Higgins, Borough Engineer, as follows:

Roselle, N. J., June 10, 1903.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—I hereby petition your honoralbe body that the borough of Roselle Park be allowed to lay sewers by open cut from the surface across Westfield avenue at the following locations in said borough:

At Linden road; at Union street; at Chestnut street; at Filbert street; at about 300 feet east of culvert near Wenzel's Hotel; west of culvert at Wenzel's Hotel.

J. Wallace Higgins,
Borough Engineer.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, received and referred to the County Road Committee.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee on Walnut avenue bridge at Cranford as follows:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—The committee on the Walnut avenue bridge at Cranford would respectfully report that they have investigated and examined the present wooden structure, and have found it in a very bad and dangerous condition.

They would recommend that a new brick arch and iron beam bridge be built at a cost not to exceed $900.

(Signed) E. K. Adams,
Thomas J. Pierson,
Peter Tillman,
Committee.

Freeholder Robison moved that the report be received and the recommendation contained therein adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

The County Road Committee presented the following as its report in the matter of the straightening of the county road at Broad street, Westfield, N. J.:

Elizabeth, N. J., June 30, 1903.

Major Benjamin King, Chairman County Road Committee, Picton, N. J.

Dear Sir—I send herein a copy of the map of the county road at Broad street, Westfield, N. J.

There has been considerable difficulty in fixing upon the line that was intended to be opened by the commissioners in their report of 1869, as there seems to have been some error in the courses and distances. I am convinced, however, that the street as laid out by them was intended to clear the old house of the Ross estate. In order to clear this house they laid the street with the sharp bend as shown upon map, instead of running it straight through as elsewhere.

There are two small tracts taken into the South avenue layout from Broad street as appears on the map.

It may be somewhat difficult to get possession of these two small tracts because of the discrepancies in the original layout at that point.

I am of the opinion that from Broad street down to Spring street the county road should be as shown on this map, and that it was the intention of the commissioners to lay it out in that manner, and that they actually did so lay the road.

There are several encroachments on this line. The fence east of the Ross house is out in the street (the Ross house being the one on the southerly side of South avenue at the junction of Broad street), easterly from the Ross house, there are two houses whose porches encroach upon the street. There are also several fences which encroach on the street line.

The county road macadam occupied a line which agrees very closely with the layout of the avenue, and I do not think that any changes in the line of the macadam roadway should be made.

Yours respectfully,
J. L. Bauer.

(Signed) Benjamin King,
Chairman.
W. H. Swain,
Jacob Brucklacher,
Henry Krouse,
County Road Committee.

Accompanying the foregoing report was a copy of the map of the county road at Broad street, Westfield.

After a brief explanation by County Engineer Bauer, during which he expressed his belief that the road as now constructed was built in conformity with the report of the commissioners made in 1869, the report on motion of Freeholder Tillman was received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Krouse:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to inspect the condition of the bridge at Price and Lumber street in the township of Linden, and report at the next meeting of their Board as to the advisability of rebuilding the same and the probable cost thereof.

On motion of Freeholder Brucklacher, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Krouse, King, Adams, Pierson and McCandless.

By Freeholder Connoly:

Whereas, There appears to be a question as to what should be done respecting the rebuilding, widening or changing of the location of the bridges on Elm street near Orchard street in the town of Westfield; therefore be it

Resolved, That this board as a committee of the whole, on some date to be named by the Director of this board, visit the location and report at a future meeting for action.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

Director Hubbard announced that in conformity with the resolution just adopted, he would designate Thursday, July 9, 1903, at 3 p. m., the members of the board to meet at the Town Hall in Westfield.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That the County Collector be and he is hereby authorized and requested to issue duplicate checks as follows: To August Ritter for $6 00, to James G. Moore for $48.00, to William Tillon for $10.35, to take the place of similar checks issued by him May 7 last, and which said checks have been lost.

Freeholder King moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Bonnel:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine bridge on road from Springfield to Westfield, near Branch Mills, to determine what is best to do with it, repair the old bridge or build a new one.

On motion of Freeholder Wahl, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Bonnel, Wahl and Smith.

By Freeholder King:

Whereas, It appearing that this Board assumed control and adopted as a county road a certain road or part of a road leading from Newark to Elizabeth, known as Newark avenue, as set forth in the report of a committee, said report being adopted at a meeting of the Board held September 3, 1891, for the purpose of improving and macadamizing the same, under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to enable boards of chosen freeholders to acquire, improve and maintain public roads," approved March 18, 1889; and

Whereas, It appears that afterward, by a resolution duly adopted by this Board, an accurate description of said road was made for the purpose of having the same recorded in the office of the County Clerk, as directed and required by said act, which description is as follows. Beginning at a point where the said Newark avenue intersects with North Broad street in the city of Elizabeth; thence running northerly along said Newark avenue, its various courses thereof, through the city of Elizabeth, to a point where the county line of Union County intersects with the county line of the county of Essex. Being the same road as laid down, marked and designated as a county road leading from Elizabeth to Newark, on a map entitled "A map of Union County, showing the roads designated as county roads," and adopted by this Board as a map required under the provisions of the aforesaid act. And

Whereas, This Board has caused a certified copy of said resolution to be, by the clerk of this Board, filed in the County Clerk's office, which was duly recorded May 10, 1893, on page 14 of Book of Records of Union County Roads. And

Whereas, This Board has placed that portion of said road extending from the tracks of the street railroad. And

Whereas, The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey have signified their willingness and intention of placing that portion of the road between the tracks and between the rails in a good and susbtantial manner. And

Whereas, A petition has been presented to this Board, signed by numerous residents and freeholders residing along the line of said road, requesting this Board to release its control over the same. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board relinquish control over that road or portion of road leading from Elizabeth to Newark, and known as Newark avenue or Newark Boulevard, and described as follows: Beginning at a point where the said Newark avenue intersects with North Broad street in the city of Elizabeth; thence running northerly along said Newark avenue, its various courses thereof, through the city of Elizabeth, to a point where the county line of Union County intersects with the county of Essex. Being the same road as laid down and marked and designated as a county road leading from Elizabeth to Newark, on a map of Union County showing the roads designated as county roads; said map being on file in the County Clerk's office. And be it

Resolved, That the said map be changed accordingly, and that a certified copy of this resolution be filed by the clerk of this Board in the office of the County Clerk, to be recorded as required by law.

On motion of Freeholder Brucklacher, it was ordered that the foregoing preamble and resolution be received and further consideration of the same laid over until the next regular meeting of this Board.

By Freeholder Westphal:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Board that we extend to County Collector E. M. Wood our thanks for the bound volumes of the laws of this State for 1903:

On motion of Freeholder Woodruff, and by rising vote, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

It was ordered that a recess of ten minutes be taken.

Upon re-assembling after recess, roll call showed all members present except Freeholders Cady and Klee.

Freeholder Farrell, chairman of the committee having in charge the laying of the cornerstone of the new court house, reported that arrangements were being made to have the event occur on July 28, which date might be subject to change, and of which the members of the Board would receive due and sufficient notice.

Note—As a matter of fact, the date of the laying of the cornerstone was fixed for Thursday, July 30, 1903, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL. PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

SENSITIVE GIRLS

A Little Talk on the Ills From Which They Suffer.

"PITY the sensitive girl!" The speaker was a prettily dressed and vivacious young matron.

"Why, what do you know about it?" laughed another member of the piazza group.

"Everything," returned the speaker, an expression of pain crossing her pretty face. "I used to be a sensitive girl myself, would you believe it? Everything that it was possible for such a girl to suffer I suffered. I would have been a wretched and good for nothing woman if I had not met Paul. From the first he coaxed me along, made fun of me gently, above all believed in me, encouraged me to have confidence in myself, to act on the supposition that other people liked me and wanted me around, until out of the sheer hypnotism of the suggestion I became really popular and forgot to fancy myself injured and slighted all the time, as I used to do."

"Another case of the value of matrimony; it cures sensitiveness," laughed a girl.

"Not when you marry a sensitive man. I know of one such case. A sensitive woman married a sensitive man, and all their life has been spent in self analysis, in imaginary quarrels and differences.

"It certainly is a bad thing for a girl to be sensitive. I remember one such unfortunate at the hotel where I stayed last summer. She was always moping by herself with a book, looking sadly out of the corners of her eyes at the groups of laughing girls she was too timid to join because she imagined she was not wanted. Why didn't she go up and try? Hardly a girl but would have liked her, for she was really jolly and a good companion, but hypersensitiveness kept her away."

"I know of another girl who made a lifelong enemy through her sensitive

IMAGINED SHE WAS NOT WANTED.

ness," put in a quiet little woman. "She was not invited to a dance through a mistake, as it afterward turned out. It was an affair at which she had every right to expect she should be invited. The next morning she met the hostess on the street, her eyes filled with tears and she turned away without bowing. The hostess did not see the tears, but she saw the cut direct, as she thought, and she has never had the girl at her house since."

"Sensitiveness is a good quality in a way," said another, "for I hate a girl that nothing can affect, but I must say it very often degenerates into morbidness and it certainly is a trial to have to listen to the wails of the sensitive person. 'Oh, dear me! I wonder what is the matter with me! No one seems to care for me! Now Susan Brown is so popular and yet she is so loud voiced and noisy! I never do anything out of the way and yet people are always doing things to hurt me and I never get invited to any of the really jolly things, and if I do get there I notice that no one cares to talk with me. Oh, yes, they sometimes do it out of politeness, but I can see they don't really want to. That has always been the way; I have always been out of things ever since I was a little girl. I suppose it's because I have such a homely figure and such an awkward way about me,' etc., or else the sensitive girl wails: 'I noticed Susan Brown didn't bow to me this morning. What can I have done?' And there follow a soul searching examination and self torture when perhaps Susan was in a hurry or nearsighted."

"Give me the jolly girl who is perfectly natural," remarked the first speaker, "and who takes the world as she finds it and the people as she finds them, too, without worrying over the impression she is making and without fretting over small slights."

Fair Wives the Cheapest.

A lady novelist says that blond women are the most economical wives from the viewpoint of the husband's millinery bill. "For," she declares, "a blond can wear a poor black without much trouble, but if a brunette attempts to wear anything but the best black the result will be disastrous. A brunette can wear only the strongest blacks. A pure waxy blond is the only type that can properly wear white."

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

"Look out for this man, corporal!" he called, to a shouting young trooper. "See that no harm comes to him." Then quickly he ran on to the huddle of travois. Something assured him she could not be far away. The stout drag litter held another young warrior, sullen and speechless like the foremost. The next bore a desperately wounded brave whose bloodless lips were compressed in agony and dumb as those of the dead. About these cowered, shivering, and whimpering, two or three terror-stricken squaws, one of them with a round-eyed papoose staring at her back. A pony lay struggling in the snow close by. Half a dozen rough soldier hands were dragging a stricken rider from underneath. Half a dozen more were striving to control the wild plungings of another mettlesome beast, whose rider, sitting firmly astride, lashed first at his quivering flank and then at the fur gauntleted hands—even at the laughing, bearded faces—sure sign of another squaw, and a game one. Far out to the front the crackle of carbine and rifle told that Webb was driving the scattered braves before him—that the comrade squadron was coming their way—that Bear Cliff had been sought by the Sioux in vain—that Indian wiles and strategy, Indian pluck and staying power, all had more than met their match. Whatever the fate of Lame Wolf's fighting force, now pressed by Henry's column, far in the southward hills, here in sight of the broad Big Horn valley, the white chief had struck a vital blow. Village, villagers, wounded and prisoners were all the spoil of the hated soldiery. Here at the scene of Blake's minor affair there appeared still in saddle just one undaunted, unconquered amazon whose black eyes flashed through the woolen hood that hid the rest of her face, whose lips had uttered as yet no sound, but from whom two soldiers recoiled at the cry of a third. "Look at the hand of her, fellers! It's whiter than mine!"

"That's all right, Lanigan," answered the jovial voice of the leader they loved and laughed with. "Hold that pony steady. Now, by your ladyship's leave," and two long sinewy arms went circling about the shrinking rider's waist, and a struggling form was lifted straightway out of the saddle and deposited, not too gracefully, on its moccasined feet. "We will remove this one impediment to your speech," continued Blake, whereat the muffling worsted was swiftly unwound, "and then we will listen to our meed of thanks. Ah, no wonder you did not need a side-saddle that night at Frayne. You ride admirably a califourchon—My compliments, Mademoiselle LaFleur—or should I say—Madame Moreau."

For all answer Blake received one quick, stinging slap in the face from that mittenless little right hand.

CHAPTER XXI.

Thanksgiving day at Frayne! Much of the garrison was still afield, bringing back to their lines, and, let us hope, to their senses, the remnants of Stabber's band, chased far into the Sweetwater Hills before they would stop, while Henry's column kept Lame Wolf in such active movement the misnamed chieftain richly won his later sobriquet "The Skipper." The general had come whirling back from Beecher in his Concord wagon, to meet Mr. Hay as they bore that invalid homeward from the Big Horn. Between the fever-weakened trader and the famous frontier soldier there had been brief conference—all that the doctors felt they could allow—and then the former had been put to bed under the care of his devoted wife, while the latter, without so much as sight of a pillow, had set forth again out Sweetwater way to wind up the campaign. This time he went in saddle, sending his own team over the range of the Medicine Bow to carry a convalescent subaltern to the side of a stricken father; the sender, ignorant, possibly, of the post commanders prohibition; ignoring it, if, as probable, it was known to him. The good old doctor himself had bundled the grateful lad and sent a special hospital attendant with him. Mrs. Dade and her devoted allies up the row had filled with goodies a wonderful luncheon basket, while Mrs. Hay had sent stores of wine for the use of both invalids, and had come down herself to see the start, for, without a word indicative of reproof, the general had bidden Flint remove the blockade, simply saying he would assume all responsibility, both for Mrs. Hay and the young Indian girl, given refuge under the trader's roof until the coming of her own people still out with Stabber's band. Flint could not fathom it. He could only obey.

And now, with the general gone and Beverly Field away, with Hay home and secluded by orders from all questioning or other extraneous worry, with the wounded soldiers safely trundled into hospital, garrison interest seemed to center for the time mainly in that little Ogallala maid—Flint's sole Sioux captive, who was housed, said the much interrogated domestic, in Mrs. Hay's own room instead of Miss Flower's, while the lady of the house, when she slept at all, occupied a sofa near her husband's bedside.

Then came the tidings that Blake, with the prisoners from No Wood Creek and Bear Cliff was close at hand, and everybody looked with eager eyes for the coming across the snowy prairie of that homeward-bound convoy—that big village of the Sioux, with its distinguished captives, wounded and unwounded; one of the former, the young sub-chief Eagle Wing, alias Moreau—one of the latter a self-constituted martyr, since she was under no official restraint—Nanette Flower, hovering ever about the litter bearing that sullen and still defiant brave, whose side she refused to leave.

Not until they reached Fort Frayne; not until the surgeon, after careful examination, declared there was no need of taking Moreau into hospital—no reason why he should not be confined in the prison room of the guardhouse—were they able to induce the silent, almost desperate girl to return to her aunt. Not until Nanette realized that her warrior was to be housed within wooden walls whence she would be excluded, could Mrs. Hay, devoted to the last, persuade the girl to reoccupy her old room and to resume the dress of civilization. Barring that worsted hood, she was habited like a chieftain's daughter, in gaily beaded and embroidered garments, when recaptured by Blake's command. Once within the trader's door, she had shut herself in her old room, the second floor front, refusing to see anybody from outside the house, unless she could be permitted to receive visits from the captive Sioux, and this the major, flintily, forebade. It was nightfall when the litter-bearers reached the post, Hay's rejoicing mules braying unmelodious ecstacy at sight of their old stable. It was dark when the wounded chief was borne into the guard-house, uttering not a sound, and Nanette was led within the trader's door, yet some one had managed to see her face, for the story went all over the wondering post that very night—women flitting with it from door to door—that every vestige of her beauty was gone—she looked at least a dozen years older. Blake, when questioned, after the first rapture of the home-coming had subsided, would neither affirm nor deny. "She would neither speak to me nor harken," said he, whimsically. "The only thing she showed was teeth and temper.

Two days after the safe lodgment of Eagle Wing behind the bars, the telegrams were coming by dozens, and one week after that deserved incarceration, Fort Frayne heard with mild bewilderment the major's order for Moreau's transfer to the hospital. By that time letters, too, were beginning to come, and, two nights after this removal to the little room but lately occupied by Lieut. Field—this very Thanksgiving night, in fact—the single sentry at the door stood attention to the commanding officer who in person ushered in a womanly form enveloped in hooded cloak, and with bowed head Nanette Flower passed within the guarded portal, which then closed behind her and left her alone with her wounded brave.

Marriage in India.

Marriage no one may escape in India. It is, as death and birth, inevitable. Only birth and death are our finalities, marriage may come by choice, caprice or accident; these are not found in Indian dictionaries. The wisdom of selection is left to parents. Of course, there are mistakes, surprises, disappointments, as everywhere. But I saw as much love-light in happy eyes in India as in any other country.—Everybody's Magazine.

Shallow African Lake.

Lake Chad, in Africa, is reported by two French explorers to be 185 miles long and 89 miles wide, yet only 25 feet deep in its deepest part, and only five feet in its eastern side. It has 80 islands, some barren, others only pastureland, and some covered with forests and millet plantations and having a total population of about 50,000.—London Mail.

A Payment.

Everbroke—I want to pay you something on account.

Tailor (rubbing his hands)—Ah, I'm glad to see you.

"Yes, I want to qay you a compliment on account of your artistic way of dunning. Sh—not a word—you deserve it. Good morning."—Kansas City Journal.

Couldn't Keep It.

Eva—I thought you were never going to speak to Harold again as long as you lived?

Ciss—I know I said so, but it wasn't my fault that I broke the resolution.

"How did it happen?"

"He called me up over the telephone."—Stray Stories.

Not Doing His Duty.

Mrs. Jones—I think it's the most ridiculous thing to call that man in the bank a "teller."

Mrs. Johnson—Why?

"Because he simply won't tell at all. I asked one to-day how much my husband had on deposit there, and he just laughed."—Stray Stories.

Kansas City Couple Married Without Their Knowledge

Justice Made a Sorry Blunder, But the Knot He Had Tied Unexpectedly Bound the Young People Together for Life.

A CASE where a couple was married without the knowledge and against the wishes of both came up in the recorder's office in Kansas City recently. Floravante Picavelli and Pasqualina Novelli, in company with a much older couple, Luca Picavella and Filomena Bollita, entered the office and by the aid of an interpreter declared their intention to get married. A license for each couple was accordingly made out and Justice of the Peace William Hicks, having been summoned by telephone, appeared upon the scene.

"NO MARRICH, NO MARRICH!"

The first couple to be married was the older one. Seeing the other two standing a little to the rear and holding each other's hands, the judge addressed himself to the interpreter. "Do those two want to get married?" The interpreter nodded his assent and the work of making out the marriage certificate was begun. To all the customary questions asked by the judge the couple, through the interpreter, made the proper answers.

During all this time the other couple appeared to be too much engrossed with each other to notice what was going on, but as the judge handed the young man the marriage certificate the elder woman suddenly darted forward and snatched the paper from his hand. For a moment she stood comparing the paper with the one given her by the judge a little earlier. Then she began talking rapidly to the young couple in her native tongue. For a moment they stood as though stunned. Then all began talking and gesticulating wildly with their hands. The babel of voices grew deafening and finally the judge, almost overcome by the din, shrieked into the ear of the interpreter. "Here, for heaven's sake stop that noise. What are they shouting about?"

"Why," stammered the interpreter, "they say they didn't want to get married."

"Didn't want to get married?" The judge's voice rose with each word in astonishment.

"No, they say they didn't want to get married. At least not now. They were going to wait and be married by a priest. They thought that you were only making out the license."

The surprise groom here advanced, the certificate in his hand, the other man and two women bringing up in the rear. "No marrich, no marrich," he shouted, extending the paper to the judge.

"They want you to untie the knot," explained the interpreter.

After considerable difficulty the judge made the couple understand that this was impossible and the marriage would have to stand. The couple finally decided to make the best of it, however, and left the office. As the four descended the courthouse steps they were still talking and gesticulating.

SEES DEATH IN DREAM.

Montana Ranchman Murdered by Tramp He Had Wronged and Offended Twice.

Students of the occult are finding much food for thought in the murder of Fred Teasdale, a rancher of Bridger, Mont., by a tramp who refuses to give his name, but who says that he knew the dead man long ago and that Teasdale did him a deadly wrong.

"I had a queer dream last night, only it was not really a dream," said Teasdale, when he went into the field in the morning, addressing several men. "I thought that I was living long, long ago and did a fearful wrong to a man who once was my friend. We parted and met many years later, when we engaged in a quarrel. During this quarrel he shot me. The funny part of it all was that at the time I seemed to be living firearms had not been invented."

As the men were working, about noon, a tramp appeared in the field and asked to be put to work. He was given employment. When his eyes fell on Teasdale he turned pale and staggered as if hit a heavy blow.

Soon Teasdale began joking about his poor workmanship. This angered the tramp, and hot words followed. Suddenly Teasdale leaned forward and struck the tramp in the face.

"Curse you, that's twice you have wronged me in this world," shouted the tramp, "but it will be the last."

Then he drew a revolver and fired, the ball penetrating the heart of the rancher, who fell dead. The tramp was seized and taken to jail. He refuses to give his name, saying only that Teasdale knew him and that he merely took revenge for an injury done him many years before. The tramp showed indications of having at one time filled a high position in the world and is evidently a man of education.

"TWICE YOU HAVE WRONGED ME."

Girl Frightened to Death.

Mary McAndrew, an amiable and pretty factory girl, aged 17, of Scranton, Pa., became slightly ill. Her companions in the factory, to tease her, said she showed the early symptoms of smallpox, some scattered cases of which malady were in the city. The girl became so alarmed that she went home and committed suicide by taking carbolic acid.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Thrilling Experience of a Missouri Farmer Who Was Thought to Be Dead.

A few days ago G. W. Peacher, of Sturgeon, Mo., 31 years old, was struck by lightning and given up for dead. But he lives to tell the story. Peacher was visited at his residence, ten miles south of Sturgeon, and said:

"Well, I may not look like a dead man, but it seems to me like I was dead, buried, and am now resurrected. It was the closest call I ever had, and if anybody could have been found about the time I was struck I would have bet them my farm against a glass of buttermilk that I was done for.

"The lightning struck me on the left shoulder and burned me to my toes. Both shoes were badly torn, and in the photograph here you can see for yourself how it treated my clothes. Well, for a few minutes I was dead. The boys gathered around me and I heard one of them say that I died easy.

"The boys told me it was fully 20 minutes before I moved, and the first thing I said was a request for water. This was brought to me, and I drank all of it. My companions asked me what physician I wanted, and I told them that I would be dead before any of those at Sturgeon could be told about the affair.

"My nerves were racked, and whatever courage I had possessed in former days deserted me. In an hour the doctor arrived, gave me an opiate, and I went to sleep. I was brought to Sturgeon over night, and the next day my friends took me home."

Found Snake in Her Hair.

Dreaming that she was putting up her hair and having difficulty in disentangling it from her fingers, Mrs. Ida Whalen, of Logansport, Ind., woke up the other night to find a snake coiled around her fingers. She hastily flung the reptile to the floor, and succeeded in killing it. In the struggle the snake bit her several times, inflicting painful and probably dangerous wounds. The snake measured 12 inches and is of the water snake variety, which are not considered very poisonous. The presence of the snake is accounted for from the fact that the family cat frequently brings them to the house. It is thought the cat brought this one in the night and carried it into the bedroom, springing upon the bed with it.

GAMES TODAY.

Alis vs. St. Mary's, at Crescent Oval.
Scotch Plains vs. Westfield, at Scotch Plains.
Hope Y. M. A. vs. High Bridge, at High Bridge.

BUNTS.

"Doc" Doyle has given up baseball playing for the balance of the season that he may devote more time to his studies for the medical profession. John Mallay will hereafter captain St. Mary's in place of Doyle.

The fifth and deciding game for supremacy between Alis and Scotch Plains will be played a week from today. This contest should attract one of the largest crowds of the season. The last game between these two teams resulted in a victory for Alis after eleven hard-fought innings.

Page, who has been doing most of the catching for Alis this season, is now under contract with the Brooklyn National League Club, and he cannot be depended upon as a regular man for Alis. However, much this is regreted, the club is fortunate in having so worthy a substitute as Gormley, formerly of the Pearsall team.

ROD AND REEL.

Adolph Koehler, of West Sixth street, left this morning for Boynton Beach, where he will spend the day fishing and crabbing.

Sergeant Fredrickson and James Smith went to Perth Amboy, yesterday on a fishing trip with a party of friends. They returned home with a catch of sixty weak fish.

Clarence Huff and Clarence Thorn, of this city, returned last night from their fishing trip to Princess Bay with fifty-four good-sized weak fish and twenty-nine blue fish. The boys landed a sixty-two pound turtle.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

At the meeting of the Independent Gun Club at the Arlington Hotel next Monday evening arrangements will be made for the annual King and Queen shooting contest. The names of the past prize winners will be read at that time and the prizes will be distributed. The next shooting contest will be held at the Maple avenue grounds Labor Day.

AMUSEMENTS.

They have had to reconstruct the entire expansive front of the great middle wing of the mammoth Sea Beach Palace, Coney Island, during the past week and transform it into numerous exits and entrances for the crowds daily streaming in and out of Bostock's from noon until midnight.

A cow, a lion and a scarecrow figure prominently in "The Wizard of Oz," the new musical extravaganza which has taken New York by storm this summer at the Majestic Theatre, and is declared to be the handsomest spectacular production ever seen in this country. The lion in "The Wizard of Oz" is, of course, not the real article but a clever assumption by an actor who has studied the King of Beasts from life.

Miss Fay Templeton, who is never happy unless she is planning something new, is preparing a character study which will be introduced shortly in "The Runaways" at the Casino. The basis is a French song which she will present in the true style of the smartest Parisian cafe idole. For thirteen years Miss Templeton lived in Paris, and made a study of its amusements, but never has she offered the fruit of her experience to an American audience.

Luna Park, Coney Island, was the scene of the "greatest day in the history of the amusement world," when "a $20,000 programme was given for 10 cents." A large number of free acts were introduced. Will Hill, the high wire performer, walked across the lagoon from the top of the electric tower to the foot of the chute-the-chutes, where a ladder 184 feet high had been erected. Another hair-raising act was that of a bicyclist who looped the looped into the lake.

Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street, after most successful summer season of stock, will in a short time turn to combinations for the winter season. Only the best comedy dramas and plays have been negotiated for, and a most prosperous season is the outlook. Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, in the heart of the most fashionable shopping district, will very soon see the debut of many new European novelties that Mr. Proctor has booked through his agents abroad during the summer season. At present several brilliant one-act comedy plays, interpreted by good actors, and written by prominent newspaper men, are now holding the attention of Mr. Proctor's patrons at this playhouse.

"The Earl of Pawtucket" will inaugurate the last four weeks of its stay at the Manhattan Theatre beginning on Monday, August 10. The Augustus Thomas comedy will close the first seven months of its marvelous career in New York, Saturday, Sept. 5 and will continue its run at another Broadway theatre. It has to its credit the record business for a day, for a week and for a month at two New York theatres. It is probably a safe suggestion to make that in all the history of metropolitan amusement a legitimate comedy has never made a more brilliant showing in the way of business. "Blow high or blow low," the stream of patrons has flowed steadily to the Manhattan Theatre, and thousands of the most intelligent and fashionable people will bear personal testimony to the fact that this purest, most wholesome and merriest of plays has afforded more unalloyed enjoyment than any comedy that has been written in a decade.

Miss Annie Durling, of this city, has been enjoying her vacation at the home of her father, Garret Durling, in Harlingen, Somerset County.

LITERARY.

The fiction number of Scribner's Magazine has become an institution. For fourteen years it has appeared every August with its wealth of beautiful illustration, much of it in color; its short stories by famous writers, and the first remarkable stories of entirely unknown writers who soon became famous. The fiction number this year is a notable successor in this series. As the earliest attempts at color, printing in an American magazine appeared here, it is fitting that the best modern color pictures should adorn this number. They are of great variety in method and design. The cover is an elaborate and beautiful reproduction of a design by A. E. Foringer.

History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip today words would not express his delight, for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with Steamer St. Johns a popular-priced excursion up the Hudson on August 13, 1903. Rate to be $1 and train will leave Plainfield at 8:46 a. m. NEW RECORD FOR AMATEUR GOLFERS

Frank O. Reinhart Goes the Rounds at Hillside Club in 65, Lowering His Mark.

A SPLENDID SHOWING

SCORE PROBABLY THE LOWEST EVER MADE BY AN AMATEUR.

Park Club Weekly Competitions Won by Thurlow and Morris—Stockton Second to the Club Champion at Hillside.

HILLSIDE.

In competition for the Golf Committee cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on Saturday afternoon, Frank O. Reinhart, club champion, beat his own lowest mark for the course and established a new record. Under conditions that were the best, he made the circuit of eighteen holes, in 65 strokes. On the outward journey Reinhart took thirty-one strokes and came home in thirty-four. This score is probably the lowest yet made in the amateur ranks and Reinhart's work on Saturday bespeaks good results in his coming play against the Oxford-Cambridge players.

The second and third honors for the Golf Committee cup were won by H. R. Stockton and H. D. Hibbard. This gives Stockton a total of 11½ points, while Hibbard has a total of four points. Reinhart's six points put him in fifth position.

These scores were posted for the Golf Committee cup:

Frank O. Reinhart, 65, 0—65; H. R. Stockton, 78, 4—74; H. D. Hibbard, 88, 12—76; J. E. Erickson, 96, 16—78; Willard Wadsworth, 83, 5—78; Arthur Murphy, 89, 10—79; Thomas R. VanBoskerck, 89, 9—80; L. FOUGHT ABOUT INSURANCE

JAMES BROWN AND JOHN VAN HORDEN QUARRELLED OVER THEIR CUPS.

Brothers - in - Law Lectured by Judge Runyon—Other Drunks Sentenced.

The session of the city court this morning was devoted entirely to the disposition of the several drunk and disorderly cases which form the usual Monday morning grist.

The most sensational case was that in which James Brown and John Vanhorden figured. These two men, who are brothers-in-law, had several drinks Saturday night in a Somerset street saloon and finally got together in deadly combat on the sidewalk, whence they were gathered in by the united efforts of Policemen Vanderweg and Higgins.

Vanhorden is an insurance agent for a large New York company and having heard that his brother-in-law had withdrawn his life insurance from the company, tried forcibly to persuade him to renew his policy. Brown is a fighter of some renown in this city despite his story to the judge in court this morning and it was only through a misstep due to his load of liquor that the knockout blow was delivered by his adversary. His fall caused a gash in the back of his head in which it was necessary to take three stitches.

In court this morning both men were allowed to depart after their assurance that there was no hard feeling.

Michael Motley, another of the "D. and D.s," was sentenced to a twenty days' sojourn at Elizabeth. Sentence was suspended on the other two, James Hall and Michael Gronz.

REMARKABLE TIMEPIECE.

Plays Tunes and Hands Out Checks at Rowley's Store.

Frank Rowley, the West Front street druggist, is exhibiting an intricate Yale clock at his store. It stands nearly seven feet high and is so arranged that by dropping a nickle in the slot you hear a popular tune, and at the same time you get a check for the value of your money good for a purchase at the store. Occasionally checks worth from two to five times the amount of the coin dropped are received. The clock is brilliantly lighted, making a great attraction.

Nearly Run Down.

Miss Anna Hess, of Essex street, while going to her work this morning at P. H. Latourette's auction store on Somerset street, was nearly run down by a wagon belonging to Edward Smith, grocer. The young woman was riding her wheel on the wrong side of West Front street when the driver turned out suddenly. Miss Hess threw herself to one side and barely grazed the shafts.

CHILD LABOR AND THE PRESIDENT

Were Subjects of "Mother" Jones' Speech on Watchung Avenue, Saturday.

PASSIONATE HARANGUE

LARGE AND GENERALLY RESPECTFUL CROWD LISTENED.

One Man Jeered and Was Thrown Out—President Roosevelt Was Bitterly Attacked—The Mother Explains Her Mission.

In a tirade against President Roosevelt and the Government, "Mother" Jones lectured to four hundred people at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street Saturday evening. The object of her visit, she declared, was to tell the people of this city about the economic conditions in Philadelphia and to awaken public sentiment against the employment of children under sixteen years of age in factories. President Roosevelt's action in refusing to see her and the three small boys with her led to her severely critising his methods of administration.

"Mother" Jones arrived in town Saturday afternoon and made her headquarters at the Hotel Kensington. Her "army" of textile strikers, which numbered close upon two hundred when she started, yesterday included eighteen members of the band. From here the "Mother" went to Rahway, where she stopped over night. Yesterday morning she pushed on to New Brunswick and took the trolley from there to Trenton. At Trenton she will speak this evening and will take steamer for Philadelphia Tuesday morning.

The platform was a chair and on it at 8 o'clock Saturday night, a tall striker introduced the "Mother," a little woman, with snow white hair, small dark blue eyes, a determined chin and a voice which, although weakened by constant use, could be heard distinctly almost a block away.

Opening her address, the agitator told the people her object in trying to see President Roosevelt. She said that on June 1, the employes of the textile mills in Philadelphia struck for fifty-five hours a week and pay for the same amount of time. She said that the strike has practically been won.

"Child slavery" in the factories was explained by the "Mother." She said that in Pennsylvania children are put to work in the factories at the age of six to eight years. With her she said she had children not yet ten years of age who had never seen the inside of a school room.

"The children of the great city as well as in the country towns are sacrificed for the greed of money-making capitalists. If one half of the people living in this country were aware of the conditions existing beneath their eyes in the large factories, they would be ashamed that they lived beneath the American flag." Some figures were given showing the percentage of child labor in the factories. "I protest against the intellectual murder of children to satisfy the greed of the mill owner, because the future of the Republic depends upon the intelligence of the growing children. If they go to work in factories at the age of six years at which time they should be in school, we will have a nation of idiots and law breakers.

"We started out to let the world know about the conditions existing in the factories. Our destination was Oyster Bay where we intended placing before the President the true conditions of child slavery in the factories. I wanted him to recommend a bill to Congress to protect them. We got there and the Secretary said to me that the President's sympathies are on record in the State of New York. Said he, when the President was Governor of New York, a bill went through both houses prohibiting children working in factories at an age less than 14.

"That bill is inadequate. We want not a State bill but a federal bill which will cover the ground thoroughly. Everybody knows where he stood then," cried the woman, "and Mr. Reporter," turning to The Press representative, "you can tell them this for me, everybody knows where the President stood when he ordered out the soldiers to Croton dam to compel the men and children to work there under guns.

"President Roosevelt could not see three little children, representing the white slaves of America, but his Congress will at their next meeting appropriate $950 a day of our good money to keep three yachts at his service so that he can live at his ease.

"There was an awful cry recently about the cruelty of Russia. I believe that Russia is more humane than America. She does not kill her children by allowing them to work in factories when they should be in a cradle."

During the meeting, one young man laughed in derision of the speaker's remarks and the latter directed toward him a tongue-lashing which caused the young fellow to retreat in great confusion amid the jeers of the rest of the audience.

SHOOTING COST HIM DEAR

STEPHEN VAN BUHREN KILLED A CUCKOO AND PAID HEAVY FINE.

He was a Non-Resident and Justice Cooper, of Warrenville, Charged Him Over $50.

Stephen VanBuhren, of South Oxford street, Brooklyn, had a rather expensive visit among friends at Mt. Bethel on Saturday. He is very fond of hunting and when he left home he took his gun with him, fully expecting to capture a good bagfof game. Much to his surprise he met Game and Fish Warden C. M. Hawkins and Deputy Warden L. C. Wyckoff, the latter of the borough.

The officials found a cuckoo in VanBuhren's possession and it was soon learned that he was a non-resident of the State. He was taken before Justice John P. Cooper, of Warrenville,. The latter imposed a fine of $23.45 for shooting the cuckoo and $28.58 for being a non-resident gunner. The prisoner paid his fine and in the future will probably exercise more care in the choice of hunting grounds.

PARENTS ARE TO BLAME

REV. JOHN MCMURRAY SAYS "MOTHER" JONES FORGETS THAT.

In Her Speeches on Child Labor —Sermon at the Monroe Avenue Church.

"Mother" Jones and her doctrine were discussed at some length by Rev. John McMurray last evening in a sermon at the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church. Mr. McMurray said that "Mother" Jones forgets, when she inveighs aganist capitalists and mill owners, that a large share of the blame for child labor belongs to the parents.

The father of the family, he said, is usually able to support his children and send them to school and the children go to the mills with their parents' consent. Instead of uttering vituperations against the President, the agitator should carry on a crusade in the interests of truer home economics and for the abolition of the saloon. It is in the latter place that the fathers usually spend their own and their children's earnings.

YOUNGSTERS ENTERTAINMENT.

The Netherwood Fresh Air Children Hunt for Texts in the Bible.

An entertainment was provided for the inmates of the Children's Fresh Air Home at Netherwood Saturday afternoon by Superintendent George E. Hall, of the Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday-school, assisted by some of the teachers and scholars. The children did not carry out the complete programme as arranged because one of their number was fast approaching death's door.

A scripture text hunt was one of the features of the afternoon and little prizes were awarded the winners. Other games were played. Those who arranged the programme were Mrs. Nelson Runyon, Miss Henrietta Cuming, Mrs. D. M. Runyon, Mrs. Charles VanWinkle, Miss Florence Hawkins, Miss Cora Brokaw, Miss Marion Hall, George E. Hall and Joseph M. Hawkins, assisted by some of the members of the Junior Society.

Long Reign to New Pope.

There was great rejoicing at the services in the local Catholic Churches yesterday because of the coronation of Pope Pius X and all devout Catholics joined heartily in wishing the pontiff good health and a long reign. The special papal hymn, "Holy God," was sung at the conclusion of the mass at St. Mary's Church.

SURPRISES IN BASEBALL RESULTS

Alis Unexpectedly Beaten by St. Mary's in An Exciting Game at the Oval.

HOPE DOWN IN DUST

UMPIRE TREATED THEM UNKINDLY, HOWEVER, AT HIGH BRIDGE.

They Played Fast Ball—Westfield Trailed Behind Scotch Plains—Waller Was Easy—Clinton Ave. Beat New Market.

ST. MARY'S, 5; ALIS, 3.

One of the largest crowds of the season visited Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon and saw St. Mary's defeat Alis in a contest interesting from start to finish. The final score was 5 to 3. The Saints scored the winning runs after two men were put out in the first half of the ninth inning. The teams were evenly matched.

Neither scored until the third, when Kavanaugh, for Alis, crossed the rubber. No more runs were made until the fifth inning, when the Saints tallied twice. In the sixth and seventh innings Alis scored one run each and that was all they could make.

Great excitement prevailed in the sixth inning, when Henriques, for Alis, got a free pass, stole second and third and came home on a fumble and wild throw by Cooney, tying the score.

Winn, who played first for the Saints, gave an exhibition that will not bear repeating in this city. He played what can be strictly termed "dirty" ball. He knocked a fly to Richardson, ran into him and tried to make him drop the ball. Another time he held Gastmeyer on first after the latter made what should have been a three-base hit; and still another time he interfered with the ball. He should have been put out of the game by the umpire.

Honors were about even between MacLaughlin and Mauer, the Saints getting five hits off the former and Alis making seven off the latter. Both Gormley and Mallay backed up their pitchers in fine style, while the rest of the players put up a good article of ball.

SCOTCH PLAINS, 6; WESTFIELD, 3.

Fully 2,000 lovers of the National game gathered about the Scotch Plains diamond Saturday afternoon and saw the crack Westfield aggregation go down in defeat before the heavy hitters of the 'Plains team. The score was 6 to 3. "Red" Waller, who has long been a terror to batsman, proved an easy mark for the locals who batted him for a total of eleven hits. The visitors could do but little with Davis's delivery. The 'Plains boys had the visitors beaten from the beginning, making one run in the first, two in the third, and two more in the sixth. The score was 5 to 0 until the eighth when Cruzius, the local shortstop, made a costly error, letting in three runs and saving the visitors from a shut-out. The locals scored again in the eighth. The features were the home run by Brogan, with one man on base, and the square umpiring by Mr. Cullum, who refused to be dictated to by either side.

HIGH BRIDGE, 7; HOPE, 4.

The first game of the series between the Hope Y. M. A. and High Bridge baseball teams resulted on Saturday, at High Bridge, in favor of the Hunterdon County ball team after nine innings of in and out playing.

With "Rube" Ramsey pitching, the up state boys expected to send Manager Cose's colts home with a whitewash, but "Rube" proved easy for the Chapel boys.

"Smiling Jimmie" pitched grand ball after the second inning, only two safe hits being made off his delivery. He struck his pace too late, however, for seven bunched hits were scored off him in the first two innings which, coupled with a few errors, lost the game for Hope.

Hope deserves great credit for their showing, considering the fact that the Hunterdon boys have only been defeated once this season, and that their pitcher has a record of 129 strike outs in nine games. Martin carried off the batting honors of the day. Several questionable decisions were made by the umpire which did not benefit the Hope team and which did not meet the approval of many of the rooters.

SHOOTING AFFAIR IN NEW MARKKET

John Melange Quarreled with Fellow Countryman, Who Shot Him in the Breast.

HIS ASSAILANT ESCAPED

MELANGE WAS TAKEN TO THE NEW BRUNSWICK HOSPITAL.

Both Lived in New Brunswick—Injured Man Will Be Discharged from Hospital in Few Days —Bullet Extracted.

As the result of an altercation between John Melange, a young Austrian laborer, and a fellow countryman employed by Calvid Drake, of Stelton, Melange was shot in the upper part of the breast Saturday with a revolver. The fracas took place while Melange, who is about eighteen years old, was on his way to his home in New Brunswick. While walking along the Stelton road near New Market, he joined three fellow laborers and one of these shot him at short range with a revolver. In the excitement, the shooter escaped.

Melange was taken to Dr. Whitford's office and later to the hospital at New Brunswick by Lewis Walker, brother-in-law of John Ross, of this city. The bullet was subsequently extracted and it was found that the clavicle had been shattered. This morning the injured man was reported on the road to recovery. He will probably be discharged from the hospital within a few days.

STRONG STREAM.

Chief Doane Announces Results of Tests of New Nozzles Department May Buy.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, has given out some interesting figures regarding the test of the new deluge nozzle tried on West Fourth street, last week. The stream was sent 100 feet in the air in a vertical direction and 167 feet in a horizontal direction. This was accomplished with a one and one-third inch nozzle at a pressure from the hydrant of 75 pounds. With the other kind of nozzles now in regular use in the department the farthest a stream can be sent horizontally is 140 at the same pressure.

Last week's test was preliminary and another will be made at a time set by Councilman R. L. Lee, chairman of the fire committee. At this test the fire engine will be attached to three plugs and will discharge through one of the new nozzles. Should this test prove satisfactory it is probable that a set of the new appliances will be ordered for the department.

BICYCLE WRECK.

John Manley Thrown From His Wheel and Slightly Injured.

While returning from the Alis-St. Mary ball game on his wheel Saturday afternoon, John Manley, of Park avenue, met with an accident, which may lay him up for some time. He and Whitney Frazee were riding side by side, and the avenue was crowded with vehicles of all kinds. Frazee, to escape an approaching team, swerved, toward Manley and his rear wheel struck Mr. Manley's front wheel. The street was muddy and Mr. Manley went down with considerable force directly in front of the path of W. L. Smalley, Jr., who was driving toward town. The latter stopped his horse as quickly as possible, but not soon enough to avoid Manley altogether.

A strike was ordered last week of the weavers employed at the Summit Silk Company and about two hundred hands left their looms. The company refused and the strike was ordered. The factory employs about nine hundred hands.

In spite of the fact that during the past twelve months the iron and steel industry has been hampered by a long coal strike, and by something of a deadlock in transportation facilities, the total production of iron and steel in the United States has grown to truly enormous proportions. Probably in the whole history of the world there has never been a period when a single industry witnessed such a phenomenal development as that of the American iron and steel trade. We have been accustomed to regard the great industrial establishments of the country, and particularly those identified with the steel industry, as more than equal to any possible demands of the home market, yet so great has been our prosperity that our great blast furnaces and steel mills have been unable to cope with the demand, and it has been necessary to import a certain amount of pig iron from abroad. During the last year the total production of pig iron was 17,821,307 tons, an increase of over two million tons on the preceding year and a gain of four million tons over the year 1900. Perhaps these figures are best understood when it is stated that last year's production was nearly double that of the year 1897.

THE BALL PARK HORROR.

Four Additional Deaths at the Quaker City.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—Four additional deaths occurred yesterday as the result of the accident at the Philadelphia National league baseball park, making a total of eight fatalities.

Two hundred victims were treated at the various hospitals, and it is believed that fully 100 more received attention at various drugstores in the vicinity of the baseball grounds. Of the injured still in the hospitals five are said to be in a critical condition.

Two games were scheduled between Boston and Philadelphia, and the attraction drew over 10,000 persons to the ball park. The accident was indirectly due to a quarrel between two drunken men in the street. The National league stands are built of steel and brick, the brick wall extending entirely around the grounds. At the top of the left field seats and extending from the grand stand to the end of the bleachers there was a walk about three feet wide which overhung the street. It was this walk that gave way under the heavy weight.

Men who were standing on the walk were attracted by a disturbance in the street. They leaned over the side of the railing to see what was the trouble, and this drew the attention of other spectators sitting on the top rows of the bleachers. A rush was made to see what the other spectators were looking at.

The walk became overcrowded, and without a moment's warning the 200 feet of it fell to the sidewalk, twenty feet below, carrying all who were on it. There were probably 3,000 persons sitting in the left field bleachers, and the roar made by the falling timber created a panic. Instantly the spectators rose en masse and made a rush down the stand and into the playing field. It was one great black wave of humanity. Men and boys climbed over one another in their efforts to escape from the grounds. Not knowing what had occurred, the ball players and others tried to stop the mad rush, but they were swept aside in their unsuccessful efforts.

No date has been set for inquests, but the coroner said they would be held within ten days.

"The investigation will be thorough and rigid," said Coroner Dugan. "If there has been any criminal negligence the responsible parties will be held accountable."

The coroner and police officials have decided to permit the playing of scheduled games. The left field bleachers will be roped off, and the spectators will be allowed to occupy only the seats in the right field and the grand stand. Thousands of people today visited the baseball park, and the hospitals were thronged with friends and relatives of the injured.

TO INVESTIGATE E. T. HOOLEY.

English Justice Denounces the Notorious Promoters.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Attorney General Finlay has instructed the director of public prosecutions to investigate some of the transactions of Promoter E. T. Hooley in connection with the Sapphire corundum mine of Canada. Hooley's meteoric financial career and heavy failure were the sensations of London a few years back. The bankrupt has since been operating in his wife's name and has been living in the greatest luxury.

In the course of the hearing on Thursday of a suit to recover money paid in connection with the deals, Justice Darling characterized the whole transaction by Hooley and his colleagues as fraudulent, and declared "it was a grave reflection on the courts of this country that such a thing could occur in the middle of London. Thimble rigging on a race course was a simple crime compared with the transactions of these people with millions instead of peas."

A Great Irrigation Project.

LEWISTON, Ida., Aug. 10.—Articles of incorporation of the Lewiston-Waha Land and Irrigation company have been filed here with a capitalization of $1,200,000. The incorporators include Senator Dubois and ex-Senator Heitfeldt of Idaho and J. G. Trainor, a Chicago capitalist. The company has acquired Waha lake, located twenty miles from Lewiston, and will utilize it for reclaiming 35,000 acres of land. The company's plans also include the building of a trolley line from Lewiston through the irrigated district. Work on the project will commence in October.

Chinese Reformers Arrested.

PEKING, Aug. 10.—Five reformers have been arrested here, one being the brother of the viceroy of Wuchang. Police have been stationed at all the gates to prevent men suspected to be reformers from leaving the city. LYNCHING OUTRAGES

President Roosevelt Commends Durbin's Action.

LAW AND ORDER MUST PREVAIL.

Punishment of Murder and Assault to Be Sure and Swift, but Mob Law Must Be Crushed Out.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—President Roosevelt has written a letter to Governor Durbin of Indiana commending him for the attitude he assumed recently respecting lynching. The president also embraces the opportunity to express his own views in reference to lynching and mob violence generally, pointing out that mob violence is merely one form of anarchy and that anarchy is the forerunner of tyranny. The president vigorously urges that the penalty for that crime which most frequently induces a resort to lynching shall be applied swiftly and surely, but by due process of the courts, so that it may be demonstrated "that the law is adequate to deal with crime by freeing it from every vestige of technicality and delay."

President Roosevelt's letter says in part:

"Permit me to thank you as an American citizen for the admirable way in which you have vindicated the majesty of the law by your recent action in reference to lynching. I feel, my dear sir, that you have made all men your debtors who believe, as all farseeing men must, that the well being, indeed the very existence of the republic, depends upon that spirit of orderly liberty under the law which is as incompatible with mob violence as with any form of despotism. Of course mob violence is simply one form of anarchy, and anarchy is now, as it always has been, the handmaiden and forerunner of tyranny.

"All thoughtful men must feel the gravest alarm over the growth of lynching in this country and especially over the peculiarly hideous forms so often taken by mob violence when colored men are the victims—on which occasions the mob seems to lay most weight not on the crime, but on the color of the criminal. In a certain proportion of these cases the man lynched has been guilty of a crime horrible beyond description, a crime so horrible that as far as he himself is concerned he has forfeited the right to any kind of sympathy whatsoever. The feeling of all good citizens that such a hideous crime shall not be hideously punished by mob violence is due not in the least to sympathy for the criminal, but to a very lively sense of the train of dreadful consequences which follow the course taken by the mob in exacting inhuman vengeance for an inhuman wrong.

"In such cases, moreover, it is well to remember that the criminal not merely sins against humanity in inexplicable and unpardonable fashion, but sins particularly against his own race and does them a wrong far greater than any white man can possibly do them. Therefore in such cases the colored people throughout the land should in every possible way show their belief that they, more than all others in the community, are horrified at the commission of such a crime and are peculiarly concerned in taking every possible measure to prevent its recurrence and to bring the criminal to immediate justice. The slightest lack of vigor either in denunciation of the crime or in bringing the criminal to justice is itself unpardonable.

"Moreover, every effort should be made under the law to expedite the proceedings of justice in the case of such an awful crime. But it cannot be necessary in order to accomplish this to deprive any citizen of those fundamental rights to be heard in his own defense which are so dear to us all and which lie at the root of our liberty. It certainly ought to be possible by the proper administration of the laws to secure swift vengeance upon the criminal, and the best and immediate efforts of all legislators, judges and citizens should be addressed to securing such reforms in our local procedure as to leave no vestige of excuse for those misguided men who undertake to wreak vengeance through violent methods.

"Men who have been guilty of a crime like rape or murder should be visited with swift and certain punishment, and the just effort made by the courts to protect them in their rights should under no circumstances be perverted into permitting any mere technicality to avert or delay their punishment. The substantial rights of the prisoner to a fair trial must of course be guaranteed, as you have so justly insisted that they should be, but subject to this guarantee—the law must work swiftly and surely, and all the agents of the law should realize the wrong they do when they permit justice to be delayed or thwarted for technical or insufficient reasons. We must show that the law is adequate to deal with crime by freeing it from every vestige of technicality and delay.

"The nation, like the individual, cannot commit a crime with impunity. If we are guilty of lawlessness and brutal violence, whether our guilt consists in active participation therein or in mere connivance and encouragement, we shall assuredly suffer later on because of what we have done. The corner stone of this republic, as of all free governments, is respect for and obedience to the law. Where we permit the law to be defied or evaded, whether by rich man or poor man, by black man or white, we are by just so much weakening the bonds of our civilization and increasing the chances of its overthrow and of the substitution therefor of a system in which there shall be violent alternations of anarchy and tyranny."

PIUS X. IS CROWNED

Magnificent Rite In the Great St. Peter's.

ROMAN BELLS RANG OUT GLAD PEAL

The Pontiff on the Ancient Papal Throne Presented a Picture That No Pen Could Justly Describe.

ROME, Aug. 10.—The ceremony of the coronation of Pope Pius X. took place in the basilica of St. Peter's in the presence of the princes and high dignitaries of the church, diplomats and Roman nobles, and with all the solemnity and splendor associated with this, the most magnificent rite in the Roman Catholic church.

As Cardinal Macchi, the dean of the cardinal deacons, placed the triple crown on the head of the venerable pontiff the throng of 70,000 persons gathered within the cathedral burst into unrestrained acclamations, the choir intoned a hymn of triumph and the bells of Rome rang out a joyful peal.

It is fifty-seven years since the Romans and Europe assisted at such a function as that held in St. Peter's. The great basilica, popularly supposed never to have been quite full, was overflowing with humanity. The papal throne, a bewildering mixture of gold, red and silver, was erected in front of the high altar. As, contrary to custom on these ceremonious occasions, there were no galleries the basilica bore more of its normal aspect. On the altar, which was dressed in white, stood the famous silver gilt candlesticks and a magnificent crucifix. All the available standing space within the cathedral was divided into sections by wooden barriers, which to a certain extent kept the vast crowd in order.

Those who had received special invitations, including the high ecclesiastics who were not participating in the procession, the diplomats and the Roman aristocracy, had a reserved entrance through the sacristy of St. Peter's. Prince Massimo arrived accompanied by his daughter-in-law, Princess Beatrice, the daughter of Don Carlos, and they were given prominent seats. Duke Robert of Parma was the only other member of a royal family to attend. Among the aristocracy there was a great mixture of those Roman nobles who remain faithful to the papacy and those adhering to the Quirinal. Sir Thomas Esmonde, representing the Irish parliamentary party, was received by two knights of the Cap and Sword, one, F. McNutt, an American, and conducted to the diplomatic inclosure.

Inside the Vatican palace there was no less movement and bustle as the papal procession, composed of about 500 people, all of whom had gathered early in the apostolic palace, was formed. The pope seemed to be the only tranquil one among them all. He rose unusually early and took a few turns in the Vatican garden. Then he allowed himself to be dressed by the cardinals. He evinced no nervousness and even said jokingly to the master of ceremonies, who the other day suggested that he should use the plural form in speaking of himself, "We feel very well this morning, but we may be different on returning from our coronation."

Just before entering the sedia gestatoria he asked for his spectacles, and when the master of ceremonies discreetly hinted that his holiness would look better without them he said, "I have no desire to appear what I am not," and in fact he wore them during the entire ceremony.

The central figure in the long cortege was Pius X. borne in the sedia gestatoria. His heavy white robes and the red and gold miter were worn without an effort, making a vivid contrast to those memorable occasions on which Pope Leo wore them, for Leo seemed always unable to support their weight. Over the pontiff's head a canopy was held by eight men, while the historic ostrich feather fans with peacock tips gave a touch of barbaric splendor to western eyes.

Surrounding Pope Pius were the noble guard in new red uniforms and gleaming helmets and carrying drawn swords, while in front marched the cardinals, a gorgeous spot of color with many handsome faces among them; the cardinal bishops in their copes, the cardinal priests wearing chasubles and the cardinal deacons in their delmatics. Another figure which evoked murmurs of admiration and craning of necks was the chaplain in his crimson cope proudly bearing the cushion on which reposed the famous triple crown so soon to rest on the head of Pius. He was accompanied by the pontifical jeweler and by a special guard composed of Swiss and was followed by the choir of the Sistine chapel in white, which sang as it went along.

Before leaving the Vatican the pope went to the Sistine chapel to worship before the sacrament exposed therein and thence passed through the Sala Regia and the Constantine staircase into the portico of the basilica.

The people in the basilica had meantime become very impatient, and when the gleaming cross which preceded the cortege was seen it was greeted with great applause. On the appearance of the pontiff himself it seemed as though the people would seek to carry him in their arms, so great was their enthusiasm. Cries of "Pius, our pope, our father!" and "Long live Pius X.!" were raised notwithstanding the large placards posted all over the basilica saying "Acclamations Are Forbidden." Leaflets to the same effect were distributed among the crowd. The cries continued until the pontiff was compelled to rise and bless the multitude, and at the same time he made a sign for more reverential behavior. Silence was obtained when the choir announced its entrance with the resounding notes of the "Ecce Sacerdos Magnus," which was accompanied by the sweet notes of the silver trumpets.

A quaint ceremony was then carried out. The master of the ceremonies knelt three times before the pontiff, each time lighting a handful of hemp which surmounted a silver torch, and as the flame flashed and then flied out he chanted, "Pater sancte, sic transit gloria mundi" (Holy father, thus passeth away the world's glory"). The procession then proceeded, the pope's face meanwhile illumined by a smile. At the Chapel of the Sacrament there was another halt, and his holiness left the sedia gestatoria and prayed awhile at the altar. On re-entering the chair he was carried to the Chapel of St. Gregory, where he officiated at a mass, being assisted by Cardinals Machi, Di Pietro, Segna and Vannutelli. Then all the cardinals donned their silver copes and white miters, and the pope was borne to the throne amid renewed acclamations.

The scene presented on his mounting the throne formed a magnificent picture to which no pen could do justice. The central figure was the venerable pontiff seated on the throne. Overhead was the most magnificent dome in the world, up to which floated the harmony of the music.

From the throne Pius X., surrounded by his suit, walked to the high altar, standing over the crypt of St. Peter, into which meanwhile Cardinal Macchi descended to pray.

The appearance of the pope in that elevated position called forth another burst of enthusiasm. The pope then blessed the altar and after saying the "indulgentian," the maniple, a symbol of the cord with which Christ was bound on his capture, was placed with great ceremony upon the pope's arm.

Returning from the crypt Cardinal Macchi placed upon the shoulders of the pope the pontifical pallium and attached it with three golden jeweled pins, saying:

"Receive this sacred pallium as a symbol of the fullness of the pontifical office in honor of Almighty God, the most glorious Virgin Mary, his mother, the blessed apostles St. Peter and St. Paul and the Holy Roman Catholic church."

Pope Pius was quite overcome and had scarcely strength left to impart the apostolic benediction. Cardinals Macchi and Segna granted a plenary indulgence to all present, and the procession then reformed and left the basilica.

Cardinal Gibbons after participating in the coronation ceremonies started for the villa of the American college at Castel Gandolfo, where he will spend a few days resting.

FRENCH PREMIER'S ESCAPE.

Anarchist Shoots Twice at Combes Without Result.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 10.—As Premier Combes was returning to the prefecture from a banquet given by the Friendly Society of Teachers, at which M. Pelletan, minister of marine, and Henri Brisson, deputy for Marseilles, and a number of senators and deputies were present, two pistol shots were fired at the carriage in which he was riding. The premier was untouched, and none of those accompanying him was hurt.

The attempt upon the life of the president of the ministry caused great excitement, and the crowd pointed out to the police as the author of the attempt a man dressed in fisherman's clothes. His companion drew a knife, but the police quickly disarmed him. The police had much difficulty in protecting the man who had fired the shots from the crowd.

He struggled desperately, but was soon overcome, handcuffed and taken to the prefecture, where M. Combes had already arrived. The first interrogation of the prisoner took place in the presence of the premier. The man said his name was Sanrairo Picolo. He spoke very bad French with a strong Italian accent.

He denied that he had fired the shots, but when searched a revolver was found with two chambers which had been freshly fired. It is believed that Picolo and his companion, who had effected his escape during the confusion, are both dangerous anarchists of Italy, the presence of a number of whom in Marseilles the police are aware.

TROLLEY STRIKE ENDS.

Waterbury Car Men Return to Work.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 10.—The strike of trolley men which began thirty weeks ago has been settled, the Connecticut Railway and Lighting company agreeing to take back part of the strikers at once at the old wages, to give employment to the others as soon as practicable and to treat with a committee from the men regarding future grievances.

The announcement of the settlement led to a general public demonstration of joy throughout the city, and the excitement which prevailed was almost equal to that which attended the riot early in the strike which led to the calling out of the state militia.

YACHT MOTOR EXPLODES.

Causing Death of Four Prominent Young Men of Portland, Me.

ROCKLAND, Me., Aug. 10.—Four of the most prominent young men of this city have lost their lives in consequence of an explosion on their naphtha launch off Ash point, eight miles from here. Two of the party were saved. The dead are:

Henry K. Crocker, twenty-three, son of Superintendent Jonathan W. Crocker and a graduate of the University of Maine.

Frank Veazie, twenty-one, a student of the University of Maine and an all round athlete.

Raymond G. Hall, nineteen, son of Captain Hudson Hall.

Charles W. Holmes, twenty-three, son of Captain John H. Holmes.

Oliver F. Hills of this city and Thomas Hodges of Bridgeton, a student at the University of Maine, the other members of the party, managed to reach shore.

The party started in the naphtha launch on a trip to Pleasant beach. When off Ash point the launch became entangled in a fish weir. An attempt was made to turn back when suddenly there was a flash, and the launch was enveloped in flames. The six occupants of the craft leaped overboard. They were within 1,000 feet of the shore, but Holmes and Crocker were unable to swim. The efforts of the others were directed toward saving these two, and Crocker nearly drowned Hills by grasping him about the shoulders. Both men sank, but Hills finally succeeded in freeing himself.

Hodges swam thirty yards to a boat and, cutting it loose, found that he had no oars. By this time Veazie and Hall had half filled the launch with water in an attempt to stifle the flames, but the fire spread and drove them from their only refuge. Veazie started to swim toward the smaller boat, and Hodges threw the rudder toward him, but the man suddenly threw up his hands and sank. Crocker disappeared at the side of the burning launch, which soon afterward sank stern first with Hall, who was clinging to the stern, and Hills succeeded in swimming to the small boat in which Hodges had found a refuge.

Fishermen later put out and rescued the two men.

At dawn the bodies of Hall, Veazie and Holmes were found at the fish weir. That of Crocker was washed ashore at Crescent beach, two miles from here.

It was discovered that the top of the gasoline tank, which furnished fuel for the launch, had been left open. Several gallons of the fluid apparently had dropped into the body of the launch. A lighted lantern at the stern of the boat was in close proximity to the tank and probably caused the explosion.

ENGINEER FATALLY HURT.

Auto Jumped Over Cliff Into Water and Exploded.

EASTPORT, Me., Aug. 10.—Herbert Bromley, chief engineer of a canning factory here, was probably fatally injured in an automobile accident. Mr. Bromley, with his three-year-old son, had ridden some distance when the machine suddenly stopped near a high cliff.

In starting again the automobile acted badly and, getting beyond Mr. Bromley's control, bounded over the cliff into the water, thirty feet below. As soon as the automobile touched the water the machine exploded.

Mr. Bromley was rescued unconscious, with both legs and hips broken. The boy was also unconscious, and his face was badly cut.

Sousa Comes Home.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The White Star line steamer Cedric has arrived in port with many notable people. She brought 569 cabin and 418 steerage passengers. John Philip Sousa was on board with the greater part of his band. Sousa gave a concert on board Aug. 7, which was presided over by Hon. J. H. Outhwaite. The Cedric fell in with some wreckage a short distance east of Fire island, probably the same wreckage about which there has been so much conjecture recently. Among the passengers on board were Foxhall P. Keene, Mrs. Keene, Hon. Charles Russell, who will be a guest of Sir Thomas Lipton in the cup races; Simeon Ford and the Marquis of Graham, who is going to Canada.

Seven Houses Destroyed.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Fire has destroyed seven houses and was only checked by the next one being torn down, as there was no water supply. In order to make a "Y" connection with a new main the city water was shut off at 10 o'clock Saturday night and could not be turned on again for twelve hours. At half past 1 fire broke out in a frame house on Hulett street, and when the firemen arrived they could get no pressure whatever.

Watchman Killed by Thieves.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—In a battle with a gang of thieves James O'Brien, an Illinois Central watchman, was shot and killed and John McGrath, his companion, was probably fatally injured. While making the rounds of the railroad yards the watchman came upon six men in the act of stealing brass car fixtures. A fight followed, during which the two watchmen were shot. The thieves escaped.

William E. Dodge Dead.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 10.—William E. Dodge, the New York millionaire and philanthropist, is dead at Stanwood, his summer home. He was a member of the New York metal house of Phelps, Dodge & Co. and was seventy-one years of age. He was one of the founders of the Union League club and well known as foremost in charitable work.

MACEDONIAN RISING.

Russian Consul Murdered by Turkish Policeman.

BORIS SARAFOFF AGAIN AT THE HEAD

Members of Committee Announce That Christians, Tired of Turkish Outrages, Will Get Needed Reforms or Be Exterminated.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 10.—"Nothing can end the present revolution in Macedonia until our national aspirations are satisfied or those fighting to attain them are exterminated." This was the concluding sentence of a statement made by the Macedonian committee at the revolutionary headquarters here.

M. Rostkovski, the Russian consul at Monastir, it turns out, was murdered at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by a zaptie (a member of the Turkish police) who was on duty outside the consulate. The assassin was arrested. Said Pasha, the grand vizier, and Tewfik Pasha, minister of foreign affairs, called on the Russian ambassador, M. Zinovieff, and expressed the government's deep regret over the occurrence.

Fresh dispatches from Hilmi Pasha, inspector general of the reform movement, announce that insurgents in large numbers in the district of Clisuri, vilayet of Monastir, attacked the village of Djivarek, near Kastoria, and massacred the inhabitants, including women and children, and then furiously attacked neighboring villages, taking many captives, some of whom were burned alive.

Some Greek peasants were also killed in one of the Kazas of the vilayet of Monastir, and in the vilayet of Okhrida insurgents likewise attacked some Mussulman villages. They everywhere displayed rage and ferocity, and the Mussulman inhabitants were greatly dismayed. The government is taking every measure possible to suppress the rising. Eight more battalions have been ordered to the vilayet of Monastir. M. Maurocordato, the Greek minister, has made representations to the porte in behalf of the Greek subjects.

Boris Sarafoff, the head and front of the movement, is with the insurgents in Macedonia. His representatives here believe that the desired results will be reaped through the present movement.

"The object of the rising," said the Macedonian committeeman, "is to win reforms which will assure to the Christian population of Macedonia security for their lives and property and the right to participate in the administration of the country.

"The present revolutionary organization came into existence nine years ago, when the persecution of the Bulgarian population of Macedonia became flagrant. Today all Macedonia is embraced in the movement, and, though it was not intended to strike so soon because the preparations for the uprising were not sufficiently completed, the recent outrages of the Turks, the massacre of the innocent, the filling of the prisons with the pacific rural population, the pillaging of entire villages and the extorting of heavy fines from others under various pretexts so exasperated all that the insurrection was decided upon no matter what might be the outcome.

"The fighting area is widening and will gradually embrace every vilayet in Macedonia until the autonomy of the country has been gained by force of arms or by the intervention of those great powers which desire peace. Not until then will we lay down our arms."

The Macedonian revolutionary committee is now drawing up and will shortly circulate a declaration addressed to the powers explaining Macedonian grievances and the objects of the revolution.

The Bulgarian ministry is closely watching the situation in Macedonia and has decided to increase the frontier forces. Orders have been telegraphed to the frontier authorities to redouble their vigilance and prevent all unauthorized individuals as well as insurgent bands from crossing the Turkish frontier.

The foreign minister has informed the representatives of the powers that the government will use its utmost endeavor to quell all unrest in Bulgaria occasioned by the events in Macedonia, but the powers must do their part and take the necessary steps to induce the porte to stop the persecution of the innocent and the employment of Bashibazouks in suppressing the revolution. The massacres likely to follow the letting loose of the Bashibazouks, added the minister, are likely to precipitate the movement in Bulgaria in favor of the revolution and thus force the hand of the government.

A party of Bulgarians near Resna murdered the guard which was escorting the mails to Monastir and captured a large sum of money.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

"It is but a step from the sublime to the ridiculous, and there are a good many banana peals lying around the sublime."

"An untruthful advertisement makes a skeptical purchaser, if it makes a purchaser at all. The skeptical purchaser always keeps his hand tightly on his pocketbook."

In her speech Saturday night, "Mother" Jones made several references to the Saviour that appealed to many in her audience as little short of blasphemous. She cannot afford to offend the people's sense of what is reverent.

Plainfield takes pride in the achievements on the links of Frank O. Reinhart, her golf champion. Almost every week comes the news of "another record gone by the board" before the attacks of the young Princeton player. Saturday, his score was probably the best ever turned in by an amateur. His career is just beginning and his future conquests will be watched with keen interest.

There seems to be general dissatisfaction in baseball circles in regard to the work of several of the men who umpire local games. The umpiring by Mr. Snyder at High Bridge Saturday is said by the supporters of Hope to have been particularly poor. And Mr. Snyder is not by any means the only one whose decisions give offense. The team managements should be extremely careful in their choice of men for the difficult position, but the players should do all in their power to assist the umpires once chosen. If this rule were adhered to there would be much less "kicking."

The uselessness of the tirades of fanatics was never more completely demonstrated than in the case of "Mother" Jones. Throughout her trip, the agitator has been greeted with nothing more flattering than ridicule by all the newspapers that have seen fit to comment upon her utterings and methods. People listen to her for the same reason that they go to look at the tatooed man in the circus, or attend one of "Carrie" Nation's "lectures."

The way to attack such problems as child labor is coolly and calmly. The radical reformer never accomplishes so much as the man who tries to make the best of existing circumstances and to build upon them. To lose one's head and rave insanely about everyone who does not instantly fall in with one's views is to defeat the purpose striven for. Mother Jones's attacks on the President and others in power react upon herself and those she claims to be aiding.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 8, '03.

Editor, Daily Press:

I desire to state, through your columns, that there is absolutely no truth in the statement made in an article published in a paper, not The Daily Press, to the effect that Miss Mabel Ayers and myself are engaged to be married. Regardless of whatever authority or foundation there may have been for making such a statement, I am well able to prove that I have never even kept company with the young lady mentioned. I repeat I am not engaged to her.

Yours truly,

DEGREES OF TEMPERANCE.

Funny Answers to the Question: "Do You Use Intoxicating Beverages."

Among the regular questions to be answered by applicants for admission to the examinations in the city of New York is the following, says A. M. Jones, in McClure's: "Do you use intoxicating beverages, and if so, to what extent?" It was a Yankee who replied: "No, but I take a drink," and it was a Swede who carefully estimated the extent of his indulgence at "one glass of beer in ten days." The birthplace of a man who wrote that he did use intoxicating beverages "but not as an occupation" is not recorded, but the nationality of the mournful applicant who also drank, but "not to success," may well be a matter of doubt. One applicant of simple vocabulary was content to respond: "Yes—mild," while another added the assurance that he drank in a "gentlemanly way." Still another sought to remove all prejudice from the minds of the examiners by stating that he never used any "beverages" at all, and one of his companions admitted using them, though "not effectively."

The commonest answer to the question consists either of the single word "moderately" or of some equivalent phrase, which, on the whole, seems to the examiners the most suitable response. Perhaps the honest soul who reported himself "almost temperate" was a fair representative. Sometimes by a slip the applicant will write the reverse of what he obviously intended, as when recently one said "immoderation," and another replied: "Yes, to no extent."

MAN WHO USED A PURSE.

It Was Too Much for His Fiancee and She Broke the Engagement.

Rumor has it that a belle of this city broke her engagement with a certain Washington club man, "just because he carried his money in a purse," reports the Washington Star.

"I can't abide," she is quoted as saying, "a man who carries a purse at all; and as for one who keeps his change in it; he is simply beyond hope, and it's sure to follow that the man with the little purse will be as little and close about everything else. You may not notice it during the engagement, but it will come later.

"Fancy asking a man for money, and have him extract a miserable little purse, and begin digging down into it, half the time the little piece of leather not being capable of holding the amount that one would ordinarily pay for a simple frock."

And the matron to whom the young belle confided the cause of the broken engagement was heard to remark afterward that she "would not be surprised if there was not considerable truth in what she had heard, and, while it might not warrant most girls breaking an engagement, still, it was a thing for them to ponder over."

KEROSENE AND MOLASSES.

Both Are Carried in the Same Tanks by Ships in West Indian Trade.

Commerce—dull, prosaic, matter-of-fact commerce—plays queer pranks. One of the queerest is played in the kerosene trade. Almost all the kerosene oil that is shipped from America now goes out in great oil tank steamships and barges—vessels that are practically nothing but mighty floating kerosene cans. The oil is pumped into them, and then their iron hatch covers are screwed down, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Now, when these tank vessels carry kerosene to the West Indies, they cannot afford to return empty, for the voyage home is just as expensive to the owners as the voyage down. So, after the oil has been pumped out of them, they are sealed again and superheated steam is forced into them until they are perfectly clean. Then the hatches are reopened and molasses is pumped in.

To put molasses into tanks that have been used for kerosene would surely be the last thing that most persons would think of. But commerce does it.

Saved by Quarantine.

A few years ago it would have seemed absurd to promise that the great commercial ports of the world could be made absolutely free from danger of invasion by such epidemic scourges as cholera and plague, but a careful investigation of the elements of danger and a rigid enforcement of quarantine regulations have made all our cities exempt from infection.

Smallpox Disfigurement.

In a recent article in a widely-read magazine on "Niels Finson and His Heating Rays" it is said: "All the world might now have smallpox without fear of disfigurements." The 'red light treatment' was experimented with long before and much since that publication, and the results show the quoted statement to be unwarranted.

Venom of Snakes.

The venom of snakes contains only intermediary bodies which alone would not be virulently poisonous, but the normal blood serum of susceptible animals contains the substances which, by conjoint action with the intermediary bodies of the venom, cause the deadly poisoning.

Tragedies in Arctic Seas.

During the nineteenth century 200 ships, numberless lives and over $30,000,000 were lost in futile efforts to reach the north pole.

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

WOMEN SHOPPERS.

And Some of the Pleasant Little Tricks Peculiar to Them.

In a certain successful play there is a jury scene, and one of the jurors gives vent to much cynicism about women.

"Why, what do you know on the subject?" sneers a fellow juror.

"Gentlemen, I know just how fiendish a woman can be," reiterates the man. "I am a clerk in a dry goods store!"

There is a good deal of cause for his bitterness. Of all the "aggravating" women, shoppers are the worst. Why on earth will a woman persist in looking one way while she walks another? This in a crowded store, where every inch of room is precious. Result, collision, hats knocked at angles of forty-five degrees, trains ripped and trodden on.

DOESN'T LOOK WHERE SHE GOES

Why will women bring small children with them to department stores and drag them around remorselessly while the poor mites lose their balance and bang first into this one and then into that one, not to speak of being walked over?

Why is it that at the hat counter when you have removed your hat and veil and made yourself comfortable a woman comes around immediately and pokes under your hat? There are plenty of other straw shapes around, but she simply must see the particular one which your hat conceals.

Why is it that women ask for samples and then immediately proceed to lose them outside the store?

Why is it that a woman will change her mind after a check is made out and oblige the clerk to write it all over again just because she has decided to take the parcel with her instead of sending it? Why couldn't she make up her mind in the first place? Why is it that women will lose their shopping lists and pocketbooks under the bales of goods on the counter and then set the whole department to searching for them?

Why is it that the average woman shopper seems to dispense with her thinking apparatus the minute she enters a store?

Goodness only knows!

Sensible Women.

Here is what a gentleman said in a speech recently, and the worst of it is that it is true: "The responsibility of redeeming this world rests with sensible women, and it will take a long time because there are so few." It is not altogether woman's fault, however.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1902, by The Robert Company.

Just as tattoo was sounding on the infantry bugle, Esther Dade sat reading fairy stories at the children's bedside in the quarters of Sergeant Foster, of her father's company. There had been Thanksgiving dinner with Mrs. Ray, an Amazonian feast since all their lords were still away on service and Sandy Ray and Billy, Jr., were perhaps too young to count. Dinner was all over by eight o'clock, and, despite some merry games, the youngsters' eyes were showing symptoms of the sandman's coming, when that privileged character, Hogan, Ray's long-tried trooper now turned major domo, appeared at the doorway of the little army parlor. He had been bearer of a lot of goodies to the children among the quarters of the married soldiers, and now, would Mrs. Dade please speak with Mrs. Foster, who had come over with him, and Mrs. Dade departed for the kitchen forthwith. Presently she returned. "I'm going back awhile with Mrs. Foster," said she. "She's sitting up to-night with poor Mrs. Wing, who—" But there was no need of explanation. They all knew. They had laid so recently their wreaths of evergreen on the grave of the gallant soldier who fell, fighting at the Elk, and now another helpless little soul had come to bear the buried name, and all that were left for mother and babe was woman's boundless charity. It was Thanksgiving night, and while the wail of the bereaved and stricken went up from more than one of these humble tenements below the eastward bluff, there were scores of glad and grateful hearts that lifted praise and thanksgiving to the throne on high, even though they knew not at the moment that they, too, might, even then, be robbed of all that stood between them and desolation. Once it happened in the story of our hard-fighting, hard used little army that a bevy of fair young wives, nearly half a score in number in all the bravery of their summer toilets, sat in the shadow of the flag, all smiles and gladness and applause, joining in the garrison festivities on the nation's natal day, never dreaming of the awful news that should fell them ere the coming of another sun; that one and all they had been widowed more than a week; that the men they loved, whose names they bore, lay hacked and mutilated beyond recognition within sight of those very hills where now the men from Frayne were facing the same old foe. In the midst of army life we are, indeed, in death, and the thanksgiving of loving ones about the fireside for mercies thus far shown, is mingled ever with the dread of what the morrow may unfold.

"Let me go too, mamma," was Esther's prompt appeal, as she heard her mother's words. "I can put the children to bed while you and Mrs. Foster are over there."

And so with Hogan, lantern bearing, mother and daughter had followed the sergeant's wife across the broad, snow-covered parade; had passed without comment, though each was thinking of the new inmate, the brightly-lighted hospital building on the edge of the plateau, and descended the winding pathway to the humble quarters of the married soldiers, nestling in the sheltered flats between the garrison proper and the bold bluffs that again close bordered the rushing stream. And here at Sergt. Foster's doorway Esther parted from the elders, and was welcomed by shrieks of joy from three sturdy little cherubs—the sergeant's olive branches, and here, as the last notes of tattoo went echoing away under the vast and spangled sky, one by one her charges closed their drooping lids and dropped to sleep and left their gentle friend and reader to her own reflections.

There was a soldier dance that night in one of the vacant messrooms. Flint's two companies were making the best of their isolation, and found, as is not utterly uncommon, quite a few maids and matrons among the households of the absent soldiery quite willing to be consoled and comforted. There were bright lights, therefore, further along the edge of the steep, beyond those of the hospital, and the squeak of fiddle and drone of 'cello, mingled with the plaintive piping of the flute, were heard at intervals through the silence of the wintry night. No tramp of sentry broke the hush about the little rift between the heights—the major holding that none was necessary where there were so many dogs—most of the soldiers' families had gone to the dance; all of the younger children were asleep; even the dogs were still, and so, when at ten o'clock Esther tiptoed from the children's bedside and stood under the starlight, the murmur of the Platte was the only sound that reached her ears until away over at the southwest gate the night guards began the long-drawn heralding of the hour. "Ten o'clock and all's well" it went from post to post along the west and northward front, but when Number Six, at the quartermaster's storehouse near the southeast corner should have taken up the cry where it was dropped by Number Five, afar over near the flagstaff, there was unaccountable silence. Six did not utter a sound.

Looking up from the level of "Sudstown," as it had earlier been named, Esther could see the black hulk of the storehouse close to the edge of the plateau. Between its westward gable end and the porch of the hospital lay some 50 yards of open space, and through this gap now gleamed a spangled section of the western heavens. Along the bluff, just under the crest, ran a pathway that circled the southeastward corner and led away to the trader's store, south of the post. Tradition had it that the track was worn by night raiders, bearing contraband fluids from store to barracks in the days before such traffic was killed by that commonsense promoter of temperance—soberness and chastity—the post exchange. Along that bluff line, from the storehouse toward the hospital, invisible, doubtless, from either building or from the bluff itself, but thrown in sharp relief against that rectangular inlet of starry sky, two black figures, crouching and bearing some long, flat object between them, swift and noiseless were speeding toward the hospital. The next instant they were lost in the black background of that building. Then, as suddenly and a moment later, one of them reappeared, just for a moment, against the brightly lighted window—the southernmost window on the eastward side—the window of the room that had been Beverly Field's—the window of the room now given over to Eagle Wing, the Sioux—the captive for whose safe keeping a special sentry within the building, and this strangely silent Number Six without, were jointly responsible. Then that silhouetted figure was blotted from her sight in general darkness, for the lights within as suddenly went out.

And at that very moment a sound smote upon the ear, unaccountable at that hour and at that side of the garrison—hoofbeats swiftly coming down in the hollow from the eastward bluff—hoofbeats and low, excited voices. Foster's little house was southernmost of the settlement. The ground was open between it and the heights, and despite the low, cautious tones, Esther heard the foremost rider's muttered angering words. "Dam fool! Crazy! Heap Crazy! Too much hurry. Ought t' let him call off first!" Then an answer in gutteral Sioux.

And then in an instant it dawned upon the girl that here was new crime, new bloodshed, perhaps, and a plot to free a villainous captive. Her first thought was to scream for aid, but what aid could she summon? Not a man was within hail except these, the merciless haters of her race and name. To scream would be to invite their ready knives to her heart—to the heart of any woman who might rush to her succor. The cry died in her throat, and, trembling with dread and excitement, she clung to the door post and crouched and listened, for stifled mutterings could be heard, a curse or two in vigorous English, a stamping of impatient ponies, a warning in a woman's tone. Then, thank God! Up at the storehouse corner a light came dancing into view. In honest soldier tones boomed out the query "What's the matter, Six?" and then, followed by a scurry of hoofs, a mad lashing of quirts and scramble and rush of frightened steeds, a cursing of furious tongues, her own brave young voice rang out on the night. "This way, sergeant! Help—Quick!"

Black forms of mounts and riders sped desperately away, and then with all the wiry, sinewy strength of her lithe and slender form, Esther hurled herself upon another slender figure, speeding after those, afoot. Desperately she clung to it in spite of savage blows and strainings. And so they found her, as forth they came—a rush of shrieking, startled, candle-bearing women—of bewildered and unconsciously blasphemous men of the guard—her arms locked firmly about a girl in semi-savage garb. The villain of the drama had been whisked away, leaving the woman who sought to save him to the mercy of the foe.

Wind and Vegetation.

The influence of the wind on vegetation has been the subject of a report by Prof. J. Fruh to Swiss geographers. The effect is a powerful one, especially on trees, and even the presence or absence of forests may be determined by the character of the prevailing wind or the conditions that modify its action. The wind acts especially as a drying agent, in this way giving a special aspect to many plants. When the wind is almost always from the same quarter, the plants usually show greater development upon one side, trees are smaller on the windward edges of forests, and trunks and branches are permanently bent to leeward. The deformations are most marked near the sea or in flat regions. The cherry, the plum, the walnut, the black poplar, the ash and certain pines are very sensitive to the wind, but mountain pines and certain firs offer great powers of resistance, and these are recommended for reforesting windswept lands.—Science.

Fluorine Isolated at Last.

Fluorine, the most active element known, has been isolated by M. Moissan in a state of absolute purity, and when free from moisture it is found to lose entirely its extraordinary power of attacking glass. Pure fluorine, therefore, may be sealed in a glass tube. In collaboration with Prof. Dewar, the tube of gas was immersed in liquid hydrogen, when the liquefaction and solidification of the fluorine were observed, and the fusing point was found to be at 233 degrees C. below zero. As most substances are known to become inert at such cold, the question has arisen whether all chemical action ceases near absolute zero. To test this, the tube of fluorine was broken in the liquid hydrogen, and the result was a violent explosion, with much flame and a shattering of the apparatus employed. It has been thus proven that some chemical action is possible at about minus 252 degrees C., or only 20 degrees above the absolute zero.

Not Up to Her Ideal.

An English lord who visited America was at a dinner given in his honor. A little daughter of his host, who was too well-bred to stare, but who eyed him covertly as the occasion presented itself, finally ventured to remark: :

"And you are really and truly an English lord?"

"Yes," he answered, pleasantly, "really and truly."

"I have often thought that I would like to see an English lord," she went on, "and—now—"

"And now you are satisfied at last," he put in, laughingly.

"No, no," replied the truthful little girl, "I'm not satisfied. I'm a good deal disappointed."—Stray Stories.

Knew Him Too Well.

A well-known lawyer made a powerful plea recently in a breach-of-promise case. His little son went home and said:

"Mama, I heard papa make a speech to-day. And what do you think—papa almost cried, and he made some of the jurymen cry, too."

"And what did you do, my son?" asked the lawyer's wife.

"O, he can't fool me," replied the heir and pride of the family.—Stray Stories.

To Clean Aluminum.

To clean articles made of aluminum wash thoroughly in warm soap and water; rinse well and dry at once in a clean cloth and polish with chamois skin. If very dirty, make a paste with some whiting and a little water or methylated spirit, apply this thickly, leave it on a few minutes, and then rub it off, polishing well with a clean leather. Never use soda, as it blackens and discolors this metal.—Brooklyn Eagle.

It Made a Difference.

Browne—He told me the same thing to-day when I met him, but he was quite cheerful.

"Resigned to it, I suppose."

Not to Be Encouraged.

A scientist says that "if the earth was flattened the sea would be two miles deep all over the world." Upon reading this an Oklahoma editor printed the following:

If any man is caught flattening out the earth, shoot him on the spot. There's a whole lot of us in Oklahoma who can't swim.—Kansas City Journal.

Not Very Consoling.

Giles—I heard this morning that Knox said I was a perfect idiot.

Mrs. Giles—Well, don't you care what he says.

"Why not?"

"Because he's given to exaggerating. I'm sure no one believes you are perfect."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Luck of a Maine Woman.

About five years ago a Maine woman, taking a consumptive husband to the mountains of Arizona, was shown an abandoned claim by her Indian servant. She took it, with great difficulty secured $500 to work it and before the year was out sold it for $50,000 and a life interest.—Chicago Post.

BEST OF THEM BLUNDERED.

Ludicrous Mistakes Made by Some of the World's Most Celebrated Artists.

In Vandyke's celebrated picture of Charles I. in armor both of the gauntlets are for the right hand. Wilkie painted a horse without a bit foaming at the mouth. Angelo, in his great picture, "The Last Judgment," has introduced Charon's bark. Brenghell, the Dutch painter, in a picture of "The Wise Men of the East" making their offering to the Infant Jesus represents one of them dressed in a large white surplice, booted and spurred, offering the model of a Dutch 74-gun ship. Sir Joshua Reynolds gave one of his portraits two hats.

There are numerous similar errors, all most ludicrous, but I cannot at the moment get hold of a list of them, says a writer in the New York Press. Some absurdities are in Westminster hall. Sir Cloudesley Shovel is dressed in a Roman cuirass and sandals, but on his head is a full-bottomed wig of the eighteenth century. The duke of Buckingham is arrayed in the costume of a Roman emperor, while his duchess is in the court dress of the George III. period. Tintoret in a picture which represents "The Israelites Gathering Manna in the Wilderness" has armed the men with guns. Paulo Mazzochi in his symbolical painting of "The Four Elements" represents the sea by fishes, the earth by moles, fire by a salamander and air by a camel. Evidently he mistook a camel for a chameleon, which traditionally lives on air.

PICKED UP SPILLED OYSTERS.

Fish-Monger's Boy Was Unabashed and Deliberate in Righting Things.

Ten feet in advance of the young man who was hurrying to a dinner engagement walked a fish-monger's boy precariously balancing on his shoulder a large shallow tray, covered by a towel, relates the New York Evening Post. The puzzle that he could keep from dropping it did not long continue, for presently he did drop it with a crash. It then became apparent that the precious cargo was composed of blue points on the half shell. Oysters and shells parted company, and the cracked ice on which they had once daintily reposed was mixed with them in a miscellaneous heap on the sidewalk. Was the boy overcome with shame or fear? No. That is not the way of the resourceful New York delivery boy. He stooped down in a deliberate manner, arranged his tray, and proceeded to gather up the bits of ice, arranging them in an even layer. Then he arranged the shells at regular intervals on this bed, the oysters all the while lying on the flagstones. Last he picked up each oyster with his fingers, and fitted it, right end foremost, into a shell of suitable size. Spreading the napkin over all he went whistling on his errand.

CASE OF COSTLY COURTESY.

One Instance Recorded in London Where It Did Not Pay to Be Polite.

The following pathetic story was told in a London police court recently:

A man was sitting in a comfortably full car, when a woman entered and broke the laws by hanging in pathetic desperation to the end of a strap. Gallantry supervened, the man rose from his seat and relieved the woman from the necessity of breaking the law, but by doing so he broke it himself. Then, says Washington Times, the policeman entered and all persons standing were ejected, and the man was forced to walk home.

On the way any number of crowded cars passed him, which refused to take on any more persons, and he went on cursing the position that medieval chivalry gave women. But his injuries were not over yet. He received a summons and was hauled before a magistrate in a police court, together with other offenders who had stood in cars. The conductor explained the situation and told how it was only politeness that made the prisoner break the law, but it was all of no avail to him. The magistrate sentenced him to pay a fine of three shillings and two shillings for costs.

GULLS FOLLOW VESSELS.

Sea Birds of Puget Sound Afford Travelers an Interesting Study.

To the traveler on Puget sound there is nothing that so holds the interest on the day's trip from Seattle to Victoria, on Vancouver island, as do the seagulls. These birds distinctly are the feature of the trip, greater in many respects than Mount Rainier or Mount Tacoma, as it is well known to the first settlers, and which rises for thousands of feet toward the southeast; greater than the Olympian mountain range on the land between the sound and the Pacific, and which rises cold and drear to no mean proportions.

The seagulls of Puget sound are an institution, and as an institution are protected by the government of the state of Washington and of British Columbia. To kill a seagull is a crime and punishment is swift and sure to anyone who is caught committing such a deed.

Few Premature Burials.

Speaking of cremation, the London Lancet expresses the opinion that the chances of a living body thought to be dead being reduced to ashes are too infinitely remote to merit attention. In the vast majority of instances there is no real foundation for the stories of premature burial or intended burial.

CHRISTIANS BECOMING LAX?

William Allen Discusses the Question at Presbyterian Church.

The special musical service at the First Presybterian Church last evening was attended by an exceedingly large congregation. The special preacher of the evening was William Allen, Jr., of Pennington, N. J., who spoke on the subject "A Warning Against Drifting." He taxed people for becoming lax in their Christianity. During the service four special selections were rendered by the original quartette composed of Sydney R. Titsworth, E. Maxwell Honeyman, R. Wilson Derby and Elmer D. Cutting.

Death at the Home.

Pseudo-Bridegroom.

Griffith Jenkins, of Hill & Shupp's store, who left yesterday morning for his home in Wilkesbarre where he will spend a two weeks' vacation, was the victim of practical jokers when he boarded his train. A party of eight of his young men friends assembled at the depot and showered him with rice. A large package was handed him by one of the party and in it was nearly a quart of rice, placed in such a manner that, when opened, the rice fell in every direction.

Up the Hudson.

History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip today words would not express his delight, for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with Steamer St. Johns a popular-priced excursion up the Hudson on August 13, 1903. Rate to be $1 and train will leave Plainfield at 8:46 a. m. Fare for children half of above rate. Steamer St. Johns is one of the famous Sandy Hook Fleet and is the best appointed and fastest excursion boat in the harbor. 8 7 td

AMUSEMENTS.

"What are the qualifications of a chorus girl?" was the question propounded to Julian Mitchell, stage director of "The Wizard of Oz" by a New York interviewer one night at the Majestic Theatre last week. Mr. Mitchell, who is undoubtedly the cleverest man in his line in the business, gave the following succint reply: "First, an attractive appearance; second, intelligence; third, dancing ability; and fourth, a good voice. That's about the order in which I should rate the requirements. The ideal chorus girl should weigh about a hundred and twenty-five pounds, be about five feet two or three inches in height and posess a good figure. It is not all essential that a girl should be able to read music."

Fresh Air Home Services.

Services were held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday. Rev. D. M. Torrey and Rev. G. M. Mrs. Henry Carter, 705 Central St., Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. Canning Strawberries.

Wiesbaden Process.—For this two lots of berries are required—one of all large, sound, dead ripe berries and the other of perfectly sweet and fresh, but not necessarily large berries. In looking them over put aside the fine ones, but do not hull until ready to use. To every pound of the smaller berries allow a pound of sugar and mix in layers in a stone crock. Cover and allow them to stand for several hours or over night, until they form their own juice. Drain off the syrup and boil down to two-thirds of the original quantity. Have well sterilized cans with fresh rubbers in readiness; fill with the nice whole berries which have been hulled and set on a thick, wet, hot cloth in a dripping pan on back of the range to keep warm while being filled with the scalding syrup. Pour the syrup over them quickly and seal air tight. The Germans frequently use half honey in place of all sugar in this process. In this case cover the berries with the sugar, allowing only a half pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. After standing and draining add a quarter of a pound of honey for each pound of fruit and boil down to two-thirds of the original quantity. In using honey the syrup must be carefully skimmed before filling the jars. —N. Y. Herald.

Get a Perspective on Pain.

We are so constituted that what is occurring at the moment interests us often out of all proportion to its importance. For example, we are thrown off our balance by the merest trifles, perhaps, which occur to-day, but which in a week's time may have no significance whatever. Obstacles which seem like mountains when we meet them, dwindle away to mole hills when we get away from them. Even what seems tragedy at the moment, in the future may be the most innocent comedy. Most of us are so constituted that we will make almost any sacrifice for present peace. It would seem easier to have an arm or a leg amputated two years hence than to lose a finger to-day. It is human nature to shrink from pain, and we purchase release at almost any cost. If we could only train the mind to look at to-day's trouble and annoyance from the standpoint of the future, it would be much easier to bear.—Washington Times.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

People travelling upon the trolley cars in this city have noticed that at different parts of the road uniformed men carrying large, official looking books jump on the cars, count the passengers, jot down a few figures and hobble off again. They are sposters from spotter's town.

Pearl buttons, the kind worn on men's white vests, are extremely scarce just at present and manufacturers find it difficult to secure enough to supply the demand. Recently the price has advanced from 20 to 40 per cent. on account of the shell from which the button is made. The shell is imported and foreign dealers have been unable to meet the growing demands.

"To run a newspaper," says an Oklahoma editor, "All a fellow has to do is to be able to write poems, discuss the tariff and money questions, umpire a baseball game, report a wedding, saw wood, describe a fire so that the readers will shed their wraps, make a dollar do the work of ten, shine at a dance, measure calico, abuse the liquor habit, test whiskey, subscribe charity, go without meals, attack free silver, defend bimetallism, sneer at snobbery, wear diamonds, invent advertisements, overlook scandal, appraise babies, delight pumpkin raisers, minister to the afflicted, heal the disgruntled, fight to a finish, set type, mould opinions, sweep the office, speak at prayer meetings, stand in with everybody and everything."

Louis P. McGrath, one of the best "Mixologists" known to sporting circles, is head bartender at the Hotel Netherwood. Mr. McGrath has mixed drinks in club houses all over the United States, and is well known by all sporting men. He came to this city from the Ferncliff Hotel, Greenwood Lake, Orange county. At one time Mr. McGrath worked for George DeRevere, who was owner of the "Revere House" on Park avenue, this city.

At the same time Mr. DeRevere owned the largest hotel in Jersey City and it was at this place McGrath became famous in the sporting world. He introduced several new drinks which afterwards became popular, among them the "Lilac Flip" and the "Tod Sloane." Mr. McGrath will leave for Florida about the first of September, where he will take charge of a winter resort.

Competing Farmers.

The Trenton and New Brunswick Railroad Company, which operates a trolley line between those two cities, and which is endeavoring to extend its line to New York over a private right of way for the supposed purpose of furnishing a New York terminal for a big railroad, not as yet named, is trying to avoid difficulty in getting the necessary land between New Brunswick and Elizabeth. The farmers who own the land, it is said, are asking exorbitant prices for it. The company has hit upon the plan of surveying several routes and obtaining options on property along all of them, announcing where it can get the cheapest. This, it is said, has caused the farmers to cut prices on one another.—Elizabeth Evening Times.

ATTRACTIVE WEDDING IN THE FOURTH WARD

Marriage of Miss Sarah Blimm and Edward Clark Attended by Many Friends.

AT HOME OF THE BRIDE

GROOM IS SON OF THE COUNCILMAN AND IS IN BUSINESS IN NEWARK.

Couple Well Known Among a Large Circle of Friends—House Decorations Were Beautiful—Bride Charmingly Gowned.

In the presence of only relatives and near friends, Miss Sarah Isabelle Blimm, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Blimm, and Edward Osborne Clark, son of Councilman and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., of Jackson avenue, the borough, were married last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Somerset street. Rev. J. N. Morris, of Trinity Church, Newark, and a former pastor of the groom's father, officiated.

The ceremony was performed in a corner of the large double parlors, the bridal party standing in front of a bank of palms and ferns. The rooms were brilliantly lighted with many incandescent lamps and were made attractive through the use of palms, ferns and flowers. Southern smilax entwined about the balustrade in the hallway formed a pleasing part of the decorations. The prevailing colors in the parlors were green and white and in the dining room green and red.

The bride's gown was of white crepe de chine over taffeta and was trimmed with real lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her attendant, Miss Sadie Brown, of New York, was gowned in green French veiling over green and the trimming was embroidered chiffon. Her bouquet was pink roses. The best man was Albert Clark, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Harry Blimm, brother of the bride, and Carl L. Smith, of Philadelphia.

While the wedding march was being rendered on the piano by Mr. Westervelt, the bridal party entered the parlor from an adjoining room and took its position in front of the officiating clergyman. The ceremony was performed with a ring. Congratulations were then showered upon the young couple by the guests, after which supper was served. Later in the evening many of the younger set enjoyed an informal dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark left early in the evening on their honeymoon. Their coach was elaborately decorated with white ribbon, and a dinner bell played a merry part in the send-off, the bell being tied on the coach. A shower of rice fell on the couple as they left the house. To escape any further pranks Mr. and Mrs. Clark went to the Netherwood Station, where they boarded a train for an unknown destination. Upon their return they will take up housekeeping in South Seventh street, Roseville, where the groom has completely furnished a home.

The bride was the recipient of a handsome array of gifts, including silverware, cut-glass, furniture and two substantial checks, one from her father and another from the groom.

In a large circle of acquaintances the couple are popular. The bride is a member of the German Reformed Church, and the groom belongs to the Trinity Reformed Church. He holds a position as bookkeeper in the large hat manufactory of Wharton & Company, of Commerce street, Newark, of which firm his father is the junior member. COLORED MAN FOR CITY COUNCIL

Rumor That Colored People of Fourth Ward Will Nominate One of Their Number.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES

DR. ANDERSON NAMED, BUT DOES NOT LIVE WITHIN THE WARD.

Colored People Strong Numerically in the Ward—Theory That the Property Owners Among Them Should be Represented.

Political zephyrs are being wafted about town and some of them bear strange rumors. One of the latest is that an effort will be made at the next municipal election to have the colored population of the city represented in the Common Council. The ward thus to be represented will be the Fourth, for in that part of the city the majority of the colored people live.

Since Plainfield became a city there has never been a colored man in the Council. It is said that there are 5,000 colored people in the city and some of the leaders among them have been talking of placing a man on the ticket this fall. When seen Sunday one of the prominent colored men said that there is a larger percentage of colored property owners in this city than in any other town of its size in New Jersey and that, as taxpayers, they should have some voice in matters pertaining to the city government.

It was said that Dr. J. C. Anderson, of West Fourth street, was being talked of as a possible candidate. When asked about it last evening he said that such talk could mean nothing as he is not a resident of the Fourth ward. He lives just outside of the West Fourth street boundary line of the ward. When asked if he knew of any other person who had been mentioned as a possible nominee, he said that it was all new to him and he had not heard of any such move on the part of the colored people of Plainfield.

William Klein, a well known colored property owner, was seen Sunday at his home on West Third street and he said that while he had heard some rumors of such a move he did not know of any man being decided upon as a candidate for a nomination.

Should a good colored man be put up for office the colored people are probably strong enough, numerically, to carry the Fourth ward for their candidate.

FRIEND OF MARTINE.

William E. Dodge, the Dead Philanthropist, Was a Frequent Visitor at Cedar Brook.

William E. Dodge, the great philanthropist who died in New York last week, was a frequent visitor at Cedar Brook, the home of James E. Martine. The farm was the home of the dead man's father and uncle years ago. A small piece of iron was recently found by the present owner, Mr. Martine, which upon investigation proved to be an old stencil or branding iron lettered "D. L. D.," the initials of David Low Dodge.

Upon visit of Mr. Dodge to Cedar Brook farm recently, Mr. Martine told him of the finding of the piece of iron. He was greatly interested and said it must have belonged to his father 90 years ago. The iron was mounted on a black walnut board and is now prized as a family relic.

FUNERAL OF SUICIDE.

Peter Quick, of South Branch, Was Buried Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 11—The funeral of Peter J. Quick, aged 68, who committed suicide at his home near South Branch on Saturday morning, was held at the house yesterday. Rev. Isaac Sperling officiated. The deceased was one of the best known farmes in that section. He was a son of the late Jacob P. Quick and Mary Brokaw, and had accumulated a large fortune. He is survived by a widow and two sons, the latter of whom lived on a farm on either side of their father. The aged Quick owned both of the farms occupied by the sons and also the one on which he himself lived.

—There is something peculiarly tasty about the melons and fruit purchased from Neuman Brothers. The Rockyford melons are far superior to other brands and the stock of Delaware peaches carried by Neuman can not be beaten in this city. There is no place like Neuman's.

THE TROLLEY AT SOMERVILLE

THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS STRUGGLED WITH PROBLEM LAST NIGHT.

The Matter of Fares Between Somerville and Bound Brook Discussed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 11—At its meeting last night the Somerville Board of Commissioners struggled with the trolley question and the trolley war is now virtually at an end.

Charles A. Houston, chairman of the trolley committee, made a detailed report, in which he said he thought the trolley company should move the tracks in East Somerville from the side of the street to the centre, because the town had permitted the use of wooden poles instead of iron ones, at a great saving to the trolley company. The latter had refused to remove the tracks and to retaliate had called the tickets in, making the passengers pay ten cents each way between here and Bound Brook.

Merchants appeared at the meeting and appealed to the Board to settle the matter in favor of smaller fares. All the trade they had secured from "down the line," they said, was going to Plainfield and New Brunswick because of the cheaper rates in those directions.

The Board declared it was not the sense of the members that the company should move the tracks in East Somerville.

Then Hon. A. A. Clark, counsel for the traction company, made an appeal to the members, telling how the matter might be adjusted.

It was decided to allow the company to put in wooden poles provided the tickets should be placed on sale, pending a meeting of the President of the Board and the trolley committee. An ordinance will be drawn up which will be presented at a special meeting, when the manager of the traction company is to be present. In this ordinance a rate of fares will be established for all time and conductors will sell tickets on the cars.

HISTORIC SILVER.

Mementoes of Napoleon's Campaigns Owned by George Mehl, of West Second Street.

George Mehl, of West Second street, has in his possession some interesting relics of Napoleon's conquests in Germany during the first decade of the past century. Included are pewter communion sets, bearing the dates of 1762, which are said to have been seized by the "Little Corporal" while marching through Germany. They were taken from monasteries en route.

There are also several silver medals which may have belonged to Martin Luther. The engraving on them states that they were presented to the great reformer by church men.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 10—Nearly all the members of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders journeyed to Lake Hopatcong on Saturday, where they were the guests of Clerk A. P. Sutphen, who has a handsome new cottage there this summer. The members were shown all the points of beauty in that section and treated to a sumptuous dinner, after which a sail about the lake afforded enjoyment. The Board was loud in its praise of the enjoyable day's outing.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board will be held in the Court House here tomorrow.

DAILY PRESS ON TIME.

Craig Marsh Pays Compliment to Its Excellent Mail Service.

A flattering compliment has just reached The Daily Press office regarding its excellent mail service. Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, who have been abroad for several weeks travelling in various countries, have not failed once in receiving The Daily Press, while another paper for which they subscribed has failed to reach them at all. This good work is in no small measure due to the method employed by Chauncey F. Colthar, the circulation manager, as well as to the postoffice officials.

TALKED ABOUT AMENDMENTS

Democratic City Committee Adopted Resolutions Advising People to Oppose Them.

URGED CAREFUL VOTING

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES FOR THE CITY COUNCIL WERE DISCUSSED.

Chairman Dilkes, County Committeemen Nolan and Moody and James E. Martine Were Among the Speakers.

The proposed amendments to the State constitution were discussed at length last evening by the Plainfield Democratic City Committee who met in the Democratic headquarters on East Second street. Possible nominees for the City Council were also considered.

The meeting was presided over by the chairman, J. V. R. Dilkes, who introduced John Moody, of Cranford, chairman of the Democratic County Committee. Mr. Moody spoke at length upon the amendment question contending that the proposed change does not cover the ground thoroughly. He also claimed that it would place too much power in the hands of a few individuals who happen to be Judges of our State Courts. After a few remarks by Jamse E. Martin, of this city, it was unanimously resolved "that the interests of the Commonwealth of New Jersey demand that the proposed constitutional amendments be defeated and to that end we urge all Democrats of the State to vote against the same."

County Committeeman Andrew Nolan, of this city, urged the Democrats to be careful in voting at the special election in September. He said that the matter had not been made clear to the voters as to how they should mark their ballots if they wished to vote against the amendments. Mr. Nolan was requested to bring this matter before the County Committee, at their next meeting, and also to use his power in having it brought into general publicity.

SERMON ON THE NEGRO

Dr. Rhoades Says Negro Should Not Have Been Given Ballot Privilege—Lynching a Disease.

Rev. Dr. Rhoades, of Brooklyn, who preached at the First Baptist Church, last Sunday, delivered two sermons of exceptional interest. The evening discourse treated of the negro race question. Dr. Rhoades predicted that the ultimate mission of the black race, now being educated in hundreds of schools and colleges throughout the country, is to become missionaries to the people of Africa. He said that this country made one of its biggest mistakes after giving the negro his freedom by giving him also the privilege of the ballot.

In this connection Dr. Rhoades said that the colored man was not in the proper condition to receive so much power, which eventually became subservent to the greater power of the demagogue and the politician, to be manipulated according to their own sweet will. The preacher also made reference to "lynch law" and characterized it as a disease which has developed in a certain low class of the South and is now speading until only four States of the Union have escaped it.

WHAT'S THIS?

A large number of balls and chains will be ordered and all tramps captured will be put to work cracking stone on the streets.

STRAUSS TO ESCAPE PROSECUTION

His Two Wives Agree Not to Institute Criminal Proceedings Against Him.

HE MAY RETURN HERE

HIS SECOND WIFE LIVES ON EAST FIFTH STREET.

Husband Has Been in New York City—Agreement to Live With His Plainfield Wife—Divorce Proceedings Will Go by Default.

That Baldwin F. Strauss, the much married Brooklyn lawyer, will escape prosecution as a bigamist now seems probable, according to the latest developments in the case.

It is said that a settlement has been agreed upon by which Mr. Strauss may return to this city and take up his residence again with Mrs. Ida Perkins Strauss, who has been known as wife No. 2. She lives on East Fifth street, near Watchung avenue, Miss Florence Strauss, the pretty daughter of Mrs. Ida Perkins, is credited with saying yesterday: "I expect very soon to see my father, but when or where I can not say." It is said that Mrs. Strauss, Florence's mother, has seen Mr. Strauss and arranged for his return.

No criminal proceedings will be instituted by either wife, No. 2 or No. 3, the latter the Brooklyn woman. The attempt to serve Mr. Strauss by publication in divorce proceedings, which wife No. 3 was about to institute, will also be abandoned and Mr. Strauss will permit the divorce proceedings to go by default.

Baldwin F. Strauss disappeared about the time the discovery was made that he had three wives, but it was learned yesterday that the missing husband has been in New York and part of the time has been at the home of his mother, on West One Hundred and Thirty-second street, awaiting the result of an effort to straighten out his tangled matrimonial affairs.

DEATH OF A DOG.

A Big Newfoundland Struck and Instantly Killed by Train at North Avenue Station.

A large black Newfoundland dog was fatally injured at the North Avenue railroad station this morning, by being struck by a train. The animal was on the railroad bridge at Park avenue when the 8:46 pulled into the station and was unable to reach solid ground again before being struck. He was struck from behind on the left side and was badly mangled, the left hind leg being almost severed. Bystanders say the dog belonged to a man named Tomlinson, who took it away in his carriage.

TO EXAMINE MRS. NELSON.

Justice Dugro Appoints Commissioner Because of Her Ill Health.

George Putnam Smith, Saturday was appointed by Justice Dugro, in the Supreme Court, of New York State, a commissioner to take the testimony of Mrs. Hannah Nelson, of New Market, the mother of Mrs. Caroline D. Fair, who was killed, as well as her husband, Charles L. Fair, in an automobile accident at Trouville, France, about a year ago, in a suit now pending which Mrs. Nelson and other relatives of Mrs. Fair have begun to secure her estate. The question arose as to whether Mr. or Mrs. Fair died first. If Mrs. Fair survived her husband, Mrs. Nelson and her family became entitled to Mr. Fair's large estate, which would have gone to his wife.

Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., are the defendants to the action. Soon after the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Fair, the defendants, who are sisters of Mr. Fair, made a compromise, by which the Nelson family accepted $150,000 in settlement of their claims. Soon afterward they began the suit now pending, asserting that Mrs. Oelrichs and Mrs. Vanderbilt had deceived them by representing that Mr. Fair had survived his wife, whereas she had lived some minutes longer than he did. Witnesses from France were examined before ex-Justice Keener in support of this contention.

WHITE GIRL LASHED

Miss De Cris' Case Is to Be Probed by a Commission.

FEELING RUNS HIGH AT ATLANTA.

Warden Allgood Is Reported to Have Whipped Female Prisoner With Leather Belt For "Talking Back" to His Wife.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 11.—Governor Terrell has ordered the state prison commission to make a full investigation of the whipping of Miss Mamie De Cris, the white girl, at the state farm by Warden Allgood and to report the finding to him at once.

This action follows the resolutions passed by the Georgia legislature calling for an investigation of the whipping.

She is reported to have been whipped for "talking back" to the wife of the warden. It is further reported that the woman was whipped by Warden Allgood while the prison physician looked on.

It is claimed that she was laid across a bed and given thirty lashes with a leather strap thirty inches long and three inches wide.

The investigation will probably begin today. Feeling against the outrage is very high. Governor Terrell has expressed himself against it.

The most amazing feature of the whole affair is the lack of interest manifested by prison officials. The rules of the prison do not forbid the lashing of women as well as men prisoners. The officials of the prison who ordered the young woman punished and who executed the orders have not even been reprimanded. One of them, Captain Foster, it is said, will not be re-elected when his term expires this month.

This, however, is not due to the whipping of Mamie De Cris, but to the fact that he has criticised the state convict system, and will be disciplined by the prison commission.

VIOLENT HURRICANE.

Martinique Swept by Storm—Much Damage to Property.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Aug. 11.—The island of Martinique has been swept by a hurricane of great violence. Its duration was ten hours, and it was particularly severe during two hours at Fort de France, where it caused much destruction. Hundreds of houses were unroofed and several sailing vessels were badly damaged. The streets are cumbered with debris from the tiled roofs, and the roads are impassable on account of the fallen trees, which were literally torn up by the roots. Several towns on the island suffered considerably, principally Trinite, Ste. Marie, Carbet, St. Joseph and Francois. The storm moved in a northwesterly direction.

The people of the island of Porto Rico were alarmed over the high southeast winds which swept over the island. Hurricane signals have been set by order of the weather bureau. Barbados reports that a hurricane is headed northwest. There were heavy rains along the north coast of Porto Rico, but the barometer is now rising, and it is hoped that the danger is passed.

BALL PARK FATALITY.

Mayor Weaver Tells How Accident Was Caused.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Mayor Weaver personally interested himself in the investigation into the cause of the collapse of the promenade at the Philadelphia National League Baseball park Saturday, which resulted in the death of nine spectators and serious injury to nearly 200 others. The mayor, accompanied by Director of Public Safety Smyth, visited the ball park, and later the two officials held a conference with Coroner Dugan. At the coroner's request Director Smyth will not issue a permit for rebuilding the walk until after the inquest.

Mayor Weaver after his visit to the baseball grounds said:

"I can readily see how the accident happened. The floor of the promenade was covered with tin to keep out the water, but instead the water leaked in and rotted the wood. As for the responsibility, it rests with the people who constructed the walk and with those whose duty it was to keep it in repair."

Convicts Play Baseball.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—As a relaxation from cell life and as a reward of good conduct baseball games are being tried with most satisfactory results, it is said, by Warden Bridges at the state prison in Charlestown. The game not only gives the prisoners a beneficial change from the routine of prison discipline, but it affords a diversion for their minds, enables them to breathe fresh air and get a look at the blue heavens above.

Carrie Nation Can Sell Hatchets.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 11.—Carrie Nation's summary conviction for selling hachets in violation of a city ordinance was declared illegal by Judge Newcomb when her application for a writ of habeas corpus came before him. Mrs. Nation's counsel will bring suit against the city for $50,000 damages for false arrest and imprisonment.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Aug. 11.—During the forenoon more than 3,000 miners went on strike for an eight hour day. All the principal mines except the Portland, C. THE CONSUL'S DEATH

Russian Emperor Aroused at Second Outrage.

DEMAND FOR ENERGETIC ACTION.

Turkish Government Made to Understand That Full and Complete Punishment Will Be Exacted For the Outrage.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 11.—The assassination of the Russian consul at Monastir, M. Rostkovski—the second murder of a Russian consular official in Macedonia within a few months—has created intense indignation here. The Russian ambassador at Constantinople wires the state department here:

"The Russian consul at Monastir has fallen the victim of an atrocious crime. The grand vizier and the Turkish foreign minister have come to me with expressions of regret in the name of the sultan. Ferid Pasha, the grand vizier, informed me that the assassin was a gendarme named Halim and that he will be subjected to the severest punishment, and the vali of Monastir will be removed from his post."

Count Lamsdorff, the foreign minister, replied:

"His majesty has received a telegram from the sultan expressing his deep regret at the death of the Russian consul at Monastir. When I submitted your telegram to the emperor his majesty gave orders that you should not confine yourself to receiving explanations from the grand vizier, but should make the most energetic demands on the Turkish government for full satisfaction and immediate and exemplary punishment both of the murderer and of all the military and civil officials on whom responsibility for the audacious crime may fall."

It is said the consul asked the gendarme his name because in defiance of instructions he did not salute him. The gendarme thereupon fired several shots, mortally wounding the consul in the head and hip. The horse drawing the carriage in which the consul was riding received two bullets, and shots were also fired at the coachman.

It is stated that M. Rostkovski was hated by the Turks on account of his intense arrogance.

CONSUL'S MURDER.

Balkan Situation Is Regarded as Serious.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Balkan situation has assumed a more serious aspect in the eyes of British officials as the result of the murder of the Russian consul at Monastir. No authoritative statement as to the British attitude can be obtained pending the receipt of information regarding the length to which Russia will go in exacting reparation for the deed. It is expected, however, that the Russian demands for the punishment of the murderer and the responsible officials will be followed by others of greater international interest and affecting the general Balkan question.

It was stated by a diplomat in a position to know the czar's policy that the emperor had no intention of precipitating war, and that before dealing with the international situation in Turkey Russia will communicate with Austria and acquaint the other signatories of the Berlin treaty with at least part of her plans.

AN EXPERT THIEF.

"Red" Heyle Is Captured at Last In New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—It remained for a visitor to this country from Germany to capture a man claimed to be the most experienced hotel thief in the United States. The German visitor, Herr Abel Alfred Borit, found the man in his room at the Herald Square hotel, grappled with him and held him until the police arrived. The man was identified as "Red" Heyle, who is wanted in almost every large city in the country.

For some weeks hotel robberies have been reported at police headquarters here, and it is believed that "Red" knows something about them. In some of these robberies even the sheets and pillow cases were taken. Heyle registered a few days ago at the Herald Square hotel as John Horner, and early Sunday morning he slipped into Herr Borit's room while the latter was out and was about to walk off with $2,000 in cash when captured.

When he was arraigned in Jefferson Market court he was identified by Central Office Detectives Kane, Clarke and Peabody as the famous "Red" Heyle, who is wanted everywhere, but who always managed to escape.

SHAMROCK PREPARING.

Lipton's Yachts Getting In Trim For Cup Contest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—A small army of dockyard employees besides her own crew and some of the crew of Shamrock I. swarmed about Shamrock III. as she lay in drydock in the Erie basin and began the task of putting her in trim for the cup races. Half a dozen men hung in boatswain's chairs scraping the paint from the mast, thirty others were scouring her enameled underbody with sand soap, while others erected an awning over her decks to prevent possible rain from hampering the work. Once thoroughly cleaned she will be repainted and re-enameled. Captain Wringe does not expect to get her out of drydock before next week. The day before the first race with the Reliance she will probably be measured by the official measurer of the New York Yacht club to ascertain her racing length and whether either boat will have to give the other time allowance.

Highlander Got Catskill Stakes.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Fair weather and a slow track at Saratoga. The stake event, the Catskill, was taken by R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Highlander, with Redfern up. Castalian made the pace during the early part of the race, but could not hold to it in the going and was passed in succession by Elsie L., Highlander and The Musketeer, Highlander winning in a drive in the last 200 yards of the course. Considerable interest was devoted to the steeplechase handicap, the second event, over the short course. J. W. Colt's Amur won it by a head from T. Hitchcock, Jr.'s, Foxhunter in a driving finish.

Canadian Yacht Wins.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 11.—The second race for the Canada's cup goes to Strathcona, the defender, by ten minutes. Skipper Jarvis got the better of Barr at the start and crossed the line two minutes and three seconds ahead. At that time the wind was about eight miles an hour from the southwest. The Canadian yacht's superiority in windward work was at once plain. She held the lead all through. The finish was by no means sensational, the boats being divided by three-quarters of a mile of water and ten minutes in time.

Mush Won, With Speed to Spare.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The metropolitan grand circuit season opened at the Empire City track, with 5,000 spectators. In the opening event, the 2:18 pace, Funston sold at $50 to $30 for the field, but was only a moderate second to the big California gelding Mush, who won in straight heats, with speed to spare. The talent lost again in the 2:15 trot, for which the gray gelding Jim Ferry sold at $50 and the field at $70. He proved to be a counterfeit, as George Muscovite took the lead in both heats, winning by a length from Norrie.

Merriment Won Grandly.

BUFFALO, Aug. 11. — Merriment won the feature event at Fort Erie grandly, trailing her field and coming through next the rail with a trace of her two-year-old form. In the selling race for a mile and a sixteenth John Yerkes won, but had hard work to stall off Arrah Gowan's challenge.

Wreath of Ivy Won Handicap.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—In the feature of the Delmar programme, a handicap at six furlongs, Rainland, the favorite, got into a pocket halfway down the stretch, and Wreath of Ivy, coming with a rush, won by a length from Forehand. Rainland was third.

MACEDONIA SPEAKS.

Europe Must Intervene to Remedy Evils.

WANT A CHRISTIAN GOVERNOR.

The Revolutionists Under Their Leader, Boris Sarafoff, Have Resolved to Fight the Matter Out to the Bitter End.

SOFIA, Aug. 11.—The delegates of the Macedonian committee have addressed the following appeal to each of the powers:

"The Mussulmans' systematic persecution has compelled the Christians in Macedonia and the vilayet of Adrianople to institute a general rising. They have had recourse to this extreme measure after exhausting all pacific means to secure the intervention of Europe to enforce the provisions of the Berlin treaty. At the present moment this intervention is the only means of remedying the evil and stopping bloodshed, the sporadic efforts of the powers to secure reforms having failed. They resulted merely in a recrudescence of Turkish fanaticism and government oppression.

"It is evident that reform measures to be efficacious must include the appointment of a Christian governor general of Macedonia, some one who has never held office under the porte and who must be independent of the Turkish government in the exercise of his functions, and the further appointment by the powers of a joint, permanent administrative board, with full powers to deal with any disturbances.

"Having published the foregoing facts to the civilized world and made known the causes which have driven the Macedonians to despair, the committee for the Macedonians now in arms proposes to continue the fight till the object of their uprising has been attained."

The number of insurgents in the district of Monastir is 8,000. They are armed with rifles purchased in Greece. Six hundred insurgents have destroyed three detachments of Turkish troops numbering altogether 100 and attacked the town of Kitchevo, but failed to occupy it. The insurgents, however, destroyed the Turkish village of Drougovo, whose inhabitants had come to the assistance of the garrison of Kitchevo. It is reported that three Christian villages—Smilevo, Krouche and Bolno—near Monastir have been completely destroyed by the Turkish troops.

The Macedonian insurgents are concentrating between Prilip and Dibra for the purpose of intercepting Turkish re-enforcements from Old Servia.

It is stated that there has been an exchange of views between the powers regarding the situation in Macedonia and that apparently the powers have decided to support Austria and Russia in efforts to re-establish peace. Reports received from Italian consuls in the Balkans predicted the present revival of the insurrection, which the consuls considered to be almost entirely the work of Boris Sarafoff, the Macedonian agitator, who is now in command of the insurgents, it being pointed out that the attitude of the Bulgarian government has been correct since receiving Russia's admonition.

The plan of Sarafoff as understood here is to bring about European intervention by provoking the Turks to a massacre, and the murder of the Russian consul at Monastir, M. Rostkovski, is considered here to have played into the hands of the revolutionists in this respect. M. Rostkovski is represented here as having been a very arrogant official who upon occasions boxed the ears of soldiers and police whose conduct displeased him.

It is officially reported that fifteen Turkish villages in the vilayet of Okhrida have been burned by the Bulgarian revolutionists. There were many victims.

The Turkish troops arrived too late to save the villagers.

Boris Sarafoff, the active leader of the Macedonian insurgents, has warned the directors of the Oriental railway not to sell passenger tickets, for all the railways, he says, will be destroyed.

Strikers Give Up the Fight.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—It is estimated that 12,000 operatives in the textile trade have already reported for duty at various mills, and a similar number, it is expected, will resume work this morning. This is the first serious break in the textile workers' strike, which has been in progress since June 1. The strikers who have given up the fight include cloth weavers, loom fixers, beamers and twisters. Their principal demand was a fifty-five hour week with sixty hours' pay. No concessions were granted by the manufacturers.

Hurricane Struck Jamaica.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 11.—The tail end of a hurricane moving over the Antilles struck the eastern end of the island of Jamaica and did great damage to the banana properties of the United Fruit company and the Jamaica company, limited. The full extent of the injury is still unknown. The hurricane appeared to be moving northward in the direction of Cuba.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 11, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

The unanimity of commendation with which the newspapers of the country have referred to the career of General Miles during the past week is in striking contrast to the attitude of disapproving silence adopted by the administration. Whatever his faults, General Miles was a gallant soldier and it seemed almost as though courtesy demanded formal recognition of that fact on the part of the administration.

President Roosevelt's letter to Governor Durbin, of Indiana, in which he commends the latter's attitude towards the negro lynching question should receive the widest possible circulation. The President's expressed horror at the acts of the lynchers and his wish to see the law upheld at all times, is the only attitude that could with propriety be adopted by any administration, but the letter is none the less timely and satisfactory.

The small number of clergymen in Plainfield during the month of August, has been frequently commented upon. People who wish to get married these days, have their troubles in securing the services of the minister of their choice, and the many other occasions on which a minister's presence is demanded usually find the reverend gentlemen conspicuous by their absence. Particularly in the case of funerals and sickness is their presence needed. It has been suggested that the ministers of the city should meet at some time in the coming fall and agree upon some arrangement for their vacations, whereby there should not be such an exodus from their number during the one month of August. Possibly if one-half of the clergymen took their vacation in July one year and the other half in August, and the next year interchanged, the inconvenience caused by the absence of so many at the same time might be avoided.

One of the clearest expositions of the meaning of the proposed constitutional changes from one favoring their adoption is that of Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter. He has the following to say on the subject:

"The main features in the proposed amendments to the Constitution are the naming of a separate Court of Appeals of five Judges to take the place of the present court of sixteen members; making the Vice-Chancellors constitutional officers and providing for their appointment by the Governor instead of by the Chancellor. The present Court of Errors and Appeals was constituted at least fifty years ago and consists of the Chancellor, the Chief Justice, the Supreme Court Judges and six specially appointed Judges who are, or can be, laymen.

"The court was thus constituted when its business was small, and it is within the recollection of members of the bar when but two or three cases were argued before it. Now between 200 and 300 cases are annually disposed of by the court. The Supreme Court Justices have in addition all their Supreme Court work.

"Up to a few years ago it had been the boast that Jersey justice was quick. We can no longer claim this, unless immediate relief be given to the Judges who are overrun with work. One cause of this congestion of the lists has been the great increase during the past fifteen years in the ormation of corporations in New Jersey, from which the State last year derived in annual taxes $1,963,208.30, besides nearly half a million dollars paid for the privilege of commencing business. I think it can be truly said that more than one-third of the court's time is taken up with questions affecting corporations which have no actual business in the State.

"The plan of the amendment involves an independent Court of Appeals of five members, all lawyers, who shall devote their entire time to appeal work. The Judges of the Supreme Court will remain in charge of all the work of that court, and will find themselves fully occupied. They will be enabled to try all jury cases instead of turning them over to Circuit or Common Pleas Judges, as now.

"I consider that a continuance of the present Court of Errors and Appeals would be a calamity. The Judges have striven manfully to attend to their duties, but the situation has now become, as most of them freely admit, intolerable.

"The other important changes is in the transfer of appointment of our Vice Chancellors from the Chancellor to the Governor. There are now six Vice Chancellors, all exercising practically co-ordinate power with the Chancellor. In dispensing the business for the appointment of Vice Chancellors, these Judges have really no power or authority, except to recommend certain courses, with the result that their decisions, being merely advisory, are utterly ineffective till the Chancellor has performed the perfunctory duty of affixing his name—with a rubber stamp—to their orders. If he is sick or out of the State, though there are six able men daily transacting business, the work of the court must cease till the Chancellor is accessible.

"For these and many other reasons that might be expressed I heartily favor the adoption of the amendments."

Bad Spelling.

When was the last spelling book published? Have our youth outgrown the use of that once important text book? It would seem oftentimes, from their ignorance of the rules of spelling and their arrangement of the letters in words, that they disdained the practice of good orthography. It is all very well to talk about some people being natural spellers and some being poor spellers. There are faults o bear which are hard to overcome; but eyes can be trained to correct these faults; and decent spelling under all circumstances, at least from every graduate of the grammar grade, should be demanded. It is a fact of observation, explain it how you will, that pupils who have taken prizes for scholarship in grammar schools of good standing cannot write a letter free of blunders in spelling; another fact, that pupils in high schools, remarkably well read for their years, are guilty of gross errors in spelling; still another, that pupils who have the wit and brains and style to write a charming letter, misspell abominably; and yet another, that boys seeking entrance to colleges of first rank, able to pass examinations in mathematics and science, spell after the fashion of "witch."—Boston Transcript.

Helping Him On.

Bobbie—Sit down. Sister'll be in as soon as she gets done primpin'. You're goin' to propose to-night, ain't you?

Mr. Smithers—Well, I don't know about that, Bobbie. I don't know that she would have me.

"Oh, yes, she will. Don't you hang back for that."

"And so you think she loves me, do you?"

"Nope, but she'll marry you, all right. She says she's getting to be such an old maid that she's afraid to take any more chances. She let her best chances slip, and will have to take anybody she can catch now. You've got a cinch."—Kansas City Journal.

London Traffic.

London is frightfully antiquated in its traffic; and the Parisian, the Dubliner or the New Yorker is stirred to amazement when he sees the people contentedly accepting conditions which prevail in no other big city. We thing the great railway companies are largely to blame for the congestion of traffic. The links between the lines north and south of the Thames, and east and west also, are very defective, and the result is that a huge cross-city goods traffic results.—Dublin Irish Cyclist.

Bad for Both.

An Irishman whose face was so plain that his friends used to tell him it was an offense to the landscape happened also to be as poor as he was homely. One day a neighbor met him and asked:

"How are you, Pat?"

"Mighty bad! Sure, 'tis starvation thot's starin' me in the face."

"Begorra!" exclaimed his neighbor, sympathetically, "it can't be very pleasant for either av yez."—London Outlook.

Failure of Airships.

No airship as yet launched has been successful in long voyages. Some radical defect in every one of these cloud-encompassed vessels has limited the extent of their sailings. The attempts to cross the Mediterranean and the desert of Sahara, and to soar from Stockholm to London, have been failures. This is the epoch of the auto rather than the galley which floats above the earth.—N. Y. Tribune.

The People of Mexico.

Of the 12,000,000 inhabitants of Mexico 10,000,000 are of pure Indian type. In the Spanish American republic, in the Southern Pacific, the soldiers of Pizzaro made a much deeper racial impression, the majority of persons in all the cities being half breeds—cholos, as they are called.—Indianapolis News.

Deficiency in Memory.

"Sailors are awful forgetful, ain't they?" asked little Elsie.

"Why, what makes you think that?" inquired her papa.

"Because every time they leave a place they have to weigh their anchor. If they weren't forgetful they'd remember the weight."—Philadelphia Record.

Weed-Killing Mixtures.

A number of tests made by the Vermont experiment station found that arsenite of soda and the arsenio-sal-soda mixtures are very satisfactory for killing weeds along walks and drives. These can be kept perfectly free of weeds by the use of these mixtures.—N. Y. Sun.

Up the Hudson.

History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip today words would not express his delight, for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with steamer St. Johns a popular priced excursion up the Hudson on Sunday, August 16, 1903. Rate to be $1.00 and train will leave Plainfield at 8:52 a. m. Fare for children half of above rate. Steamer St. Johns is one of the famous Sandy Hook fleet and is the best appointed and fastest excursion boat in the harbor. 8 7 td

THEY DIVIDE FAIRLY

Tomcat and Owl Have Formed Queer Partnership.

The Feline Catches Frogs, the Bird Gobbles Up Field Moles, and Then the Pair Exchange the Delicacies.

A Vermont correspondent of the New York World says that Jerome Perley, who came from Fitchburg, Mass., late last winter to carry on an abandoned farm in the hills above Tyson village, has a tomcat which has struck up a strange acquaintance with a barn owl. The cat and owl have virtually formed a partnership, and at night, after Mr. Perley and his family have retired, the howls of one and the hoots of the other can be heard at intervals until daylight.

The tomcat, which glories in the name of Whiskers, had never been in the open until he arrived in Tyson. He was born and raised in the city, and for nearly two weeks after the family reached the farm he could not be induced to go more than a dozen rods from the barn or house.

His timidity, however, gradually disappeared, and when the pantry, cellar and corn cribs had been freed from mice and the ground began to warm up, Whiskers took heart and started a series of nocturnal expeditions into the fields. He was pleasantly surprised to find among the grass hummocks many mole holes, in each of which dwelled a family of moles. In catdom these animals are considered on a par with quails on toast, and Whiskers grew fat.

Not comprehending that demand is frequently in excess of the supply Whiskers dined liberally, taking no thought for the morrow, until one fine night he awoke to the fact that moles were getting scarce. The field in which the moles lived was searched carefully, ad finally, when there were no more of the dainties to be had, Mr. Cat began to mope.

It was then, so Mr. Perley and his family declare, that Whiskers struck up an acquaintance with the owl. While Whiskers was interesting himself with the moles the owls was raising a feathered family in the hollow of a weatherbeaten and broken down oak on the edge of a swamp not far from the barn. Up to the time the little owls began to test their wings and look after the filling of their own stomachs Mr. Owl had all he could do to provide Mrs. Owl and family with the necessaries of life. Later on he found time to sit on the ridgepole of the house and make night hideous with long, weird hoots.

This was about the time the moles ran out and Whiskers began to lose flesh. Just how the introduction came about even Mr. Perley does not know. He declares, however, that the two got on good terms. It was generally suspected for a time that Whiskers had designs on the brood of little owls, but this is merely a matter of surmise. If he did he gained nothing and probably escaped severe chastisement.

The first Mr. Perley knew of the intimacy was one night when he came in late from the village. As he drove into the yard he saw Whiskers sitting between an apple tree and the house. He was carefully guarding a frog that was making strenuous attempts to hop to the safety of the swamp.

While he was wondering what the cat could be doing with the frog he heard a hooting in the distance, and a few moments later the owl [illegible] into the apple tree and dropped a mole near the cat. An instant later he swooped down and picked up the frog. Whiskers apparently had no fear of his feathered friend, for he purred contentedly and proceeded to devour the mole.

Mr. Perley, who is something of a student of the habits of animals, was interested, and made up his mind to watch developments. On the following night he posted himself in a window and saw the mole and frog performance repeated three times. On the next night there was an exchange of courtesies twice. On subsequent nights the same thing occurred. When the owl had left the mole and devoured the frog he would fly off into the darkness and the cat would disappear in the recesses of the swamp. Whiskers generally got back first, always lugging a good-sized frog. There was much hooting and considerable caterwauling, and once there was a great fuss when the owl returned empty-handed. Mr. Perley is at a loss to account for the strange partnership.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Plainfield People and What They Say is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On the subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mr. C. E. Hepburn, of 123 Duer street, formerly of Canada, where he first heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement for they cured me of a long standing case of backache which annoyed me very much, especially if I took cold, for at such times I was in pretty bad shape. I heard different people speak very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills; concluded to try them; got a box from my druggist, Mr. L. W. Randolph and used them according to directions, with the above results. I do not hesitate to give my endorsement of a preparation like Doan's Kidney Pills."

LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

THE NEW WOMAN

She Is Marching On

A CURIOUS and profoundly interesting phase of social development is reported from Philadelphia. A number of ladies, possessing wealth and belonging to the first rank of fashionable society, have turned from the amusements of the rich and joined themselves to the handful of those who believe the ultimate destiny of the human race on this planet is more splendid than that of the angels and work to bring their theory into realization. The Philadelphia ladies labor largely among the wage earning women, seeking to make them strong, intelligent and individual, able to hold their own and to climb upward.

Philadelphia is classed as the most conservative city of the northern states and some have wondered that so many of its leading women should become workers to promote the coming of a pure democracy among mankind; yet there is no cause for wonder. Old Philadelphia families are descended from the Quakers and the original Quakers were the "come outers" and radicals of their time. Always strictly conservative in their morals, yet were they always open to the leadings of the "inner light," and the inner light ever guides those who follow it to higher, better ideals for the race, even though these ideals sometimes involve total destruction of the old order.

One of the leaders in the woman's movement for the social state in which there shall be neither pauper nor billionaire is Miss Innes Forbes, a beautiful, high bred young woman. When she was a girl at Philadelphia's most fashionable seminary she wrote an essay advocating the right of women to vote and declaring it to be their duty. Yet another woman who practices her belief that wealth and so called high social station mean service to the race is Miss Laura C. Platt, president of the Working Women's association. A third is Miss Caroline Pemberton, who is so forceful, clear headed and intellectual that they say she has a "male brain." Oh, yes, of course!

Progressive development is the law for the human race through eternity. Whatever has been in the past, always there is something better in the future for us to know. So let us hold ourselves always gentle and tolerant toward propositions that differ from our own fixed opinions lest the very ideas we most need for our enlightenment pass us by in disguise. Many a time such ideas pass us in the humblest guise.

Heaven help the woman of the narrow, cast iron forehead!

Don't take medicine at the table, at home or abroad. Have some regard for other people!

If all mothers made themselves strong and true this would be a better and happier world.

We ought not to expect a material reward for being good any more than for washing our faces in the morning. The thing itself is its reward.

Somebody talks about the "softer sex" in a recent newspaper sketch. Which is the softer sex? If there is anybody softer than a man at certain stages of his career that person has not yet appeared on this planet. Anyway, girls, don't be soft headed.

* *

Not many of the tens of thousands of girl stenographers know that a little while ago were incinerated at the Fresh Pond (N. Y.) crematory the mortal remains of Mrs. Eliza B. Burnz, "the mother of stenography." More than half a century ago Mrs. Burnz came to New York city full of the idea of opening up a new employment—stenography—to her own sex. A storm of ridicule and disapproval met her. It was not thought a woman had brains enough to be a shorthand writer. Only one human being encouraged her, and that was Peter Cooper. He gave her a room in Cooper Union free of charge in which to teach girls. She began, she worked, she overcame. She lived to see women constitute a majority of the stenographers in this Union, and now she has entered into rest. Do not forget her.

Professor Elie Metchnikoff, one of the most distinguished of living scientists, declares that old age itself is a malady. Don't let's have it.

Let us not call a person a crank or a fool merely because that person holds to ideas that are new to us or that are different from our own. Maybe we are the ones that are on the wrong side.

* *

The woman who always does and says exactly the conventionally correct thing is the most tiresome of her sex.

A man complains in court that he has to cook, wash dishes and do the housework while his wife studies art. Well, what of it? How many centuries has woman cooked and washed dishes while man studied art?

* *

The women of American fashionable society set a fine example to their sisters in their development of physical strength and activity. No weaklings are they, but sturdy horsewomen, fencers, golfers and swimmers. At Newport some of them, including Mrs. Burke-Roche, are learning to drive four-in-hand.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

CHAPTER XXII.

In the whirl and excitement following the startling outcry from the flats, all Fort Frayne was speedily involved. The guard came rushing through the night, Corporal Shannon stumbling over a prostrate form—the sentry on Number Six, gagged and bound. The steward shouted from the hospital porch that Eagle Wing, the prisoner patient, had escaped through the rear window, despite its height above the sloping ground. A little ladder, borrowed from the quartermaster's corral, was found a moment later. An Indian pony, saddled Sioux fashion, was caught running, riderless, toward the trader's back gate his horsehair bridle torn half way from his shaggy head. Sergeant Crabb, waiting for no orders from the major, no sooner heard that Moreau was gone than he rushed his stable guard to the saddleroom, and in 15 minutes had, not only his own squad, but half a dozen "casual" troopers circling the post in search of the trail, and in less than half an hour was hot in chase of two fleeing horsemen, dimly seen ahead through the starlight, across the snowy wastes. That snowfall was the Sioux's undoing. Without it the trail would have been invisible at night. With it, the pursued were well-nigh hopeless from the start. Precious time had been lost in circling far out south of the post before making for the ford whither Crabb's instinct sent him at once to the end that he and two of his fellows ploughed through the foaming waters barely 500 yards behind the chase and as they rode vehemently onward through the starlight, straining every nerve, they heard nothing of the happenings about the Foster's doorway, where by this time post commander, post surgeon, post quartermaster and acting post adjutant, post ordnance, quartermaster and commissary sergeants, many of the post guard and most of the post laundresses had gathered—some silent, anxious and bewildered, some excitedly babbling; while, within the sergeant's domicile, Esther Dade, very pale and somewhat out of breath, was trying with quiet self possession to answer the myriad questions poured at her, while Dr. Waller was ministering to the dazed and moaning sentry, and, in an adjoining tenement, a little group had gathered about an unconscious form. Some one had sent for Mrs. Hay, who was silently, tearfully chafing the limp and almost lifeless hands of a girl in Indian garb. The cloak and skirts of civilization had been found beneath the window of the deserted room, and were exhibited as a means of bringing to his senses a much bewildered major, whose first words on entering the hut gave rise to wonderment in the eyes of most of his hearers, and to an impulsive reply from the lips of Mrs. Hay.

"I warned the general that girl would play us some Indian trick, but he ordered her release," said Flint, and with wrathful emphasis came the answer.

"The general warned you this girl would play you a trick, and, thanks to no one but you, she's done it!"

Then rising and stepping aside, the long-suffering woman revealed the palid, senseless face—not of the little Indian maid, her shrinking charge and guest—but of the niece she loved and had lived and lied for many and trying years—Nanette La Fleur, a long-lost sister's only child. So Blake knew what he was talking about that keen November morning among the pines at Bear Cliff. He had unearthed an almost forgotten legend of old Fort Laramie.

"Who could have done it?" asked Flint. It was inconceivable to Dr. Waller's mind that any one of the soldiery could have been tempted to such perfidy for an Indian's sake. There was not at the moment an Indian scout or soldier at the post, or an Indian warrior, not a prisoner, unaccounted for. There had been half-breeds hanging about the store prior to the final escapade of Pete and Crapaud, but these had realized their unpopularity after the battle on the Elk, and had departed for other climes. Crapaud was still under guard. Pete was still at large, perchance, with Stabber's braves. There was not another man about the trader's place whom Flint or others could suspect. Yet the sergeant of the guard, searching cautiously with his lantern about the post of Number Six, had come upon some suggestive signs. The snow was trampled and bloody about the place where the soldier fell, and there were here and there the tracks of moccasined feet—those of a young woman or child going at speed toward the hospital, running probably, and followed close by a moccasined man. Then those of the man, alone, went sprinting down the bluff southeastward over the flats some distance south of the Foster's doorway and up the opposite bluff, to a point where four ponies, shoeless, had been huddled for as much, perhaps, as half an hour. Then all four had come scampering down close together into the space below the hospital, not 50 yards from where the sentry fell, and the moccasined feet of a man and woman had scurried down the bluff from the hospital window, to meet them west of Foster's shanty. Then there had been confusion—trouble of some kind: One pony, pursued a short distance, had broken away; the others had gone pounding out southeastward up the slope and out over the uplands, then down again; in wide sweep, through the valley of the little rivulet and along the low bench southwest of the fort, crossing the Rock Springs road and striking, further on, diagonally, the Rawlins trail, where Crabb and his fellows had found it and followed.

But all this took hours of time, and meanwhile, only half revived, Nanette had been gently, pityingly borne away to a sorrowing woman's home, for at last it was found, through the thick and lustrous hair, that she, too, had been struck a harsh and cruel blow; that one reason, probably, why she had been able to oppose no stouter resistance to so slender a girl as Esther Dade was that she was already half dazed through the stroke of some blunt, heavy weapon, wielded probably by him she was risking all to save.

Meantime the major had been pursuing his investigations. Schmidt, the soldier sentry in front of Moreau's door, a simple-hearted Teuton of irreproachable character, tearfully protested against his incarceration. He had obeyed his orders to the letter. The major himself had brought the lady to the hospital and showed her in. The door that had been open, permitting the sentry constant sight of the prisoner, had been closed by the commanding officer himself. Therefore, it was not for him, a private soldier, to presume to reopen it. The major said to the lady he would return for her soon after ten, and the lady smilingly (Schmidt did not say how smilingly—how bewitchingly smilingly, but the major needed no reminder) thanked him, and said, by that time she would be ready. In a few minutes she came out, saying (doubtless with the same bewitching smile) she would have to run over home for something, and she was gone nearly half an hour, and all that time the door was open, the prisoner on the bed in his blankets, the lamp brightly burning. It was near tattoo when she returned, with some things under her cloak, and she was breathing quick and seemed hurried and shut the door after thanking him, and he saw no more of her for 15 minutes, when the door opened and out she came, the same cloak around her, yet she looked different, somehow, and must have tiptoed, for he didn't hear her heels as he had before. She didn't seem quite so tall, either, and that was all, for he never knew anything more about it till the steward came running to tell of the escape.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $50 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

MILES' PEACE PLAN.

Nations Ought to Agree to Reduce Armies.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. — Lieutenant General Miles passed through here on his way to San Francisco to attend the Grand Army encampment being held there. He said of his plan for the disarmament of the powers:

"It is a crime against humanity for nations to engage in fratricidal strife. If the traces of savagery that remain in mankind make war necessary let the nations hold a congress and adopt a standard of armament. One soldier for each thousand persons would be reasonable. Then let the proportionate armies meet in battle, and let the loser abide by the result. When this is followed to its logical conclusion the disputes of the nations will be settled peaceably in cabinets. But until humanity becomes intelligent it will have wars.

"I would not abolish armies entirely, but reduce them to a minimum. Our present army is at the rate of one soldier to every 2,000 inhabitants. A man of thirty years will live to see the United States contain perhaps 250,000,000 people. Then an army of 250,000 men would be a correct proportion. Let Germany with her 47,000,000 inhabitants maintain an army of 47,000 and permit Russia, with its 120,000,000 people, to keep up an army of 120,000. The relative strength of the nations would then be preserved.

"There should always be armies for police power, but the present military system of the world is artificial and if maintained will eventually plunge the world into disaster. Today it endangers the liberties of all men."

AT OYSTER BAY.

President Receives Attorney General Knox—Root's Retirement.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Attorney General Knox has arrived to have a conference with the president. He took luncheon at Sagamore Hill and probably will remain with the president most of the day. The president desires to go over with him certain matters now pending in the department of justice, including that phase of the Littauer-Lyon glove contract case which was referred to the attorney general.

The attention of the president has been directed to a circumstantial statement published that Secretary of War Root expected soon to retire from the cabinet and be succeeded by Governor Taft of the Philippines. It can be said that there is no definite foundation for the story.

The president since the first intimation many months ago of Secretary Root's possible retirement has hoped, and still hopes, that he will remain in the cabinet for a long time yet. He believes that the secretary certainly will remain through the coming winter and probably a much longer time.

IS IT MAFIA MURDER?

Police Suspect It In Death of Italian In Illinois.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 11.—In the murder of Mariano Greco, an Italian track walker for the Illinois Central railroad, all the signs point to a crime committed by the Mafia. The victim was joined as he left Perryville for Rockford by another Italian, and the two walked together amicably up the track. About two miles east of Rockford Greco's body was found two hours later. His watch and purse were in his pockets, and a considerable sum of money was in his belt.

It was supposed that he had been killed by a train until an examination at the morgue showed that he had been shot three times from behind, each bullet having struck a vital spot. The police are looking for his companion, but can get absolutely no help from any of the large gang of Italians at work in the city, even the dead man's brother being uncommunicative.

WAS STOWE INSANE?

Buffalo Has Murder and Suicide by Kent T. Stowe.

BUFFALO, Aug. 11.—Kent Stowe, son of F. D. Stowe, general central agent of the Merchants' Dispatch and Transportation company of this city, is dead at a hospital here. He shot his wife, killing her instantly, and then shot himself. The father of young Stowe has made a statement, in which he says his son had been despondent since his attack of malarial fever and that they were very much worried about his condition. This was confirmed by the family physician, who added that the young man was temporarily insane when he did the shooting, as his relations with his wife were happy.

The tragic death at Buffalo of Mr. and Mrs. Kent T. Stowe, known to every one as Pauline Brown, at the hands of her husband and the latter's subsequent death from a self inflicted wound caused a profound sensation at their home in West Dennis, Mass., where the young couple was regarded as a model of domestic felicity. The theory of temporary insanity is generally accepted. Mrs. Stowe's natural attractiveness made her a leader in society, while her husband was a general favorite. The marriage two years ago, which was a brilliant social affair, was regarded as a most happy union. Their devotion to each other since has been marked, and those who knew them most intimately scoff at the suggestion of family trouble.

Mrs. Stowe was twenty-one years of age and an only child. Her father, the late Douglas E. Brown, was for many years an official at Charlestown state prison. Her mother, who was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stowe at the time of the tragedy, is one of the four brilliant daughters of the late

WILD PITCHES.

Although "Doc" Doyle announced last week his intention of retiring from baseball, he played on Saturday with the St. Mary's team. "Doc" may be like some actresses, who make their last appearance any number of times during their stage career, only to re-appear as often.

The criticism of Fred Winn's playing for St. Mary's in Saturday's game with Alis, which appeared yesterday in The Daily Press, appealed to many supporters of St. Mary's as too harsh. Winn has always played clean and gentlemanly baseball in the past and, judging from this, it seems probable that his actions in interfering with the ball Saturday were unintentional. If such is the case, he stands acquitted of the charge of "dirty" ball playing. At the same time The Daily Press wishes to emphasize the fact that it is its intention to discountenance questionable baseball tactics at all times, to the best of its ability, without fear or favor.

Barrows, of the "Hillside Club," who is summering on the Mass. coast, has made two amateur records; that of the "New Bedford Golf Club," (a short nine hole course, new this season), 36, professional record held by Findley, 32, and that of "Bass Rocks Golf Club" at Gloucester, Mass., (a long nine hole course and one of the best on the seashore,) 39, professional record the same, held by Findley.

PANIC IN PARIS TUNNEL

The burning of several cars was followed by a terrible panic on an approaching train. The accident was due to the carelessness of employes who neglected to flag the train.

TO BUILD NEW RAILWAY.

Line from New Orange to Summit, N. J., to be Constructed Shortly.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Summit, N. J., Aug. 11—The rumors which have been current for a long time that the projected line of the New York and Four Junction Railroad would be built in the near future have been strengthened by the fact that a representative of the road has been getting extensions of time on the right of way, setting the limit at Jan. 1 next, and giving assurance that work would be started this fall. The course of the road will be from New Orange to Union, then into Springfield, and over the mountain near the Baltusrol Golf Club into Park Avenue, Summit, and terminating in a station to be erected adjoining the Lackawanna Railroad station. The company now holds a clear right of way over the entire route, and contracts for the work have been let.

It plans to compete with the Lackawanna between Summit and New York, and besides a promise of better time, the new route is more direct. There will also be direct communication between Summit and Springfield and Eliazbeth. Springfield is at present without railroad communication.

No Diphtheria at Camp.

The rumor that there were two cases of diphtheria at Miss Curry's Netherwood Fresh Air Home is entirely without foundation. The case of diphtheria, which developed at the camp recently, was immediately isolated from the camp to a quarantined house some distance away. The last two deaths at the camp, which were rumored to have been from diphtheria, were from pneumonia and spinal meningitis. The rumor that there is danger of epidemic is entirely false.

IMPROVEMENT IN TROLLEY SERVICE

Prospects of a New Roadway, New Overhead Wiring and New Cars.

LOCAL OFFICIAL TALKS

GENERAL MANAGER WHEATLEY EXAMINED PLAINFIELD CONDITIONS.

Ordered Cars to be Built by a St. Louis Concern in Near Future—Latest Appliances in Machinery to be Procured.

Plainfield is at last being considered by the officials of the Public Service Corporation as a fertile field for improvements in the rolling stock, road bed and wiring of the local branch of the trolley road. This was given out yesterday by one of the trolley officials who said that the demands of the Plainfield people had been listened to and the ground had already been looked over by General Manager Wheatley.

Together with several other officials of the road, Manager Wheatley came to this city Sunday and in the company's parlor car rode over each of the local lines. An engineer was with the party and notes were made of improvements that were needed in the roadway and the overhead wiring. A visit was made to the car barns and the cars inspected.

One of the officials of the company, when asked about the result of the tour of the city, said to a Daily Press reporter yesterday, that the attention of the road's management had been called repeatedly to the condition of the traction service in this city. It was with a view to ascertaining the true conditions that a visit was made to Plainfield.

New rails will be ordered and will replace those now in use. The present are the original rails laid when the road was started and in many places, are practically worn out. The official said that the overhead wiring would also receive attention.

"How about the rolling stock?" queried the interviewer.

"New cars have been ordered from a St. Louis concern for the Elizabeth and Newark division," said the official, "and orders will be placed within a few days for a large number of new cars for the Plainfield service. These cars will be of the single truck type but will be longer than those now used here. The latest appliances in trolley car machinery will be ordered and the cars will be greatly improved."

BAILEY AUTO LAW NULL.

Chaffeurs Need Only Toot Horns When They Ride to New York.

New Jersey owners of automobiles rejoiced Monday over the news from New York that the Bailey automobile law in that State was declared unconstitutional by the Court of Special Sessions.

The provisions of this law required the owners of automobiles to register with the Secretary of State, obtain certificates and display the numbers on the back of their vehicles. The contention in the test case which came before the court was that the law discriminated against private owners of machines and omitted the manufacturers from its provisions.

Manufacturers have occasion to use the highways nearly as much as private owners, in displaying the machines and instructing purchasers in operating them, but they were exempted from the provisions of the law.

COUNTY COMMITTEE.

Meeting Last Night at Elizabeth to Discuss New Primary Law.

The County Republican committee met last evening at Elizabeth and discussed features of the new primary law, making arrangements for carrying out its provisions. County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean, County Secretary James C. Calvert and others, prepared the form of petition to be presented to the city clerk and also the names and endorsements of candidates for public office and election as delegates in a conference of the party leaders and this was last evening adopted as the official petition.

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Mabel Symons, of East Third street, to Walter B. Roll, of Milwaukee, son of Mrs. Augusta Roll, of Watchung avenue, has been announced. No date has been set for the wedding. Mr. Roll leaves this week for the West for a year's business trip.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Rapid Growth of the Society Discussed by Rev. Titus Davis in Warren Chapel Last Evening.

Before the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel last evening, Rev. Titus E. Davis, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church at Bound Brook, delivered an address on the "Growth of Christian Endeavor." The talk was interesting and many listened to it.

Mr. Davis is secretary and treasurer of the State Christian Endeavor League. He told interestingly of the rapid growth of Christian Endeavor Societies in this country since their organization. He said that there was an increase of 2,000 societies in the world during the past year.

WESTFIELD IS TO GO DRY

ORDINANCE ADOPTED CLOSING ALL BARS ON SUNDAYS.

Barbers, Newsdealers and Milkmen Must Complete Their Labors by Ten o'Clock.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 12—In the recent move on the part of certain citizens of this town to close all places of business on Sunday, a strong opposition has developed. The idea originated with the action taken on the part of the Council to close all bars on Sunday. This incensed some people and an effort to carry the movement on resulted in an ordinance being drafted recently which provides that all places of business be closed on Sunday.

The ordinance allows barber shops to remain open until 10 o'clock in the morning and newsdealers to dispose of their papers prior to a certain hour. It also allows milkmen to make their rounds before a specified early hour. Otherwise every store is to be closed for the day.

On Tuesday evening the Council met for the purpose of passing the ordinance on its second reading. The lobby was filled with citizens, nearly all opposed to its adoption. As two of the members of the Council were absent, the other members decided to lay the matter on the table for the present, or until the absentees return.

NEW HOSPITAL SOON READY

WILL PROBABLY BE COMPLETED EARLY IN THE FALL.

Favorable Progress in Erecting the Home for Nurses—More Funds Needed.

Something will be doing before long regarding the new hospital, according to the statement of a person interested in the building of the institution. For some time past work has been held up owing to a lack of funds, but from present indications it looks as though the Board of Governors will soon be able to go on with the work of building, the part likely to be needed this fall. It is confidently expected that the hospital will be ready for occupancy by patients before October. In addition to the patients' wards, there are other portions which the Board desires to complete also. This, it is believed, will be done.

The work of raising funds for the new Nurses' Home is progressing favorably, although those in charge would like to see a still more liberal response. This is also true regarding the subscriptions to the new hospital. The women hope to have the Nurses' Home completed as soon after the hospital as possible as it will be necessary for the nurses to have quarters close by the institution.

CHARGES EMBEZZLEMENT.

New York Company Claims Somerville Man Stole $75.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 12—A warrant was issued yesterday from Justice Juthen's office, here, for the arrest of C. C. Kemp, who is at present in the Essex county jail at Newark, on the complaint of the Credit Adjustment Company, of New York, which charges him with embezzling $75 of its funds.

Kemp boarded here at the TenEyck House and it is said left a board bill of about $40. It is also asserted that he forged the signature of the W. H. Cawley Company for a goodly sum and had R. J. Southwick cash a worthless draft for $15.

LOCAL TAX RATE TO TAKE A RISE

Will be Increased Two Points On Account of Change in County and State Rates.

IS ADVANCED TO $2.52

FINAL ACTION TO BE TAKEN AT MEETING OF COUNCIL NEXT TUESDAY.

Natural Increase in Property Valuations Had Been Depended Upon to Keep Down to the Old Rate.

However much the local Board of Assessors may dislike it, it will be their inevitable duty to raise the tax rate this year from $2.50 to $2.52. This increase of two points in the rate is caused by an increase of one point in the county rate and one in the State rate. A few weeks ago the local Board met and succeeded in keeping the city rate down to its old figure. Despite their efforts, however, it is impossible for them to overcome the county and State increase.

It is regretted exceedingly that Plainfield's rate for the coming year will not be the same as during the last few years, for the natural increase in property valuations was depended upon more or less to keep it down. This could have been done had not the county and State rates taken a jump. Final action will be taken in the matter at the adjourned meeting of the Council on Tuesday evening, August 18, when the books of Tax Collector Smith will be passed upon.

COLORED BOY IS A THIEF

ONLY FIFTEEN YEARS OLD AND HAS STOLEN NUMEROUS SMALL SUMS.

Abstracted Money From Vail & Gardner's Store and Afterwards Confessed.

Arthur VanNess's successor in the petty theft business in town has been cornered by the police. Walter Carr, a fifteen-year-old colored boy who lives in the row of houses back of French's mill, was caught in Vail & Gardner's grocery store this morning and it was found that he had secured a dollar in nickels from the cash drawer.

Carr visited the store shortly after 7 o'clock this morning with his aunt who desired to purchase some groceries. While the woman was being waited on, young Carr disappeared for a short time before rejoining his aunt and leaving the store. When Mr. Gardner, of the firm, went to the cash drawer shortly afterwards he found that the money had been taken. Carr has been suspected of small thefts of money in the store before this but had never been found with any of the money. When he returned to the store later in the morning, he was questioned and searched by Mr. Gardner, but stoutly denied the theft. Mr. Gardner summoned the police. When questioned at court, the boy broke down and confessed.

Carr is the little colored boy who stole a rig from in front of Dr. French's residence two weeks ago and took several of his friends to ride. He has also confessed the theft of $3 from Vail & Gardner's about three weeks ago and smaller thefts from time to time. He will receive a hearing tomorrow in Justice Huff's court.

Collided in the Fog.

Marshal Lawrence Fahn, of the borough, patrolled his beat on Somerset street last evening on a bicycle without a lantern and collided with a woman also on a wheel. Both fell to the ground. The woman did not have her lantern lighted and the officer was unable to see her in the fog until they were almost in collision. Although injured considerably about the face and arms, the woman would not give her name. She said she lived on Summit avenue.

The postponed meeting of the Fireman's Relief Association was held last evening in the rooms of Warren Engine Company. Delegates were elected to represent the association at the convention which will be held in Atlantic City, September 8 and 9. Chief J. J. Stahl, David Bodine, Jacob Higgins and Charles Keller were chosen.

NO PROTEST FROM ENGLAND

Rumor That American Rifle Team Would Be Protested for Using Special Guns.

VICTORY UNQUESTIONED

GENERAL BIRD SPENCER TALKS ON THE SUBJECT.

Explanation of Failure of Captain Martin, of Company K, to Make the Team—Slight to New Jersey.

There have recently appeared in certain metropolitan papers reports that a protest from England against the American rifle team, which won the Palma trophy at Bisley, may be expected, and shooting cracks throughout the country have been more or less interested. On excellent authority it can be stated that no such protest will be made on the charge, as reported, that the Americans used a special gun in the team match. According to the reports the American team is accused of using a rifle with a special barrel, contrary to the requirements, which stipulated that the teams must employ the service rifle of the Government they represented.

Regarding the story, General Bird W. Spencer, president of the National Rifle Association, has this to say:

"The rifles used were United States government pieces with special barrels. No protest has or can be filed unless against practically all teams."

Major James E. Bell, inspector of rifle practice of the District of Columbia, National Guard, concerning the charge, says:

"The rifles used by the English team were not manufactured in English arsenals. If the American team violated the regulations governing the contest so did the British team.

"In the regulations which had been adopted for the shoot it was stipulated that the teams should use service rifles of the country they represented. In the case of the United States that would mean the Krag-Jorgensen. The team used the Krag, but had several guns equipped with a Pope barrel, which had eight instead of four grooves. The barrel is also slightly longer than the regulation Krag, but otherwise is the same. It is the same weight and uses the regulation cartridge.

"Regulations governing all contests in which English marksmen participate provide that the guns used shall be approved by authorities of the English arsenals. Members of the team representing that country had a special barrel made and tested by the Government Arsenal Board and used the rifle in the contest. It had an eight groove barrel. No protests were filed by either side."

As has already been stated, it was a bitter disappointment to Jerseymen that no representative from the State was on the team, but the fact that Col. Bruce picked a winning team, bars all argument. Captain W. B. Martin is, without a doubt, as good a shot as any one of the eight men selected. That Col. Bruce did not inform the team that they would be expected to qualify after reaching Bisley, proved disastrous to the popular captain of Co. K. The time that he would have used for keeping himself in practice, was devoted to coaching other members of the team who were weaker. The selection of the team was a great triumph for New York State, as a majority of the members were from that place.

Captain Martin has by earnest effort attained a position in the National Guard of New Jersey of which he can be justly proud. He is a crack shot, a strict disciplinarian and great things are expected of the Company of which he has command.

Since the American team has returned from abroad there has been considerable comment regarding the maintenance of the rifle range at Sea Girt, considered one of the best in the country. It is said that New Jersey alone supports this range and yet teams and militiamen from every other State are allowed to use it without cost or hindrance. It was not until this year that the Government appropriated any considerable sum for rifle practice at Sea Girt, but it is argued that this does not cover expense of maintenance. When the team was sent to Bisley, New Jersey contributed the largest share of the expense, yet she was not permitted to have a representative on the team. However, Captain Martin, like the true soldier, submitted to the commands of his superior officer and accepted the situation with as much grace as possible.

CHANCE FOR GOOD INVESTMENTS

Real Estate Dealers Say the Supply of Small Houses Cannot Meet the Demand.

APARTMENTS NEEDED

MAKE GOOD INVESTMENTS AND ARE AN ORNAMENT TO CITY.

New Men Employed in Machine Shops Have Hard Work in Finding Accommodations—Returns From Apartments Are Large.

In spite of the large number of new houses which are being erected in this city at present there is, say real estate dealers, a growing demand for small houses that will rent for $15 to $20 a month. Each month people come to this city in search of houses of this class. The machine shops are constanly puting on new men and they bring their families here from other cities. They are unable to find desirable houses at prices within their means and consequently are forced to board.

Flats are the most popular dwelling houses for men of small means. They prove to be good investments and are generally an ornament to the city. It is seldom that there is a vacant flat in an apartment house in this city. In the Jackson building the apartments are engaged for a long time ahead in anticipation of possible vacancies. The same can be said of the Lincoln flats on West Fourth street.

Real estate dealers say that Plainfield would be an excellent place for apartment houses on the same plans as those in New York, though, of course, on a smaller scale. Although such buildings would mean a large outlay of money, the returns would make the investment well worth while.

THE PLAINFIELDERS DEFEATED

REINHART AND BAKER WITH PARTNERS LOST IN BEST BALL FOURSOME.

Oxford and Cambridge Golfers Were Victorious in Their Play Against American College Team.

Oxford and Cambridge golfers won their match at the Myopia links yesterday after a most exciting struggle with the American Intercollegiate combination. They won by three points to two. Reinhart and Baker, of Plainfield, with their partners, lost both of their matches.

The contest was a five a side best ball foursome, and after the first four couples had finished the score was 2 points each. On the result of the match between D. F. Ramson and C. N. Day and W. C. Chick, the young Harvard player, and J. W. Baker, who played second on the Princeton team, the issue depended.

The quartette were all square on the last green but one, and to the last hole Ramson held his approach put and won the hole and the match.

J. L. Low and T. M. Hunter, the leading English pair, were all square with F. J. O. Alsop and his Yale confrere, W. S. Campbell, on the home green, nor was it until four extra holes had been played that the Yale pair won.

Another match which required two extra holes was that between G. D. Barne and G. W. Beveridge and the two Harvard men, G. Owen Winston, a former inter-scholastic champion, and A. A. Murdock, who were eventually defeated. Each of the other matches, curiously enough, was won by four up on the fifteenth green.

F. O. Reinhart paired with L. H. Conklin and lost 4 up and 3 to play. J. W. Baker, with his partner, W. C. Chick, was defeated by 1 up.

The teams will meet this morning in singles, and in the afternoon and Englishmen will visit the Essex Country Club, where they play All Massachusetts on Friday.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE

EXPRESSMAN DELIVERED PACKAGE AND FELL IN LOVE.

Met in Plainfield and Married in Elizabeth—Kept Wedding a Secret.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Edward Swick, of Elizabeth, who is connected with the local branch of the United States Express Company, to Miss Julia Jocken, of Wilmington, Del. The wedding took place April 22 but the announcement was withheld until yesterday.

Miss Jocken some time ago visited friends in Plainfield, and Mr. Swick was called upon to deliver an express package to her. The consignee attracted the notice of the young expressman, and it was not long before she had also received a consignment of his affections. The couple were married in Elizabeth, almost four months ago by Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Vassar, of this city, a retired Baptist minister.

Recently, the bridegroom's brother, William, was married in Elizabeth, and Edward was the best man. The latter did not, however, inform his brother that he had already preceded him in matrimony.

THE SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS

REPORTED ON THE COST OF BRIDGES IN THE SEVERAL TOWNSHIPS.

Discussed Other Matters of Interest at Their Meeting in Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 12 — Although there was not very much business done by the County Board of Freeholders in session here yesterday, what was transacted was important. All the members were in attendance.

A new petition for the construction of the road from Davidson's bridge, through Basking Ridge, to Blazure's Corner was presented by Mr. Sutro, of Bernards township. This was filed.

Messrs. R. W. Hoagland, E. B. Hoagland, Jacob Vreeland, T. E. Gibson and Andrew Lutkins, were chosen to procure the ballot boxes necessary under the new election law.

The following possible costs of bridges in the respective townships and boroughs for the current year were reported by the members:

Bedminister, $2,500; Bernards, $4,000; Bridgewater, $5,000; Branchburg, $1,800; Franklin, $2,100; Hillsborough, $5,000; Montgomery, $1,500; North Plainfield, $1,800; North Plainfield borough, $4,000; Warren, $2,400; total, $30,100.

The annual appropriation for the current year was fixed at $120,000 and the clerk was authorized to certify the same to the County Board of Assessors. The County Collector was authorized to borrow $20,000.

The Board will meet to view the road from Far Hills and Peapack Saturday at 11 a. m.

ALMOST CAUSED DEATH.

Charles Leland Was Trying to Cure Headache and Nearly Killed Himself.

Charles Leland, an employe of L. W. Randolph's drug store, had a narrow escape from fatal injury, while lying in a hammock at his home on Sunday inhaling a composition for the cure of a headache. The composition contained some acid in liquid form and this ran out of a metal case through the boy's nose into his mouth, burning the tissues severely.

The lad was greatly frightened and Dr. Cregar was summoned from Hope Chapel, where he was attending Sunday-school. Quick applications of the proper remedies soon brought the lad out of danger and he is now able to be at work again, although he still suffers considerable pain, the result of the acid burning.

CAN YOU MAKE A WATCH FOB

If You Are a Boy and Cannot You Will be Called a "Kid."

CRAZE STRUCK TOWN

SHOE DEALERS BESIEGED BY ARMY DEMANDING LACES.

The Fobs Are Plaited in a Brief Time From Laces of All Colors—Idea Came From Camp Wawayanda—Fobs for Everybody.

The craze of making shoe lace watch fobs has struck Plainfield. All over the city, in the homes, in the streets, at play, at work and even en route from place to place the Plainfield small boy may be seen plaiting fobs.

The idea of the manufacture of the trinkets for Plainfield is variously said to have originated from numerous places and with numerous boys, but it was perhaps first employed at Camp Wawayanda, the boys' camp of the Y. M. C. A. While at the camp, there were two or three stormy days and during this time the boy campers learned the trick. All shoe laces available were used up for the purpose and when the young campers arrived home again, the craze had secured a strong hold. Now the fact is well established, that the boy who can't make a watch fob is a "kid."

The shoe dealers of the town have been continually beseiged by a veritable army, buying shoe laces, which are of cotton and a yard and a half in length. They come in every known color. Two laces are used in the manufacture of a fob and these are crossed and recrossed. The finished fobs are a half inch square, though they may be made round.

The sales are positively astonishing. One well-known shoe dealer in the heart of the city sold fifteen hundred laces between half past one and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. When the consignment arrived nearly forty small boys swarmed the store, each seeking laces in large or small quantities. This same dealer claims having seen the worst case of the craze yet developed in town. This was that of a small boy who rode past his store on a bicycle, hands off the bars and busily engaged in weaving one of the fobs.

The choice of colors is left to the maker. The colors sold make it possible to make fobs representative of Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Harvard, and U. of P., together with the colors of the two local High Schools and their graduating classes. Such fobs find ready disposal at five cents apiece and are now worn in large numbers by both men and girls.

RESULT OF TRIP.

Mother Jones Claims She Removed Twenty-Five Children From Employment in Rahway.

Though "Mother" Jones was given a cold reception in this city, she claims that her tirades against child labor have not been utterly vain in some of the factory towns where she has spoken. Her New York trip, she says, has been of some value, at least in bringing about the removal of twenty-five children from work in the lace mills at Rahway. She states that she found children under fourteen years of age at work in many factories in New Jersey as well as Philadelphia. She spoke at Camden last night and from there will go direct to Philadelphia.

BOY THREW STONE.

With Serious Results to Owen Hollenbeck, of Netherwood.

While playing benind the Taylor building on North avenue, last evening, Owen Hollenbeck, of Netherwood, was struck in the eye with a small stone thrown by a playmate. The boy lives with his sister, Mrs. James McConnell, of North avenue. It was said that a messenger boy named Smith threw the stone.

IRONDEQUOIT WINS.

Sailed by A. Hannan of New York, American Yacht Wins.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12.—The dissatisfaction evinced over the manner in which the American challenger for the Canada cup had been sailed in the first two races led to the summoning from New York of Mr. A. Hannan to take charge of the Irondequoit.

Mr. Hannan went aboard the yacht, and the Irondequoit turned the tables on the Strathcona. He was in full command. Skipper James Barr acted as helmsman.

All conditions favored her—a course with fourteen miles of reaching in it and plenty of wind, never less than twelve miles an hour. It surprised no one that the American boat should show the way to the first buoy. After her performance in a reach on Saturday it seemed the most natural thing in the world that she should draw away from the Strathcona. Skipper Jarvis carried every possible sail and overhauled Irondequoit just a trifle, but he was at least three-quarters of a mile astern at the finish.

The official times were as follows: Irondequoit, start, 11:00:18; finish, 2:15:05. Strathcona, start, 11:00:35; finish, 2:20:19.

Ethel's Pride Got Westchester.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Threatening weather kept the attendance down at the Empire City grand circuit meeting. In the Westchester stake for three-year-olds Tireless sold for $30 to $50 for the field, but Ethel's Pride took the lead and held it to the wire, with Mary Gage a close second. In the next heat Ethel's Pride broke at the top turn, and Tireless won. The daughter of Direct um made no mistake in the next heat, winning it and the race. The 2:23 pace was a quick and hot race. Al Beck sold at $100 even against the field, and he gave his backers no trouble.

Gimcrack Won Delaware Handicap.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Another dark day and heavy going marked but failed to mar the racing at the spa. The Delaware, a handicap for three-year-olds and upward at one mile, was the stake feature and was won by James R. Keene's Gimcrack, by Ornament—Joppa, Gannon up, by three-quarters of a length from E. R. Thomas' Hunter Raine, who beat R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Highlander for place by half a length in the stretch. James R. Keene's Ben Brush filly Birch Broom won the third, a selling race, from Flara by a neck.

Croix d'Or Won by a Length.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—The feature of the card at Delmar, an all aged sprint of six furlongs, went to Croix d'Or, the longest priced horse in the race. Shortly after the field broke Fitzkanet, the heavily played favorite, was cut down, and Miss Mae Day, played by many to win the event, was thrown out of her stride. Croix d'Or and Malster were out in front running as a team. Coming into the stretch Miss Mae Day was fifth. She passed Malster, but could not catch Croix d'Or, who won by a length.

Bessie McCarthy Won In a Canter.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Bessie McCarthy, the outsider in the betting, proved an easy winner of the mile and a quarter handicap at Harlem. She had speed to loan and raced head and head with Bondage for a mile and an eighth. Then she drew away and won as she pleased by three lengths. Bondage tired at the end and barely got the place from John McGurk, the favorite.

Alleged "Ringer" Is Held.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—Oscar Rhodes, who has been a prisoner at Clayton, St. Louis county, was held to await the action of the grand jury in the alleged "ringer" case at Delmar race track in which an aged horse was substituted for and sent to the post as a two-year-old, Untrue by name. In the opinion of Justice Campbell the information was sufficient to warrant holding Rhodes.

Counterfeit $1: Look Out For It.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The secret service has discovered a new counterfeit one dollar silver certificate. The general appearance of the note is said to be excellent and calculated to deceive careful handlers of money. It is in imitation of the series of 1891, check letter D, Tillman register, bears the portrait of Hendricks and some notes have the number 7,019,548.

ROOT'S RETIREMENT.

Secretary of War Will Tender His Resignation.

BEFORE HE SAILS FOR LONDON.

It Has Been Known For Some Time That He Intended to Retire. May Be Succeeded by Governor Taft.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Before Secretary Root sails for London to sit with the Alaskan commission he will place his resignation in the hands of President Roosevelt in order that the president may appoint a secretary of war if it is deemed necessary during Mr. Root's absence. It is expected, however, that the resignation will not be acted upon until after congress meets. The appointment of Mr. Root's successor will depend somewhat upon the length of time that Secretary Root will be engaged upon the Alaskan boundary commission.

It has been known for some time that Secretary Root intended to retire, but he did not wish to leave the department until the general staff bill was in operation and other matters pertaining to the department were well under way. It is understood that the matter of his successor has been discussed, and, while nothing official can be obtained, it is believed that the position will be tendered to Governor Taft.

While Secretary Root is in London he will remain in communication with the war department, and matters pertaining to the general staff and other important affairs will be referred to him. If the sittings of the Alaskan commission extend beyond Dec. 1 it is likely that the secretary's resignation will be accepted and his successor appointed at that time, and if the situation in the war department becomes such that a secretary is needed to take charge of affairs one will be appointed earlier. It is believed here that there will be a great deal of delay in consideration of the Alaskan boundary case and that the United States' commissioners may be detained in London several months.

Secretary Root's desire to leave public life is based largely on personal grounds. His family does not like the life in Washington, and the secretary desires also to return to his law practice in New York city. The great questions that were pending in the war department, relating mainly to the administration of the islands acquired from Spain and the establishment of a government in Cuba, have been settled during Secretary Root's administration.

The reorganization of the army under the general staff plan is now under way, and the secretary feels that he has accomplished the work that he was called on to do when he became secretary of war.

Allen's Defalcation Now $110,000.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—In a circular issued by the police giving a description of Willard S. Allen, absconding treasurer of the Preachers' Aid society of the New England Methodist conference, the amount of the embezzlement is given as $110,000, a figure considerably in excess of former estimates. Allen's letter of confession, in which he said his stealings aggregated $80,000, made no reference to the misuse of funds other than those of the Preachers' Aid society. Investigation has brought to light several cases in which Allen misappropriated money placed in his hands for safe keeping. The Methodist Historical society's loss is $9,800. This society, of which Allen was treasurer, was supposed to have $10,000 on deposit. A balance of $200 is all that remains to its credit.

Jett-White Trial Nearing an End.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Aug. 12.—Attorney Golden finished for the defense and was followed by A. T. Byrd, the commonwealth's attorney, who conducted the prosecution at the previous trial of Jett and White at Jackson. Byrd closely followed the evidence and summed up his case in a masterly way, at the close demanding for the commonwealth of Kentucky that the defendants be hanged. He begged the jury in the name of the widow and children of James B. Marcum to fix the death penalty. Byrd spoke four hours and thirty-five minutes. James D. Black and L. P. Fryer then addressed the jury. It is thought the case will be given to the jury some time today.

They include Lord Londonderry and Lord Dudley as knights Grand Cross and Lord Charles Beresford, Right Hon. Thirty-seven officers of the army, navy, Irish constabulary and police are made commanders or members of the fourth or fifth class of the Royal Victorian order.

Government Will Not Remit Fine.

HAVANA, Aug. 12.—The government has declined to remit the fine imposed upon an American resident of the Isle of Pines for burying the body of his relative upon his premises in order to avoid the post mortem examination required by the old Spanish law. The government is investigating the complaint made by Americans of the roughness of Isle of Pines officials in connection with such examinations.

LAND BILL PASSED.

The Irish Measure of Relief In House of Lords.

WILL BENEFIT THE WHOLE LAND.

John Redmond Says if It Works as Is Hoped It Will Effect a Revolution in the Condition of Ireland.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The house of lords has passed the third reading of the Irish land bill. The measure will now go back to the house of commons, which will no doubt pass it in its amended form.

The few changes made in the upper branch of parliament leave the act's original purpose unaffected, and it is not believed that the slightest objection will be made against the amendments.

John Redmond (Nationalist) said of the passage of the bill:

"The Irish land bill may now be regarded as past all danger. We may look upon it as an accomplished fact. If it works as it is confidently hoped it will there is no question that it will effect a revolution in the condition of Ireland. A satisfactory home rule bill appears more probable now than the land bill which is just about to be passed looked a year ago. I feel quite sure that the national movement is now on the highroad to complete success."

Prior to the third reading of the bill the Duke of Devonshire said that while he was unable to forecast the action of the house of commons on the landlords' amendments adopted by the house of lords, he was confident that the position of the government in the lower house would not be altogether irreconcilable.

Lord Abercorn in behalf of the landlords thanked the duke for his courteous reception of the amendments and said he believed the bill would benefit the whole of Ireland. He trusted that the amendments would be received by the house of commons in the same spirit as they had been passed by the lords.

HELD FOR SHOOTING.

W. B. Lytle Held at Montgomery For Attempt on Negro.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 12.—W. B. Lytle, a brother of Marie Gordon, who attempted to commit suicide in Chicago Sunday night and who was arrested here, denies shooting the negro in Chicago and says he left there at 1 o'clock Sunday and came direct here on business for his sister. He acknowledges his sister's name is Marie Lytle of Murfreesboro, Tenn.

A writ of habeas corpus was denied to William Lytle, brother of Marie Gordon, who is held by the local police on instructions from Chief O'Neal of the Chicago police department charging Lytle with attempt to murder a negro in Chicago.

Chief Gerald received a telegram from Chief O'Neal stating that he had secured a formal requisition for Lytle and that an officer would be sent to take Lytle to Chicago.

Stolen Child Found.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Thirteen years ago Xavier Moreu, five years old, of Gativenu Pond disappeared. His clothes were found on the river bank, and he was believed to have been drowned. The grief of his mother resulted in the temporary loss of her reason. Word was received that the boy is living in the state of Illinois and will return home at once. He was carried off by a band of gypsies, from whom he escaped four years ago. He was found by relatives, who fully identified him by a birthmark on the shoulder.

Wreck Was Deliberately Planned.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 12.—Engineer Black, Fireman Earle and Mail Clerks Burchfield and Sharpe, injured in the wreck of the fast mail train at Gastonia, were removed to their homes, and it is said that all will recover. Railroad men claim there is indisputable evidence that the wreck was deliberately planned. It has been discovered that the switch lock was broken with a rock and the signal light extinguished. Persons who visited the scene shortly after the accident assert this.

Chase For Convicts Abandoned.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 12.—Sheriff Reese has practically abandoned the hunt for the escaped convicts known to have been in this city last Friday, including Ray Fahey, a notorious highwayman. Sheriff Reese feels it is useless to further pursue an organized chase for the escaped men. The five convicts, fleeing through the corral flat country, are believed to have escaped to the Devil's basin region, a rocky and heavily timbered section affording good shelter and protection.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Aug. 12.—The seven-year-old daughter of A. I. Macon, a prominent farmer of North Hudson, was assaulted by one of a party of horse traders who were camping near her home. The child will die, and a large and excited mob is in pursuit of her assailant. He will be lynched if captured.

At the Chinese Court.

It is only about three years since the dowager empress of China loathed foreigners and everything foreign, but in that time the Chinese court has been modernized in many ways. At a recent entertainment in her palace at Pekin the Misses Yu Keng, the two daughters of an ex-minister to Paris, danced a minuet dressed as a French peasant boy and girl. On the same evening four Chinese princesses went through a quadrille, the empress looking on with evident pleasure. Not so long ago a Chinese woman who dressed as a man brought lasting disgrace on herself and her relatives.—N. Y. Sun.

Women Workers in Bohemia.

An industrial census of Bohemia shows that of its 2,000,000 population, 460,327 are engaged in manufactures, and of these 201,530 are women. Most of the work is done by hand and at home. These "home" workers live in the little villages which stretch along the banks of mountain streams and in the wider valleys, and the women and girls, in great baskets slung on their backs, carry the raw and finished goods between home and factory over steep mountain paths, which in winter are covered with snow and ice.—N. Y. Sun.

Queens and Fashions.

Whenever queens or empresses of royal parentage have attempted to influence feminine fashion they have always failed, and no better illustration can be given thereof than the fact that in spite of the circumstance that Queen Alexandra dresses beautifully and with the utmost elegance, yet she has never succeeded in setting the fashion, or in even influencing in any way the toilets of English women.—London Letter.

A Distinction.

"I dislike so much to be called a 'poetess,'" said a young woman who sometimes wrote verses for publication.

"Perhaps," suggested her matter-of-fact brother, "if you will write a little better quality of poetry people will call you a poet."—Youth's Companion.

"I wish to marry your daughter," said the young man.

"Can I support you in the style to which you have been accustomed?" he asked.—Puck.

Release of Princess Radziwill at Cape Town.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Aug. 12.—Princess Radziwill, who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment by the supreme court April 30, 1902, for forgery in connection with notes purporting to have been indorsed by the late Cecil Rhodes, has been liberated from prison and has started for England.

The Princess Radziwill is the daughter of the Austrian Count Dymski, formerly one of the great landed proprietors of Galicia, where he possessed several grand castles. He sought to have his daughter marry a wealthy manufacturer, but she eloped with Prince Radziwill on the eve of the day set for her marriage to the manufacturer.

Three years ago she appeared in London, lived in luxurious style and was apparently possessed of much wealth. One day it was reported that she had been robbed of thousands of dollars' worth of jewels, and there was a deal of trouble over the matter until it was discovered that they were paste and that the real jewels were in a safe place. Subsequently she went to South Africa and attempted to float evidences of credit purporting to have been signed by Cecil Rhodes, but which were repudiated by him and which led to several suits at Cape Town, finally culminating in her conviction.

In commenting upon her remarkable career at the time of the sentence the London papers generally attributed Cecil Rhodes' death to the worry which she had caused him, obliging him to return to South Africa in the hottest weather to fight the case.

A MISSING COUPLE.

Supposed to Be Drowned In Canada Lake.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug 12.—There is much excitement and no little consternation at Canada Lake, an Adirondack summer resort twenty miles north of this city, as to the whereabout of George H. Evans of Johnstown and Miss Florence Brown of New York, who are summering there.

They left Fulton's hotel in a rowboat to search for pond lilies. Later in the day their boat was found afloat in the lake with one oar missing. In the boat was the young lady's sack and a man's sweater. Searching parties were immediately instituted, and the woods surrounding the lake thoroughly searched, but up to a late hour no trace had been found of the missing couple. There is a strong suspicion at the lake that they have been drowned, and preparations to drag the lake are under way.

Mr. Evans is a member of a prominent Johnstown family, and Miss Brown came to the lake from New York with her sister, Mrs. Beiring.

POPE PIUS X. FAINTS.

Overcome by Heart Weakness and Strain of Audiences.

MUST NOW HAVE COMPLETE REST.

His Physician, Dr. Lapponi, Insists Upon Suspension of All Official Work and Receptions.

ROME, Aug. 12.—Pope Pius X., overcome by the strain of his duties, fainted while at mass. His collapse is considered to be due to heart weakness.

His holiness was very much agitated, but still he insisted upon admitting to hear his mass all Venetians who had journeyed to Rome purposely to attend the coronation. They numbered about 800 when the mass began in the Pauline chapel, and the air was vitiated, with the temperature above 90 degrees.

The pope had already given the communion to 200 people when he began to feel ill. Those about him soon perceived that he was not himself by his nervousness and impatience, which showed itself when his attendant handed him his spectacles.

He pushed them aside and drew another pair from his pocket. When another attendant tried to tie the ribbons of his robes behind he told him to stop and did it himself, a most unusual occurrence with him. The consternation of the Venetians when they saw him faint was great, and they rendered matters worse by crowding around him.

Mgr. Bisleti, however, kept his presence of mind and ordered the Swiss guards to clear a space about the pontiff. Smelling salts were brought hastily, and they had the desired effect.

Dr. Lapponi has thought it more prudent for his holiness not to leave his apartment and not to go into the garden of the Vatican, as he desired. The doctor further insisted on a suspension of all audiences.

MINES ARE CLOSED.

Colorado Miners' Strike Affects Cripple Creek District.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Aug. 12.—Practically all the mines in this district except the Portland and those operated by the Woods Investment company are closed down in consequence of the union miners' strike.

The number of miners on strike is estimated at 2,700. Hundreds of miners are leaving the camp for other localities. At the miners' union headquarters it was asserted that no more ore will be shipped from the camp to the mills and smelters of the United States Refining and Reduction company and the American Smelting and Refining company until they concede an eight hour day and agree to pay the union scale of wages.

Tropical Hurricane Threatens.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The tropical hurricane was apparently central south of the central Cuban coast and recurving northward. Its exact course cannot now be determined, but it is dangerous for vessels to sail for southern ports. It has passed over Santo Domingo and Martinique and is probably approaching the south Cuban coast, with indications of recurving, but at what angle the weather bureau officials are unable to state. A report from Havana said that the wind was blowing thirty-six miles an hour and was from the northeast. The hurricane probably will continue in its course northward somewhere close to the Florida peninsula. Hurricane warnings have been sent to points from Port Eads on the gulf coast around the Florida coast up as far as Jupiter and storm warnings to Atlantic coast points from Jackson to Charleston, S. C. The weather bureau regards it as extremely unwise for vessels to sail for gulf or Cuban ports or the Bahamas just now. The storm was central at Kingston, Jamaica.

Color Line Drawn by Labor Union.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 12.—The color line has been drawn by a union labor organization here. The Machinists' union of Newport News, the local branch of the International Association of Machinists, voted to sever its affiliation with the Central Trades and Labor council. The latter recently admitted representatives of negro labor unions to its membership despite the protests of the Machinists' union, which is the strongest and most influential labor body in the city. Other withdrawals from the Central council may follow.

Strikers Paralyze Business.

KIEV, Russia, Aug. 12.—The strikers have completely paralyzed business and will not allow finished machinery to be delivered from manufactories. The men turned girls out of dressmaking and other workshops under threats of death. The streets are full of soldiers, according to these advices, and shooting occurs daily. The price of bread has risen 150 per cent and is still going up. The troops are working the waterworks.

Drowned by Auto Going Into Canal.

FONDA, N. Y., Aug 12.—Harry Spaulding, a Buffalo automobilist bound from Amsterdam to Syracuse via the towpath of the Erie canal, was drowned about two miles above Sprakker's. He lost control of his machine, which bounded into the canal. The body was recovered. On it was found a New York draft for $5,000.

Hailstorm at Owego.

OWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 12.—A heavy hailstorm struck here, doing heavy damage to several fine fields of tobacco. The wind blew down many trees about town, taking telephone and electric light wires with them.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 12, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

The news has arrived that the road bed and overhead wiring of the local trolley lines are to be improved. It is also stated that we are to be favored with new cars. It sounds too good to be true.

Complaints have been heard that a few of the local dealers have been defrauding their customers by giving false weights and measures. When their sales begin to fall off, these particular merchants will doubtless arrive at a definite conclusion as to what is their best policy.

The absurd lengths to which the compiler of statistics will go are seemingly without limit. The friends of the champion long distance pancake eater of Long Island, have estimated that their hero has consumed 87,000 pancakes in sixty years and that the cakes, if piled one above the other, would make a column more than half a mile in height. They also aver that they would cover more than an acre, if spread on the ground.

These particular statisticians ought to get together now on the Jerseyman who has killed the most mosquitoes. A knowledge that if the volume of sound emitted by the humming of all the mosquitoes killed in a lifetime were combined into one blast it would be loud enough to reach from here to Kalamazoo; or that the number of insects slain in a given period would make a pile equal to one of the pyramids of Egypt, would doubtless be a comfort to all, and a distinct addition to scientific lore.

LOOK OUT FOR THE BEAR

NEW YORK SUN MAN SAYS THERE IS ONE IN LORRAINE.

John Shreve Saved His Life by Fastening a Crab to Bear's Nose.

The following despatch appeared in this morning's New York Sun:

Lorraine, N. J., Aug. 11—Almost everybody in Lorraine has been hunting today the bear that attacked John Shreve last night on Westfield avenue, in the glare of the electric lights. Front gates are kept locked, and all the children are under strict orders not to go out of the yards until the bear has been caught. Tonight's meeting of the sewing circle was postponed because it was to be held this week at the home of Sister Jones, who lives off the road, and the members didn't want to walk cross-lots with their sewing on account of the bear.

The folks are out in force, following the trail of the bear and of the soft-shell crabs that saved John Shreve's life. Shreve had been crabbing in the Rahway, and was coming home with a netful late last night, when the bear caught him within a hundred feet of his home in Westfield avenue.

"I had just passed an electric light," said Shreve today, "when I heard a rustling in the corn field on the side of the road. I supposed at first that it was just a gang of Jersey postoffice thieves on their way to work and didn't think anything more about it till half a minute later, when the rustling stopped and a big black bear loped out of the corn field and stood right before me on the sidewalk.

"I dodged round him and started to run for my house. He came after me full tilt. A bear looks slow when he's in a cage, but he isn't. I knew the bear was gaining on me at every jump. Pretty soon I could hear him breathe. Then I felt him breathe. It was like one of those southwest winds in dog days

"Finally, I felt a paw on my leg and then I knew I was done for unless I turned around and made a fight. The minute I turned the bear went up on his hind legs and grabbed me around the waist.

"I didn't have any weapon, but my arms were free, and, in a lucky instant, I thought of the crabs in my net bag over my shoulder. They were all alive, and were my only hope, so I took out one and reaching around the bear's body I found a place where the hair was kind of thin, and planted the crab right there. It got a good nip and hung on.

"The bear growled. A nipping in just one spot wouldn't make him let go of me and he kept squeezing tighter. I had my presence of mind with me and calculated that I could stand the hugging for about five minutes more.

"I knew I had a dozen crabs left, so I worked carefully and took out one crab at a time so as not to drop any. I distributed 'em all over the bear's back and held on to each one till I felt sure he had nipped.

"Out of the dozen I guess ten got a bite into that critter's hide and hung on and kept nipping together. About the time I got the sixth crab located the bear began to weaken his strangle hold on me and to waste his breath howling. I hardly had time to plant the last crab before the bear quit, dropped down on all fours and streaked for the cornfield again. I guess the crabs stayed with him, for I heard him growl all the way across the cornfield and into the woods.

"If I had those crabs back I'd let 'em go alive into the Rahway again, I feel so grateful."

John Shreve is one of the well-known citizens of Lorraine, and there isn't a soul here who doesn't believe the bear story or who would dare hint that Shreve invented it just as an excuse for coming home without any crabs.

THE PARIS DISASTER.

Nearly One Hundred Bodies Found In Railway Tunnel.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The police have estimated the number of lives lost by the burning of trains in the subway of the Metropolitan Electric railway at eighty-four.

The scene of the fire is between the Menilmontant and Rue des Couronnes stations. An electric locomotive car which was bringing in an empty train worked badly and took fire. The flames spread rapidly along the whole train. Thus the tunnel was blocked. The electric light in the subway was also extinguished owing to the fusing of the wires. The tunnel was immediately filled with a poisonous vapor.

Other trains ran into the burning carriages, and the conductors told the passengers to escape as best they could. A panic ensued, in which five persons are known to have been injured. The firemen and police, who were immediately sent for, took steps to restore order and save the lives of the many passengers who were imperiled, but everything combined to make the task one of extraordinary difficulty, and it was midnight before they could even begin to fight the flames.

Out of the first fifty-six bodies recovered forty-four were those of men, ten of women and two of children, all belonging to the working class. All the victims appeared to have died of asphyxiation. The majority of the bodies had the arms raised, the fists clinched and the legs twisted, and some of them were bent double. Almost all had wounds on the face and hands. Many of the victims held handkerchiefs in their smoke begrimed hands.

Chauven, the driver of train 43, believes that a piece of metal must have fallen on the rails, causing a short circuit which produced sparks and fired the guttapercha wire covering. He used the hand grenades that were in the motor cabin, but these were of no avail.

Owing to the extinguishment of the electric light in the tunnel the passengers instead of going toward the Rue des Couronnes station rushed toward the dead wall at the entrance of the tunnel. The walls to a height of six feet are covered with blood. There is also a large pool of blood on the ground in which float hats, umbrellas and even a loaf of bread.

THE MACEDONIANS.

Insurgents Blow Up a Bridge on the Salonika-Uskub Railway.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 12.—The insurgents have blown up a bridge sixty yards long near Gievgyeli on the Salonika-Uskub railway.

The representatives of the Macedonian revolutionary committee announce that the revolution has broken out in the vilayets of Uskub and Adrianople.

Telegraphic communication is interrupted. Adrianople forms the seventh revolutionary district, with Chief Ghirdjikoff and Captains Ikonomoff and Madjaroff in command. The representatives of the committee also publish a contradiction of the alleged atrocities committed by the Bulgarians and accuse the Turks of attempting to prepare the mind of Europe for the eventual massacre of innocent Christians.

General Tzoncheff, president of the Macedonian committee, has addressed an appeal to his adherents to assist the insurgents in Macedonia even by revolutionary means. Prominent Macedonians here have formed a charitable committee for the purpose of obtaining help for the victims of the insurrection. Representatives of all political parties in Bulgaria have joined the committee, and it is proposed to hold a public meeting to solicit contributions from all Bulgarians.

The Italian minister of marine at Rome has directed that a squadron be kept in readiness to sail for the east should the complications in Macedonia make it necessary to protect Italian subjects there.

Earthquakes In Sicily and Italy.

ROME, Aug 12.—An earthquake having the region of Mount Etna as a center was felt throughout Sicily and southern Italy and to a lesser degree in central Italy. Little damage was done, although in the zone of greatest intensity the movement lasted two minutes. The flume Caldo, a stream near Mount Etna, became turbid, and the temperature of the water rose to 72 degrees. Mount Vesuvius is again in eruption, its present activity being considered to be connected with the earthquake shock.

Another Circus Train Wreck Victim.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 12.—Frank Tilley of Rising Sun, Ind., one of the employees of Wallace Bros.' circus who was brought to Harper hospital here after the accident at Durand when the two sections of the circus train collided in the Grand Trunk yards, has died from his injuries. This is the twenty-fifth death caused by the wreck.

St. Louis Fair Opens In May.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Mr. John Schroers, director of the St. Louis world's exposition, at a conference with Secretary Shaw assured the secretary that the exposition would be opened to all visitors in May, 1904, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

West Shore Express Killed Boy.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug 12.—Garret Green, the twelve-year-old son of George Green, station agent of the West Shore road at Tomkins Cove, was struck and killed by an express train.

Doctor Dies From Blood Poisoning.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Dr. Charles W. Piper of Wurtsboro died from blood poisoning which developed as a result of a cut sustained while performing an autopsy.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

WALK, LADIES, WALK!

So You Shall Gain Health, Power, Joy and Knowledge.

Lately there was a walking match between twelve girls under twenty and twelve women of forty. Which won? I suppose you would instantly guess "the girls." Well, they didn't, not by a long chalk. The forty-year-old women won with the greatest ease, and quite naturally. A woman of forty who has developed her muscles and minded her health has twice the endurance of a girl of eighteen.

Then, too, the forty-year-old women had been walking twice as long as the girls, consequently their muscles of locomotion had become steady and powerful.

Half the girls and women nowadays lead a sedentary life. There are the women who sew, the stenographers, copyists, teachers and others. The clerk in a store stands upon her feet all day, but in an atmosphere of confusion and vitiation. She, more than many of the rest, needs the bracing that a morning walk in the open air before going to her work would give. Many of the sedentaries are too tired to walk in the evening after work, but not one of them but could walk one to two miles daily in the pure morning air if she would. All she needs is the clear grit and the keeping before her mind that this early morning walk is sure to add ever to her beauty, health and happiness.

THE MERRY WALKERS.

You have not time? Take it. What is time for if not for us to use a proper amount in getting health and good looks? Considering what the early morning walk will do for you, it is worth going to bed an hour early so as to get up in time for it. It is worth—yes, ten times over it is worth omitting a few of the scallops and frills and bows from your garments and dressing with a little less ornamentation as to clothes, so as to get more ornamentation in your body itself. That is the real thing after all, the ornament of a beautiful skin, bright eyes, full chest and graceful carriage. These will wash and wear.

How to walk is to be considered. You must wear loose, comfortable shoes and a walking skirt. You must be loose as to the waist, or you can't walk at all, much less get any good of it. The ideal of feminine beauty is now the American athletic girl and she cannot be developed with anything upon her that binds and crushes her beautiful body. Wear high heels, long skirts and corsets if you want to in the house in the evening, but never outdoors on a walk.

Next, hold your chest up and take long, slow breaths from the lowest point of your body. Take in all the air you can hold. Aerate your whole body. Oriental wise men say the human race has not been educated to breathe properly. They recommend the long, slow breath and the taking of as much time to exhale as to inhale. They lay great stress on this last. You will be surprised at the fine chest development that follows the deep, slow inhalation and exhalation, especially if you continually obey the injunction to hold your chest up. This draws upward from about the waist and muscles that we ordinarily allow to sag in so slovenly a way. It makes the region of the lungs and bust rounder and fuller, the waist more slender. Finally, holding the chest up gives a noble, queenly carriage that is admired by everybody who beholds it and that nothing else will give. Don't hold the chest up spasmodically and then slump, but train yourself to hold it up constantly.

Then there is the walking party or picnic or vacation tour, either of ladies and gentlemen or of ladies alone. Girls and women with time to spare can organize systematic walking parties for twice a week. In the morning is the best time. They can take with them camera and sketching material and carry a lunch if the walk is long. They should agree to watch every object along the way, bird, beetle, spider, tree, horse, dog or human, and see its peculiarities. In that way the habit of close and accurate observation will be acquired, a habit in which women are lamentably lacking except when clothes are concerned. Make notes in memory and observe when you meet who saw the most.

Swing out and take long, free steps. With some practice you will be able to walk fifteen and miles a day.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1903, by The Robert Company.

It was late in the night when Number Six regained his senses and could tell his tale, which was even more damaging. Quite early in the evening, so he said—as early as nine o'clock—he was under the hospital corner, listening to the music further up along the bluff. A lady came from the south of the building as though she were going down to Sudstown. Mrs. Foster had gone down not long before, and Hogan, with a lantern, and two officers' ladies. But this one came all alone and spoke to him pleasant-like and said she was so sorry he couldn't be at the dance. She'd been seeing the sick and wounded in hospital, she said, and was going to bring some wine and jellies. If he didn't mind, she'd take the path around the quartermaster's storehouse outside, as she was going to Mr. Hay's, and didn't care to go through by the guardhouse. So Six let her go, as he "had no orders agin it" (even though it dawned upon him that this must be the young lady that had been carried off by the Sioux). That made him think a bit, he said, and when she came back with a basket nicely covered with a white napkin, she made him take a big chicken sandwich "Sure I didn't know how to refuse the lady, until she poured me out a big tumbler of wine—wine, she said, she was taking in to Sergt. Briggs and Corporal Turner that was shot at the Elk, and she couldn't bear to see me all alone out there in the cold." But Six said he dasn't take the wine. He got six months "blind" once for a similar solecism, and, mindful of the major's warning (this was diplomatic), Six swore he had sworn off, and had to refuse the repeated requests of the lady. He suspicioned her, he said, because she was so persistent. Then she laughed and said good-night and went on to the hospital. What became of the wine she had poured out? (This from the grim and hitherto silent doctor, seated by the bedside.) She must have tossed it out or drunk it herself, perhaps, Six didn't know. Certainly no trace of it could be found in the snow. Then nothing happened for as much as 20 minutes or so, and he was over toward the south end of his post, but facing toward the hospital when she came again down the steps, and this time handed him some cake and told him he was a good soldier not to drink even wine, and asked him what were the lights away across the Platte, and he couldn't see any, and was following her pointing finger and staring, and then all of a sudden he saw a million lights dancing and stars and bombs and that was all he knew till they began talking to him here in hospital. Something had hit him from behind, but he couldn't tell what.

Flint's nerve was failing him, for here was confirmation of the general's theory.

And so it was with hardened and resentful heart that the major sought her on the morrow. The general and the commands afield would soon be coming home. Such Indians as they had not "rounded up" and captured were scattered far and wide. The campaign was over. Now for the disposition of the prisoners. It was to tell Mrs. Hay and Nanette, especially Nanette, why the sentries were re-established about their home that, though he would not place the trader's niece within a garrison cell, he should hold her prisoner beneath the trader's roof to await the action of superior authority on the grievous charges lodged at her door. She was able to be up, said Miss McGrath—not only up, but down—down in the breakfast room, looking blither and more like herself than she had been since she was brought home.

"Say that Maj. Flint desires to see her and Mrs. Hay," said Flint, with majesty of mien, as, followed by two of his officers, he was shown into the trader's parlor.

And presently they came—Mrs. Hay pale and sorrowing; Miss Flower, pale, perhaps, but triumphantly defiant. The one sat and covered her face with her hands as she listened to the major's few words, cold, stern and accusing. The other looked squarely at him, with fearless, glittering eyes:

"You may order what you like so far as I'm concerned," was the utterly reckless answer of the girl. "I don't care what you do now that I know he is safe—free—and that you will never lay hands on him again."

"That's where you are in error, Miss Flower," was the major's calm, cold-blooded, yet rejoiceful reply. It was for this, indeed, that he had come. "Ralph Moreau was run down by my men soon after midnight, and he's now behind the bars."

CHAPTER XXIII.

December and bitter cold. The river frozen stiff. The prairie sheeted in unbroken snow. Great log fires roaring in every open fireplace. Great throngs of soldiery about the red hot barrack stoves, for all the columns were again in winter quarters, and Flint's two companies had "got the route" for home. They were to march on the morrow, escorting as far as Laramie the intractables of Stabber's band, some few of the Indians to go in irons, among them Ralph Moreau, or Eagle Wing, now a notorious character.

The general was there at Frayne, with old Black Bill, erstwhile chief inspector of the department, once a subaltern in days long gone by when Laramie was "Ultima Thule" of the plains forts. The general had heard Flint's halting explanation of his laxity in Moreau's case, saying almost as little as his old friend Grant when "interviewed" by those of whom he disapproved. "Black Bill" it was who waxed explosive when once he opened on the major, and showed that amazed New Englander something of the contents of Moreau's Indian kit, including the now famous hunting pouch, all found with Stabber's village. A precious scoundrel, as it turned out, was this same Moreau, with more sins to answer for than many a convicted jail bird, and with not one follower left to do him reverence except, perhaps, that lonely girl, self secluded at the Hays.' Hay himself, though weak, was beginning to sit up. Dade, Blake and Ray were all once more housed in garrison. Truscott and Billings, with their hardy troopers, had taken temporary station at the post, until the general had decided upon the disposition of the array of surrendered Indians, nearly 300 in number, now confined under strong guard in the quartermaster's corral at the flats, with six "head devils," including Eagle Wing, in the garrison prison.

All the officers, with two exceptions, were again for duty at Frayne. Webb, laid by the heels at Beecher, his feet severely frozen, and Beverly Field, who, recalled from a brief and solemn visit to a far southern home, had reached the post at nightfall of the tenth. There had hardly been allowed him time to uplift a single prayer, to receive a word of consolation from the lips of friends and kindred who loved the honored father, borne to his last resting place. "Come as soon as possible" read the message wired him by Ray, and, though the campaign was over, it was evident that something was amiss, and, with all his sorrow fresh upon him, the lad, sore in body and soul, had hastened to obey.

And it was Ray who received and welcomed him and took him straight way to his own cosy quarters, that Mrs. Ray, and then the Blakes, might add their sympathetic and cordial greeting—ere it came to telling why it was that these, his friends despite that trouble that could not be talked of, were now so earnest in their sympathy—before telling him that his good name had become involved, that there were allegations concerning him which the chief had ordered "pigeon-holed" until he should come to face them. A pity it was that Bill Hay could not have been there, too, but his fever had left him far too weak to leave his room. Only Ray and Blake were present and it was an interview not soon, if ever, to be forgotten.

KHEDIVE OF EGYPT.

Although an Orthodox Mohammedan He Is a Monogamist of the Strictest Type.

Abbas Pasha Hilmi, khedive of Egypt, has been in London on a short visit, going there from Paris incognito. During his stay in London no entertainments of an official character were given in his honor, but he had an audience with King Edward.

This is the third visit of the khedive to London, his last one being in 1900, when he was received at Windsor by Queen Victoria, whose guest he was for two or three days.

The khedive, who was born on July 14, 1874, has a pleasant face without being exactly handsome. He is short and rather inclined to be stout. His face is full and round, with a fair complexion, bronzed by much out-of-door exercise. His eyes are light hazel, and impart a great charm to his face.

His father, the Khedive Tewfik, having English tastes, provided English nurses for his children, and intrusted the education of his two sons, Abbas and Mehemet, to English tutors until the former was 12 years old.

It was Tewfik's wish that the princes should be educated in England, but owing to political difficulties he was never able to carry out his intention. The two young princes were therefore sent to Vienna, first touring through Europe to Rome, Paris and London.

Early in 1892, when a youth of 17, the sudden death of his father called Abbas to the throne of Egypt from the gay and irresponsible life of a Viennese student. His time had not, however, been wasted.

Abbas II. has shown himself an excellent administrator and an accomplished linguist, speaking fluently English, French, German, Italian, Turkish and Arabic. During his stay in Vienna Emperor Francis Joseph took a great interest in his education, and had him specially initiated in a soldier's training.

While most particular regarding the etiquette and formality due to his rank, Abbas II. cares nothing for the pomp and ceremonial of state. He is fonder of a quiet life at home, and is devoted to his wife and children. He is a strict monogamist, as his father was before him.

At Koubbeh palace he lives the life of an English country gentleman. He is a keen sportsman, a great rider, and devoted to dogs. His stables contain horses of every breed. The kennels and poultry houses have been stocked from every land.

Besides being a good sportsman, Abbas is a great admirer of cricket and football, games which he has introduced among his tenantry.

In his camel stables there are nearly 200 camels. The khedive is always trying to encourage his subjects to give attention to camel-breeding, for the prosperity of Egypt largely depends on the camel.

dismiss, has had no direct charges preferred against him beyond the fact that he is no longer a union man. The authorities of the printing office suspended Miller, but the president ordered him reinstated. Miller's official position is assistant foreman of the bookbinding department. He was suspended from his post for the same reason that he was expelled from the Bookbinders' union, but the officials of that organization refuse to make public their charges except to the civil service commission.

A VATICAN MYSTERY.

Fisherman's Ring Said to Have Been Lost or Stolen.

A Symbol of Papal Authority Which Has Been Worn by Pontiffs for Hundreds of Years—Lost Twice Before.

The celebrated fisherman's ring, symbol of papal authority, has disappeared. Authorities at the vatican at Rome say they expect to find it among Leo's possessions in the apartments recently occupied by him, but fears are expressed that the ring was stolen from the pope's dead hand. The authorities say Leo hid the ring.

When the cardinal camarlengo certifies the death of a pope he receives the ring of the fisherman from the chamberlain of his holiness. It is then destroyed in the presence of all the cardinals at the first meeting of the sacred college held after the pope's death.

But when Cardinal Oreglia, the present camarlengo, had certified to the death of Leo XIII. Mgr. Bisletti was a prey to the deepest despair and had to admit that the ring had disappeared. Cardinal Oreglia, who had, as is the custom, brought his declaration of having received the ring from the papal chamberlain, all written out, had to put it back in his pocket.

The fisherman's ring is known to have been lost twice before.

Among the state papers preserved at Simancas, near Valladolid, Spain, is a letter from Count Olivares, then Spanish ambassador at Rome, to Philip II., dated September 5, 1588, saying:

"Sixtus V. has been very ill from anxiety and vexation. The vexation to which I refer was at missing the fisherman's ring. He carried it with him in a purse, and he discovered that he had been robbed of it by a cup-bearer."

THE FISHERMAN'S RING.

In September, 1899, the late Pope Leo was one day insistently asked for an audience by an under servant, and, yielding to curiosity, he granted it, whereupon the man entered, and, kneeling, said:

"Your holiness, I have to restore to you what has been a loss not only to you but to the world."

After these words the man gave the pope the fisherman's ring, which he had found. Pope Leo looked at it in surprise and then, solemnly putting it on his finger, said:

"The thanks of the church are due to you, my son. I shall see that you are rewarded."

The next day the man called at the treasury and received three dollars.

On two occasions the ring was taken from the papacy by force. In 1797 the French republicans, invading the papal states, despoiled Pius VI. of all his valuables, among them the fisherman's ring. It was returned the next day.

When Pius VII. was kidnaped in the middle of the night and was made to give up this ring, the pope gave it up after breaking it in two pieces, which were kept in Paris until returned to Rome by Louis XVIII.

The ring of the fisherman was the official seal used by the pope in all his personal documents and private letters. The origin of the ring was a custom adopted many centuries ago by the popes in order to keep alive the memory of the poor fisherman of Galilee. Every one of the popes since that time has sworn and used a signet ring which bore the device of St. Peter seated in a boat and drawing a net from the waves. The authorities as to the date of the origin of the custom are not agreed. Mabillon claims that no evidence exists as to the precise date. Bongratia says it is believed that Peter himself used this ring. The first mention of the ring occurs in a letter of Clement IV., written in 1265. Martin V., who was elected in 1417, left three briefs, all sealed by the ring of the fisherman. Eugene IV., his successor, also left letters sealed with the ring. In 1468 Gaetano Cenni wrote a treatise on the ring and published it in Rome. The custom of destroying the seal of the pope immediately after his death is of considerable antiquity. Each pope has had his own ring and seal. The illustration shows that used by Pope Leo XIII. It was of plain gold, weighing one and one-half ounces, and had an oval plate, with a very shallow representation of the subject.

GOLF.

It is quiet these days at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and the Park Golf Club, owing to the absence from the city of so many members. There are just enough members at home to take part in the weekly competitions and make a fair showing. With the beginning of September the clubs will take on new life and until snow flies there will be plenty of events to keep everyone busy.

ADJOURNED TO SEPTEMBER.

The Board of Education Will Not Meet Until Next Month.

The postponed meeting of the Board of Education of the City High School which was to have been held last evening, was again put off because of no quorum. E. M. Cave was the only member present.

President Probasco said today that the August meeting will be dropped and that the next meeting will take place in September.

"Farmer Jim" Still With Us.

A report spread throughout the city this morning that Hon. James E. Martine, the owner of Cedar Brook farm, had been killed by a mad bull. A reporter found that the rumor was without the least foundation and that the "Farmer Orator" is as well as ever. Mr. Martine had planned to put a ring in a vicious bull's nose today, but the operation was postponed.

—John Goodwin and Charles Barry were arrested yesterday at the North avenue station for violating the hack ordinance. In the absence of City Judge Runyon from town today, the hearing has been postponed until tomorrow morning.

AMUSEMENTS.

A despatch from Rome announces that Mount Vesuvius has grown more active during the last few days. Lava has overflowed 750 feet, but is confined to the upper part of the mountain. At night the eruption presents a magnificent but terrifying spectacle as burning showers rise to a great height. The above cablegram was shown to Henry J. Pain, the famous authority on eruptions, who is at present at Manhattan Beach, Coney Island. After consulting the data at his disposal, he said that there is no danger from the present ebullition. The boiling up of the lava has been too gradual to do any damage and there is no fear of seismic disturbances. He added that the study of eruptions taught him how to make the manifestation at Manhattan Beach each night, where Vesuvius does really "blow off its head" and overwhelm "Pompeii."

With the advent of August, the theatrical season may be said to have opened for the year. As usual, Mr. Keith is the first to offer new and novel features, and from now on each week will see some acts added to the bill that have been brought from Europe for the entertainment of the patrons of his cosy theatre on Union Square. To hold his place at the head of the vaudeville procession, Mr. Keith has his agents travelling all over Europe at all times, and as soon as they find an act which offers anything out of the ordinary it is booked for his circuit here. By this means he is always ahead of the other managers, and those who have the Keith habit are sure to see all the new thrillers first. A sensational bicycle act will be one of the first features for the coming week. In it four riders not only race but perform all sorts of fancy tricks while riding around the inside of a high barrel. One of these is a girl and her display of nerve is said to be marvelous. In fact, the entire act is one to try those who participate as well as those who look on. Also in the way of novelty will be Prince Kokin, the Japanese juggler, whose work surpasses anything ever seen in this country.

Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre opened its regular fall season this week with "Slaves of the Mine." This is a new sensational melodrama by C. E. Callahan and Dan L. Hart. The story turns on a law peculiar to Pennsylvania, and is dramatic and true to nature. The name is more appropriate than those of many plays, for it is a story of the anthracite coal regions near Wilkesbarre, and turns upon a peculiar law of the State by virtue of which a conveyance of land carries the surface only, and not the ore beneath unless especially mentioned. Though the labor question comes in incidentally, and there is a thrilling strike scene, it is not a "labor" play, but a domestic narration, full of plot and action, and containing strong dramatic scenes and intense climaxes. It is the joint production of Daniel L. Hart, of Wilkesbarre, author of Daniel Sully's success, "The Parish Priest," and C. E. Callahan, writer of the well known "Fogg's Ferry," and "Coon Hollow." In the company presenting "Slaves of the Mine" are included Frederick Reynolds, Jos. R. Kettler, Jos. G. Gibson, Howard Brandon, Wm. B. Daly, Alice Hamilton and the famous Eagle Quartette. The regular Sunday concert will begin at 2 p. m., and run continuously until 11 p. m.

Up the Hudson.

History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip today words would not express his delight, for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with Steamer St. Johns a popular-priced excursion up the Hudson on August 13, 1903. Rate to be $1 and train will leave Plainfield at 8:46 a. m. Fare for children half of above rate. Steamer St. Johns is one of the famous Sandy Hook Fleet and is the best appointed and fastest excursion boat in the harbor. 8 7 td

THE JERSEY CROPS.

Bureau of Statistics Tells About the State's Vegetables—Fruit and Tomato Canneries.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 12—The Bureau of Labor and Statistics has finished compiling a bulletin showing the condition of the fruit and vegetable canning industry in this State for the year 1902. The capital invested shows a large increase over that of the previous year, and the product of canned goods of all kinds was much greater than it had been in recent years. This was because the supply of material was more abundant and of a superior quality.

The number of establishments in operation during the season of 1902 was fifty-two, an increase over that of 1901 of six. The new establishments are all situated in South Jersey. So far as can be ascertained the fruit and vegetables growers of the sections in which the canning factories are located found ready buyers for all their crops that were not sent fresh to the ordinary markets.

The canning facilities were equal to handling all the material turned in to the factories, and the prices obtained for the product were equal to those of the year before, when the crops were comparatively scarce. Of the total number of canneries, one situated in Burlington handles fruit alone, fourteen handle both fruit and vegetables, and thirty-seven put up vegetables only.

The few statistics tabulated by the bureau will prove interesting. In 1901 there were $873,195 invested in canneries; in 1902, $1,035,482, an increase of $162,2877. The total amount of money paid for wages in 1901 was $267,828; in 1902, $367,100, an increase of $99,262.

The quantities of tomatoes, green peas, lima beans, asparagus, pumpkins and squash packed in three and two-pound cans increased 19,891,352 pounds in 1902 as compared with the product of 1901. Of the same goods the increase in the quantities put up in gallon cans was 613,956 gallons.

In fruits the increase in the quantities of pears, blackberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches and apples packed in two and three-pound cans was 442,714 pounds; the net increase in the number of gallons of the same fruits was 79,956 in 1902, as compared with the previous year.

During the same period the product of strawberries put up in cans decreased 14,720 pounds, and in gallons the falling off was 110,940. There was also a slight decrease in the number of gallons of peaches and pounds of pineapple.

The total amount of vegetables put up in two and three-pound cans in 1901 was 37,673,884 pounds; the total quantity so put up in 1902 was 57,565,236 pounds, an increase of 52.8 per cent.

In 1901 the product of gallon cans of vegetables was 765,276, and in 1902 it had risen to 1,379,232, an increase of 80.2 per cent.

The fruit product packed in two and three-pound cans in 1901 was 1,490,964 pounds; in 1902 it was 1,917,988 pounds, an increase of 28.7 per cent. The fruit packed in gallon cans shows a falling off in 1902 as compared with 1901. In the last-named year the product was 189,508 gallons, as against 155,952 in 1902, a decrease of 21.5 per cent.

Marcus Silbert Buys.

Marcus Silbert, a member of the Somerset street jewelers firm of Silbert Brothers, has bought the building at 134 Park avenue, formerly owned by John Tier. He has not yet decided what to do with the property, but it will probably be occupied by the jewelry firm. It is rumored that Tier will entirely give up the confectionery business.

ARMS AND FACE FRIGHTFULLY BURNED

Joseph MacCullum Lighted His Cigar and Exploded a Pile of Gunpowder.

CLOTHES CAUGHT FIRE

MIGHT HAVE BURNED TO DEATH BUT FOR TIMELY RESCUE.

One Eye May Become Permanently Weakened—His Friends Allen Murphy and Moses Foster Extinguished the Flames.

Lying unconscious, his face burned by a powder explosion so that it was almost unrecognizable, Joseph Mac Callum, of 1045 Sherman avenue, twenty-one years old and an employe of the Pond Machine Tool Company, was found yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Clinton avenue woods slowly roasting to death. Allen Murphy, of Philadelphia, and Moses Foster found their companion and saved his life by extinguishing the flames on his blazing clothing with water from a nearby brook.

MacCallum, in company with his two friends, secured a day off yesterday and decided to spend it on a hunting expedition in the Clinton avenue woods. Having ill luck the three separated. At 5 o'clock Mac Callum decided it was time to start for home. He emptied his gun and from his pocket drew a bottle containing a little over two pounds of gun powder. Emptying the contents on the ground while waiting for his companions to return, MacCallum bit off the end of a cigar and struck a match to light it. The head of the match flew off and struck the pile of gun powder beside him. There was a blinding flash and that is all Mac Callum says he remembers.

The powder set fire to MacCallum's clothing and his arms were already severely blistered when his companions, attracted by the explosion, rushed to the spot. They saw that their friend was being burned alive and with their hats secured water from the brook nearby and extinguished the flames. They restored MacCallum to consciousness.

Foster and Murphy carried their friend to the home of a man named Foster, 890 Clinton avenue. There the injured man's wounds were dressed and the true extent of the explosion learned. Not a hair was left on the man's head. His eyebrows were burned entirely off, and not even the eyelashes were spared. One of the man's eyes is filled with powder and there is danger of his losing the use of it. The operation of skin grafting may become necessary on MacCallum's face and arms.

His coat was almost entirely burned from his body and his back, as well as his arms, was terribly blistered. The man refused to go to the hospital and late last evening was removed to his home on Sherman avenue, where he is still suffering great pain.

'PLAINS WATER ALL RIGHT

RESIDENTS HAVE BEEN COMPLAINING OF AN UNPLEASANT TASTE.

The Pipes Are New and Have Not Been Entirely Cleared of Oil Used in Manufacture.

The numerous complaints which have come from the residents of Scotch Plains in regard to the condition of the water in that borough have led The Daily Press to investigate. Several residents on the side streets of Scotch Plains claim that the city water, when first drawn is rank, and stagnant and unfit for use. They have attributed this to the surmised fact that the water in such side streets has not the force to keep in motion and for that reason becomes stagnant.

A Daily Press reporter called at the water company's office yesterday to secure an explanation and was informed that there is no cause for complaint. The slight taint noticed in the water at the 'Plains is due to its course through new pipes. These pipes are coated with tar to a certain extent i n manfuacture, and it is the oil from this, present in small quantites, that causes the unpleasant taste. The system was opened up only last month and the oil has not yet been washed from the pipes entirely. The officials of the Scotch Plains fire company have been requested by the water company, to flush the hydrants as often as possible, and it is expected the trouble will shortly be remedied by this means.

LIGHTING UP LINCOLN.

New District System in Operation—Tax Rate and Assessed Valuation of the Town.

The inhabitants of Lincoln are much gratified over the fact that their town was illuminated last Saturday for the first time under the new district system. Lamps have been placed on Lincoln Boulevard and Harris lane, also Mountain, Sherman and Drake avenues, and at night the town presents an attractive appearance. The tax assessor of the new lighting district, which comprises the 200 acres that S. D. Drake purchased six years ago informed Mayor Drake yesterday, that this property is assessed this year at $84,000, one-third its value, and the tax rate is $1.41 per $100. On this basis the property known as Lincoln is valued at $250,000. The low tax rate is a source of pride, as is also the enhanced value of the property. Lincoln has a splendid trolley service, artesian water, fire protection, two railroad stations, sewer system, paved streets and other advantages.

A Pretty Compliment.

The eastern delegates to the recent convention of the International League of Press Clubs at Atlantic City selected the New Jersey Central as the official route from New York. And in the last issue of the New York Insurance Journal the appreciation of the party was expressed as follows: "The New York delegation journeyed over the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The trip over this excellent road, which has been greatly improved in recent years, is most delightful, and the trains are equipped with every appliance for the comfort and convenience of passengers."

Excursion to West Point.

Between forty and fifty Plainfielders took advantage of the Jersey Central's special excursion to West Point today. The start was made at 8:46 from the North Avenue station and the excursionists will take the steamer St. Johns from New York to West Point where some time will be spent before a return by the same route. The excursionists will arrive in Plainfield shortly before 10 o'clock tonight.

Another excurison will be run to the same place on Sunday.

Will Discuss "Speak Easies."

Interesting matters will come up before the borough fathers at the postponed meeting of the North Plainfield Common Council tomorrow evening. Matters pertaining to the closing up of the "speakeasies" will be discussed.

GOVERNOR MURPHY ON CHILD LABOR

The Chief Executive Takes the Proper Stand With Reference to Manufacturers.

MUST OBEY NEW LAW

SOUTH JERSEY GLASS MANUFACTURERS MAKE STRONG OBJECTIONS.

New Law Favored by Labor Unions—Employment of Children Under Fourteen Punishable by Fine of $200 or One Year in Jail.

Governor Murphy has taken the only proper stand a Chief Executive could possibly take with reference to the belligerent attitude of the South Jersey glass manufacturers toward the child labor laws. The factory owners have served notice on Chief Factory Inspector John C. Ward that they intend to disregard the law enacted last winter and that they will employ boys under the age of fourteen to work in their factories, in violation of the express provisions of the law. This, they say, is in order to make a test case. They are advised by several able lawyers that the law is unconstitutional, and they are determined to overthrow it upon this technical ground or any other they can discover, says the Newark Evening News.

Governor Murphy has been fully informed of the proposed violations of the law, and he says: "I shall insist upon its rigid enforcement, and if the case is taken into the courts I will direct the attorney-general to defend it. The complaint of the glass men that they cannot make business pay without child labor seems incredible, but if it is true, it will not change the enforcement of this necessary law. The wrong of such employment is too grievous to be palliated upon any consideration."

There is no other stand for the Governor to take. He is the Chief Executive, and it is for him to execute the laws, not to question their validity or propriety; yet the mere announcement that he intends that the State shall make the most vigorous fight possible in defence of the child labor laws will send a thrill of satisfaction into every section of this commonwealth wherein citizens of humane sentiments have been watching the progress of this matter. He does not temporize or afford any room for misconception. The complaint of the manufacturers that they cannot make glass bottles at a profit unless they are privileged to destroy a lot of boys he does not believe, and whether it is true or not the law must be enforced and the grievous wrongs of such employment will not be palliated upon any consideration, much less upon the plea of pecuniary profit to a few wealthy factory owners.

Chief Factory Inspector Ward will be very properly held to a strict accountability in the enforcement of the new law, and his official orders thus far indicate that his duty is plainly before him. He has notified his six assistants that their official obligations are imperative. Explanations will not be accepted; violations of the law must be investigated and the responsibility placed where it belongs.

The new law is a just law. It makes the wilful employment of children under fourteen years of age in workshops and factories punishable by a fine of $200 or imprisonment for one year in State prison. The age of fourteen is now held, in all the States furthest advanced in education and industrial development, to be the lowest at which children should be compelled to work, and for a child under that age, a child loving sunshine and school and outdoor life, to be incarcerated in a pent-up hot, glass bottle factory, day in and day out, is no less severe punishment than for a man to be shut up six months or a year in State prison.

The new law was favored by Governor Murphy and by the labor unions, and by humane citizens everywhere. It was opposed by the glass manufacturers and by the politicians they were able to influence. It is even now intimated that political schemes are behind these intended violations of the law, and that South Jersey will witness a struggle of no small magnitude and severity. Let it come, and let the question be definitely settled, whether the children of New Jersey are to be preferred to a few, or even a good many, dollars in the pockets of bottle-makers. The overwhelming sentiment of the State is with Governor Murphy and the law. The fight that is now on is a fight for those who are now the State's children, but who will soon become the State's wage earners, citizens and voters. They have a right to all the privileges that will qualify them for the duties which the State will expect of them, but never will such rights be theirs if they are compelled to work in the factories while under fourteen years of age.

GREEN APPLE RENTED STORE

NEWSPAPER TOLD STORY OF A MAN SICK WITH CHOLERA MORBUS.

An Armenian Saw the Article and Came Here to Buy the Sick Man's Store.

Through the medium of a green apple a store, which has been vacant for two years, was yesterday rented and will be opened shortly as a grocery store. The deal was closed yesterday between C. B. Clifton and D. C. Ortner, of Elizabeth. The shop is located at the corner of Park avenue and West Fourth street.

Several days ago an article appeared in the Elizabeth Times telling how S. K. Ananson, an Armenian carpet weaver, of this city, was taken with cholora morbus through eating a green apple. The story had it that the Armenian was taken from this city to his farm at Stirling, where he lies in a serious condition. His store in this city was consequently closed.

Seeing the article, Mr. Ortner came to Plainfield to see the building with a view to locating here. The store proved to be too small for his use and an offer was made for the room now used by a Chinese laundry in the Miller building. The Elizabethian's attention was called to the vacant store across the street and a deal was closed for the place at once.

REINHART WON.

Baker Was Defeated, However, in Golf Play Against English Team.

The Intercollegiate Golf Association's team was beaten yesterday at the Myopia Hunt Club, by the team of the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing Society by the final score of 9 points to 7. The Englishmen won the single matches 6 to 5, and had a favoring of 3 to 27, made on Tuesday, in the four ball match.

Leathart beat J. W. Baker, of this city, by 4 up and 2 to play, while Reinhart, of Plainfield, beat Bramston by 1 up. With all the matches in but one the score stood 5 all. If Chick had won the Americans would have secured a tie on the two-days' play. Chick led all the way and was up at the sixteenth hole. The players halved the seventeenth in 5. Chick was on the eighteenth green in 2. Allison drove into long grass, was out well and laid his third dead. Chick took three puts, and Allison won the hole in 4, making the match all even. Allison won the extra hole in 3. This gave the visitors a victory by 6 points to 5.

Today the visitors will play the Massachusetts State Golf Association team at the Essex County Club.

SECOND ANNUAL PICNIC.

Union Trolley Employes Went to Union Grove.

The second annual picnic of the Union Trolley Employes Benevolent Associaion was held last evening in Union Grove, at the end of the Somerset street trolley. There were about three hundred people present to enjoy the dancing, music for which was furnished by Eugene O'Reilly. The committee in charge consisted of Michael Nevins, Mark Hipp, Phillip McGuire and Charles Hepner. The trolley cars ran until an early hour this morning to accommodate those attending the affair.

Too Much Noise.

Persons living near the various ends of the trolley lines in this city have been complaining of the manner in which the conductors turn the seats over for the return trips, especially during the late hours of the night. They do this in so careless a fashion as to ruthlessly disturb the quietude of nearby residents. The noise very much resembles the discharge of a small gun.

Tickets for Boynton Beach.

The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association is arranging for its second trolley excursion to Boynton Beach. The trip will be made Thursday evening, August 27, and tickets can be had of these persons who comprise the committee: Caspar Waglow, chairman; James McLean, Edward Baker, Albert Cook and George Ayers.

Mrs. Craig Waldron, of East Fifth street, has been entertaining her nephew, William Grant, of Boston, Mass.

LINCOLN SLOT MACHINE "NABBED"

Prosecutor Voorhees Continues War Against Gambling Machines in Middlesex.

183 HAVE BEEN TAKEN

DETECTIVE HAD HIS TROUBLES IN CAPTURING THE ONE AT LINCOLN.

Men Who Were Operating It Thought He Was Trying to Steal It and Opposed Its Removal Forcibly—Taken to New Brunswick.

Over in New Brunswick there is a court house in which are many interesting curiosities, including a room in which is said to be the finest collection of slot machines in the State. These are the property of Prosecutor John H. Voorhees who has inaugurated a war against gambling machines in Middlesex County. There are all kinds of machines in the collection from chewing gum contrivances to roulette wheels.

The one-hundred and eight-third machine was added to the collection yesterday. Someone told Prosecutor Voorhees that, in the quiet little village of Lincoln, a gambling machine was working over time and the Prosecutor sent his detective over to confiscate it. Detective Ferguson drove up to the hotel and sauntered into the barroom, where stood the machine with ten or twelve men operating it.

Everybody stepped aside to give the new comer a chance at it. Ferguson had spoken to David Taylor, the owner of the hotel and told him that he must have the machine. Instead of putting in his coin as expected, he started to pick up the machine to carry it out. Someone thought that he was "ope er them slick city fellers" and that he was trying to steal the machine from under their noses.

According to the detective, his experiences there for a moment could best be told by a phonograph. At any rate he had much trouble in convincing the patrons of the place that he had a right to the machine. It was placed in the wagon with much difficulty and taken to New Brunswick.

It is rumored that the Prosecutor is planning a little smashing bee over in the Middlesex County town at which time about eight thousand dollars worth of property will be destroyed.

TO BE ILLUMINATED.

Red Light Will Reveal the Location of Fire Boxes at Night—Some of Them Being Moved.

Men employed by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company are at work in different parts of the city on some of the fire-alarm boxes of the Gamewell system. The plan is to have the location of the boxes designated at night by red street lights which are placed at or near the poles to which the fire-alarm boxes are attached.

The change will necessitate the transfer of several boxes. Some will be placed nearer the junction of the streets designated in the printed schedules while others will be moved a few feet further away. For instance, Box 41, at the corner of Madison avenue and West Third street, will be moved almost twenty feet nearer the corner. The designation of the location of fire boxes at night by means of red street lamps enables a citizen to locate a box at several blocks' distance, avoiding confusion in case of fire.

BAD BOY IN BONDS.

Walter Carr, Accused of Theft, Held in $200 by Justice Huff.

Walter Carr, the colored boy who stole some change from the till of Vail & Gardner's grocery store yesterday morning, was held by Justice Huff under two hundred dollars bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. Although the theft of yesterday was of but minor importance from a financial standpoint, the lad has a bad record in town and will doubtless be handed over to the county probation officer.

Kingsley Badly Hurt.

While at work hollowing out a bar of steel, yesterday, at the Campbell Press Works, Harry F. Kingsley received a severe injury to his arm. At the Muhlenberg Hospital seven stitches were taken in the wound. The bar of steel slipped from the machine upon which he was working and the end gouged into the forearm, exposing the bone.

MISSION WORK IN INDIA

MISS A. A. BROWN TOLD OF ITS SUCCESS AND NEEDS.

Addressed King's Messengers of the First Presbyterian Church Last Evening.

Miss A. A. Brown, church missionary of the First Presbyterian Church, of this city, last evening addressed the meeting of the King's Messengers, the junior branch of the Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the church.

Miss Brown returned to this country last summer from Kodoli, West India, where there is a large Presbyterian Mission school. It was of the work of this school that she spoke, giving a most interesting talk on the manners and customs of the people together with anecdotes of the school and pupils. She referred to the excellent work of the mission during the recent famine and told several interesting experiences in seeking to provide food for the starving. This famine did much toward bringing many to the school who had hitherto led heathen lives but who were moved by the religion of a people who would subscribe such munificent funds for the assistance of those whom they had never known.

In conclusion Miss Brown made an earnest appeal for assistance. She said that the need for workers is far greater than the need for funds.

In the absence of Miss Freda Grey, the president of the band, Miss Gertrude Townley, the first vice president, conducted the meeting, which consisted of singing, a scripture passage and prayer. There was an exceedingly large attendance and a goodly collection was taken up for work in the mission field.

ANNOYED BY DOGS.

Patients at Muhlenberg Hospital Disturbed at Night by Their Continual Howling.

Although the nurses and directors at Muhlenberg Hospital have repeatedly complained about the number of dogs allowed to run at large in their neighborhood, the dog population seems to be on the increase instead of the decrease. Their continual barking causes much annoyance to those who are confined to the institution. Patients who need sleep are constantly awakened during the night by the yelps of a herd of half breed mongrels which are allowed to run at large, in many cases without muzzles, in that neighborhood. A police officer with a trusty pistol would be a welcome visitor when the dog carnival is at its height.

BOY RUN OVER.

Howard Perry, of Prideville, Fell in Front of a Wagon's Wheels.

Howard Perry, son of Col. Albert Perry, of Prideville, was run over yesterday on Greenbrook road by a bakery wagon belonging to Herman Deicke, of Duer street and was rendered unconscious for a short time. Perry started to get off the vehicle while it was still moving. His foot slipped on the step and he fell in front of the wheel. Both wheels passed over the boy's body. He was placed in the wagon and taken home. He is not dangerously injured.

CLUB CAR DAMAGED.

Plainfield Commuters Moving Clubhouse, "Evona," Shaken Up.

In making up the passenger train for the Plainfield commuers at Jersey City on Tuesday evening, the club car "Evona," which is carried on this express, was damaged to such an extent that it had to be sent to the repair shops. It was struck with such force that it was thrown partially off the tracks and on to the platform in the terminal. The large bumpers which are used to keep trains from leaving the tracks at that point, were considerably damaged.

Jehus in Trouble.

Cabman John Goodwin appeared before Judge Runyon at the city court this morning, charged with violating the hack ordinance at the Fourth street side of the North Avenue station. He was fined two dollars. Policeman Overbaugh made the arrest. Barry, the other cabman arrested on the same charge, will be given a hearing tomorrow morning.

Veteran Fire Fighter.

Smith B. Crane, engineer of No. 6 Engine Company, Newark, was entertained at fire headquarters in this city, yesterday, by Chief T. O. Doane. Mr. Crane was one of the Newark Volunteer Firemen and boasts of having twenty-four years of active service as an engineer to his credit and a term of faithful service as a fire fighter of thirty-seven years.

ONLY ONE CONCERT IN THE BOROUGH

North Plainfield Council Find That They Cannot Make Appropriation.

TO CANVAS FOR FUNDS

ERNEST BALL WILL BE THE SOLOIST AT CONCERT OF AUGUST 29.

Band Stand Will be Located on Fairview and Watchung Avenues—Movement for a Series of Concerts Next Year to be Started.

Only one band concert will be given in North Plainfield this summer, instead of the four as anticipated when the movement was inaugurated. This, however, is not because of a lack of interest in the project, but because the Common Council finds that the borough law prohibits the making of an appropriation for that purpose.

About half the amount necessary to give a concert has been subscribed by prominent residents of the borough. Most of the Councilmen have given sums varying from two to five dollars, and it is said that the amount needed has been more than half subscribed for. A systematic canvass will be started this evening by Benjamin La Vere and Mayor Smalley.

Fairview and Watchung avenues has been selected as the location for the band stand and the work of erecting it will begin shortly. Mr. LaVere announced this morning that Ernest R. Ball, of the firm of Whitenack & Son, New York, will be the singer. His selections will be "I'm Longing for You Sweetheart" and "Sing me a Song of the South." The same musicians who appeared at the concerts on this side of the brook will be in the band Saturday evening, August 29.

Mayor Smalley said this morning that the movement would be started next season for a series of band concerts in the borough. He said the season was a little too far advanced this year but thought the people favored the project.

TOURISTS DELAYED.

Sparking Pins in An Automobile Made Trouble for Clarence Conant.

Clarence Conant and his mother, of Adams Centre, N. Y., who are making a tour of the country in a Winton automobile, were delayed on East Front street for several hours yesterday afternoon. The sparking pins made trouble and the machine refused to move. Word was sent to the F. L. C. Martin auto store on Park avenue and Otto Nehr, the machinist, went to work. The damaged parts were repaired temporarily and today Mr. Conant purchased new pins in New York.

The mishap had a pleasant feature. Mrs. Conant is a cousin to J. D. Spicer, of West Fifth street, and she and her son were heartily welcomed at the home of the Plainfielders. The journey will be continued today or tomorrow.

HAHR-PENDERS MARRIAGE.

Ceremony Performed by Justice E. D. Moffett.

Miss Cathrine Penders, of New York, and Felix Hahr, of Martinville, were quietly married Monday evening by Justice Elmore D. Moffett at his home in Orchard place. The couple drove from Martinville to this city early in the evening and called upon Justice Moffett, who made them man and wife. The groom, who is engaged in the real estate business, gave his age as 25 years, while the bride said she was 21 years of age. The couple will reside at Martinville.

Fire Chief at Brick Yards.

Chief T. O. Doane and John Mitchell, the latter foreman for Seaman Williams, the contractor, visited the brick yards near South River, yesterday. These yards are conceded to be the largest in the world, there being a daily output of 500,000 ordinary brick, to say nothing of the several kinds of fancy bricks made. The visitors were much pleased with the trip and greatly interested in what they saw.

Firemen's Relief Delegates.

The Firemen's Relief Association met last evening and elected as delegates to the convention to be held at Atlantic City Sept. 9, Daniel Force, Wm. H. Addis, Howard Manning and Chief T. O. Doane. The latter will also attend the chiefs' convention to be held at the same place on September 6.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Charles M. Schwab, who recently resigned from the presidency of the steel trust, was once a poor man. A local woman, whose name is withheld, at one time sent in hot meals to young Schwab and his family, when she lived in Pennsylvania. More than one suit of cast off clothes, she says she has given to Schwab's mother to be made over for the now wealthy man.

Two young men stopped off at the North Avenue railroad depot, yesterday, and strolled about town for awhile, then boarded a train for Elizabeth. They came from Easton, Pa., on a wager that they could go from their native town to New York, stop off at each city of 20,000 population or over, at a cost of $1. So far they had spent of their original dollar but 35 cents. They secured their meals and lodging by working en route.

Passengers on one of the trains out from New York Monday were frightened by a large number of small stones striking the side of the car. Many went to the other side of the coach fearing that some of the windows would be broken. The cause of the excitement was explained by the conductor who said that laborers were employed in tamping the rock ballast on the track and that a pile of loose stones were struck by the pilot of the engine. The stones scattered in many directions, struck the rails of the tracks and rebounded to the sides of the train.

True camp life in the woods of Lake Hopatcong was sampled by Harry De Meza and Edward Baker, of this city, last week. An incident occurred Friday at the camp that will be remembered for a long time by the two young men. They arose rather early on the morning in question, intending to get breakfast for themselves and make an early start to the fishing grounds. When they came to make the fire, they found no wood cut and in course of their search for fuel they came to an old tree which seemed to have the kind of wood needed for a quick fire. DeMeza, who carried an axe, struck the tree a fierce blow, and immediately the two were surrounded by a swarm of furious wasps. Both were severely stung about the body, face and hands, and rushed back to camp at a high rate of speed. They were met by the camp owner, Charles Leighton, who hurried them clothes and all, into the lake to relieve them of pain. The fishing trip was abandoned.

The following poem was written for the Plymouth Record by George Taggart, of the borough:

BOARDERS.

Feller told us t'other night
'Bout them pesky pirates bold,
How they'd swipe mos' all in sight,
Bric-a-brac an' Spanish gold,
Said they'd climb aboard a ship,
Paint th' whole scow rosy red,
An' th' gang for such a trip
Wuz called boarders, so he said.

Jes' t' show how much he knew,
Make us all feel bilious green,
Said thet now th' pirate crew
Wasn't no more t' be seen,
An' them dreadful boarders he Vowed wuz all wiped out 'nless
They'd reformed entirely—
Guess he has enother guess.

Mebbe what he said wuz true
'Bout th' boarders o' th' sea,
But th' story will not do
Fer th' lan', 'tween you an' me;
Reckon he'd be paralyzed,
Black an' blue, an' deaf an' dumb
When our homes gets advertised,
An' our summer boarders come.

The Red Book.

For mid-summer reading The Red Book in its August number offers a list of stories truly attractive. The magazine becomes more readable every month and more artistic in its illustrations, typography and cover designs. The list of contributors to the August Red Book includes Broughton Brandenberg, John W. Hunt, Ethel Watts Mumford, Elizabeth Phippe Train, Richard H. Post, M. J. Phillips, Edward Boltwood, Cy Warman, Anthony E. Anderson, Isabel Gordon Curtis, Mary Wilhelmina Hastings, Bailey Millard and G. W. Ogden. The cover design is a brilliant oriental conception in which striking arabesque designs surround a figure of a turbaned woman. A number of photographic art studies, beautiful color printing, and a great selection of cheerful reading matter cleverly illustrated, make this magazine particularly favored for hammock reading this month.

The Governorship.

The Trenton True American thinks there is a clear field for the small counties to select the Democratic candidate for Governor, and it figuratively turns up its nose at the Democratic harmony. It says: "The situation is politically interesting as exemplifying the quality of the harmony which we are so frequently told is now prevailing in the Democratic party in New Jersey.—Jersey City Evening Journal.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Plainfield People and What They Say is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On the subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mr. C. E. Hepburn, of 123 Duer street, formerly of Canada, where he first heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement for they cured me of a long standing case of backache which annoyed me very much, especially if I took cold, for at such times I was in pretty bad shape. I heard different people speak very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills; concluded to try them; got a box from my druggist, Mr. L. W. Randolph and used them according to directions, with the above results. I do not hesitate to give my endorsement of a preparation like Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

REVOLUTION GROWS

Bulgarian Young Men Join the Rebel Bands.

TURKEY MUST PROTECT FRONTIER

The Government at Sofia Says More Troops Should Be Used by the Sultan—Italy Sends Battalion to Crete.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 13.—Official Turkish reports communicated to the Russian and Austrian embassies state that the insurrectionary movement is increasing daily. Hilmi Pasha, inspector general of the sultan's Macedonian reforms, reports that the young men in all the Bulgarian villages are fleeing to the mountains to join the insurgent bands. Many among the Bulgarian peasantry wished to remain neutral, but were compelled by threats to help the revolutionary committee.

The insurgents continue to devastate the district of Koritza and have captured important Turkish supplies of provisions. More or less severe fighting is reported in the districts of Kastoria and Florina. Three hundred insurgents are assembled on the heights between Gievgveli and Yenije. Twenty-six Mussulman peasants have been massacred in the village of Zivernini, near Perlepe, by the insurgents.

It is reported that Feric Pasha while leaving Epek with Turkish troops was attacked by Albanians and severely wounded.

The Roumanian and Greek inhabitants of a number of villages have joined the insurgents, and the Mohammedans are taking refuge in the cities and towns. At Krushevo the revolutionists have seized the repeating rifles and ammunition stored in the magazine.

The Bulgarian government has charged Turkey with doing less to prevent the insurgents from crossing the frontier than Bulgaria, though Turkey maintains four times as many troops along the border. The Turkish soldiers invariably retire to barracks at sunset and remain there until sunrise, leaving free egress to the Macedonian insurgents during the night. The Turks fight bravely during daylight, but dislike skirmishing in the dark.

It is everywhere declared that the Bulgarian ministry is doing its utmost to check the revolutionary movement, but the situation is reaching a point where circumstances may prove too strong for the cabinet. The growing economic depression in the country constitutes a dangerous factor in the situation. The merchants are unable to obtain credit abroad and are forced to pay cash. The influx of thousands of Macedonians across the border has disorganized the labor market and has become a source of great discontent. The commercial classes declare that the present condition of affairs is no longer endurable. Even war, whatever might be the result, would be preferable, as it would be followed by a period of rest.

The ministry is certainly confronted with a complicated problem. The return of Prince Ferdinand is quite indefinite. It is thought now that the premier will visit the prince in Hungary after returning from his inspection of the frontier posts.

The government of Italy is sending re-enforcements to the battalion of infantry which has been kept on the island of Crete since the Greco-Turkish war in order to have contingent troops there in case the complications in Macedonia should render their use necessary.

Two More Victims at Quaker City.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Two additional victims of the accident last Saturday at the baseball park are dead, making the total number of fatalities eleven. They were Samuel Kelly, a boy, who had both arms broken, and James Hawden, whose spine was injured. Eight of the victims were buried yesterday. A coroner's jury and a convention of building inspectors visited the ball grounds and devoted nearly the entire afternoon to a thorough examination of the pavilion and field seats. The inquest will be held next Tuesday. The board of directors of the Philadelphia Baseball club at a special meeting has decided to postpone all games until after the inquest.

Dr. Charles McBurney of New York city was called in consultation by Dr. May. Dr. McBurney could see no occasion for any special alarm.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—The amount of money and value of jewelry stolen by the clerk of the Hotel Chelsea, which was given as $10,000, will not reach $1,000. Dr. Thompson, proprietor of the hotel, said that Clerk Smith had taken $475 in cash, five drafts for $100 and a pair of pearl shirt studs.

WAR SHIP ON ROCKS.

The Massachusetts Grounded While Leaving Bar Harbor.

TWO BULKHEADS FILLED WITH WATER

While a Dense Fog Prevailed the Battle Ship Struck Egg Rock and Then Glided Into Deep Water.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 13.—While leaving the harbor during a thick fog in company with other vessels of the north Atlantic squadron the battle ship Massachusetts sustained considerable damage by striking on a ledge of rocks off the western end of Egg rock. The vessel slipped over the rocks into deep water, but the two forward bulkheads soon filled with water, and it was subsequently found that several plates forward had been cracked. The Massachusetts was headed back into the harbor with considerable difficulty, accompanied by her sister vessel the Indiana and the gunboat Scorpion. She will remain here until Captain Manning, her commander, receives orders from Washington.

The squadron, under the command of Rear Admiral Barker, which has been on this part of the coast engaged in a war game, got under way shortly before noon for Long Island sound, where there will be tactical exercises previous to an inspection and review next Monday by President Roosevelt, Secretary Moody and Admiral Dewey. The flagship Kearsarge led the fleet, and immediately following were the battle ships Alabama, Illinois, Texas, Massachusetts, Indiana, the cruisers Olympia, Baltimore, Topeka, Yankee, Prairie, the gunboat Scorpion, besides the smaller vessels of the fleet. The squadron had no sooner started than a dense fog which had been hanging offshore all the morning rolled in, and within ten minutes it was impossible to see more than fifty yards. The Massachusetts occupied a position on the port quarter of the Texas as she proceeded out of the harbor, which brought her much nearer to Egg rock than the other ships. It is believed that the accident was due to a miscalculation of her position on the part of her navigating officer.

When the battle ship struck she was going at the rate of about nine and a half knots, and although she was drawing twenty-six feet of water and there was less than twenty-five feet on the ledge her progress was but little retarded and she at once passed over into deeper water. Her officers stated that if she had been fifty feet to the westward she would have cleared the ledge. The collision siren was immediately sounded and the bulkhead doors closed tight. The Indiana and Scorpion, which were immediately behind her, ran alongside to render assistance, and two torpedo boat destroyers were sent over by Admiral Barker to report on the accident.

The channel at this point is very narrow, and it was no slight task to turn the ship in such a dense fog. With the assistance of one of the naval tugs this was finally accomplished, and the Massachusetts was soon at anchor, with the Indiana and Scorpion close alongside.

Captain Manning said that he could have proceeded with the rest of the fleet, but thought it wisest to return. He also stated that two divers examined the bottom of the vessel and reported that several plates were cracked and that the ship would have to be drydocked for repairs. The Massachusetts was down by the head about ten inches, but by morning she will be very nearly on even keel, as her crew are hard at work carrying aft ammunition and stores. It is thought that she will be in natural trim when her orders are received to sail. It is expected that she will proceed to the Brooklyn navy yard under her own steam, where she will be drydocked and the full extent of her damage ascertained.

Captain Smith Is Missing.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 13.—Captain Harry E. Smith of Detroit, who has been a guest at the Riviera hotel here since last November, is missing, and much anxiety is felt for his safety. He left the house Aug. 3, presumably to go to Los Angeles, and did not return. The missing man's trunks and clothes were left here. His wife, who is a daughter of Judge Brewster of Michigan, has been notified at Detroit of Captain Smith's disappearance. Captain Smith lost his health in Cuba and has been here recuperating.

Relic of Lost Andre Balloon.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 13.—A special to the Dispatch from Vancouver, B. C., says: "What is undoubtedly a relic of the ill starred Andre expedition in search of the north pole was brought to Vancouver by a returning mining prospector who has spent the last four years in the wilds of the Mackenzie basin. He was sent out four years ago to follow the Mackenzie river to the arctic circle and arrived here Monday, bringing with him a portion of the silk used in the construction of Andre's balloon.

Tropical Storm Recurving.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The tropical storm was apparently central yesterday afternoon near extreme western Cuba and recurving. JAMAICA HURRICANE Port Antonio, on North Coast, Completely Overwhelmed.

BANANA PLANTATIONS ALL SUFFER.

Many Ships Driven Ashore and Thirty Seamen Reported Lost—Thousands of Houses in Kingston Were Damaged.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 13.—The hurricane which struck the western end of Jamaica and which it was thought had passed instead of proceeding to the northwest veered to the south and struck Jamaica with its full force, inflicting damage which it will take years to repair. It is impossible as yet to estimate the amount of the losses, but they must reach millions of dollars.

Port Antonio, on the north coast, was completely overwhelmed. Only six houses were left standing there. The United Fruit company's wharfs, offices, hotel and plantations were utterly demolished. Five of the company's steamers, including the Simon Dumois, Alfred Dumois and Brighton, were driven ashore, but are lying in easy positions. Port Maria, another town on the north coast, also suffered similarly. The coast is strewn with wreckage of local sailing vessels.

It is feared that the loss of life has been heavy, thirty fatalities having already been reported, principally among seamen. The entire eastern end of the island has been devastated. Villages have been wiped out and public buildings and churches demolished. Thousands of the peasantry, rendered homeless and destitute, are wandering about seeking food and shelter.

The destruction of the banana plantations has been complete, and the fruit trade is paralyzed for the next twelve months. Hundreds of prosperous fruit growers have been brought to bankruptcy and ruin. The western end of the island, which it was at first supposed had escaped, also suffered considerably, though not to the extent which the eastern end did. New banana plantations planted there were partly destroyed, and the orange and coffee crops were also injured.

The Norwegian steamer Salvatore di Giorgio was driven ashore at Annotta bay and lies in a dangerous position. Several sailing vessels were wrecked on the north side. It is still stormy and threatening, and there are fears that there will be a renewal of the storm. Torrential rains have increased the misery of the poor and homeless. Thousands of houses in Kingston were damaged, the wharfs were battered and several coasting vessels were sunk in the harbor. Trade is practically at a standstill.

The southeastern portion of the island has been completely denuded of its crops, the rivers are flooded, and many men were carried out to sea and drowned. Considering the damage to property during the hurricane, the loss of life is comparatively small, though the present estimate is that the death list will reach fifty. Hundreds of persons were injured, and there were numerous hairbreadth escapes. The property loss is estimated at $10,000,000.

Cuba Escaped Great Damage.

HAVANA, Aug. 13.—While high winds and threatening conditions prevail in all the provinces of Cuba, there have been no reports of any important damage. The land telegraph connection with Santiago, which was repeatedly interrupted, has been restored. There was some destruction of crops and small buildings in the province of Pinar del Rio, where the wind appears to have been strongest. Cable connection with all the islands of the West Indies is intact with the exception of Jamaica, Martinique, Guadeloupe and Dominica.

No Trace of Missing Couple.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Searching parties were unable to find a trace of Florence Brown or George Evans, and Richard Evans, uncle of the latter, intends to have the lake dynamited to see if the bodies are in the water. The guides believe they lost the trail going from Canada lake to Nigger lake. Searching parties have entered the forest from all directions and can find no trace of the young people. Evans will inherit a fortune next Monday, and his guardian is at the lake directing the search. Miss Brown is a sister-in-law of Edward Bering of 169 Eighth avenue, New York.

Man and Wife Held For Murder.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 13.—A special from Winston-Salem says: "Sol Benje and wife and Katherine Baughuss of Wilkes county have been committed to jail on the charge of murdering Benje's daughter Sarah about Feb. 28, 1902. On March 24, 1902, the body of the dead girl was found in a millpond. At the coroner's inquest it developed that there were many bruises on the girl, showing that she had been killed before being thrown into the pond. Recently evidence has been discovered implicating Benje, his wife and Katherine Baughuss in the crime."

Accused Farmer Hangs Himself.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Aug. 13.—Isaac Markley, a wealthy farmer arrested last May charged with the murder of his wife and out on $10,000 bail, committed suicide by hanging. The trial was to have been held at the present term of court at Sac City, and the case promised to be sensational.

In Memory of McClellan.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 13, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

The New York Herald states that William J. Bryan has a horse named "Teddy." It is perhaps fortunate for the horse that its name isn't Grover.

The real estate business in Plainfield has long been booming but, in spite of that, the builders have difficulty in keeping pace with the demand. Money that is lying idle could be invested in few more profitable undertakings probably than in the building of apartment or inexpensive single houses in Plainfield.

Civic pride is always to be encouraged; it is necessary in a progressive city. He who has no pride in his environment usually has no ambition to improve it. And the most effective expression of pride is not in vainglory but in the constant endeavor at improvement.

Plainfielders have much in their city of which to boast, were bragging not rendered unnecessary by conditions which speak for themselves. The Plainfielder does not refer to the schools, streets, residences and various advantages of the city with any overweening sense of their superiority. Rather he exhibits the true civic pride. He accepts the situation with a consciousness of satisfaction, indeed, but practically as a matter of course; and if the standard is not maintained he is not slow in protesting. He demands the best and is never satisfied unless working to make what has been the best better.

In appreciating his advantages he also realizes that he is paying for them. The news that the tax rate has risen is perhaps not altogether welcome but it is accepted philosophically and with the knowledge that the extra money will be used for worthy and necessary ends. The understanding is that the advance in tax rates is in line with the determination of those in power to be satisfied with nothing less than the best. If the best costs more, the outlay must correspond.

It has been a matter of pride with the local Board of Assessors that a uniform rate of $2.50 has been maintained for so long a time in Plainfield co-incident with so many expensive though needed improvements. Had it not been for the State and county increase, the conscientious efforts of those in power to so manage the finances of the city as to make increased taxes unnecessary, would have been successful.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

Considerable interest is centered in the second of the series of three games of baseball between the Dunellen A. C. and the Bound Brook team, which will be played at Bound Brook next Saturday afternoon. It is reported that Bound Brook is going to spring a surprise in the line of a pitcher, but the local team, with Ettinger in the box, feel confident of victory. Manager Smith expects, however, to strengthen the team for the occasion with some out-of-town players. A large side bet has been placed on the result of the series.

At a recent meeting of the Holy Name Society, of St. John's Church, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Joseph Kelley, Charles McClane and M. T. Moynihan, was appointed to search for a suitable hall or meeting room for the society for the future. It was decided to make a slight departure from the object of the society and to take in some of the features of a club. The society now has fifty-four members enrolled.

While the carpenters were at work tearing down the old Apgar house on the Greenbrook road yesterday, they found an iron box firmly imbedded in the wall. With much difficulty they succeeded in opening it and found it contained several old deeds and papers. Among them was an old family history dating back to 1735.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

It is hoped by the lovers of fair play, that Mr. Cullin, who umpired the game on Saturday last between the locals and Westfield, will be selected to umpire the balance of the series between these two teams. While Mr. Cullin is human and apt to err like everybody else, nevertheless the most ardent rooter for either team must admit he understands the game and is impartial in his decisions.

The razing of the old Hunter house, on East Front street, removes one of Scotch Plains' old landmarks, and at one time one of the handsomest places in town. During the past five years the house has been occupied as an Italian boarding house.

If "Lefty" Davis is supported as well in Saturday's game as he was last week, the locals should be able to beat Westfield on their own grounds. Nearly the whole town will be at Recreation Park to help cheer them on.

The fence about the Baptist Cemetery has been straightened up and repaired. If some one would start a movement to have the old historic cemetery put in presentable condition the improvement would be complete.

Up the Hudson.

History teaches us that Hudson, in his trip up the river which bears his name, was highly pleased with the marvelous scenic surroundings. Were he to make the trip today words would not express his delight, for in addition to nature's handiwork the embellishments by man have made the Hudson one of the grandest spots in the country. The New Jersey Central will run in connection with steamer St. Johns a popular priced excursion up the Hudson on Sunday, August 16, 1903. Rate to be $1.00 and train will leave Plainfield at 8:52 a. m. Fare for children half of above rate. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 16—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Lessons from Paul: How to use tact in dealing with men.—I Cor. ix, 16-23.

In calling the fishermen Simon Peter and Andrew to become his disciples Jesus said unto them, "Follow Me and I will make you fishers of men." One of the first and most important qualifications of a successful fisherman is what we call tact, which, though not so easily defined, is clearly understood by all. No blundering, thoughtless, heedless person can ever be a successful fisher. It requires a person of cautiousness, of intelligence, of tactful skill, who, instead of alarming and driving away the object of his desire, will lead them to him in such a way that they themselves shall be unconscious of it. Men, like fish, hesitate to be caught, even when their soul's salvation is concerned. They are wary of the net of salvation, and unless those who try to win them are "as wise as serpents and as harmless as doves" they are more apt to frighten them away from the kingdom than to lead them into it. The wise man says, "He that winneth souls is wise." "Win" is the correct word. Souls are to be won, and in their winning a very necessary qualification on the part of the winner is tact.

Paul exemplifies in a large measure the necessity and the successfulness of tact in dealing with men from a religious standpoint. He was a great soul winner and most successful in developing Christian character. And one of the secrets of his success with all nationalities and classes of people was his tactfulness. "Unto the Jews," he says, "I became as a Jew that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain them under the law; to them that are without law, as without law; * * * to the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak; I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some." The apostle did not, of course, in any ignoble sense become all things to all men. He was not one thing to a Jew and something that was inconsistent with that to a Roman. He studied the dispositions of all classes and adapted himself to their peculiarities and their wants that he might win them to Christ. He talked to men in a language they could understand and presented Christ from a viewpoint that they could comprehend, and thus only can any one be successful in dealing with men in their relation to God in Jesus Christ.

To be able to adapt himself to the peculiar dispositions of men required thought and study on the part of the apostle. A Jew had to be dealt with in one way and a gentile in another, and to deal with each in the proper way required a certain kind of knowledge which can only come from study and experience. Parents to deal successfully with children, teachers with scholars, pastors with people and Christian people with the unsaved and irreligious must study their particular dispositions and thus learn how to reach them. The aquirement of such skill requires time and labor, but it should be cheerfully given. Men study men that they may be successful in dealing with them in business and in politics. Why should we not, then, as Christians be willing to give the time and study necessary to so understand men that we may deal with them successfully in the salvation and sanctification of their souls?

Endeavor Across the Ocean.

The Italian weekly paper L'Italia Evangelica hereafter will have in every number a special page relating to Christian Endeavor in Italy.

In the annual meeting of the Bulgarian Evangelical society and in the summer school held in Samakov it was voted to recommend to all evangelical pastors in Bulgaria the organization of Christian Endeavor societies. These resolutions were printed and sent to every pastor as well as published in the weekly paper Zornitsa.

The latest statistics give Spain a total of twenty Young People's societies, seventeen Junior and seven Mothers' societies. There are 552 active members and 707 associate, so that the Spanish Endeavorers have passed the thousand mark.

In Switzerland a committee has been established for the publication of a monthly Christian Endeavor paper.

Mission Juniors.

There is a Junior society in New York state composed entirely of children from a mission district, among whom the comforts of life are unknown and to whom their Junior society is a very bright spot indeed.—Miss Grace L. Jones.

Tenth Legion Enrollment.

The Tenth-legion enrollment has now grown to the splendid figures 19,822.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 16, "Endure Hardness as a Good Soldier"—Text, II Tim. ii, 3, 4.

Paul had become well acquainted with soldiers and military life. From the time he was rescued from the Jewish mob in the temple at Jerusalem by the Roman commander of the garrison until the time of the writing of this his last letter his companions night and day had been Roman soldiers. In Cæsarea he had been for two years handcuffed to one of them. On his voyage to Rome, in the shipwreck and after journey he was kept a prisoner under close guard. His residence in Rome was part of the time in the camp of the pretorian guard, and when he was allowed to live in his own hired house he was still, in all probability, chained to a soldier of that guard. So he had become very familiar with the customs and manners of that class of men. Their vices and good qualities were known to him. He had largely entered into their experiences and modes of thought and feeling. It was a natural result that his speech and writings should be colored by this life. His own privations and sufferings would be looked at by him as a kind of military necessity in the service of his sovereign Jesus. He was prisoner of Christ. He endured all things for the sake of Jesus, who had enrolled him as a soldier. He was in active service and must take his share in the sufferings and the hardship common to all soldiers in such service.

This view of Christian life has ever been of great influence and of much value in shaping character. Difficulties and trials come to nearly every one. Very few have a course sheltered from care and temptations. Adverse circumstances must be met. The way in which they are treated very largely determines the individual character and destiny. Many sensitive natures, like Timothy, shrink from the rude shocks and are inclined, as perhaps he was, to avoid as much as possible the disagreeable things. To all such this warning exhortation of the aged apostle rings out like a bugle call: "Suffer hardship with me, as a good soldier of Christ Jesus!"

When so much is being said of the "strenuous life" and athletics are so popular this appeal for the development of Christian fortitude should have special heed. Is there not great danger that carelessness will cause us to fall both in duties to be done and in the attainment of personal strength in religious life? The pressure and strife to attain excellence and position in business and professional life are unrelaxing. Competition is keen, rivalry intense. The good things of the soul life are not to be won less easily. Carelessness lets opportunities slip unimproved, and once past they never return. Timidity courts defeat and wins it, while courage captures victory.

At the present time we need as young people more of the spirit in Christian work with which we train for and contest tennis tournaments, golf championships, ball games and boat races. On the "gridiron" a young fellow will break a leg, an arm, a rib, and glory in the pain if by his grit and skill he makes a point for his team. Shall we for greater gains and under the eye of our great Captain shrink from exertion and suffering in this our Christian race?

Thoughts.

Much advice is given from indulgence to others; more from indugence to ourselves.

Who dwells with pleasure on the faults of others only confesses that he has plenty of his own.

To be delivered from all other fear one must have one fear—the fear of God.

It needs but little courage to confess one's ignorance; it needs much knowledge to know it.

Religion offers no immunity from storms, but it does offer an anchor in the storm.

What is truly done is beautifully done, and if it is not beautifully done it is because it is not truly done.—Ivan Panin in Christian Endeavor World.

God's Machinery.

This world is a machine shop to make mechanics of us. The machinery is not meant to hurt us. There is nothing accidental about it, though accidents occur while we are learning to manage it. If we lose our balance and get a hand caught in the machinery is it the fault of our Father in heaven? No. When we fall it is against God's will. Yet it is God's will that by that fall and from that machinery we should learn not to fall, learn how to use the machinery, that we should be expert through experience, workmen that need not be ashamed though they carry scars.—Sunday School Times.

A Friendly Spirit.

All who would reach those in the lower walks of life and advance their temporal and spiritual interests must approach them in a friendly, cordial and sympathetic spirit and adapt themselves as much as possible to their nature, character and circumstances. As we put ourselves in others' places we can best see things from their viewpoint and understand best how to relieve and help them.—Presbyterian.

The Hardest Work.

I do believe the common man's work is the hardest. The hero has the hero's aspirations that lift him to his labor. All great duties are easier than the little ones, though they cost far more blood and agony.—Phillips Brooks.

Bearing the Burden.

Oh, ask not thou. How shall I bear
The burden of tomorrow?
Sufficient for today, its care.
Its evil and its sorrow;
God imparteth by the way
Strength sufficient for the day.
—J. E. Saxby.

A WOMAN ARTIST

At Work In Stained Glass. Mary E. Tillinghast

THE new stained glass window in the entrance hall of the Pittsburg observatory is the gift of two women, the Misses Smith, and it is the conception and work of a woman, Mary E. Tillinghast of New York. Miss Tillinghast was the pupil and assistant of John La Farge, who may be said to have created the stained glass window industry in America. The pupil learned her trade so well that she herself is now the leading artist in this field in our country. I recently saw both the Pittsburg window and its maker. The exquisitely beautiful window, occupying a place only three feet above the floor of the observatory entrance, is of ordinary size. It represents Urania, the muse of astronomy. In the background is a filling in of marvelous blue glass so deeply dense in color as to be nearly black. The light shining through shows the blue in various shadings. Above the head of Urania are the quarter moon, the Pleiades and a constellation of stars. The stars are small points of light upon the dense blue background.

"But how did you manage to get those stars in?" I asked the artist.

"Well, that was rather difficult. I did something that I don't think any body ever did before. The stars were to be so small that I could not lead in the pieces, so I just drilled holes in the blue glass and covered them with another piece of glass of the right color for the light to shine through as I wanted it."

The nobly formed muse is represented with the globe in her hand. Her white robes with purple opal tints gleaming through them remind you of the lining of a pearl shell. Near the feet of the muse upon a pedestal is the classic lamp of wisdom. In the background is the Acropolis of Athens. The conception is purely Greek except in one point—across the bottom of the exquisite glass picture, just where the groundwork is cut off, are the splendid iridescent rainbow colors in their order. The observatory authorities ordered that the solar spectrum should be "put in somewhere" in recognition of the fact that one of the special branches of investigation there is astronomical spectrology.

That spectrum at the bottom of the window is the American of it. You will be interested to know how Miss Tillinghast fixed in her mind the exact idea for the stained glass rainbow. She got a large prism, which separated the white sun rays into their component colors. This she placed in the window of her studio where the sun shone brightly upon it. Then, having provided herself with yards and yards of sheeny, pearl white Chinese silk, she had a friend move this up and down and wave it to and fro while the radiant spectrum flashed across it, "violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red." Her remarkable intuitive color sense seized on the proper tints and she brought samples of glass and compared them with the spectrum till she got the right ones.

PITTSBURG OBSERVATORY WINDOW.

And that was how Miss Tillinghast worked the solar spectrum into her stained glass window. But the artist is always greater than her work and the most interesting part of my theme is Miss Tillinghast herself. Stained glass work is only one of the departments in which she excels. She is alike at home in portrait and other painting, in tapestry, mosaic and leather work and in modeling and architecture. A few years ago she designed and executed a noble mausoleum for a wealthy American. Just before the actual construction began the gentleman invited Miss Tillinghast to accompany himself and family on a tour through Egypt.

"But the tomb?" said Miss Tillinghast.

"Oh, never mind. That can wait."

But workmen were engaged for the mausoleum. They had her written contract; she had theirs. She would not break with them, and the party left her behind, following their course with longing eyes. She could not go to Egypt with the family because she had to stay at home and build their tomb.

But there are more years. She has often wandered over Europe, studying in picture gallery and cathedral, and Mary Tillinghast yet hopes and expects to go to Egypt, extending her journeys even farther—to Palestine, the Holy Land—always to add to her knowledge of that beloved art which is her life.

MARCIA CAMPBELL.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1902, by The Robert Company.

"I'm no hand at breaking things gently, Field," said Ray, when finally the three were closeted together in the captain's den. "It used to worry Webb that you were seen so often riding with Miss—Miss Flower up to Stabber's village, and, in the light of what has since happened, you will admit that he had reasons. Hear me through," he continued, as Field, sitting bolt upright in the easy chair, essayed to speak. "Neither Capt. Blake nor I believe one word to your dishonor in the matter, but it looks as though you had been made a tool of, and you are by no means the first man. It was to see this fellow, Moreau—Eagle Wing—whom you recognized at the Elk—she was there so frequently—was it not?"

Into Field's pale face there had come a look of infinite distress. For a moment he hesitated, and little beads began to start out on his forehead.

"Capt. Ray," he finally said, "they tell me—I heard it from the driver on the way up from Rock Springs—that Miss Flower is virtually a prisoner, that she had been in league with the Sioux, and yet, until I can see her—can secure my release from a promise, I have to answer you as I answered you before—I cannot say."

Blake started impatiently and heaved up from his lounging chair, his long legs taking him in three strides to the frost-covered window at the front. Ray sadly shook his dark, curly head.

"You are to see her, Field. The general—bless him for a trump!—wouldn't listen to a word against you in your absence; but that girl has involved everybody—you, her aunt, who has been devotion itself to her, her uncle, who was almost her slave. She deliberately betrayed him into the hands of the Sioux. In fact this red robber and villain, Moreau, is the only creature she hasn't tried to 'work,' and he abandoned her after she had lied, sneaked and stolen for him."

"Capt. Ray!" The cry came from pallid lips, and the young soldier started to his feet, appalled at such accusation.

"Every word of it is true," said Ray. "She joined him after his wounds. She shared his escape from the village at our approach. She was with him when Blake nabbed them at Bear Cliff. She was going with him from here. What manner of girl was that, Field, for you to be mixed up with?"

"He is her half brother!" protested Field, with kindling eyes. "She told me—everything—told me of their childhood together, and—"

"Told you a pack of infernal lies!" burst in Blake, no longer able to contain himself. "Made you a cat's paw; led you even to taking her by night to see him when she learned the band were to jump for the mountains—used you, by God, as he used her, and, like the Indian she is, she'd turn and stab you now, if you stood in her way or his. Why, Field, that brute's her lover, and she's his—"

"It's a lie! You shall not say it, sir!" cried Field, beside himself with wrath and amaze, as he stood quivering from head to foot, still weak from wounds, fever and distress of mind. But Ray sprang to his side. "Hush, Blake! Hush, Field! Don't speak. What is it, Hogan?" And sharply he turned him to the door, never dreaming what had caused the interruption.

"IT'S A LIE! YOU SHALL NOT SAY IT, SIR!" CRIED FIELD.

"The general, sir, to see the captain!"

And there, in the hallway, throwing off his heavy overcoat and "arctics," there, with that ever faithful aide in attendance, was the chief they loved; dropped in, all unsuspecting, just to say good-bye. "I knocked twice," began Hogan, but Ray brushed him aside, for, catching sight of the captain's face, the general was already at the door. Another moment and he had discovered Field, and with both hands extended, all kindliness and sympathy, he stepped at once across the room to greet him.

"I was so very sorry to hear the news," said he. "I knew your father well in the old days. How's your wound? What brought you back so soon?"

And then there was one instant of awkward silence and then—Ray spoke.

"That was my doing, general. I believed it best that he should be here to meet you and—every allegation at his expense. Mr. Field, I feel sure, does not begin to know them yet, especially as to the money."

"It was all recovered," said the general. "It was found almost intact—so was much of that that they took from Hay. Even if it hadn't been, Hay assumed all responsibility for the loss."

With new bewilderment in his face, the young officer, still white and trembling, was gazing, half stupified, from one, to the other.

"What money?" he demanded. "I never heard—"

"Wait," said the general, with significant glance at Ray, who was about to speak. "I am to see them—Mrs. Hay and her niece, at nine o'clock. It is near that now. Webb cannot be with us, but I shall want you, Blake. Say nothing until then. Sit down, Mr. Field, and tell me about that leg. Can you walk from here to Hay's, I wonder?"

Then the ladies, Mrs. Ray and her charming next door neighbor, appeared, and the general adjourned the conference forthwith, and went with them to the parlor.

"Say nothing more," Ray found time to whisper. "You'll understand it all in 20 minutes."

And at nine o'clock the little party was on its way through the sharp and wintry night, the general and Capt. Blake, side by side, ahead, the aide-de-camp and Mr. Field close following. Dr. Waller, who had been sent for, met them near the office. The sentries at the guard-house were being changed as the five tramped by along the snapping and protesting board walk, and a sturdy little chap, in fur cap and gauntlets, and huge buffalo overcoat, caught site of them and, facing outward, slapped his carbine down to the carry—the night signal of soldier recognition of superior rank as practiced at the time.

"Tables are turned with a vengeance," said the general, with his quiet smile. "That's little Kennedy, isn't it? I seem to see him everywhere when we're campaigning. Moreau was going to eat his heart out next time they met, I believe."

"So he said," grinned Blake, "before Winsor's bullet fetched him. Pity it hadn't killed instead of crippling him."

"He's a bad lot," sighed the general. "The little mixture of white blood in his veins has spoiled him utterly. Wing won't fly away from Kennedy, I fancy."

"Not if there's a shot left in his belt," said Blake. "And Ray is officer-of-the-day. There'll be no napping on guard this night."

FISHING BOAT FIRED ON.

Revenue Cutter Sent Twenty Shots Into the Silver Spray.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 13.—The Silver Spray, a fishing boat owned here, came into port in a badly shattered condition, due to an encounter in midlake with the Canadian revenue cutter Petrel.

The Canadian authorities have had trouble with American fishermen for years who were poaching on their side of the lake, and the Petrel is kept constantly on the lookout for them.

She came upon the Silver Spray on the Canadian side of the lake and at once ordered Captain Chris Schau to stop. The Petrel is a strong steel craft and it is said attempted to ram the American boat before she could comply with the former's order. Captain Schau, remembering the fate of several other boats from this side which had been captured and confiscated, two from Erie, only last season, decided to try to escape and started ahead at full speed. The captain of the Petrel, when he saw that the Silver Spray was trying to get away, opened fire with all the guns he had on board, and before he ceased firing some twenty shots had struck her. One passed through the smokestack into the pilot house, in which Chau stood at the wheel, and two more struck the pilot house, one of which came within a few inches of him, scattering a myriad of splinters around his head.

The fact that no one was killed is simply miraculous, as four shots entered the cabin, two in the roof, three in the after hurricane deck and the others in various parts of the boat.

The chase was kept up for some little time, and Captain Chau was nearly in despair, as his cold water pump refused to work, and he was also afraid that his boat might be struck below the water line and be sunk. He was very lucky, however, to get across the dividing line, and the Petrel gave up the pursuit.

The Silver Spray is a double decker and was for twelve years in service at Buffalo as a pleasure steamer.

Captain Chau will report the affair to the state department at Washington, as he says he was only looking for some of his nets which had drifted from this side toward the Canadian shore.

A large number of American fishing boats have been confiscated by the Canadian government, one, however, belonging at Dunkirk, was a few weeks ago ordered returned by Secretary of State Hay.

ARMY AND NAVY ATTACK.

Portland Preparing to Repel War Game Enemy.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 13.—Nearly sixty miles of cable has been laid in Casco bay during the past four weeks, and today every fort and every point of prominence within a radius of ten miles of the harbor side of the city has been connected by telephone or guarded by an immense electric searchlight in anticipation of the war game and joint army and navy attack on Portland Aug. 22 to 29.

The farthest point connected by telephone is Jewells Island, near Harpwell, from which the approach of the "enemy" from the east can be reported quickly. At the west the station at two lights will give warning of the approach of a squadron.

The record for cable laying is said to have been made when Portland head light and the two lights were connected, five and a half miles of cable having been laid in one and a half hours.

THE CANADIAN CUP.

American Yacht Irondequoit Wins In Strong Breeze.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—The fourth race for the Canada's cup was sailed in weather conditions that were favorable to the defender. A strong thirteen knot breeze blew from the northwest, approaching half a gale at times, but there was little sea. The lake was quite calm save near the turning buoy, where there was quite a choppy sea. The course was a nine mile run to leeward and return. The race was a duel from the time the boats crossed the line, and both skippers showed good seamanship. After crossing the line Jarvis outmaneuvered Hannan, holding to windward and working for a spinnaker run.

Jarvis was the first to get his spinnaker pulling. He gradually increased his lead. Strathcona clearly outfooted Irondequoit in the run before the wind, both boats running full. Jarvis had the advantage, as he was on the starboard tack and Irondequoit was on port tack.

Rounding the outer mark Irondequoit had a lead of a quarter of a mile. The beat back from the starting point showed more clearly than the run out that Hannan was no novice. Nearing the finish the Strathcona cut down the lead foot by foot, but could not get up to her adversary. The victor was given a great reception. Official time: Irondequoit, 3h. 12m. 13s.; Strathcona, 3h. 13m. 31s.

ROD AND REEL.

Sidney Frazee, one of the firemen at the headquarters, has returned from a fishing trip to Seawaren, where he captured a large string of crabs and weak fish.

Albert Hedden, of East Fourth street, received a barrel of fine fish from Toms River yesterday where Frank Hedden is spending his vacation. The lot included forty weak fish, thirty bluefish and some fine porgies. Hedden writes that he will try today or tomorrow for crabs and will send on a share of his catch.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Duns' Index number shows that necessaries were cheaper during July than June. August prices a year ago showed an average of $100,177, and last month the average was $97,891.—Jersey City Journal.

Those Experts.

The Legislature went down to Sea Girt the other day and looked very wise while the militia did "stunts" for the edification of their law-making visitors. However, there weren't many Assemblymen or Senators able to look at the display from a purely military point of view. Their business is to see that the State militia doesn't use up too much of the State funds. At present it can be fairly said that it does not.—New Brunswick Home News.

Railroad Profits.

The great game between the Somerville commissioners and the trolley company continues, each side claiming to hold the trump cards, but both calling for a new deal. Meanwhile the public loses interest in the dwindling jackpot and the Central Railroad is quietly slipping a flush up its sleeve. Naturally, the game affects more local interests than did the Wall street flurry, but the farmers' crops are growing and they have teams to convey the produce to whatever market attracts by proper advertising in home newspapers.—Bound Brook Centre-Record.

No more startling revelations of the inadequacy of the corporation laws could have been made than have been brought to light in the collapse of the shipbuilding trust. A more uncertain condition of affairs could not have existed in any business institution, and the weakness of the system upon which enormous ventures are made, or rather, have been made in the past few years, is evident to all, and is particularly brought home to the people of Elizabeth, where are situated the Crescent yards, and where Mr. Nixon, the erstwhile president of the company, has spent the best part of his life. The people of New Jersey, in which this trust, as well as thousands of others which are probably in no better condition, have been incorporated, have learned a lesson that does not quite agree with the statements made in Governor Murphy's message last January. The Governor will have to revise his opinions before he attempts to write again with any degree of authority on the trust question.—Elizabeth Times.

It appears that experts from the Bureau of Entomology and the Department of Agriculture were traveling about New Jersey recently, seeking mosquitoes whom they might destroy. They happened upon the swamp of a farmer, and were about to begin operations when the owner appeared and ordered them away from his land. He declared that he understood that the Government was paying money for the privilege of killing these pests; in fact, he mentioned the sum of $10,000 as the amount that was being distributed, and he asserted that he must have his share of the "graft" before his pets could be destroyed.

When we consider how dear to the heart of the average Jerseyite is the mosquito, this farmer's claim was not unreasonable. Why should he be deprived of his pets, of his sweet singers, of the companions of his youth, of his middle age and of his declining years?

There are people who live along the banks of the Ohio, the Missouri and the Mississippi rivers who rejoice in the dark brown liquid known thereabouts as water. They actually thrive upon it, while to the stranger it is deadly, bringing on intestinal troubles of direful results. Give to the Missourian pure water, undefiled and brilliant in color, and he spurns it. To him it is as milk to the whiskey drinker.

This statement is on the word of so truthful a man as Mark Twain. What the pickle dressing water of the Ohio is to its edge dwellers, such is the poodle dog to the fashionable woman without children and the mosquito to the Jersey farmer. Outsiders and strangers may rebel at all three, but all three have their supporters and protectors. So, why should this Government of ours seek to rid the New Jerseyites of what to them is no pest, but a natural part of the landscape, merely put in to render zest to life, as fusil oil is added to brandy?—Easton Daily Express.

The Little White House.

Governor Murphy has abandoned the idea of having an executive mansion at Sea Girt. The suggestion encountered such strong opposition throughout the State that the Governor gracefully yielded to public sentiment and gave up the notion. But it is not quite certain that this opposition was sound and well informed. Sea Girt has practically become the summer capital of New Jersey. The Governor resides there for several weeks. The State officers and many of the boards and commissions go there to consult with the Executive and to hold their meetings. A large number of politicians, legislators, judges of the courts and other prominent citizens go there from different parts of the State. The Governor also, by virtue of his position as the social head of the State, dispenses a generous hospitality to many of these visitors, to the officers and to distinguished visitors from other parts of the country. The only convenience for all this is the little old farmhouse on the grounds. Jerseymen do not feel proud when they go there to see their Governor and his distinguished guests housed in that small shanty.—New York Herald.

Wide-Tired Wagons.

"The putting into use of ten wide tired wagons in a community," says an exchange, will do more to further the cause of good roads than the holding of a good roads convention with flumididdle resolutions and speeches. The wide tired wagon and the cash road tax are the beginnings of better highways."

Miss Winifred Santee, of Hornellsville, N. Y., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dunham, of West Fifth street, has returned home.

HAD TO GET OUT.

Four Families on East Front Street Had to Move for Improvements.

Four families have vacated the Durlach property on the corner of East Front street and Watchung avenue. This was made necessary by the proposal to widen the avenue at that point. The city is gradually trying to bring about this improvement, which has been hanging fire for a long time. It is not known whether the Durlachs will fight the action or not. At any rate the city will do nothing in the matter until Corporation Counsel Marsh returns from Europe.

Jersey Farmers Happy.

This is a great year for New Jersey farmers, says a Trenton writer. Large crops are being produced and good prices are obtained. Early in the year it seemed as if the farmers were doomed to a cropless season. Everything was dried up, grass and hay were withered, the fields were mere beds of dust, corn and other crops could not be planted and the outlook was discouraging, but the constant rains that have been falling since early in June have changed all this. Nature's recuperative forces worked with all the greater energy from being held in check by the droughts and she has more than repaired damages. Great crops of hay and other farm products have been raised and they are in large demand at big prices. Potatoes fetch more than double what they brougtht last year. The farmers of New Jersey are almost happy.

Colored Benevolent Society.

At the Calvary Baptist Church last evening a large number of colored people gathered to organize a benevolent society. The organization was discussed and an active canvass will be inaugurated for members. Rev. Scott Wallace is active in organizing the society which is planned to protect colored servant girls and to care for the sick from their number.

Nearly three hundred members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. left this morning for a day at Atlantic City on the annual excursion of the order. They will spend the day at the shore and return late this evening.

AT OYSTER BAY.

President Receives Senate Committee and Visits Fresh Air Home.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 13.—President Roosevelt had as his guests at Sagamore Hill the members of the subcommittee of the senate committee on finance, which is engaged in drafting a currency measure to be submitted to congress next fall. The subcommittee consists of Senators Aldrich, Rhode Island, chairman; Platt, Connecticut; Allison, Iowa, and Spooner, Wisconsin.

Desiring to consult with President Roosevelt regarding the work, the subcommittee came to Oyster Bay, arriving in the steam yacht Virginia of New York, owned by a son of the late Governor Flower.

From a launch they landed at the J. West Roosevelt pier and were conducted to the president's home.

When they landed, Senator Spooner, who was delegated by his colleagues as spokesman of the party, said they had come to see the president to consult with him on "a number of matters," but he was uncommunicative regarding the real subject of the conference.

It is said that the president is not wedded to any particular plan of currency reform so called, but desires simply that a practicable scheme be evolved and put into the form of legislation at an early date that will render the currency system of the country the more elastic and the less likely to be affected by the fluctuations of values or the demands for money at crop moving seasons.

Later in the day the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Emlen Roosevelt and several of the Roosevelt children, boarded the naval yacht Sylph for a cruise down Long Island sound. The weather was charming. Soon after the president and his party reached the Sylph they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Riis of Richmond Hill, N. Y., who had come to Oyster Bay on a morning train and been conveyed to the Sylph in a launch. The Sylph then proceeded to Twin island, near Glen Island, where is located one of Mrs. Riis' fresh air homes for poor children. About forty children, with their mothers, at present are at the home, and as the president and party landed the children lined up, with tiny American flags in their hands, and gave them a hearty welcome.

The party spent about an hour on the island, inspecting the buildings and studying the work of the home. The children left their dinner to see the president and party off to the Sylph. On the return trip luncheon was served on the Sylph.

BELL KILLED THREE.

Cleveland Furnace Company Accident Cost Three Lives.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 13.—The Cleveland Furnace company's plant, just completed at a cost of nearly $1,000,000, was late last night the scene of an accident in which three men's lives were instantly crushed out.

The first blowing in of the blast furnace was to occur last night, and the three men were inside the stack laying the last course of material when without an instant's warning the huge bell at the top of the stack, seventy-five feet above where the men were at work, crashed down upon them.

The bell, which is used to regulate the draft in the stack, weighed six tons and in falling tilted on its side in such a manner that the bodies could not be reached except from the top of the stack. By lowering ropes the bodies were thus removed. All must have been killed instantly. The bodies were removed to the morgue.

It is supposed that the accident was caused by a breakage in some part of the machinery which regulated the raising and lowering of the bell.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 13.—E. E. Johnson, bookkeeper for the Commercial Banking company of this city, was arrested here on a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $45,000 of the bank's money. When placed in jail Johnson admitted his guilt and stated that his peculations had extended over a period of eight months and that he had been able to deceive his employers by a manipulation of the books. He declared that he had squandered the money in stock speculation. President Charles F. Leland of the Commercial Banking company said that he had hoped to tide over the affairs of the bank so that it could continue doing business, but found that this was impossible, and the institution therefore will be closed.

County Democrat Facetious.

The question of the Government continuing in the seed business is attracting considerable attention nowadays. The Hunterdon County Democrat has this to say on the subject: "The seed men of the county are uniting to protest against and prevent, if possible, the seed business carried on by the Government. We wish them success. The Government seed business is a public fraud. If you don't believe it come to our garden and see a dozen hills of the measly muskmelon sent out by the department as a new kind of cucumber. Then if cutting off the seed distributed should retire a lot of Congressmen from public life, it will be another mighty good thing. Just as long as this practice prevails we will have a whole lot of seedy representatives in Congress."

BOROUGH FLORIST'S VALUABLE INVENTION

Edward Conroy Has Built a Machine Which Aids in the Cultivation of Flowers.

IS USEFUL TO FARMERS

KILLS BLIGHT ON TREES AND DESTROYS MILDEW ON ROSES.

May Also be Used in the Sick Room for Disinfecting Purposes—Experiments Have Been Uniformly Successful.

Edward J. Conroy, of North Plainfield, has built a machine which, he claims, will make the cultivation of roses much more inexpensive and reduce their cost in the retail market. In his green house, at the end of the Somerset street trolley line, he has worked out the problem of preventing mildew, the deadly foe of the rose cultivator, from settling on the plants. So successful have the experiments been that he has applied and received patents for his contrivance in the United States and Canada.

Millions of dollars are lost through mildew every year by florists who make a specialty of cultivating roses. In order to prevent its appearance in the green house large quantities of tobacco stems and nicotine are purchased and laid in the beds where they are allowed to sweat out. This method is not altogether successful and many thousands of plants are lost by it each year. Some florists use the steam heating pipes along the walls of the houses and, by covering them while hot with a mixture of sulphur, vaporize the plants. From one to two tons of coal are required in that operation and in warm weather, when the mildew is at its worst stage, there is danger of overheating the place and not only ruining the buds but spoiling the foliage and making the flowers small and stunted.

The machine is a contrivance about three feet high, running on four wheels. When complete it weighs between seventy-five and a hundred pounds. It is claimed by the builder that it will vaporize an area of 15,000 square feet in forty-five minutes at a cost of one dollar. Gasolene under six pounds pressure will enable the machine to operate for five hours and in that time it is claimed that no insect will be able to survive the disinfection. The machine can be used in an open orchard to kill the blight on peach trees and the lice on apple and pear trees. The small machines, the owner declares, will be of a size possible for disinfecting purposes in houses where there are contagious diseases.

The National Pipe Bending Company, of Brooklyn, made the coils over which the chemicals are placed for vaporizing, and Lewis Ely, of the A. M. Griffen Hardware Company, constructed the framework. The plan was suggested to Mr. Conroy by the antiquated methods employed in all large green houses. By the old method the temperature in the house would be increased twenty points in sweating out the plants but by the use of Mr. Conroy's machine the temperature is increased only two degrees, and there is no danger of injuring the plants in any way. The machine could readily be employed for the destruction of potato bugs and the like pests.

The machine was put in operation yesterday while a Daily Press reporter was present. It work, apparently, in a satisfactory manner and the condition of the plants showed that they thrived under the treatment.

SURPRISED MRS. LEEK.

Thirty Friends Unexpectedly Assisted in Celebrating the Event.

In honor of the anniversary of her birthday, Mrs. Harry W. Leek, of East Second street, was tendered a surprise party, last evening. The affair was arranged by her husband, and Miss Cora Young. Thirty young folk met at the house of one of the number and proceeded from there to the home of the surprised. The evening was passed in playing games and having a good social time.

On Extended Tour.

Mrs. George Conant and son, Clarence Conant, of Camden, N. Y., who, while making a tour of the country in an automobile were delayed in this city on Wednesday by a break in their machine, left yesterday for Staten Island, going through Bergen Point and the Hudson County boulevard. They have been touring for several weeks and will probably not reach home in as many more weeks.

ENGINE STALLED AT DUNELLEN

MACHINERY IN ROUNDHOUSE REFUSED TO WORK—TURNTABLE DAMAGED.

Locomotives Summoned From Jersey City and Trains Were on Time.

Plainfield commuters were taken to New York this morning in trains drawn by engines brought from Jersey City because the locomotives usually employed in the morning were imprisoned in their stalls in the round house at Dunellen.

The turntable in the Dunellen yards was damaged early this morning by engine No. 617. That locomotive was to have taken an excursion train to Atlantic City today and early this morning was run on the turntable to be reversed. While the draw was being turned around, a portion of the mechanism got out of order and could not be moved either way. Hurry calls were immediately sent to Bound Brook for all the extra yard men that could be pressed into service. Jacks and all kinds of appliances were put into use but they were of no avail. In the mean time, a hurry call was sent to Jersey City for engines to take out the trains.

About half a dozen big locomotives responded and took out the commuters on time while the engines which usually haul the trains were in their stalls, with steam up, puffing and snorting, as if out of patience at being kept prisoners in the round house.

At 11 o'clock this morning the engine was still on the draw and the workmen were engaged in erecting a temporary tressle work about the place on which they intended rolling the engine back to terra firma. A track is also being built around the turn table pit so that the engines in the round house can be run out.

OLD STAGER CAUGHT.

Charley Williams Was Arrested for About the 999th Time—Stole a Coat.

Charley Williams, of East Third street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Policeman Overbaugh while trying to get away with a coat which he had taken from Kurzhals' building on West Second street.

Patrolman Overbaugh saw the man coming from the building with a new coat on his arm and walking rapidly toward Park avenue. He called to him and asked him where he got the garment and was told that Kurzhals had given it to him. The officer was suspicious and on inquiry of Mr. Kurzhals learned of the theft. Williams was pursued and captured.

In the city court this morning, Charley told the Judge he was drunk and didn't know what he was doing. He was held under $150 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

"PUT ME ON PROHIBITION."

C. Brokaw Got Drunk and Wanted to be Released on Probation.

"Try me once on prohibition, your honor, and you'll never see my face here again."

Charles Brokaw had the right idea when he uttered this strange sentence in the city court this morning. He had been arrested last night by Policeman Overbaugh and was charged with having been drunk and disorderly. The Judge was moved by his earnestness in the matter and heard his plea, dismissing him with a lecture of warning. He will be placed "on prohibition" as requested.

APARTMENT HOUSES.

To be Built Soon by the Mono Investment Company.

The Mono Investment Company, of this city, is planning to erect apartment houses in Plainfield similar to those in Philadelphia. Several available sites have been under consideration for some time past and one desirable location on West Fourth street is likely to be purchased for the above purpose. It is understood that an offer has been made for the property and that the company is now waiting an answer.

Excursionists Happy.

The annual excursion of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., to Atlantic City, yesterday, was an enjoyable affair. The excursionists reached the seashore at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon and left there on the return trip at 9 o'clock. It was somewhere about 2 o'clock this morning, when they arrived home, a tired but happy lot. When the train rolled into the North Avenue station the rain was falling in torrents and it was only after a thorough drenching that some of the people reached their homes.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

To Buy an Excellent Lot at a Moderate Cost—Locality Excellent.

An excellent opportunity is now offered to the people of Plainfield to own a home at a small cost, through an auction sale of fifty choice building lots located southwest of Rock avenue and Third street. The Plainfield Land and Building Company, of which A. D. Thompson is the president, has recently purchased this desirable tract of land and opened up a fine boulevard through it connecting Plainfield and Dunellen.

The property has also been graded and several streets and avenues laid out. The land is high, dry and has perfect drainage. The trolley is but one block away and the Clinton Avenue Station but five minutes walk. West Third street has been opened up and graded from Rock avenue to Dunellen and South avenue has been extended through the tract. The land has been cut up into about 200 lots, 33 1-3x125 feet, and fifty of these will be sold at auction Saturday afternoon, August 22, at 2:30 o'clock. Four cross streets have been laid out and graded, namely, Oak place, Chestnut place, Poplar place, Hazlewood place. These lots will be sold on the easy-payment plan and any further information can be obtained from A. D. Thompson.

Trinity Church to be Renovated.

I. N. Wyckoff, the painter and decorator, of West Front street, has the contract for re-decorating the ceilings in the auditorium of Trinity Reformed Church and will commence the work next Tuesday. Geo. R. Schlereth, the West Second street upholsterer, will remove the carpets and relay them after the church is thoroughly renovated. The auditorium of the church will be closed for three weeks, including two Sundays, until September 6, when Pastor Schenck will be back from his vacation. Sunday-school and prayer meetings will be held as usual in the lecture room.

Children Had a Ride.

Through the kindness of David Hand, nearly one hundred of the little inmates of Miss Curry's Fresh Air Home at Netherwood enjoyed a straw ride yesterday afternoon. One of Mr. Hand's big hay wagons, drawn by two horses, gave the youngsters a long drive and the happy party passed through town at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon bound for Dunellen.

New Corporation for Jersey.

The Guggenheims' latest project, the Esperanza Mining Company, has recently been incorporated in New Brunswick. The new company will conduct a mining business and will have its offices at the American Smelting and Refining Works at Perth Amboy. Capital stock to the amount of $2,250,000 has been issued and a thousand men will be employed.

Played Games and Danced.

A party was given in honor of Miss Lola Wohleben and Miss Clara Abstein, of Jersey City, last evening, by Edward Koechlein, of Somerset street, at his home. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games and dancing. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

PLAINFIELD GIRL HELPS SAVE LIFE

Holds Boat at Ocean Grove Steady Until the Lifeguard Hauls Youth Aboard.

MANY SAW THE RESCUE

MISS EDITH BURT, A SOCIETY BELLE, WAS THE HEROINE.

Bosey Reiter, the Lifeguard, Prevented Venturesome Swimmer From Sinking—Miss Burt Exhibited Skill and Courage.

A young girl, pretty, athletic and remarkably self-possessed, played a very important part in a sensational rescue made at the Lillagore bathing grounds at Ocean Grove Wednesday afternoon, winning the plaudits of the thousands of spectators who assembled on the pavilion, sand and boardwalk.

She is Miss Edith Burt, a popular Plainfield society belle, who lives on West Seventh street and is staying at the Vermont, on Embury avenue, Ocean Grove.

An unusually large number of people were in bathing and many of them swam beyond the channel to the sandbar, between 100 and 150 yards from the shore. Bosey Reiter, the Princeton football man, well known in this city, leaving his brother Kirk to look after the bathers in shore, launced his boat, the Princeton, and rowed out to the bar to watch the more venturesome persons.
